ALMA GYMNASIUM FINALLY COMPLETE

New Structure Regarded as One of the Best Gyms in the M. I. A. A.

When Davis Field is relocated and the level green of the campus has extended itself to the northward, Alma may indeed point with pride to the New Gymnasium, for it is a very beautiful building. Into it have been put the dreams of many men and the imagination of not a few.

The building cannot help but command attention, both from the exterior and interior viewpoint. Finished on the outside with a dark red brick, and Flemish bond binding, the structure will sometime prove a delightful contrast to the green of the trees and grasses.

The building itself, occupies an area 110 by 130 feet and is about 45 feet in height. The stone trimming gives the exterior a very inviting and clean appearance. Over the entrance, cut into the stone, are the words "Memorial Gymnasium." The roof is of dark red tile. The gymnasium floor is 60 by 90, and has a basketball court of 38 by 76 feet. On each side of the floor and at the west end, bleacher seats are located. At the east end is an open stage, 16 by 30 feet.

The walls of the interior are finished in a yellow-brown brick, the mortar used being of the same color. On either side of the gym proper are located numerous compartments, rooms for the home and visiting teams, locker rooms, showers, and the like. The building is heated by the central heating plant and unique radiators are situated high up on the walls. The windows are so arranged and so fixed by a similar combination that a device which opens and closes them all at once can be operated from below.

The bleachers have a seating capacity of 650 people, and when the stage is used, 150 more. When used as an auditorium, portable chairs are used, and it is claimed by seating experts that the capacity will be 950 people.

The gymnasium floor is rated as an exceptionally good one by those who have been working on it. It is as solid as rock. The floor is entirely clear, a circumstance which is seldom found in gymnasiums. Not only is the floor clear, but the space above the floor is clear, there being 22 feet of clearance to the trusses which support the roof.

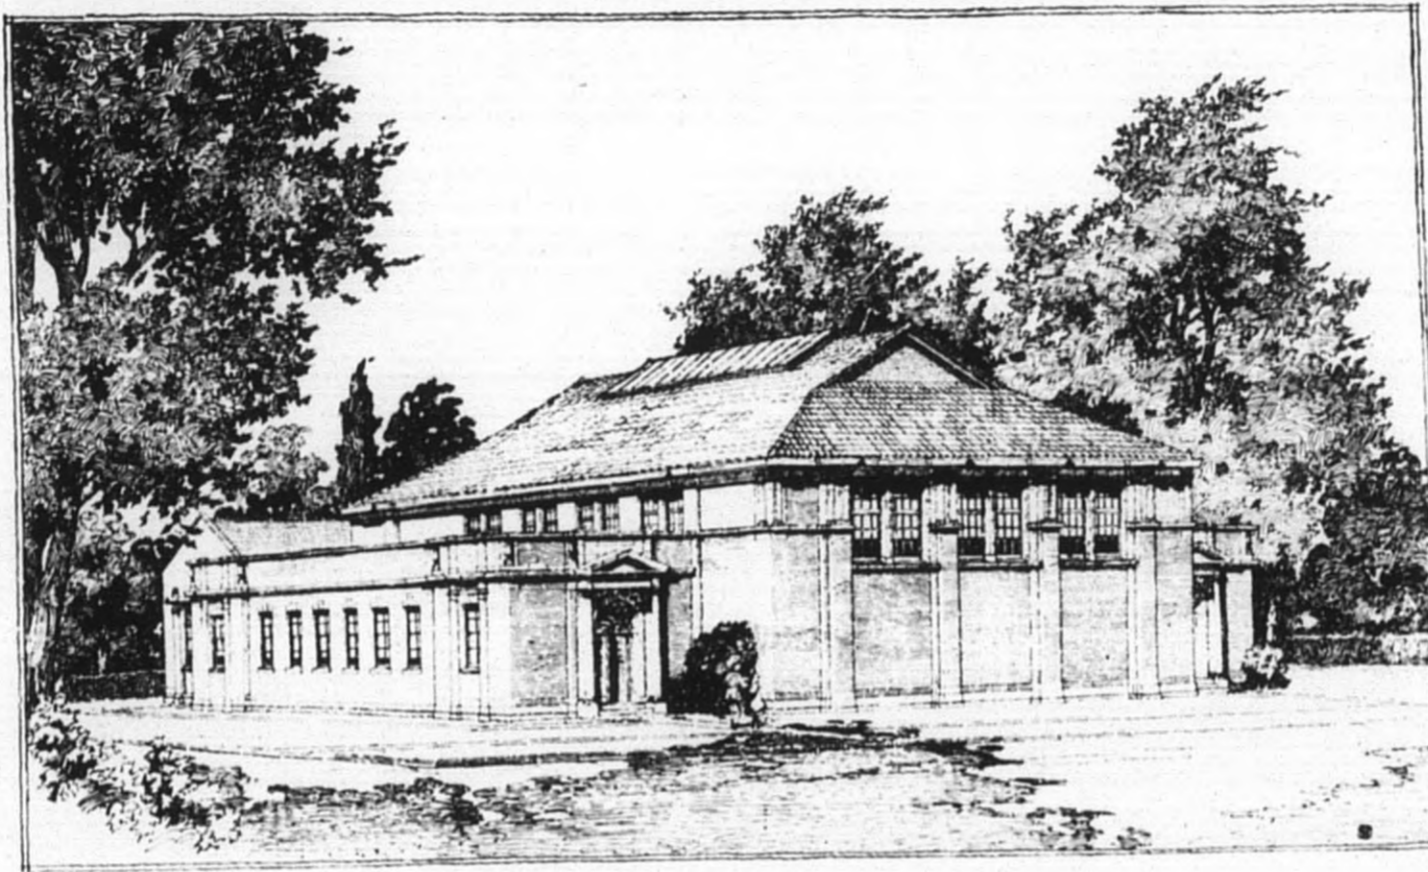

The apparatus for the gym will be complete and up to date in every way. The backstops for the baskets are of heavy plate glass. Between $3,000 and $4,000 is being spent on equipment at the present time.

When the building was turned over to the College last Friday it was complete with the exception of the pointing of some of the exterior stone work, and the installation of the bronze tablets with the names of the Gratiot County soldiers, sailors, marines, and nurses who served in the recent World War. This list will be complete in every way, so it will probably be some time yet before the tablets will be in place. We are, indeed, glad to have so beautiful a building on the campus.

PHILOMATHEAN

The regular meeting of the Philomathean Literary society was called to order Monday evening by the President, Hazel Shankel. Roll call was answered by the assigned topics. Alvina Curtiss responded to the impromptu, "America's Need for the New Art of Appreciation Art." A very interesting paper was read by Dorothy Doudna on the life of Holbein. The program was concluded with a pianologue, "Toy Heroes" which was well rendered by Rhea Joy Stinson.

MEMORIAL GYMNASIUM OPENS DOORS

Dwight Perkins Speaks in Chapel

Thursday morning the student body had the pleasure of listening to Mr. Dwight H. Perkins, of the firm Perkins, Fellows & Hamilton, of Chicago. Mr. Perkins is one of the leading school architects in America. He is associated with Alma College in the making of a Greater Alma, and the Gymnasium is the first visible signs of his ideas put into practice.

Mr. Perkins gave a very interesting talk. Naturally he dwelt on architecture, but he made it so real and vital a topic that it could not fail to please. There is no career so filled with opportunities to serve as that of an architect said Mr. Perkins. The work of an architect compels him to see what social organization is because it brings him into contact with almost every phase of human activity. Then architecture gives one a perception of beauty which is invaluable, for in its final sense there is nothing so practical as beauty.

There is nothing mysterious or occult about the composition of a building, for are not the manly virtues themselves found in a building? Strength, frankness and modesty should be embodied in the construction of every building. Music also in a sense is kin to the construction, for there is a rhythmic composition in a building which can be compared to music.

There is a broadening influence in architecture, for the person with the architectural viewpoint has new contacts opened up to him. Mr. Perkins spoke of his visit to Oxford in 1900 for the purpose of studying the architecture there. He was impressed with the fact that the Englishman usually has two viewpoints, that he has something else outside of his own interests. Mr. Perkins was quite astonished to find a hotel clerk who had an extensive knowledge of architecture, and who could have given any professional a few basic facts and principles.

Then Mr. Perkins stated that we must think of the building as a living thing. If we take care of it, the building will last. But it must be repaired, painted and cleaned, and we must think of its upkeep as a trust.

Mr. Perkins' talk was heartily enjoyed. We trust that we may have the pleasure of a chapel visit from him again.

KAPPA IOTA

The meeting of the Kappa Iota Literary society was called to order Monday evening, March 6, by the president. After the short business session the evening was given over to the initiation ceremony by which Mary Camille Peets became a member of the society.

ZETA SIGMA HOLDS STAG BANQUET

Interesting Program Marks Annual Function, Held After Albion Game.

A jovial spirit of fellowship strengthened by the basketball victory over Albion pervaded the dining room of the Wright House on the occasion of the Annual Zeta Sigma Stag banquet last Friday night. Zeta Sigma spirit was rife as the alumni, active members, and faculty mixed together into such a merry crowd as only a stag banquet can afford.

As Gallagher and his orchestra wandered carelessly through the strains of popular songs, the group sauntered into the dining room, separating into smaller groups of four to seat themselves at the tables. By this time nerves had quieted from the excitement of the game and an attack was made on the first part of the banquet itself. Realizing that before going on a trip everyone should have a well-satisfied appetite Zeta Sigma and the guests made short work of a fine menu.

Cream of tomato soup
Pickles Olives
Fried Chicken
Mashed potatoes Creamed peas
Fruit salad
Buttered rolls
Apple pie a la mode
Coffee

Cigars Cigarettes

As the last empty plate was carried away, and the smoke rings began to curl carelessly toward the far corners of the room, President Swanson arose and introduced the toastmaster of the evening, E. A. Tomes, who was to conduct the guests on an automobile trip.

An automobile trip is dangerous if the proper precautions are not observed along the route; consequently, B. H. Hunter responded, as the first warning signal, with the toast "Eyes on the Road." After stating his reason for not telling a story about the Coach, "Bid" related an anecdote concerning Prof. Hamilton, which was, undoubtedly, first-hand information. The speaker then pointed out the necessity of keeping the eyes on the road, no matter where we are or what we are doing. Zeta Sigma must keep her eyes on the road and see that progress is made on the campus. Disaster follows a failure to watch this warning. If this warning is avoided, it means that Zeta Sigma is failing to live up to the ideals which form such a definite part of the society. In closing, "Bid" strongly urged a more active interest in the society by the members and the

Formal Opening Of Gym Is Held

The Grand Opening of the Memorial Gym took place on Saturday night, when the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. entertained. The first part of the evening was devoted to the inspection of the gymnasium, and of course this took some time as everyone wanted to become really acquainted with the new building.

Then led by Coach Campbell and Clarissa Vreeland, the Grand March began. They proved themselves well-versed in the art of intricate formations, and seemed utterly indefatigable. However the line was at last called to a halt, by the stentorian voice of Sidney Foster, who was the official master of ceremonies.

The program proper commenced. Those who took part were heartily encored by a real appreciative audience. The program consisted of:

Piano Solo—Helen MacDougal
Vocal Solo—Fromilda Young
French Reading—Harry Surrell
Whistling Solo—Margaret Holmes
Reading—Katherine Jenkins.

The rest of the evening was given over to games. Miss Munger took charge and soon had some spirited games in progress. Those who insist that a party is not a success without dancing, would have found themselves at fault, if they could have witnessed the merriment and enjoyment that everyone found in the games. Several were played before the call for refreshments came. Ice Cream and wafers formed the bill of fare. There seemed to be no limit to the supplies, for all had seconds and thirds.

The success of this all-college party should lead to many more, for there are many on the campus who do not dance, and who should receive some consideration when social events are planned.

ALPHA THETA

The regular meeting of the Alpha Theta society was called to order Monday evening by the President, Fromilda Young. Roll call was answered by anything the members wished, current events, political news and a few humorous selections. The program was in charge of the Junior girls and they called on the Freshmen to do the stunts. Eunice Houghton played two piano selections; Dorothy Bradley was called upon to sing a negro spiritual, aided by Elizabeth Williams, Elizabeth Jenkins, Dorothy Allen, Mildred Caldwell and Juanita Eastman gave, "There's a Long Long Nail A-grinding" and Ann Lyons was given the subject "The Advantages of the Museum and Gymnasium Steps" to talk upon. Adjournment followed and refreshments were served.

"Why Girls Leave Home" at the Strand next Thursday and Friday.

ALMA OVERWHELMS METHODIST FIVE

Albion Hopelessly Outclassed; Alma Second Team Relieves Varsity.

Partial atonement was made Friday evening by Albion College for the football defeat of last fall, which cost Alma the football championship, the Maroon and Cream using two complete teams opening the new memorial gymnasium by rolling up the largest score that the Michigan Intercollegiate has seen this year, the count being 54 to 16 when hostilities came to an end.

The fray planted Albion firmly in the final place in the association standings and entrenched the Maroon and Cream in the runner up position in the race.

The crowd that saw the opening game in the new gymnasium was a big one, much larger than had been expected in view of the weather conditions. Because of the amount of work to be done Friday in getting the floor ready for the game, and also because it was expected that the weather would hold the attendance down, some of the circus seats were erected and the stage seats had not been placed. As a result all of the available space in the seats was jammed, by a throng that was delighted to see the Methodist horde slaughtered by the Maroon and Cream.

Alma scored almost at will against the Miller men counting more than a point a minute against the team that nearly defeated Kazoo on the Albion floor. With the initial session about half over Coach Campbell rushed his second team into the fray so as to not tire out his first string to such an extent that they would be unable to work against Mt. Pleasant this week. The score was standing at 18 to 3 at this stage of the fray. The second string was slow in getting under way and the half ended 22 to 6.

When the second half started, the scrubs, having located themselves, started a scoring bee that did not stop until Coach Campbell realizing how exhausted the men must be from chasing up and down the floor at such a rapid pace, pulled the five and sent the first string back into the game. Just seven minutes remained to be played. The score at that time stood 45 to 13. The first team was just commencing to get under way when the fray closed.

Both teams played fine basketball for Alma, and had the Albionites at sea during the entire fray. Four field baskets and eight fouls constituted the entire Albion scoring.

PROPHETS

When one thinks of that word prophet of course the first thing which is brought to mind in modern usage is the weather prophet. Not that weather prophets are restricted to modern eras for there is reasonable proof to believe that there were always weather prophets. The only difference is that in the old days it was a matter of being born a weather prophet while today it is a matter of science. And they usually get it fairly right at least in the matter of the arrangement of the seasons.

Some prophets are not prophets at all but merely suggest a theme for thought. Wight L. Moody when he said, "The world has yet to see what one man wholly consecrated to God can do," just gave us something to think about. But the man who said, "Tell me what he does with his spare time and I can tell you where he is going," did more than suggest. He said a lot without directly mentioning a single rule.

Well,—they're all right. But let's pose ourselves as prophets for a minute. Here is to be our platform, "Tell me how a man chooses and I will tell you what he will become." One question covers the entire questionnaire, "Does he choose first things first?"

That is to say, if he is a business man does he choose to attend first to his particular business or does he center his interests in the race track. Of course the race-track makes a splendid hobby for one can ride it enormously but—suppose he is a lawyer, is his first interest in his profession or is it in the enhancing qualities of his female clients? Of course a firm belief in and an unswerving devotion to one fine woman is rather quite the proper thing, but

Well, here's the grain of the matter, "What are first things of a college man? And if we proposed to answer the question for ourselves in a bald tactless sort of manner we should expect to carry a gun for a week or more, but we just offer a few suggestions for determining the matter satisfactorily.

A college has a curriculum and in that curriculum there are certain subjects which certain professors have the pleasure of teaching. A college man chooses (more or less) to which ones will expose himself (the subjects not the professors) thus throwing the responsibility for their perusal upon his own shoulders. Colleges were originally established for the purpose of pursuing definite subjects and there seems to be reason to believe that some of them, at least, still work on that hypothesis.

Then there are the other outside interests, some of them not so "outside" as others, but all of them—well—

Of course we don't care how much any one else studies because we've got a kid brother who is a fright at studying and naturally the less the rest of the folks study, why the farther he will rise above them but still it's rather a nice platform, don't you think? —H. G.

LIBRARY NOTES

In the display case of the library for this week, the subject of the American Indian is taken up. Many colored plates and an interesting map giving the sections occupied by the linguistic families of American Indians are shown.

A large number of bound volumes of magazines for the year 1922 has been received from the bindery and will soon be ready for use.

Miss Ward has received an interesting letter from Miss Louise Osgood, who is teaching in Milford this year. Concerning the value of her library methods training, she writes: "Through my knowledge of library methods I have saved myself many times for I know in what book to look for the particular thing I want. I believe that every student who expects to teach should take library methods."

LAST CALL FOR PICTURES

With spring vacation a little more than a week ahead the Maroon & Cream has found it necessary to state a definite time by which all society and club pictures must be taken. Copy must go to the printers and pictures to the engravers next week; consequently, all society and club pictures must be taken by tomorrow night (Wednesday). The Seniors and Juniors will be given two days more, the deadline on their time being Friday night.

Seniors should hand in the list of all their college activities at once, in order that they may be tabulated, checked, and sent to the printers.

In order to publish the Maroon & Cream early in June means that every bit of copy must be in the hands of the printers by April 25, and as much as possible before this date. Therefore, if you accept the responsibility for a writeup, do not defer it to some future time. You'll be just as busy then as you are now. Help us out by getting it in immediately.

alumni, and a more hearty cooperation between the two.

A short, but to the point, speech was delivered by Homer "Ham" Dunham, on "Keeping out of the Rut." He showed that the going in the rut is easier, for the time being, but gradually, and before we are aware of it, the rut grows deeper and deeper, ending in a smashup. In order to insure success, Zeta Sigma must keep out of the rut.

The driver sensed a dangerous curve ahead and instructed Hudson and Gallagher to put forth their synchronized energy in "Blowing the Horn."

So effective was the "Blowing of the Horn" that the curve was safely passed, and with a clear stretch of road ahead, the toastmaster introduced Coach Campbell, who responded to "Speeding." After appropriate introductory remarks concerning Tomes and his corporation, Coach brought forth an analogy between "Speeding" and Zeta Sigma. This said Coach, is the main trouble with Zeta Sigma. Going ahead and doing things without forethought, and without using the latent ability which is present in the society is a fault which can easily be corrected by a little more carefulness and a little closer sticking to the old standards and traditions.

"Feeding 'Er Gas" is, in a measure, one of the most important parts of the trip. Rev. Bradford took the first turn at this part of the program, showing that Zeta Sigma has ideals that are being instilled into the new men of the society. The members learn to understand each other by the constant personal contact which can only be felt in a society house, and these ideals which form a part of Zeta Sigma are necessary in order for a society to stand in a small college. The fundamentals of life must be recognized and lived up to.

President Crooks was asked to say a few words and he gave some criticisms which the society might carefully notice. He spoke of the matter of standing off and taking stock of ourselves. Have we frankly faced the question of whether we want to lead in a few activities or be all-round men? The President spoke frankly and showed that we must face the issue. He stated that he was glad to see that the society had so definitely improved during the last few years.

Prof. Hamilton applied "the gas" in the form of a story which shook the shutters with the ensuing laughter.

Harry Surrell "Changed a Tire" with a fine pair of French Canadian readings, which were enjoyed by the crowd.

H. S. Babcock gave a few "Remarks From the Back Seat." He gave a fine retrospective picture of his first days in Alma College, when he roomed with Dean Mitchell. By observing carefully, Mr. Babcock says he found out that, for the main part, people want to know what we can do, how well we can do it, and if we are on the level with our fellow-men. What you do when you get out of school is what counts, and not the Greek or Latin you get into your head, without learning how to use it. Your brilliancy in college, Mr. Babcock went on, counts for little if you do not do your best day by day when you are out of college.

"Looking Ahead" was the well-chosen topic for Robert Craig as a forester is constantly looking ahead. Zeta Sigma in his day looked ahead to a house and now the house is a reality. The looking ahead must now be done to clear up the debt. The active members must feel that the alumni are back of them, ready to systematically get behind and raise the debt. His talk was earnest and each speaker of the evening sounded the note of a broadening influence in Zeta Sigma, and frank criticism and approval was voiced. As a whole the banquet was a great success, both from an appetizing, and from an inspirational standpoint. With the singing of the Zeta Sigma song, the group broke up, going home to plan and work for a Greater Zeta Sigma.

GOES TO M. A. C.

Coach Ralph H. Young, for the past seven years director of athletics at Kalamazoo College, has accepted a position as head coach, director of athletics and director of physical education at M. A. C. He will take up his new work September 1. Young has been recognized as the leading coach of the M. I. A. A., and the better position is merited. Most of the association colleges will look forward to the possibility of winning more titles in the future now that Young is leaving, as Young and his teams have been a thorn in the side where the aspirations of the other colleges have been concerned.

CHAPEL SPEECH

Reverend Shany of the Westminster Presbyterian Church of Bay City was the Chapel Speaker on Friday. His agreeable personality instantly won the interest of the chapel audience. Rev. Shany talked on the theme of talents, and stressed the fact that everyone has some special talent. We are all good for something. It is in college that we have an opportunity to find the line of service that we are best adapted to.

BAHLKE WRITES A CHECK

The treasurer of the Athletic Association is in possession of a check for $20 from Wm. Bahlke, a prominent lawyer of Alma and friend of the College. After witnessing the game with Kalamazoo in which we defeated the Kazoo team, he said that he would pay $20 any day to see a game like that. True to his word, he wrote the check, and the much needed money will be placed with the Athletic Association.

"Best Paid Hard Work in the World"

IS the way a JOHN HANCOCK salesman described his work. He is a college graduate and in five years has put himself at the very top of his business.

He never yet has called upon a prospect without a previous appointment. The best life insurance salesmen today work on that plan, making it a business of dignity, such as any worthy and ambitious college graduate can find satisfying to his mental needs, and highly remunerative as well.

The man above quoted is the John Hancock's youngest general agent. This shows what college graduates of the right type can do in this business, how they can build up earning power and at the same time provide for an accumulated competence for the years to come.

Graduation is a vital period in your life and you are liable to hold to the business you start in. It would be well before making a definite decision to inquire into life insurance as a career. Address, "Agency Department."

GIANTS DEFEAT PYGMIES IN SPIRITED CONTEST

Brawn proved to be the deciding factor in the opening game in the new gym last Friday when the Giants won over the Pygmies by a score of 23 to 13. Early in the game it could be seen that the valiant fighting of the smaller men was to be of no avail. The superior might of the Giants made a triumph for them an easy matter.

The game was marked by rough play. Jake Smith made several attacks upon Stuart, the latter saving himself by resorting to King's X. Frostic was vindictive in his treatment of Hilderly and Treadway. Apsey deliberately roughed up Couture and MacLandress showed absolutely no kindness for his own room-mate Coash who, even yet has not fully recovered from the inhumane matter in which he was used as a floor mop. Tate was forced to appeal to Referee Pills several times for protection against the unwarranted savagery of MacDonald.

The game was not without brilliant plays. A flashing end run by Shiek in the third quarter which resulted in a touch-down brought the more or less disinterested spectators to their feet in cheers. The forward passing of Johnny Stuart from the outside lines was one of the features which resulted in the final victory for the Giants. Taken as a whole the game was representative of the skill and unflinching determination always shown by the Alma teams.

WEST FOR MAYOR

A member of the Alma College faculty has finally fallen into the game of politics. Prof. F. E. West is the man and the office is the mayorship of Alma. Only the names of West and our friend Mayor Murphy, who is seeking re-election, were run at the recent primaries. Out of 425 votes cast, West received 234. That will explain the constant wreath of brilliant smiles that have enveloped the Professor of late. Like former President Wilson, he has his points. There are sixteen of them, and they seem to have struck a chord in the hearts of the voters.

LYCEUM PRICES REDUCED GREATLY

Committee Cuts Down Price to Secure Big Attendance at the Last Numbers.

On Monday evening an important meeting of the Alma Lyceum Committee resulted in some very interesting decisions. Chief among these was the purpose to offer the last two numbers on this year's lyceum course at a price not before equalled in the city. The numbers referred to are the best of the season. The first is a play entitled, "The Bubble" to be given on March 23rd, two weeks from this Friday.

Anyone who wants a delightful evening filled with humor and fun should be on hand. The second is a clever home talent program to serve as the climax of the whole course, and to be put on by students of the local high school, under the able leadership of Miss Immel. The proposition that the Lyceum course makes is that the combined price for the two numbers shall be seventy-five cents. Heretofore fifty cents has been charged for each single admission or one dollar for two numbers, but the committee believe that a packed house at a lower rate is better than a small audience at a higher rate.

In order to give the public the best possible chance to accept this offer tickets will not only be placed in the banks and drug stores, but many of the organizations of the city, such as the Woman's Cub, the Art Club, the Chamber of Commerce, the Parent-Teachers' Associations, etc., will be asked to dispose of fifty each.

The reason for this move lies in the fact that the last two or three lyceum numbers were not as well attended as they should be. This was partly due to the prevailing sickness and partly to the fact that the canvass for the sale of season tickets was not as thorough last fall as ought perhaps to have been made. Whatever the reasons may be, Alma is failing to receive the benefit from some exceedingly good entertainments and the committee in charge plan to change the situation.

Another matter determined by the Lyceum Committee has to do with next year. In order that the course next season may not only be chosen by a larger group of citizens, but shall be backed by greater numbers, it was decided to invite all the leading organizations of the city to appoint representatives on this committee. Often the members of various clubs have a very definite choice of speakers they would like to hear in our town and the above method will permit such desires to find expression when our new Lyceum course is made up.

It is suggested that next year a very much stronger course shall be put on even though the cost is increased.

Y. M. C. A.

Y. M. C. A. was conducted March 1, by Robbins and Patton. After singing and scripture reading, Robbins gave a talk in which he compared a man to a clay vessel. It all depends on the kind of clay, on how well it is kneaded, on how well it is molded and baked whether a clay vessel be Chinaware or a mere earthen pot. We have the power to work over our own bodies and souls, thus working them either a fine-cut, clear-souled specimen of humanity, or on the contrary into a common, ordinary, "earthen pot."

Patton spoke on the subject "Private." He tried to show that everything of value is usually carefully guarded, but that the most guarded of all is the very inner depths of the human heart. Then he tried to show that there comes a time of revelation for all things "guarded," to prove whether they are of value or not. Trial, time and temptation will finally reveal what a man really is. Third he advised his hearers to fill that inner nature unknown to others and probably even to themselves with something so sustaining, so truly of value that they might not fear the results in their day of revelation.

A diplomat is a man who can remember a woman's birthday and forget her age.

You can always draw queens if you have the jack.

Prof. Ditto—What is ordinarily used as a conductor of electricity?
Hilderly—Why, er-r-r.
Prof. Ditto—Correct. Now tell me what is the unit of electric power.
Hilderly—The what, sir?
Prof. Ditto—That will do; very good.

Woody—Gee, but she's a beaut. (enthusiastically pointing to his new car.)

Hildegard—What do you allude to the car as a she, Woody?
Woody—Because it has beautiful curves, it is not altogether trustworthy, and it keeps its owner broke.

Wilson—Would you accept a pet monkey?
Fromilda—Oh, I would have to ask father. This is so sudden.

It does not take four years of college to find out that a girl in a taxi is worth four in abus.

Rea—I want to learn to dance the worst way.
Boyd—Oh, naughty, naughty. I'm afraid I can't teach you. The Dean might object.

Fry (Editor of year book)—You should have thought about that before you had the picture taken.

In regard to the dispute as to which stocking a girl puts on first, we have decided that no matter which one she puts on first, she always puts on the left one last.

Prof. McCurdy (in Biology Class)—The class will now name some of the lower species of animals, starting with Mr. Rose.

Popular Sayings
"Don't, you'll tear my hair net."

Prof.—Do you know why I flunked you?
Co-ed—I can't think.
Prof.—You guessed it.

The height of weakness: The man who could not even lift his eyes, and likewise the height of carelessness: The woman who dropped hers.

A Teaser
A girl who about the middle of the evening plays "lovable Eyes" on the piano, but when its time to go merely whispers "Leave Me With A Smile."

Francis Senior: "Oh, Professor, I am right at the door of flunking."
Obliging Prof. "Never mind, don't worry, I'll pull you through."

I Wonder?
It is said that one of the two things a young girl thinks about is the man she might go with next.

Marie: "You are the first man I ever permitted to kiss me."
Duncan: "And you are the first girl I ever kissed. Will you marry me?"

Marie: "I wouldn't marry a liar."
Duncan: "I would."

Man is a "worm of the dust"—he comes along, wiggles about a while, and finally some chicken gets him.

Sweet Thing: "Were you ever decorated?"
Hair Brained Harry: "Yes I got the Maltese Cross."

Sweet Thing: "How wonderful; what did you do?"
H. B. H.: "I stepped on her tail."

The Boy: "Say little girl, you look cold. Shall I take off my coat and put it around you?"
Miss Mucilage: "Why take it off?"

Prof. Sharrar: "What are the exports of Virginia?"
Shaver: "Live stock and tobacco, sir."

Prof. Sharrar: "What do you mean, live stock?"
Shaver: "Camels, Sir."
