PHI PHI ALPHA BANQUET

The Phi Phi Alpha banquet, held in honor of Abraham Lincoln, the patron saint of the society, was a decided success from the time "Van" penned the first invitation until Milo said "Good night" at the castle gate. Shortly after eight o'clock on Saturday evening sixty-five people gathered in the Wright House parlor, posed for a flashlight, and then wended their way in martial form to the dining room to enjoy a banquet second to none in the history of Alma College.

The dining room was decorated with the society colors, red and black, in a manner of blending befitting the efforts of a visual psychologist. The light from six luminous roses hanging from a bowery of colored streamers cast its mellow rays in a glow of scarlet over the tables. A number of electric candles shed their more cheerful beams on the happy faces of the banqueters. Four electric designs which were illuminated blankets, two with a large Phi and in the Philo colors and two with Phi Phi Alpha and in the men's colors graced the for walls of the room.

The place cards were of diamond shape containing the society monogram and resting in a novel little candy basket. The programs also diamond shaped were bound in soft red and black leather and contained the menu, toasts and names of those present.

After the crumbs from the last course had been brushed away, Paul Austin, the toastmaster lifted the banqueters from the realm of the physical to that of the mental. "Dusty" proved himself a worthy master of ceremonies and introduced each speaker in a manner best befitting his or her individuality.

Henry Mosely, from the ranks of the verdents was the first to respond, and rose in a manner worthy of a sage. His subject was "College Life" and the manner in which he handled it led all to believe that he was neither the proverbial Englishman nor the proverbial freshman. "Great floods have flown from simple sources."

Theodore Gates announced his subject "Analytics," and after making a few insinuating remark about those who elect such a subject, proceeded to wander into literary lines. He quoted "The Bells" to picture the players of life on the "whole world stage."

Rev. W. H. Mason in his beautiful dignified style portrayed the magnificent character of Abraham Lincoln. He attributed Lincoln's greatness to his unflinching adherence to the decisively righteous decision of his conscience. While he had an ear for every man's opinion still he had a secret place in his heart for personal decision where no man might enter.

Miss Carol Gray toasted "Our Host" in a manner creditable to her society and the senior class of which she is a member, and in a larger sense creditable to Alma College and the half of the race to which she belongs.

Next Monday night is the date for the Prohibition oratorical contest. Twenty-five dollars will be divided up for first and second prizes. The winner will go to the state contest for Alma College.

Rev. Hurd Allen Drake of class '11, Alma, who is pastor of the Presbyterian church at St. Louis, Michigan, has resigned to accept a pastorate at Napoleon, Ohio. Mr. Drake leaves many warm friends in St. Louis where he has been for four years. He will move the second week in March.

Numbers that made a big hit at the "ball" last Monday were: "Henrietta's Aeroplane Glide," "Floating Down The Pine" (this was a moonlight), "Too Much Hash," "Oyster Glide," "The Ripon Drag," "Wright Hall Hustle," and the march that ended the program, "Back to St. Marie's Convent."

"Biff" Carey resigned as business manager of the Maroon and Cream, as he is leaving school this term to enter business in Bad Axe. Clyde Creaser was elected to succeed Carey, and should not have much trouble in looking after the business end of the annual as the latter left things in fine shape and Creaser himself is a very able man along these lines.

SPECIAL MEETINGS

Last week at eleven and three-thirty o'clock every day occurred special meetings in the chapel. Monday and Tuesday Burton B. Johnson, State Secretary of Y. M. C. A., had charge and Wednesday, Thursday and Friday Dr. Thomas of Grand Rapids was the speaker. Very efficient work was done by both men, and they both won their way into the hearts of the students. Personal conferences were held with the students and many availed themselves of the opportunity for private conversation with these men. The efforts of these men will show in the life of the students.

Dr. Thomas is a great favorite among our college people for his wholesome, inspiring and sympathetic personality. His presence creates an atmosphere wherein one feels that the Christ and His atonement and His constant friendship and guidance are verities in his own life, and are available and indispensable for each one of us.

Mr. Johnson is most welcome among us and his appeal for real life work consecrated to the ideals and purposes of the Divine Elder Brother will bring results as the men of Alma College go forward in their various paths.

BASKET BALL

Sophs 32 Juniors 23

In one of the most exciting games ever played in the high school gym the sophs won a second game from the lowly juniors by a score of 32 to 24, and wound up their season in a most auspicious manner. With Goodrich back in the lineup the upper classmen saw, or at least thought they saw, a chance to win, but the fine team work, basket shooting and fighting spirit of the sophs was too much for them. The juniors took the lead at the start but soon lost it to the sophs who kept about three points in the lead until the last three minutes of play, when the Schultz brothers and Nesbet all came across with beautiful field baskets, which gave their team a lead that their opponents could not overcome.

The all around playing of Harry and "Bill" Schultz in the forward positions and of Nesbit at center, and the great defensive work of McFarlane and Anderson, were responsible for the second men's final victory. Austin, Wood, Cook, McCloy and Goodrich put up a fight of which their classmates may well be proud.

Sophs		Juniors
H. Schultz	r f	Goodrich
W. Schultz	l f	McCloy

Anderson	l g	Austin

Baskets from field: W. Schultz 5, H. Schultz 3, Nesbit 3, Anderson 2, Goodrich 4, Wood 3, Cook 3, Austin 1.

Baskets from fouls: W. Schultz 3, H. Schultz 2, Wood 1, Cook 1. One point awarded. Timer, "Ole" Anderson.

The inter-class standing is now as follows.

CLASSICAL CLUB LECTURE

Dr. Albert R. Crittenden, professor of Latin at the University of Michigan, gave an illustrated lecture on "The Civic Center of Ancient Rome," in the chapel last Friday evening at 8 o'clock. This lecture was of very great interest to those who are acquainted with the history of Ancient Rome and would be entertaining to anyone who had never heard of Rome. Dr. Crittenden flashed upon the screen, pictures of the ruins of Rome as they are seen today, busts of the great men and women of that interesting age and many pictures of modern artists who have put upon canvas their ideas of the life of that time, influenced by history and the now existing ruins.

Those who attended came away with a new idea of the architecture of that age. The massive form, the strong masonry and the delicate sculpture of the buildings of the Forum were pictured in detail both on the canvas and in the talk. Some conception of the genuineness of those buildings can be obtained from the fact that they have withstood the attacks of erasive nature for these centuries.

Some of the emperors of the Roman age were endowed with great talents, but their ambitions or their grosser sins made them objects of terror and disgust. Most of them however are interesting objects of study. Surely the young may learn from these facts of history important lessons for the government of their own lives.

It is of great value to obtain an early facility in forming reflections in history as to the effects they have produced on the virtue and happiness of mankind. It is a habit that cannot be too soon inculcated on young people and which may be made extremely attractive to themselves.

The Classical Club, under whose auspices Mr. Crittenden came, deserves mention for the securing of such talent and for the higher and aesthetic things of life. Classical students should avail themselves of the opportunity of belonging to such an organization.

A number of the girls from Wright Hall were entertained by Mrs. Edna Kelley at her home on W. Superior St., Friday night.

Miss Emma Swigart left Monday morning for Ann Arbor, where she will take a special course at the University.

Wednesday night was the coldest night of the winter, as given out by P. M. Smith, the weather observer—the thermometer going down to 23 degrees below zero. We would not have mentioned the weather if Criswell had not frosted his nose.

"Brud"—quoting Tennyson—Wash! wash! wash! on thy cold, grey, stones, oh sea!

A senior none could doubt,
Because another senior.

The special meetings are over and the regular routine of class work has begun. The first week of the semester with its busy arranging of hours, paying bills, buying books and adjusting for conflicts is past and every student should have his program made out. Every one has taken "second wind" and is preparing for best effort on the "home stretch." If the grades in June were awarded upon good intention made now everyone would get an "A" but the adage says, "The road to hell is paved with good intention." Perhaps the greatest enemy to good intention is wasting time, whether it is on account of a disregard for program, a friendly conversation, a little game or a practical joke. A few years ago in an eastern college, some of the fellows got together, made up a fictitious name for an imaginary person and took him through college, reciting for him and doing his work on spare time. Not until there was an extra diploma did the faculty "get wise." This probably could not be accomplished today nor would it be more than wasted time but it goes to show that college courses could be conquered if wasted time were improved time. Let the students of Alma make this a record semester and have no wasted time for which to be sorry.

There are about nine or ten of your number that have not as yet come across with that precious little "One twenty-five" that we are so fond of, and that is so essential in the publishing of this sheet. This also applies to several former students and to a few who are in our midst at the present time. "DO IT NOW!"

VALENTINE PARTY

Mrs. James Mitchell entertained at a Valentine party Saturday afternoon at her home on Maple avenue in honor of Miss Marie Haefliger. The party was in the nature of a linen shower for Miss Haefliger who will be married in June to Mr. Stanley Graves, Detroit, and the Dean was the recipient of many beautiful gifts which had appropriate little verses attached to them. Miss Cornwall distinguished herself by taking the prize in a guessing contest. About thirty were in attendance.

A Decided Question

I have the only dry cleaning plant in town and this vicinity. It is often easy to put a seemingly shabby and shapeless suit back into its original form again, and so save the cost of a new suit. Don't be deceived. Remember the place and name.

inspiration in some mysterious way from the various drumming logs about the campus. He related strang instances of "Campustry" the mention of which would not be fitting here.

Miss Marie Haefliger, who represented the faculty, delighted all by her pointed enlightenment on the numerous "Electives" of college courses. Miss Haefliger voiced a good sentiment when she wished that the best Alma minds might direct the best Alma money to endow a chair in Alma College for the proper instruction of Bible.

Milo Hogan gave the last toast of the evening, "Theism," "And he did bid us follow to the temple." This is Milo's last year at Alma and his toast was worthy of a senior mind. He wished for a more united society spirit in Alma.

Mr. Austin made a few appropriate remarks in closing and after singing the college song the various departures were taken. Every person enjoyed the banquet to the full and hoped for the perpetuation of such social affairs.

AT THE ROLLER RINK.

Fifteen couples enjoyed the "First Annual Alma College Ball (bearing party)" at Wyant's skating pavillion last Monday afternoon. The whole affair was a takeoff on a dancing party, and the programs that the fellows got out for the occasion were mighty clever, of course there were a few that didn't think so, and showed some original ideas.

At two o'clock sharp, according to Hymie's turnip, "Scoop" Rogers and Miss Pauline Markhan led the Grand March to the strains of "Jonesy Married Mabel," beautifully rendered by Wyant's Symphony orchestra. Skating continued until 3:30 when every body strolled up to the chapel by special request of the social committee. After spending about an hour in the chapel (just to please the whims of the aforesaid social committee) the crowd once more returned to "Al's palace of dreams." At six bells the party broke up and the fellows reluctantly returned to the "coop" with their fair ones.

The "ball" was enjoyed immensely by all present and will probably be an annual affair.

EXCHANGES

Cornell—Students at Cornell are agitating a proposition to give the student body entire control of the affairs of the institution for three or four days a week. The proposition includes the conducting of classes, leading chapel, running the library and even administration for the period from the presidents chair. It is claimed by the advocates of the project that such action would develop democracy in the college and initiative and executive ability in the students.

Adrian—The following from the Adrian College World explains their defeat at Ypsilanti in the debate:

"During the debate at Ypsi a very unpleasant incident happened which in itself may have been the cause of our defeat. The second speaker on the negative side approached the front of the platform, arranged his notes, cleared his throat and then with a mighty gesture, prepared to settle the Jap question forever. He never spoke a word though, because, looking directly into his eyes, were two other eyes belonging to the most beautiful young lady the speaker had ever seen. It was only after a series of coughs, blushes and aimless gestures that the speaker was able to proceed." Mr. Lord described the incident afterwards in the following way. "I tell you what boys, that girl surely got my goat, if I may be allowed to use a slang expression."

M. A. C.—An appropriation of $33,000 has been made for a new veterinary building at East Lansing. Work on the building will begin at the approach of spring. It will be of doric design in reinforced concrete, 68 by 163 feet and two stories high.

Texas—One hundred and sixty-two students at the University of Texas failed to make the required grades in the examinations held just before Christmas, and were requested not to return to the institution. It has become an impossible matter for the chronic idler to find room at the University. Each student is required to register for a given amount of work, which is about all the average boy or girl can carry. A definite standard of grades is then insisted upon, and it becomes a simple question of work or leave.—Bulletin.

Items of this kind are calculated to correct the prevailing idea that athletics comprehend the entire curriculum of modern universities.

Hillsdale—The Hillsdale Collegian printed the following item: "The diners broke up about midnight happy etc." We wonder what they ate.

Goss—(as they were having Glee Club pictures taken) "Ralston, you stand up behind with your mouth open for a background." (We would have run this giving it Alma application if we had been mean enough.)

In the Oberlin Reserve Wesleyan debate league, each of the three negative teams won a unanimous victory on its home floor, January 23. The question debated was, "Resolved, that when internal dissension menaces the perpetuity of government in a Latin-American republic the United States shall intervene to secure stable government."

A number of college people both students and faculty attended the Republican banquet held at the high school Feb. 11. The speakers of the occasion were Hon. Wm. M. Smith, Hon. Chas. E. Townsed, Hon. Wesley Jones, Hon. Jno. Q. Ross, Hon. David Fitzgibbon and Hon. Jos. Fordney. Dr. T. C. Blasdell made the invocation.

CAMPUS TALK

Bernice Ireland attended the "J-hop" at M. A. C. last Friday.

Two accidents marred the grand march (and also marred the floor) at Wyants, last Saturday.

Alger Wood refereed the Saginaw-Alpena game at Saginaw Friday. "Pug" is getting quite a reputation as a basket ball official.

A team composed of stars of the senior and sophomore class teams journeyed to Mt. Pleasant Friday night to play Coach Helmer's Normal team. Score, M. Pleasant 39, All Stars 13.

Those who paid their Almanian subscriptions the past week are: Miss Selma Hahn of Detroit; Miss Cheesman, Alma; Ralph Chisholm, Alma; Fred R. Perry, Detroit and Ralph VonThurn, Danville, Illinois.

The freshmen team defeated the high school reserves 35 to 22 in a preliminary to the Owosso-Alma game Friday. The freshies are coming better everyday under the careful grooming of Capt. Mark Spinney.

Word was received late Saturday night of the death of Mrs. Butler of Elk Rapids, mother of Josephine Butler, who graduated from the K G department last June. Miss Butler has the sympathy of hosts of friends at Alma.

At a recent meeting of the athletic association a ruling was made that no person who has not earned an "A" at Alma shall be allowed to wear such letter. And that no person shall wear publicly letters awarded by high schools or other colleges. More careful attention should be paid to this.
