ALMA VICTORIOUS IN DEBATE AND BASKETBALL

ALMA WINS DUAL FRAY FROM OLIVET

Maroon Debaters Appear to Good Advantage in Spirited Contests.

Alma acquitted herself gloriously in the dual debate with Olivet, both Alma teams being returned victors. The debate at Olivet and the one here were closely contested, speaking highly of the excellence of the Alma and Olivet debaters.

The home debate was a real lively affair. The question was, "Resolved that the United States should immediately enter the League of Nations." Olivet's team of Lawrence Towe, Kenneth Hance, and Rudolph Roth upheld the affirmative side, while Russel Wilson, Stuart Pratt, and Ronald Harris took the negative.

Mr. Roth was the first speaker for Olivet and he outlined their platform developing the first point and leaving the others for his colleagues Hance and Towe. The Affirmative based their arguments on the grounds that the League is the only organized means of averting another World War, that the League is sound in theory and has worked, and that if the United States would enter the League both parties would receive a mutual benefit. Each speaker developed his respective point quite graphically and with no little eloquence.

The first speaker of the Negative, Mr. Harris outlined the definite reasons why the Negative was opposed to the immediate entrance of the United States into the League. The grounds on which the Negative objected were that the League is pledged to carry out the terms of that unjust treaty of Versailles and others, that the present policies of European nations conflict with the League and would prevent its proper functioning, and that by joining the League we would lose our independent neutrality which in itself is an important factor. Mr. Pratt with his characteristic vim and Mr. Wilson with his keen and logical thinking developed these arguments respectively.

Splendid Comedy To Appear Here

Edward Locke's three-act comedy, "The Bubble" which appears here on the Lyceum course Friday, March 23 is one in which the original cast had a long and highly successful run on Broadway. In it Louis scored one of his greatest triumphs.

To describe "The Bubble" would be to rob the uninitiated of the thrills to be experienced in its varied complications which arise at every turn. Sufficient is it to state that most of us have at some time been obsessed with the desire to become rich. This ambition has frequently led to experiences which have made us wiser, if not richer.

"The Bubble" centers around an unusually successful promoter of oil stocks who by his glib tongue and oily ways attempts to fleece a lovable old couple out of their life's savings. Their daughter, Rose, and a clever young newspaper reporter feature in the play which brings forth peals of laughter when the up-to-the-minute ideas of the young people are matched against the dry humor of the old folks.

"The Bubble" is an old plot, but it "thickens" in a decidedly new way. Good clean humor and wholesome fun characterize the entire play.

Attention is called to the special price that the Lyceum committee has made of 75c for the final two numbers of the course. Single admissions will remain at 50c each.

THE CHEMISTRY BUILDING

The work on the Chemistry Building is now complete except for a few minor details and it will be open for inspection by students, faculty, and friends of the college on Wednesday evening, March 21 from 7:30 to 8:30. The chemistry building is one of the many improvements that have been made at the college during the past year and this will be your opportunity to see something of the work of the Department of Chemistry. When Professor West came to Alma College some twenty-two years ago there were but two courses offered in chemistry and these were taught by the Professor of Natural Science and the laboratories were located in the dark basement of the Administration Building. With the present equipment and building, Alma College occupies a unique position among the colleges of the state in her Department of Chemistry.

Annual Conference Held at U. of M.

Friday, March 16th, a number of Alma students journeyed to Ann Arbor to attend the Third Annual Student Missionary Conference of Michigan. The meetings were held in Hill Auditorium—the building itself seeming to lend an additional inspiration. The genial good-will of the hosts and hostesses of the University and of the Ann Arbor residents made Alma's delegates feel at home in a greater family.

The Conference exhibit portrayed the great need of the world, expressed in the Student Volunteer motto—"The Evangelization of the World in this Generation." The literature offered for sale was well worthwhile a delegates perusal.

Dynamic, forceful, thought-compelling speeches came from such men as Dr. Paul Danison of Arabia, "the man who turned Chicago University upside down and 'broke the traditions of twenty years'" by one Sunday morning sermon; Rev. Marion E. Hall, who has just returned from Japan and is an authority on Japanese missions; E. J. (Ted) Weeks, a widely travelled secretary of the Presbyterian Foreign Board; and Paul Hutcherson, who spoke on the social and economic conditions of China and their relation to Missions. Besides these high-light speakers, there were many ardent and enthusiastic students of American foresight and possessing a vision of Service.

Alma delegates who had attended the two preceding conferences, where they heard such men as Dr. House and Sherwood Eddy, maintain that this conference equaled it in every way.

The delegates from Alma were Misses Strick, Grierson, Bahna, Vreeland and Poole, and the Messrs. Pratt, Robbins, Ainsworth, Andrews, and Segar.

SENIOR DANCE

The enterprising members of the Senior Class have secured the Gymnasium for the first dance. It will be held on Thursday night, and ought to draw a big crowd. The Dance is to be formal and elaborate plans have been made for it.

ALPHA THETA LIST ANOTHER SUCCESS

"The Fascinating Fanny Brown" is Given a Rollicking Presentation.

The Alpha Theta Litarary Society can always be relied upon to present a highly entertaining play. "The Fascinating Fanny Brown" was on a par with the other plays that Alpha Theta have presented. The cast was very well chosen, and numbered some extremely clever and versatile impersonators. The setting which was the same for both acts, was artistically arranged.

The story of the play centered around two young men, Percival Gale and Billy Pearson. Percival is in love with Florence Howe, while Billy is deeply enamoured of Dorothy Dudley. In order to make Dorothy duly appreciative of Billy, the two young men concoct a plan by which Billy will write letters to an unknown Fanny Brown. These letters are never mailed, but are hid in a desk. Percival acquaints Dorothy with Billy's letter-writing in order to arouse her jealousy. However Dorothy overhears Billy and Percival discussing their plan, and she finds the letters. At this time her brother appears on the scene. Henry Dudley is a college sophomore and is somewhat skilled in the art of female impersonation. Dorothy enlists his aid and has him represent Fanny Brown. Billy and Percival are floored at first, but finally grow suspicious as

Novel Program at College Church

An entertainment of unusual interest will be given in the Presbyterian church under the auspices of the Presbyterian Brotherhood on next Wednesday evening, March 21, at 8 o'clock.

Among other attractions Mrs. Isabelle Richardson Kirker, one of Detroit's most talented readers, will give a number of selections. Mrs. Kirker has appeared in the largest churches in her home city before crowded audiences and is popular both in Canada and the states. Mr. Harold Jarvis, a man well known to many as a singer, writes of her as follows: "I have had the pleasure of being on the same programme with Mrs. Kirker, and found her work in Scotch the best I have yet heard." During the past year Mrs. Kirker and her husband have taken up their residence in Alma in order to be with their two sons who are attending college. A large number of our citizens who have come to know her and the family will be particularly happy to have the chance now offered of hearing her.

Other numbers of the evening will be given by some of Alma's most popular singers and instrumentalists. A charge of thirty-five cents will be made except in the case of students who will be charged 25 cents. Ticket (Continued on page two)

COLLEGE FROLIC

Don't forget the College Frolic to be held in Detroit on March 27th, for all Alumni and students. The party will be held at the Atkinson Community Building, Junction and McGraw Avenues. There will be dancing and a general good time. You are invited to bring a friend. The Frolic is scheduled to start at eight o'clock. There will be transportation provided at the General Motors Building at 7:30.

GLEE CLUB

The Glee Club will leave on Friday for their tour of Northern Michigan. They have a strong organization and should meet with the success of the 1921 Club.

SPRING VACATION

The College will close on Friday noon for Spring Vacation. Classes will commence again Tuesday morning, April 3rd.

AGAIN DEFEAT MT. PLEASANT

Alma Plays Gloriously in Nip-and-Tuck Contest—Reserves Also Win.

Tuesday evening the Alma collegians finished the court season with a thrilling 43 to 34 victory over Mt. Pleasant Normal, and this being the second victory over the Teachers in the court game for the season it is regarded as some small measure of atonement for the 5 to 0 football defeat of last fall.

Alma did not bring home the bacon in closing the season in a maze of glory without a real fight from the Teachers, who came to Alma prepared to battle to the limit to win, and battle they did. Never out in front more than 9 points, and for the greater part of the fray 6 points or less was the margin by which the Maroon and Cream was leading, the Campbellites were not certain of pulling down the bacon until just before the finish when field baskets by Carty and McDonald served to tie up the game.

It was a sweet victory to Alma fans and the more pleasing because Mt. Pleasant fought to the limit to win, and is deserving of plenty of credit for the splendid fight that she made. Particularly is Calkins to be commended. This clever little forward landed seven field baskets for the Teachers and then added still more glory by nailing 12 fouls out of 12 chances, making 26 of his team's 34 points.

Mt. Pleasant took the lead at the start of the fray on two foul shots by Calkins. He immediately grabbed off a field basket, making the lead 4 points. Carty came back with one, but Calkins maintained the four point margin with another. Kirker heaved in one and Johnston knotted it at 6 all. Kirker then sent Alma out in front by a point after Calkins had momentarily given his five a point lead by a foul. From that time on the Maroon and Cream were not headed, although the Teachers clung (Continued on page three)

Freshman Preside At Kappa Iota

After the short business meeting of Monday night, the program was turned over to the new members. The chairman, Esther Smith announced a short play, "Enter the Hero." Nettie Roberts, who played the part of Ann Carey, a small town girl who, in order to provide thrills, fakes a correspondence between herself and a young engineer in India, executed her part in a finished and graceful manner. LoReta Neely, the younger sister, Ruth, who is awed by the love letters did the part of the "Kiss-sister" to perfection. Florabelle Lautner was the hero who bluntly refused to agree to the intrigue, and Thelma Potter was the sympathetic mother. At the conclusion of the play, the chairman turned the tables on the old members by calling for impromptu stunts. Elizabeth Munger responded to the request for a Turkish dance in costume which she did in her customary skilled and vivacious manner. Violet Bramley in a burst of impassioned oratory thrilled her hearers to the soul, Greta Muir was called upon for a vocal solo and Mary Gerow capably delivered a speech of the expository type. The program being completed the refreshments were brought on—and such refreshments. Green and white water-lilies filled with ice cream and topped with a green cherry, and cake decked with tiny green flags. At the close of the evening, the new girls were accorded a hearty cheer and voted fine hostesses.

Several times this year, articles of snia , value have suddenly ceased to exist- stolen. Boxes of candy, letters, and various articles from the laboratories seem to have a facility for disappearing. They are all little things, hut it is just as had to steal a dollar as five hundred dollars. It is all the same whether you're hung a parasite. He lives on others; he is afraid to get out and make a Thievery may arise from various conditions- usually from a person's past environment. Then too, when a person goes to college, he is prob-

A FRESHMAN PULLS THE STRING

Fraxy's chapel talks sometimes remind us of the old lady who so hurriedly packed up to catch the train that she rushed down the street with a string hanging from her suit-case. It's the string that attracts our attention. We want to pull it and see what shows up.

It's much the same way with Fraxy's chapel talks. Lots of times he starts out on a good speech and then leaves it abruptly—unfinished. But he never left one yet without a string dangling somewhere or other. He wants us to figure out some stuff for ourselves—pull the string, so to speak.

The other day he talked about King Tut. He asked us what we would put in the tomb today to represent modern civilization—especially that here in Alma. He didn't finish the talk, but he left a string hanging. I yanked on it, and lookee what I found:—

1. One students' alarm clock (set for five minutes to seven.)
  2. One pair of corduroy, bell-bottomed trousers, (pearl-buttoned, slit-up-the-side, 'n everything.)

  5. One corn-cob pipe, (disinfected.)
  6. Several study books, (brand new, unused if possible.)

  8. One student council paddle, (unused if possible.)
  9. One buzzer-board, complete.
  10. Several gross of social cuts.

dangerously close to the heels of the Maroon and Cream until almost to the final whistle.

When the half ended Alma was leading 25-15, but in the second half the Normals pulled the lead down to 3 points at one stage, but a determined rally by the Alma clan sent the margin back to a record six points, and it was not until McDonald and Carty pulled their final heaves that the game was certain.

For Alma Johnston, Kirker and Carty were in the bright lights from a scoring standpoint, the elongated center snaring 6 counters and Kirker and Carty 5 each. In floor work Carty excelled every man on the floor, and was closely seconded by Kirker.

As related Calkins was the big noise of the fray with his great scoring propensities. LeCronier also put up a pretty battle for the Teachers.

PHILOMATHEAN

The Philomathean Literary society was called to order Monday night by the president. Roll call was responded to with the assigned topics. After the business meeting, the program was opened by the impromptu "The Fallacy of Exclusiveness" which was well given by Nina Church. Alvina Curtis then read a paper on the life of Velasquez, the great portrait painter of Madrid. The final number was a piano solo "Funeral March of a Marionette" by Gounod, which was played by Clarissa Vreeland who also gave an explanation of the story which runs through the music.

How many apples did Adam and Eve eat? Some say Eve eight and Adam two—total 10.
Now I figure the thing out far differently. Eve eight and Adam eight also—total 16.
However, the answer still seems to be wrong, for if Eve eight and Adam eight (y) two, certainly the total would be ninety.
On the other hand, scientific men on the strength of the theory that antediluvians were g'ants, reason something like this; Eve 81 and Adam 82—total 163.
Wrong again: for what could be clearer than if Eve 81 and Adam 812—the total would be 893.
However, if Eve 814 Adam 8124 Eve, the total would be 8938.
The truest solution so far unearthed is that Eve 814 Adam, Adam 81242 oblige Eve—total 82,056.

A private was shaving himself in the open air, when his sergeant came along.
Sergeant—"Do you always shave outside?"
"Of course," answered the private.
"Did you think I was fur lined?"

LIBRARY NOTES
The library will be open during the spring vacation for the use of faculty and students from 8:30 A. M. except during the noon hour.
Please note that commencing with March 24, 1923, the library will be closed Saturday afternoons.
The library showcase this week brings to our minds the thoughts concerning Ireland, the home of St. Patrick whose birthday is celebrated on March 17. Some suggestions regarding suitable decorations for a St. Patrick's party are in the books on display.
