LINCOLN BANQUET BRILLIANT AFFAIR

Phi Phi Alpha Give Their Annual Elaborate Dance and Banquet.

The premier event of the college social year took place last Saturday when the Phi Phi Alpha Literary Society gave their Annual Lincoln Banquet. The Lincoln Banquet is always looked forward to with a great deal of interest for the elaborate and entertaining scale on which it is produced has become a tradition. The Banquet this year was even better than other years, if such a thing is possible. With Phi Phi Alpha the banquet itself is, of course, of major importance; so the dance was held in the afternoon, and the banquet proper at night.

The Odd Fellows Hall was the scene of the dance. Under the skillful management of Mr. Kenneth Manwaring, the Hall had been very attractively decorated. Literally hundreds of the society's initials in Greek letters hung suspended from the ceiling, in alternating colors of red and black, making a very pleasing and effective appearance. The windows were also covered with Phi emblems, and in every part of the room, this motif was carried out. Even the programs were cunningly devised to represent the society.

Music was furnished by Bill Gallagher's Orchestra. They were in fine fettle, for everyone commented on the excellent music. And what else could there be but satisfaction in gliding along to the strains of "Lady of the Evening" and "I Wish I Knew." At 5:30 the strains of Home Sweet Home were heard, and never had a dance seemed so short. However the fair sex had to have time to array themselves in still more gorgeous finery for the Banquet.

At seven o'clock the exit from Wright Hall was made, and the trip to St. Louis was made. The Park Hotel was the point of destination. When the guests marched into the dining-room, murmurs of delight over the exquisite appearance of the room, were heard on every hand. Mr. Richard Boyd had been responsible for transforming the place into a veritable bower of beauty. The cleverly concocted favors added a finishing touch which left nothing to be desired. And the menu certainly could not be improved upon. Who could wish for or have thought up any better course than such a menu as this:

Fruit Cocktail
Clear Bouillon Toasted Bread Sticks
Stuffed Olives Celery
Sweet Pickles Salted Nuts
Lemon Ice Macaroons
Fried Spring Chicken
Quince Jelly
Mashed Potatoes
Green Peas in Rosettes
Asparagus Tip Salad
Hot Rolls Nut Bread
Maple Mousse Sunshine Cake
Coffee
Phi Phi Alpha Punch

The program of the evening was entitled "Phi Phi Alpha Goes Through College," and Richard Waggoner commenced the journey with a visit to "Prexy." From there one naturally goes to "Registration," and this was well told by Phil Lewis. "Wright Hall" as expounded by Miss Helen Scott was one of the most clever speeches of the evening. Then Harold Gay told of the importance of "Choosing Majors." Lawrence Towe, the representative from Pi Alpha Phi at Olivet, in "Friendships" brought the greetings of Olivet, and a plea that the affiliation between the two societies might be put to some beneficial advantages. "Specializing" was indulged in by Forrest Freeman in his usual able manner. Then Doris Odle with "Solfeggio" furnished a delighful interruption from the speeches of the evening. "Chapel" commenced with Jimmy Mitchell in charge, and his talk on Lincoln was interesting as all Jimmy's talks are. "Commencement" was to have been given by Russell Wilson, but due to his confinement, Stewart Pratt ably filled the vacancy. "Home Coming" was joyously given by Roger Zinn in his customary sincere manner. Then came the College Song as an appropriate ending to one of the best banquets in the history of Phi Phi Alpha.

Kazoo and M. A. C. Next on Schedule

This week promises to bring two of the most strenuous battles of the entire season for the Maroon and Cream cagers, the Almites being billed to meet the crack Kalamazoo College basketball team in the Alma High gymnasium Friday night and the Michigan Aggies at East Lansing on Saturday night.

Only by the finest kind of basketball can the Campbell-coached team hope to stop either of these crack outfits, which are both going strong at the present time.

The Kalamazoo team is probably the strongest of the two having recently put over a small score on the Aggies on the Farmers own floor, and Alma in meeting this star quintet will be fighting almost with her back to the wall as far as her Michigan Intercollegiate aspirations are concerned. Alma must achieve a victory if she expects to continue in the race with any expectation of finishing the court season at the top of the Michigan Intercollegiate heap. The recent defeat at the hands of Ypsi was a heavy blow to Alma's title chances and she cannot stand another such defeat.

It is certain that when Coach Ralph Young brings his team to Alma he is going to shoot the very best available five against the Maroon and Cream that this clever mentor can muster. He, of all men, has not forgotten how Alma teams will rise to the occasion when they are meeting Kalamazoo College. It has happened in the past that Alma teams hopelessly outclassed have jumped to the front against Kalamazoo and given Young's team the stiffest opposition that could be asked for. If the Alma team can come to the front against Kalamazoo to such an extent Friday evening there is no question but what victory will perch on the Maroon and Cream banner. An even break in luck will see a tight finish, whereas if Kalamazoo gets the breaks Alma will probably cease to be a title contender, unless there are some big upsets later.

The Michigan Aggies are going right now at the best clip that they have shown this season and there is every indication that Alma will bump against a real worthy foe on the Aggie floor Saturday night, and one that will call for the best kind of play on the part of the locals if they hope to hold the score to a close margin or possibly to put over a victory, which is regarded as more than a remote possibility.

LIBRARY NOTES

Two new ceiling lights have been installed in the reading room which help greatly in the lighting of the charging desk and the periodical file.

A list of all periodicals regularly received at the library has been printed for free distribution. Anyone desiring a copy for reference may obtain it at the charging desk.

Miss Annette P. Ward, Librarian, has been granted leave of absence during the second semester to continue her graduate study at the University of Michigan. Miss Ward plans to return to Alma every other week end to direct the library affairs, and to meet the library methods class. Miss Avis Lane will meet the class in Miss Ward's absence. The work of the various departments will be carried on under the direction of Miss Bradley, Miss Dunton, and direction of Miss Phelps, Miss Lane, Miss Brown.

LYCEUM NUMBER PROVES PLEASING

Harp Ensemble Company Present Well-Chosen Diversified Program.

In the High school auditorium on Thursday evening was given the third number of the Lyceum Course for the year. The attraction was The Harp Ensemble Co., and consisted of five young ladies. Three of them played harps, one of them the violin and another the viola. The evening's entertainment consisted of these five instruments, together with the piano used in every possible combination as an accompaniment instrument, and in ensemble.

The first number on the program was an ensemble number, the name unannounced and was followed by a gavotte by the harp. Two old favorites with lovers of the violin followed, "On Wings of Song" by Mendelssohn and the "Liebestroid" by Kreisler. Then followed in as rapid succession as the frequent applause of the audience would allow; "Barcarolle" from "Tales of Hoffmann" by Offenback, "Zalla," an Egyptian intermezzo by Lauraine, "Serenade," Weider, "Hungarian Dance," Brahms, "Dance Caprice," Messino, "Serenata," Moskowski, "By the Brook," Bowdrey, "Marcellenelle," Gounod, "Spanish Dance," Rafiel.

The program was well chosen for its abundance of melody and color and that the choice of emotional music was not lost on the audience was evidenced by their warm response through the entire program. Shakespeare, in several of his plays, but nowhere as in "Julius Caesar," has shown us that to win a crowd one must appeal not to the intellect but to the emotional nature. Whether or not their information originated from Shakespeare or not these five charming young ladies were possessed of the knowledge and used it freely in their selections.

The next Lyceum number has been announced as a reading by Miss Maad Wills. We still remember with considerable pleasure a reading furnished last year by the Lyceum Course and can only hope that the one to be given on March second will compare with it in style and interest. Miss Wills comes highly recommended and we can only recommend from past experience with Lyceum readers that there be a large turn-out on March 2.

Finally Confesses That He Did Do It

The happy, satisfied look and the most cheerful disposition that Russell Catherman, a Sophomore in Alma College, has been carrying for some weeks is now fully explained—wedded bliss.

Apparently there was more than just wind to the report or rumor that went around immediately after the holidays to the effect that Russell had helped himself to a real present during the vacation. In fact Russell, a football man, a basketball player, and pitcher on the baseball team, has "fessed up."

The big event took place at Co-runna on December 30 where he was united in marriage to Miss Edith Colister of Perry. Mrs. Catherman is a teacher in the Farmington Public Schools, Catherman's home town.

Coming "The Prisoner of Zenda" to the Strand.

RECEIVES HONORS

It has only recently come to light that Miss Rose Phelps, who is Library-Assistant, and who is to have charge of the library during Miss Ward's absence, has received a Phi Beta Kappa key from the University of Michigan.

This is an honor that comes to a small fraction of the members of a large class and is a mark of distinguished scholarship.

We are proud to have Miss Phelps on our faculty.

Maroon and Cream Annex Two More

Over the week end the Alma College basketball team picked off two frays and in each displayed some fine basketball winning from the Saginaw Triangles 63 to 18, and from the Detroit College of Law 28 to 15.

College of Law

The Detroit College of Law contest was an interesting one from start to finish, with the Maroon and Cream out in front most of the way, and with the Lawyers never being in a position to threaten after the first few minutes of play. The collegians did not show to the advantage Friday night that they did the previous night against the Triangles, probably because of the effects of the "track meet" with the Triangles, in which the Maroon and Cream Warriors displayed a very marked ability on offense and defense. There was no question, however, Friday night on the Detroit floor as to the superiority of the Almites.

Saginaw Triangles

A slow start last Thursday evening let the Saginaw Triangles get away on the Saginaw floor to a 6 to 0 lead, but when the collegians got going they dazzled the Saginawans with their performance and romped home an easy winner 63 to 18.

Newberg and Davis; forwards, who had played with Valparaiso University and Lombard College, were expected to be fast enough to make things most interesting for the Maroon and Cream, but the Alma steamroller went rough-shod over the opposition and rolled up the score almost at will, Johnson snaring eight field baskets, Carty 7, Kirker and Welthoelder 5 each and Hickerson 4.

The first half ended with Alma leading 33 to 10, and in the second half the Almites just continued to pile up the majority, with "Dud" just failing by a single field basket to equal the count of the entire Triangle five.

Lineup and summary:

Alma (63)	(18) Triangles
Kirker	F Newberg
Carty	F Davis
Johnston	C Hubner
Shaver	G Spencer
Welthoelder	G Sgimin

Score at half—Alma 33, Triangles 10.

Field baskets—Kirker 5, Carty 7, Johnston 8, Welthoelder 5, Hickerson 4, Catherman, Newberg 2, Huebner 2, Spencer 2, Scheib, Davis.

Free throws—Kirker 3 in 6; Huebner 2 in 9; Spencer 0 in 1; Newberg 0 in 1.

Substitutions—Alma: McDonald for Welthoelder; Hickerson for Johnston; Johnston for Kirker; Catherman for Carty; Welthoelder for Shaver; Kirker for Hickerson; Carty for Catherman. Triangles: Scheib for Skimin; Skimin for Davis.

DEBATERS UNDER WAY

Alma will have as her opponents in the coming state intercollegiate debates, Kalamazoo and Hope, both of whom will undoubtedly have strong teams. The Alma negative team which is composed of Russell Wilson, Stewart Pratt and Ronald Harris will be heard the Hopeites in their den. The Kalamazoo negative team will come here to engage in combat with our affirmative team which is composed of Forest Freeman, Hugh Tarrent and Lowell Hudson. Hostilities are scheduled to commence on next Friday, February 16.

HILLSDALE EASY FOR ALMA CLAN

Two Teams Take Part in Fray for the Maroon and Cream and Run Up Big Score.

The Alma College basketball team had things easy in the fray with Hillsdale College Saturday night, using two teams in putting over a 39 to 18 victory.

Right at the start Hillsdale looked as though the Blue and White would make the game a most interesting one, picking up three points before Alma got under way. The Blue and White was quickly headed, however, and from that time on Alma was never in serious trouble.

Before the first half came to an end Coach Campbell sent an entire fresh team to the floor, which finished the half and played a considerable part of the final period before the team that started went back into the fray. The game was devoid of any good features, except for the appearance of Captain Crittenden for the first time this season, the veteran star having sufficiently recovered so that he was able to get into action during part of the fray.

Hillsdale made numerous changes in her lineup in the attempt to bolster up her offensive and defensive work, but no changes that Coach Ost could make proved sufficient to stop the rush of the Maroon and Cream scoring machine.

In a preliminary contest the Frosh team defeated Breckenridge High 18 to 6, this fray being featured by the highly exceptional work of Johnny Stewart and Sheik Couturi.

Lineup and summary:

Alma	Hillsdale
Kirker	R. F. Gettings
Carty	L. F. Reece
Johnston	C Reynolds
Welthoelder	R. G. Schell
Shaver	L. G. Edgar

Substitutions—Hickerson for Kirker, Catherman for Carty, Wright for Johnston, Crittenden for Shaver, Beam for Welthoelder, Taylor for Scott, Scott for Schell, Taylor for Scott, Scott for Edgar, Schell for Taylor, Harmon for Gettings, Gettings for Harmon, Kirker for Hickerson, Carty for Catherman, Johnston for Wright, Shaver for Crittenden, Welthoelder for Beam.

Field baskets—Kirker 7, Carty 4, Johnston 3, Welthoelder 3, Shaver, Edgar, Reece, Harmon, Gettings.

Fouls—Wright 3 out of 4, Kirker 0 out of 3, Reece, 10 out of 14. Referee—Parker, Mt. Pleasant Normal.

Chatfield, College

Trustee, Died Sunday

Clarence B. Chatfield, aged 71 years, one of the leading business men of Bay City, and a trustee and treasurer of Alma College, died suddenly at his home in Bay City about noon on Sunday.

He was the founder and president of the C. B. Chatfield Milling & Grain Company, a director of the People's Commercial & Savings Bank. He had also been somewhat active in politics in Bay City and has served as an alderman for years in Bay City and also as a member of the county road commission.

Mr. Chatfield had been a member of the Alma College board of trustees for a number of years and during that time had also been the treasurer of the institution.

The funeral was held Wednesday at Bay City, and was attended by President H. M. Crooks, and Albert P. Cook, secretary, and assistant treasurer, of Alma College.

In the death of Mr. Chatfield Alma College has lost her third trustee by death since the beginning of the college year.

SOMETHING WRONG

On Friday the 16th, Alma will entertain the Kalamazoo negative debating team. They will come here determined to win the decision in the first intercollegiate debate of the year. Kazoo will send a strong team against Alma's affirmative team, which will be somewhat inexperienced and not quite sure of itself.

But interest is directed to another matter. And that is the question of support and backing which the student body is supposed to give. Is it not logical to conjecture what effect a crowded chapel would have upon our debaters? Surely it would not merely be an assumption to state that they would fight harder and more grimly, if there were many friends to urge them on.

Alma students were notoriously lax in attending the oratorical contests. Very small audiences greeted the efforts of the orators, who had spent a great deal of time and work upon their orations. What a disappointment must it have been to them to see what little interest there was on the campus in their efforts. And yet Alma expects another crop of orators next year to spend their time writing orations. But with decrease of interest on the part of the student body there is going to be a lessening of competition, and a smaller field of orators every year.

Have Alma students become so involved in the social whirl that oratorical contests and debates have come to be looked upon as a nuisance? Has Alma spirit come to be looked upon as a myth and an object of an abstract world? Or is it just plain carelessness and forgetfulness that keeps one from these events?

It is better to believe the last supposition, and therefore know that it can easily be remedied. Show that the old Alma spirit has only been lying dormant. Pack the Chapel Friday night, and urge the team on to victory.

THE IDEAL STUDENT

There are usually two different types of students who are regarded as typical and fully illustrative of the whole student body in any college. These two types which are fundamentally different in temperament, ambition and ability to work are generally classified as Pluggers and Brilliant students.

The brilliant student leads the way for the plugger to follow. It is quite natural that he should be the spur and incentive to lead the plugger on. The brilliant student has been endowed with a larger share of brains and natural talent that places him in a position to outstrip his less fortunate brethren. Thus one would logically presume that the brilliant student would go far. But often it becomes the case that the natural ability of the brilliant student becomes a handicap to him. For he becomes quite satisfied, with but little effort on his part, to keep up with the pluggers. The brilliant student can get his lesson in one half the time that it takes the plugger. So the brilliant student is apt to become lazy and easy going, finds that it takes but little time to keep up with the mass of the students, and loaf around accordingly. But he is certainly misusing the gifts that have been placed at his disposal. For if he were a true student he would not be satisfied with things, as they are, but would seek knowledge for its own sake. The brilliant student has no incentive to pull him on, except his own innate desire to take mighty strides.

With the plugger however conditions are entirely different. He has to be continually on the alert. The brilliant student furnishes an incentive for him. The plugger toils away hour by hour, his progress is slow and tedious, but these disadvantages must be borne if he is to keep the brilliant student within hailing distance. The plugger has one advantage; he learns patience and acquires a habit of steady diligent toil. He puts everything that he has into his work, calling on every resource at his command. Perhaps in a measure he accomplishes greater things than the brilliant student. But the plugger will always be handicapped by his utter inability to assume the initiative, for he waits for someone else to take the lead and hew an unobstructed path.

The ideal student then would not be a direct outgrowth of either the plugger or brilliant student, but would be a combination of the best qualities of both. He would have initiative, patience, a love of study for its own sake. He would be concerned not only with learning all he could of the world's wisdom, but of trying to add his mite of knowledge to the sum total of the world's wisdom. For after all it is not what one takes in so much that counts, as what one is able to give out.

LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT

The last will and testament of the Sheik of Alma College has but recently come to light and as its provisions will be of interest to many, it is hereby quoted in full:

I appoint Dud Johnson as my sole executor.

To Dent I bequeath a fresh air ventilator and part of my brain capacity. He should visit the De Luxe for lessons in voice. That is where I got my start. To Cole I give my best female friend. He wouldn't notice one more, and I know she wouldn't mind him. Russell Wilson should be given my shares in the consolidated diamond mines. It should spur the young man to action. To big Bertha Ross I bequeath my pool table and pool sticks. To Huffman I give my deck of cards. (They are already marked.) To Manwaring I give my book entitled, "He that he saw Himself Reflected from the depths of the Pool." Recognizing great genius in Moore, I will recommend him to Cecil B. DeMille for the new picture, "Mamma's Boy." To Nisbet and Armstrong, I give my books about Jesse James and the train robbers. They might also make use of my street sweeping outfit. To Burke I give a good share of my patent medicine. If he needs more, let him have $25.00. To Patton I give my wash board, and my interest in the Proctor Gamble Soap Co. To Robbins I deed a box of ambition powders. Pratt doesn't need anything. To Frostic and Reugsegger I give my pull with the Profs. To Kemp I give my executive ability, as he may need it when he becomes mayor of East Jordan. To Coash and H. Stewart I give my heart-breaking ways with the ladies. Rose should get my diploma that I took in the fustology class. To McCormick I give my football shoes and all the glory that goes with them. Seeba and Eno should read my book on how to prepare a sermon with a moral. As a physical director, I wish Fry all my good luck. To Jock Stuart I give $1,000 to start him in missionary work in wild Arabia. To Wesley and Laughlin I give my good looks. They need to look pretty to compete with the Rah Rah boys for the girls down town. Mansfield surely needs my fatherly advice. To Casey Jones I give my moonshine outfit in Kentucky. McDonald should cultivate my hard boiled ways. McLandress needs my hair tonic and a new start in the world. To Boyd and Apsey I bequeath my oratorical prowess. To Lovell I give my dancing ability. And to Weldhoelder I give all that is left.

This concludes my Pioneer Hall worshippers. Don't send me any flowers, boys.

(signed) The Sheik
Witnesses: Shrier, McGlone.

PARKER-BATES

The Almanian is pleased to chronicle the marriage of Miss Henrietta Parker to Mr. Gerald Bates. The bride is to spend some time in California with her aunt, while Mr. Bates will finish his college course here. Both young people are well known on the campus and in Alma, so the Almanian represents the student-body in extending heartiest felicitations.

CO-ED EDITION

The next issue of the Almanian will be edited by the fair sex, and the following staff has been chosen:

STEAM CYLINDER

They Weighed Air—and Charles II Laughed

SAMUEL PEPYS says in his diary that Charles II, for all his interest in the Royal Society, laughed uproariously at its members "for spending their time only in weighing of air and doing nothing else since they sat."

This helps to explain why Charles has come down to us as the "merry monarch."

The Royal Society was engaged in important research. It was trying to substitute facts for the meaningless phrase "nature abhors a vacuum," which had long served to explain why water rushes into a syringe—the commonest form of pump—when the piston is pulled out.

Denis Papin had as much to do as anyone with these laughable activities of the Royal Society. Papin turned up in London one day with a cylinder in which a piston could slide. He boiled water in the cylinder. The steam generated pushed the piston out. When the flame was removed, the steam condensed. A vacuum was formed and the weight of the outer air forced the unresisting piston in.

Out of these researches eventually came the steam engine.

London talked of the scandalous life that King Charles led, and paid scant attention to such physicists as Papin, whose work did so much to change the whole character of industry.

The study of air and air pumps has been continued in spite of Charles's laughter. In the General Electric Company's Research Laboratories, for instance, pumps have been developed which will exhaust all but the last ten-billionth of an atmosphere in a vessel.

This achievement marks the beginning of a new kind of chemistry—a chemistry that concerns itself with the effect of forces on matter in the absence of air, a chemistry that has already enriched the world with invaluable improvements in illumination, radio communication, and roentgenology.

The Best Business Career

Is what every ambitious senior is thinking about at the present time. Life insurance is one of the best, one of the most desirable, and one of the most satisfactory as a permanent calling.

In assets and volume of business, life insurance is one of the three leading businesses of this country, yet the field is comparatively under-developed. Only 7 per cent of the economic value of human life in the United States is covered by insurance. This gives an idea of the big field still to be worked, especially business insurance for firms and corporations.

As to remuneration: Reports of college graduates who have entered business indicate that life insurance is at the very top as a source of income. Now is the time for you to consider what you are going to do after graduation. If you are ambitious and willing to work hard and are interested to know about life insurance, address

COMMUNITY LEADERSHIP TRAINING SCHOOL
 Reverend Anderson of the East Superior Christian Church of Alma, spoke in Chapel Thursday morning on the Community Leadership Training School. This school is being sponsored by The Christian Church, and is backed by all the other churches of the city. The object of the school is to give instruction on efficient church work. Classes were commenced yesterday and will be continued until Friday. The enrollment fee is only one dollar which admits one to all sessions and classes for the week.

Each student will choose and complete one of the Teacher Training units, and will receive full and regular credit for Point Ten of the Standard of Efficiency. The Leadership Training School certificate will be issued to all who take notes on twenty-five lectures, including one complete Divisional course. Three divisions of Bible School work, Elementary, Young people's and Adult, will be dealt with in daily simultaneous conference. Each student is expected to finish one complete course. The School meets daily from 3:30 to 5:30 P. M.

A very excellent faculty has been secured, it consists of Miss Florence Carmichael, who is Central Regional District Elementary Superintendent for states of Indiana, Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin. Her services are in demand throughout the nation and she is in this school to give first Teacher Training Unit, "The Pupil", and will also lecture on The Children's Division, dealing with the beginners, Primary and Junior departments.

Mr. Clarence N. Wright who is Superintendent of the Young People's Division, Michigan Sunday School Council of Religious Education, will conduct courses in Young People's Specialization. Mr. Wright is an honor graduate of Oberlin College, and for years has specialized in genetic psychology and in work with young people.

Charles Darsie, U. C. M. S. who is Adult Superintendent and Director of Teacher Training, will conduct conferences on Adult Department Methods. He is the author of "The Art of Winning Folks." He will also teach "The Life of Christ" and lecture on "Ideals of Religious Education."

The Community Training School is promoted and conducted by the United Christian Society. A cordial invitation is extended by the Christian Church to all the college folk to attend. It is hoped that many will take advantage of the opportunity offered by this school of method.
