TALK ON OXFORD GIVEN IN CHAPEL

Miss Lanier Illustrates Lecture
With Slides of University.

A very interesting and instructive lecture on Oxford was delivered by Miss Elsie Lanier in the college chapel Wednesday evening. The first part of the lecture dealt with the administration and social life of the university, and the latter part consisted of a series of slides giving views of the different colleges. There are twenty-one colleges in all that go to make up the university, and Miss Lanier said the remarkable thing about them is that the buildings are practically the same as they were in Queen Elizabeth's time. In fact, even many of the old customs still survive, and now appear to be very silly. For instance, the men of the institution are not allowed to play marbles; no arms can be carried except a bow and arrow; and there is a fine for throwing a missile at an instructor and missing—still a greater one if the missile finds its mark.

"The history of Oxford," said Miss Lanier, "dates back as far as the eighth century. But there have been great changes in many respects since those days. Long ago the streets were the scenes of many bloody battles between the students and the townspeople, and now there is none of that."

"I believe the great difference between the English and the Americans is that the English are very thorough and like to specialize, while we like a broader education. English students do not know what it means to 'take a course.' They 'read for a school.' During the school year they attend lectures, in the summer doing the real studying and research work, and then take all their examinations together at the end of the three years."

Miss Lanier pointed out that the social life is one of the greatest things about Oxford, and athletics also have their place in the student's life. The American men studying in Oxford are generally good athletes and are well liked. "Some how," Miss Lanier said, "the English think that all Americans are very rich. That is quite a pleasant experience. But they also have the idea that Americans are crude, and that is not so pleasant. The English have very little conception of the great size of our country, and it is no uncommon thing for a New Yorker or other easterner to be asked if he knows so-and-so of California."

Y. W. C. A. To Open College Tea Room

The Y. W. C. A. have secured a part of Dr Clisbe's house, which they will put into immediate use as a college tea room. The use of the side entrance, the kitchen, dining-room and reception room has been granted to the "Y."

The "Y" girls have already begun work on putting the rooms into shape. Several welcome contributions have been received by them for furnishing the place from Mrs. Crooks and Mlle. DeJean. The tea room will open on May 1st, if final preparations have been completed by that time.

Miss Lucy Fellows and Miss Margaret Morrison will have charge of the venture. It is planned to have the tea room open late in the afternoon, and on Friday and Saturday evenings. Ice Cream, tea, coffee and sandwiches will be served, with one extra concoction each day. Prices will be very reasonable, and this fact alone should make the tea room a very popular place.

Flint Club Puts On Formal Dance

The Flint Club gave its first dance last Friday evening in the college gymnasium. The members of the Flint Club wish to interest Flint people in Alma College and several guests from that metropolis were present.

This was the first dance in the new gymnasium to have decorations. Due to the efforts of some members of the club and the invaluable assistance of certain members of the Thumb Club the gym was very tastefully decorated. Green, pink, and yellow streamers, typical of spring, were hung from the steel rafters. The lights were covered with crepe paper of the same colors. There were also several palms around the orchestra, in the corners, and in the stage. Chairs borrowed from the women's societies were placed in the corners for the comfort of the chaperones. For the first time the floor of the gym was in good condition for dancing.

Favors of whistles, horns, snappers and curlers were given out and confetti was showered upon the graceful forms of the dancers. The music was furnished by Gallagher's seven-piece orchestra. The party was chaperoned by Dean Mitchell, Mrs. Gingerich, Mrs. H. M. Crooks, Dean Montgomery, and Miss Lanier. The decorations, the condition of the floor, and the placing of the orchestra on the main floor were all improvements and show that future dances in the gym can be looked forward to with pleasure.

TENNIS TEAMS IN ACTION

Mount Pleasant won the first series of practise tennis matches with Alma, held on the Alma courts last Friday. The uncertainty of the weather made play doubtful until the last minute but enough rain did not fall to hurt the courts.

Taite ran up against the crack Normal star, Calkins. In two sets of rather ragged tennis, Calkins managed to edge out Taite by a close score. Calkins won because of his steadiness and ability to keep hammering them back. Taite played midsummer tennis with spring form and as a result made a great many errors.

James and Fry were defeated by Beddows and Lazeralle by scores of 7-5 and 9-7, another close match.

James defeated Beddows 6-1, 7-5, James playing some very good tennis. Fry defeated H. Beddows 6-2, 2-6, 6-3, in a slow match. Fry has not had the opportunity to get any practise thus far in the season.

Taite and Vliet were defeated by Calkins and Beddows, 6-1, 6-2, the Normalites having things their own way most of the time.

Vliet was defeated by Lazeralle in a close match 6-4, 2-6, 6-4.

Alma will play the Normal at Mt. Pleasant on May 9.

MAROON AND CREAM

The Maroon & Cream is nearly ready for the press. A very few more days will see it out of the hands of the staff and into the hands of the printers, where it will be printed and bound inside of a month. For the last two weeks the staff has been hard at work getting copy into shape and finishing up the last few pictures that had to be taken.

This year's book promises to be artistically as well as editorially correct. A very light colored border will be used so that it will not detract from the type matter and cuts on each page. This border will enhance the beauty of the pictures and will show them off to their best advantage. The cover is to be black with a bronze panel in the very center.

Barring upsets in the printer's dope, it is fairly certain that the Maroon and Cream this year will be off the presses, dried, and in the hands of the student body before the week of exams. Fry has made it his aim throughout the year to have all the copy to the printers by the first week of May so that it will be possible to have the book out earlier than usual, so that all settlements might be cleaned up before the end of the term.

GLEE CLUBS GIVE JOINT CONCERT

Pleasing Program Rendered By Men's and Women's Organizations.

Having successfully toured the upper part of the state on the concert platform, the Alma College Glee Club on Thursday evening, April 24, gave their program to the students of the college and to any of the town people who cared to attend. They were assisted in this by the Girl's Glee Club and by Miss Oneita Stevens, who took the place of the regular accompanist of the Club. The others were all regular participants on the regular itinerary.

The men created an atmosphere in their first number when they came swinging onto the platform with all the self assurance needed to put their audience at ease. And the first song was well chosen to put every one in the best of spirits. The men sang every number well. The game may have affected a few voices in the afternoon, but we venture the opinion that the event put the edge back on any that may have been inclined to falter.

The girls were resplendent in their colorful gowns and their beaming smiles. (Just aside we wonder what their Director says in the course of a selection that brings those smiles to the face of every girl who looks at him.) The "Day in Venice" or at least that part of it which they sang was especially beautiful, melodically and harmonically. We can only regret that in a desire to make money a publisher would place such mediocre words to such a divine melody, a melody which the author evidently intended for instrumental music. Still it is beautiful enough for almost any purpose and the girls did sing it well.

If there were a star of the evening, that star must have been Mrs. Beausang. Never has she played with such accuracy and such sympathy before an Alma audience. The Berceuse from "Jocelyn" has been played and played, but Mrs. Beausang showed us something new about it Thursday evening. On another occasion we should have commented on some of the other numbers which were especially well done, but memories of the "Berceuse" crowd out the other recollections.

Mr. Surrill's readings received their deserved applause. Evidently Mr. Surrill knows the French Canadians and their lingo. The evening wouldn't have been complete without those readings. They furnished a humor which the program otherwise would have lacked.

Mr. Sharrar we have seen before as the old man and he never fails to interest. The little operetta shall we call it? in which he took part some people will remember as the gem of the evening. Certainly it was original and effective.

No one can doubt that the Glee Club this year has been a decided success. It is a hazy glimpse, let us hope, of the musical vista beyond for Alma. We need these sort of things. They make college life complete and Alma has lacked, sadly lacked, musical events. We were glad for the college song, written by Mr. Hamilton and accompanied by him on this occasion. We need more of that, too. When one realizes that Alma has not even an original Alma Mater one welcomes such contributions and one wishes that something could be done to stimulate a further interest in music and in college songs. Our commendation is for Mr. Hamilton, our hats are off for the Glee Club. They deserve every ounce of support that Alma can give them!

Miss Rose B. Phelps visited her home, Manton, over the week end. She had as her guest Miss Wilhelmine Ritter. The two report a very enjoyable time.

Student Council Issues Set Rules

The flag rush last fall which ended in such a fiasco was the second striking example of the results of lack of insufficient regulations of inter class activities which Alma has experienced within a comparatively recent date. Consequently the Student Council took up the work last winter of drawing up rules to govern the annual flag rush and tug of war. The regulations have been completed and have been approved by the Faculty. They will govern all such contests in the future, and they are printed below in order that all may get familiar with them before field day.

Rules governing Soph-Frosh Flag Rush.

1 The rush shall take place the first Saturday of the school year.

2 No Soph-Frosh activities including kidnapping etc., shall take place before Friday noon of the first week, and these activities shall cease a half hour before the rush takes place.

3 The Freshmen shall furnish the pole the dimensions of which shall be such that when it is placed in the ground it will be eight inches in diameter at the surface of the ground. The pole shall be fifteen feet long.

4 The Freshmen shall place the pole on Davis Field by Friday noon.

5 The Sophomores shall erect the pole on Davis Field.

6 The Sophomores shall furnish the flag which shall be of cloth only. The flag shall be no less than a foot square and shall be tacked to the pole on one edge only and placed not more than ten feet from the ground.

7 The rush shall last no longer than ten minutes.

8 There shall be three upper classmen to act as fair play judges to prevent such unfair tactics as slugging etc. The athletic coach or coaches shall act as referee. The referee shall start and stop the rush.

9 There shall be no Sophomore anchored to the pole with his feet off the ground.

10 A class violating the kidnapping rule shall forfeit the rush.

Rules for Tug-of-War.

1 The Freshmen shall choose the general location on the river and the Sophomores shall have the choice of side.

2 There shall be no holes dug other than those which can be dug with the heel.

3 There shall be no tampering with the ground on either side before the time of the tug-of-war.

4 The Freshmen shall furnish the rope.

5 There shall be no kidnapping in connection with the tug-of-war.

6 There shall be ten men on a side. All Freshmen or Sophomores are eligible except those who are disqualified by the coach, or ruled out by the Student Council.

7 All of the men on the losing side shall go thru the river.

8 The anchor men shall not be allowed to let out rope.

9 The tug-of-war shall take place on the regular field day program.

10 A class violating the kidnapping rule shall forfeit the tug-of-war.

FIELD DAY

Field Day will be held Friday, May 4, under the direction of the Student Council. The program of the day is as follows: Field events start at 9:30, lunch at 12:00, Tug-of-War at 2:00, Band Concert at 4:30, Y. M. and Y. W., All-College Party at 8:00, and the Cap Bonfire at 11:30 P. M.

Roll will be taken and any Freshmen not present will be required to wear their pots the rest of the year. The Freshmen will have charge of the fire.

LIBRARY NOTES

On display in the library showcase this week are many colored plates, and many books dealing with the subject of fishing. Trout fishing seems to be an alluring pastime at about this season of the year, and lovers of this sport long for a vacation time to arrive.

ALMA TROUNCES THE OLIVET NINE

Catherman Pitches Brilliantly;
Alma Hands Opening Game to Albion.

Not only did "Rus" Catherman secure revenge on Olivet Saturday, and sweet revenge at that, for his defeat by the Crimson last year, but the Alma collegians laid to rest an ancient hoodoo in handing the Congregationalists a 15 to 4 diamond-beating. It was the worst lacing that the Crimson diamond men have taken in years.

In every department of the game the Alma aggregation co-ordinated in fine shape. It secured good pitching. It gave a display of good fielding and when it came to pounding the pill all kinds of hits were shown from homers by Johnston and Rathsborg down to scratch singles.

Campbell made a switch in the Maroon and Cream lineup for the fray, sending Hartwick behind the bat, McDonald to third, and Rathsborg to McDonald's outer garden. Wright started in right field, but before the fray ended Shaver was back in his old place. The changes evidently had the desired effect as the team played a bang-up game from start to finish.

Catherman was going great guns, and held the Crimson to four hits until the ninth inning, when with a score of 15 to 2 he eased off considerably and Olivet was able to shove another run across the plate in the closing chapter.

Alma put it on ice in the opening frame. Hickerson walked. Carty bunted perfectly and was safe at first. Hickerson and Carty worked a double steal. Welthoelder doubled and both scored. Johnston struckout. Wright singled and Welthoelder scored. Rathsborg patted out a homer. McDonald flied out to short. Catherman walked. Hartwick drove one for three sacks and Catherman (Continued on page two)

Ypsilanti To Play Here Next Saturday

Coach Campbell's Alma College M. I. A. A. Champs will meet the Michigan State Normal aggregation here Saturday in a Michigan Intercollegiate game that is an important one for the local outfit, especially in view of the fact that the locals have started their season with a marred record and must play stellar baseball during the balance of the season if they hope to cop off the M. I. A. A. rag for the second successive year.

Michigan State is not believed to show the strength that it had last year in the pitching department but in all other ways is expected to show an outfit that is every bit as strong, if not stronger than a season ago. As a result it is expected that the Teachers will force Alma to the limit to win. Ferenz, star of the Teachers heaving corps, is expected to be the hurler who will be sent to the mound to oppose Captain Hickerson's diamond men.

Alma is expected to show greater defensive strength this week than has been shown at any time during present season, and with the coming of still warmer weather it is believed that the pitching staff will show to better advantage. The hitting of the team is also showing an improvement, and if good hitting, good fielding and good hurling are had Saturday there should be no great doubt as to the outcome of the struggle. It is seldom, however, that this desired end can be achieved in baseball and the uncertainties which arise in the game as a result are what make it popular, and the fray with the Teachers, as a result should prove a popular one with the fans.

A TREATISE ON SOCIETIES

Every college must have its societies, sororities or its fraternities. They should form an indispensable element in the life and progress of the college which they represent. They should form the satisfaction of a social need and should be an organization whose sole purpose is the betterment of its individuals in relation to the college and to their brother students.

That should be the ultimate ideal and scope of any society. In such a position it would be of inestimable help and service to its Alma Mater. A society should not exist only for its own good and concerned only with its own problems. A society has definitely failed in its mission and purpose, if it has instilled into the hearts of its members that society matters come first and their Alma Mater second. Above all things, the College stands first and its problems should be given first consideration. Where there is a matter in which the society and the college conflict, in which it is necessary to choose between, there should not be the slightest hesitancy. If the College must give way before the society, then such a society has become a menace to the welfare of the school and should be abolished.

A society is commendable in so long as it serves the college. When a society has risen to a position in which they think that they can dominate and control every situation and phase of College life, where society politics enter into every election, where the best man is given little consideration, then such societies have indeed a perverted notion of what their service to the College should be. Rivalry is a good thing—as long as it remains a mere incentive—but when it goes beyond that—disaster for all ensues.

ALMA TROUNCES OLIVET NINE

cashed. Hickerson tripled counting Hartwick. Carty grounded out.

In the second Welthoelder hit and came home on Johnston's circuit drive.

In the third Olivet counted three. Mason walked. LaMont singled. Vogel sacrificed to first. Dowe was safe on McDonald's error and Mason and LaMont scored. McDonald threw low to first on Riggly and Dowe went to third on the play, and then stole home.

In the fourth Welthoelder was safe on an error, stole and scored on Johnston's double.

In the fifth Catherman was safe at first on an error. Hartwick sacrificed him to second. He scored on Hickerson's single.

In the ninth Rathsborg walked. Catherman was safe on Boul's error. Both scored on Hickerson's triple. Olivet counted one in this inning. Boul and Kingman singled. Mackey hit into a double play. Day singled and Boul scored.

Two bad innings in which Albion scored 9 runs on a total of five hits, with the kind assistance of costly errors, sent the Alma collegians down to a 10 to 7 defeat in the opening game of the season here Tuesday.

Except for these two bad spasms and a like bad inning by the Albion team, the tilt might have been recognized as a baseball game.

Alma counted three in the first on a base on balls, two errors, and Crittenden's triple, which at best should never have gone for more than a single. Shield's poor judgement let the pill get away.

Albion scored in the second on a walk and double, a real honest to goodness run that did not have a present label on it. Alma added one in this session. Kirker was safe on Watchpocket's error, was sacrificed along by Hickerson and poled home on Carty's drive to short which pulled Tamblin out of position so that he could not make a play.

In the third a walk, error, a double, single and sacrifice counted 4 for Albion.

Alma tied it in the fifth Johnson drove one to right that Shields let go for three sacks. It should have been an easy out. He counted on Crit's sacrifice.

The balloon went up right in the seventh. Bell opened the inning with a walk and Albion batted clear around so that Bell got a second bat in the inning. One base on balls, two rank errors, and three singles counted 5 runs and the game.

Alma made a dying effort in the ninth that yielded two runs. With one away Hickerson singled and stole. Carty was safe on Watchpocket's error. Welthoelder shot a long one to the outfield and Hickerson scored. Johnston singled to right and Carty counted, Catherman grounded out.

Neither team gave any brilliant display of baseball for teams that are considered at title contenders and its a safe bet that if either goes through to the title they will be forced to show a far different brand of diamond game than was shown Tuesday.

Business Building

THE selling of commodities is fundamental in every business, and selling life insurance affords the maximum of satisfaction and remuneration. For the life insurance salesman is a business builder and finds innumerable ways to serve the community and make himself indispensable in the conduct of modern affairs.

The life insurance salesman is not only a business builder but he is in business for himself, creating a competence permanent and continuous. It is the best paid work for those who are ambitious and willing to work, and who have the character and stamina necessary to stamp their individuality upon the business and on their community.

The traditions and practices of the JOHN HANCOCK are such that the college graduate can take a peculiar pride in representing this company. You are liable to remain in the business you enter on leaving college. Before making a definite decision inquire into life insurance as a career. Write, "Agency Department."

Largest Fiduciary Institution in New England

The First Electrochemist

NITROUS oxide, according to the science of a century ago, was "the principle of contagion when respired by animals in the minutest quantities." Mere say-so.

Imaginative yet skeptical Humphrey Davy, who believed in experiment rather than in opinion, "respired" it and lived.

It was this restless desire to test beliefs that made him one of the founders of modern science. Electricity was a new force a century ago. Davy used it to decompose potash, soda, and lime into potassium, sodium, and calcium, thus laying the foundations of electrochemistry. With a battery of two thousand plates he produced the first electric arc—harbinger of modern electric illumination and of the electric furnace.

Czar Alexander I and Napoleon met on a raft to sign the Treaty of Tilsit while Davy was revealing the effects of electricity on matter. "What is Europe?" said Alexander. "We are Europe."

The treaty was at that time an important political event, framed by two selfish monarchs for the sole purpose of furthering their personal interests. Contrast with it the unselfish efforts of Sir Humphrey Davy. His brilliant work has resulted in scores of practical applications of electrolysis in industry and a wealth of chemical knowledge that benefit not himself but the entire world.

In the Research Laboratories of the General Electric Company, for instance, much has been done to improve the electric furnace (a development of Davy's arc) and new compounds have been electrochemically produced, which make it easier to cast high-conductivity copper, to manufacture special tool steels, and to produce carbides for better arc lamps.

"The doors of the college are closed and locked at midnight, so everyone must be in at that time, as roll call is taken the first thing in the morning. If you do not answer at roll call, you have to attend chapel. Of course, with thousands of students in the university, it is impossible for the professors to see that all the students' regulations are kept. To oversee this, men are hired, and they are called 'bab-dogs' by the students."

The lecture was concluded by the showing of views of the buildings and grounds.

"Income tax," grumbled the carpenter, as he got busy with his hammer.

The regular meeting of the Zeta Sigma Society was called to order on April 23 by President Foster and the Freshman roll call was answered by a quotation from Tolstoi. The society was lead in prayer by William Woodhouse. The literary program consisted of an exceedingly interesting paper on the life and works of Tolstoi by Stirling Shoemaker. After the usual business had been dispensed with, the society adjourned.

MEET MT. PLEASANT NORMAL
Next Wednesday afternoon the Alma College baseball team will meet the Mt. Pleasant Normal at Mt. Pleasant in the first fray of the year between these two aggregations.

Mt. Pleasant boasts of another strong team this year and is being given a high grade of pitching by the new box artists that Coach Parker has trotted out for the world to gaze upon. Alma will be forced to show her very best wares if she expects to stop the Teachers. The team should be much improved with another week of work and will undoubtedly be able to show plenty of pep and fight against the Isabella team.

KAPPA IOTA

Roll call of the Kappa Iota Literary society was the name of a favorite painting and an interesting fact about it. After the short business meeting the time was given over to Miss Wilhelmine Ritter, who together with the late Dean Elizabeth Roberts, founded the society. Miss Ritter talked about Miss Roberts, her personality and her kindness and consideration for others. When she had finished, the new members felt that they really knew the woman whom Kappa Iota likes to honor as a patron saint. At this meeting, a lovely portrait of Elizabeth Roberts was hung in the society room. The Kappa Iota was honored by a gift of "The Sistine Madonna" which was presented by Miss Ritter. This painting has invaluable associations, for it was given to Miss Ritter by Grace Dodge, the National Y. W. C. A. president.

ALUMNI NEWS

The class of 1907 mourns the loss of the first member to be called by death from their group, Mayme Hinds Hayes. The Class of 1907 consisted of Paul Allured, Gretta Bagley, Earl Casterlin, Susie Hawes Gaunt, Minnie Kinnaird, Olive Smith and Mayme Hinds Hayes.

Miss Esther Friedrich, class of 1921, has been awarded the fellowship at the University of Michigan for next year. This is a great honor, and we wish "Freddy" good luck.

C. M. Street, class of 1918, has just accepted a position as Superintendent of Schools at Jonesville, Michigan. He will take up the work there in September.

In this nice weather the girl's gym class have been taking tramps into the woods—no wonder men turn tramps.
