ZETA SIGMA BANQUET

The Menu Served Was a Delight to All Present

LESLIE KEFGEN TOASTMASTER

He Called Upon Miss Duff and Chapel, Cook, Misener, Marks and Coach

It has been said every year for the past twenty-one years that the annual banquet of Zeta Sigma had eclipsed all previous ones. And so it can be stated with a great deal of pride by every member of the society that the twenty-first annual banquet completely surpassed anything ever held in Alma. Kefgen as toastmaster and Miss Duff and Chapel, Cook, Misener, Marks, and Coach Grady were speakers of the evening.

At about nine o'clock a large assembly started the slaughter on Herr Barron's sumptuous preparations. There were dainty menu-cards and place cards. Each course was a "spread" in itself and there were spreads, spreads and then some. From ye tomato bouillon and croutons to ye Zeta Sigma punch the menu showed the master hand of a culinary expert.

The physical wants being supplied, that gayest of companions shoved back their chairs and Toastmaster Kefgen took the reins. In that capacity the worthy Kefgen is the ideal man. Their is such a kindly air about him coupled with the spiciness of his wit that he may without doubt be pronounced "King of Story Tellers."

With the utmost deference the toastmaster introduced the most loquacious speaker of the evening, Theron Chapel, who toasted Zeta Sigma. Mr. Chapel after returning the compliments of introduction reviewed the athletic and literary past of Zeta Sigma. No mortal could have rebutted Mr. Chapel's eloquent statements and no mortal will ever attempt to deny the wonderful future predicted for the society.

Robert Cook in responding to toast "Our Guests," was certainly in his element. At his signal the members rose and drank that delicious punch to the "Guests." Miss Lela A. Duff responded to "Our Hosts." For simple, clear and beautifully worded English, Miss Duff is unexcelled. Oral M. Misener for the Sophomores treated his subject, "Good Fellowship," in a most clever manner. Following Mr. Misener came the Freshmen's representative, DeWitt Marks. "Looking forward," Mr. Marks covered himself with so much glory that many a first year's Freshman might have been heard to fervently exclaim, "I am a Freshman!" Loyalty and work were his main points.

Then last, but not least, came Coach Dennis H. Grady. Mr. Grady certainly proved himself a master of the speaker's art, when he responded to the toast, "We Beat Olivet." The coach with many a sprightly "barb" of humor showed the hard and drilling work of the championship team and what great praise they deserved.

All present were embued with the Alma spirit and when the Zeta Sigma song had reverberated from those four walls the happy company at Toastmaster Kefgen's signal passed out. The dining room door was closed and the twenty-first annual banquet of Zeta Sigma became a sweet memory

ALUMNI NOTES

There were several old grads back to see the victory over Olivet. Among those who returned to the college for the day were, Haze Blair '10, Lulu Allen '09, Harry Helmer '08, Frank B. McComb '10.

N. H. Chase, a student at the college the past two years, is a reporter on the Flint Daily Journal where he has been employed since the close of school last June.

Miss Laura Soule '03, who for several years has taught in Harlan Academy, Kentucky, is teaching in Little Pine Academy, at Marshall, North Carolina. Miss Soule occupies the position of principal of the Academy which is one of the mission schools of the Presbyterian church.

Christmas M. Hough Kg. '03, of St. Ignace, was married the past summer to Mr. Fred Walker of the same city. Mr. and Mrs. Walker are living in Detroit where Mr. Walker, who is a graduate of the university, is engaged in engineering work.

Miss Margaret Morrison Kg. '08, who taught two years in the schools of Tecumseh, is now teaching in Elk Rapids, her home town.

A letter comes from Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Hart of Philadelphia, sending greetings to Alma people. Mr. Hart conducts two of the leading hat stores in the Quaker city.

Miss Eva Thacker is in her first year of teaching in the schools of St. Paul, having left her position in the Traverse City schools last June. Her street address is 549 Selley Ave., St. Paul. In speaking of the beauties of the Twin Cities, Miss Thacker says, "McAlister College has a pretty location, but Alma is preferable in my estimation."

Henry H. Soule '03, has been working for the past four months upon the building of the Miller Saw Trimmer Company in Alma. The building is a specimen of fine workmanship, and a fair representation of the ability of Mr. Soule, who is one of the leading builders of central Michigan.

Fred Soule '06 has presented the library with a copy of his doctor's thesis. It treats of what a city can do for itself and the city he uses for illustration, although called Blankton, is Alma.

William Webber, '03, is now paymaster in the employ of the Cadillac Motor Car Company of Detroit.

Miss Leola L. Lauderbach, '05, was married Monday, October 17, at Portland, Oregon, to Mr. Nathan Bedell Stoddard. Mr. and Mrs. Stoddard's home will be at Butte Falls, Oregon. The Almanian extends its heartiest congratulations.

VACCINATION.

At a meeting of townspeople held this morning, instructions were issued requesting public school and college authorities to insist that all students be vaccinated at the expense of the city. This is on account of the fact that there is one case of small pox in town. Most of the students have submitted to the operation. The nurses at Brainerd hospital are the most popular operators with the boys.

From Away Down in New Mexico

J. S. Calendario, who has a daughter attending Alma, sends in his subscription. Mr. Candalario is owner of one of the largest curio stores in the southwest.

Wm. Pohly was our representative in the Y. M. C. A. conference at Albion last Friday. The fourteen girls who attended the girl's conference at same place last week report an excellent meeting.

Those attending the Zeta Sigma banquet from out of town were Mrs. F. A. Harwood, Miss F. Louise Call, H. A. Lyon and Roy Campbell.

ARE A GOOD SECOND TEAM

Thursday's Afternoon's Contest is a Stirring Scene

The Scrubs received their reward last Monday night at 4:15. St. Louis high school came over. Now these faithful "Scrubs" have been battered and pounded, kicked and cussed all the year, so they decided while in a more charitable state of mind, to be the givers. They gave St. Louis a nice beating and took the honors, 19-0.

The teams were quite evenly matched as to weight, the Scrubs having a slight advantage. But we must remember that they had been bucking the varsity all the year, and proceeded against the school boys in a like manner. Hooper was the first offender carrying the ball over in two minutes. He kicked goal. Voegli was the next lucky man and added another touch-down. Things after Hooper failed at goal became more quiet. The Scrubs finally took the ball to the opponents' thirty-yard line and placed it squarely in front of St. Louis' goal. After a brief consultation it was decided that Vought should show up the varsity drop kickers. He did and added 3 points. Thus ended the first half.

In the last half Pohly got away, after being half choked to death by a high school tackler and made sixty yards and a touchdown. No goal and the scoring stopped. Darkness caused the last two quarters to be cut to five minutes each.

The scrubs showed much more class than the team of last year, and there were a number of men in the game who gave promise of bidding strong for next year's team.

Thursday afternoon before an appreciative assemblage of spectators and officials they presented a stirring four act farce. The scenes were all laid on Davis field, and the cast of characters was as follows:

QUIPS AND QUIDDITIES

It was J. J. Hill, or Prof. Cook, or some other noted financier, who said that what made the cost of living so high was the cost of living so high. Similarly, we think that co-eds, generally speaking, you know, are-er-generally speaking.

Prof. James in his text on Psychology asks: "Who has never wound up his watch on taking off his waistcoat in the daytime?" Ask the ladies, professor.

In greenhouse Pink Anderson asks a group of girls what flowers they prefer.

Miss Clark—I like candy floss.

Miss Gilray—Give me some of those rose buds.

Miss O'Neill (thoughtfully) — Sweet William for mine.

The beginning Latin class is now rapidly declining.

Prexy has objected to the slogan "You bet, we'll get Olivet." He says the last part is all right.

Latest unnecessary question: Have you been vaccinated?

David Harum's "Do unto the other fellow as he would do unto you, but do it fast" applies mainly to letter writing.

Church was held Sunday morning in Wright hall.

CLASSICAL CLUB

The first program of the Classical club was given Thursday evening in the faculty room at Wright Hall. The event was of especial interest due to the fact that Miss Mary Gelston, a former instructor in Latin in Alma college, was present. Ralph Yonker read a sketch of the "Career of a Roman Student" Miss Dykes followed with a paper on the "Education of Horace," while Robert VonThurn concluded the regular program with an essay on "Old Greek Education."

Besides the regular program a given above, Miss Bessie Seave gave a translation from Horace. Miss Gelston consented to speak to the club briefly. She said in substance that the club was an organization which was worthy of the most loyal support of the students because of its benefit to them. Miss Waring served dainty refreshments which delighted those present.

WRIGHT HALL STIDDY.

As she entered the room, he fastened his eyes on her. She took his hand, which she laid on the piano. While she was doing this he buried his nose in a bouquet of wall flowers. He lent her his ears while she discoursed sweet strains, but they soon retired to the east reception room, where he impolitely threw his feet up on a radiator. Then they sat down in a cosy corner. He was beside himself and she was on the other side. Three is a crowd. He was in a laundry; his brows were nit. He lost his tongue in his rage. But he gave her his heart, and laid his head on her shoulder. However, when the Dean entered, he quickly pulled himself together and vanished.

Miss Gelston Here

Miss Mary Gelston, now of Ann Arbor, who was the first Dean of Women in Alma College, has recently favored the community with a visit. During her stay in town she was the guest of Mrs. Bruske, who gave a reception in her honor on last Thursday. Forty ladies responded to the invitation, and refreshed themselves upon the memories of the past and upon the delicacies of the present, served in the dining room of the Bruske home which was decorated with the college colors for the occasion. Mrs. Bruske was assisted in the hospitality by Mrs. Robinson, Mrs. St. John, Mrs. Hurst, Miss Booth, Miss Grace Messenger and Miss Helen Cook.

We need hardly remind our readers that Miss Geiston was not only the first Dean of Women at the college, which position she held for ten years, but was also the first professor of Latin. She served in both positions with equal distinction and with universal favor. When she finally resigned, Mr. A. W. Wright endowed the chair of English Speech in her honor.

MUSINGS ON THE GAME

The ALMANIAN reporters wrote the Olivet game on the girdiron and got last week's paper out shortly after the game. This accounts for the choppy style in which it was written and the many mistakes in typography.

Remember 'Olie's' ginger? That gave more confidence to the rooters than all the 'dope' in our sporting extra. The 'terrible one' had at last awoke. We knew there would be something doing and there was.

We admired Olivet for their gameness. True, the game was rough, but every hard fought game is. Alma will remember long the stand the crimson made in the last quarter.

Cook played the finest game of his career—others have been more spectacular, but none marked by the heady work and steadiness that was displayed by him a week ago.

Coach Grady deserves the lion's share of the praise. He came here last fall, finding, as he said "plenty of material." However, the men lacked confidence. To the coach all opponents looked alike. Slowly the men gained confidence and took the same view. As a result, M. A. C., champions of minor colleges of the west, were able to score but twice, and Olivet was put out of running.

Capt. Kefgen played his last and best game. He started with a bad knee, swollen and stiff. Any bump was likely to send him to the side-line. Once he was compelled to quit, but went back the next quarter, stronger than ever.

Chapel played his final game also. As secondary defense man, he was there every minute. In the third quarter he rushed Amsheucher off his feet.

We have to hand it to those Plainwell men. Strange that two freshmen should have made the touchdowns but Harwood and Marks did it just the same. We were not surprised for other games had shown these men to be open field runners, equal to any in the state.

Johnson slid around tackle for repeated gains of eight to fifteen yards. He also slipped over the pile when Hillier tried at our open center, stopping the crimson full back with scarcely a gain.

That reminds us. Our open center did look good to Olivet, but our powerful line was a veritable stone wall. 'Olie' and 'Ox' had the happy faculty of slipping over and then to emphasize the point Johnson would high-dive and meet the charging backs on the other side.

Rogers played the first half, and instilled in the team a whole lot of 'fight'. Rabbitt is there with the nerve.

Edgerton was played often on tackle around. It seemed to delight him to carry a half dozen Crimson Men. He couldn't find holes; didn't need to; just walked through.

And Striffler was the star on defense. He was everywhere. Weber couldn't gain an inch around his end. A number of times Olivet played off tackle or through guard and Striffler nailed the man.

Hyde put up a mighty consistent game. Though not fast he was always where he should be, and had the knack of getting through the interference to the man with the ball.

Ewing's catch of Olivet's punt was a feature. He jumped high in the air after it and saved a touch-down.

Detroit college, after being snowed under by Olivet, gaining a questionable victory over Ypsi, and victories over Adrian and Hillsdale are laying claim through Detroit papers to the state honors. They are hard up in Detroit for some 'champs' to replace the Tigers.

Misenar and Von Thurn played their usual consistent, though not spectacular game, at left guard. Hooper also had a chance to get in, taking Kef's place for awhile.
