Dr. Dunning's Four Services Leave Very Deep Impression

Second Sermon, Tuesday, On "Religion As An Art"

Dr. John Wirt Dunning captured the entire student body with his four days, last week, of special religious chapel services. Besides being an alumnus and trustee of the College, Dr. Dunning has now become a close friend to every one of the present student body whom he met.

His Tuesday morning sermon was on the theme, "Religion is an Art, not an Argument."

Whole eras have been spent in arguing on religious questions but it is not the duty of the religious person to defend but to proclaim his faith. Art, like Beauty, needs no excuse for being. In a religious argument it is not Christianity but the person arguing who is on trial.

There are three realms of religion: the true, the good, and the beautiful. Argument is truth but Art is the living truth, nothing is Art if it is untrue. Art, to be Art, must be good, for example, the plays and the books which have the longest success are those which are clean, the smutty stuff soon passes. The good is not secondary to the true and is in itself the beautiful, nothing has real beauty which is not good.

There is a danger that religion will degenerate into a science in this mechanical age when the Bible is met with the query "Is it scientifically accurate?" Tolstol wrote, "My religion is not scientific or philosophical but an art, imperfect, but pressing on to be a Christian." The path to God lies through Art; arguing against religion is out because religion is life, an art.

Must one believe in a creed? The creeds are the human expressions of wonderful thoughts of religion. The disciples had none of the creeds were are given yet who can believe they are not with Christ? Some persons say that Religion is not scientific but no art can be reduced to scientific facts. The Arts belong to the realm of the achievement of the beautiful. Christ lives because his religion is not a philosophy or a science but an Art.

The alternative to this questioning would be to standardize religion in a groove. A group of the greatest scientific minds of England met at Lambeth and attempted to classify religion but failed. How then can a layman hope to accomplish this?

Education is asleep, concerning itself with I.Q.s, method, pedagogy and the like but it neglects the great human problems of life. Would the world be better off if we didn't try to explain religion? Religion is a conscious effort to enter into the Life of God and half of nineteen centuries has been spent trying to explain How? Any of our definitions of God are necessarily limited by our human capacities. The Christian accepts religion as an art. The following of the dictates of the eye and heart as a creed has the childlike simplicity which marks great art. Religion must have a greater attraction when

BOOSTERS ELECT "BUCK" HINSHAW CHAIRMAN

Last night the Executive Committee of the Booster's Club met to fill vacancies left among their officers. Ronald "Buck" Hinshaw was elected to the vacancy of Chairman left by Ford Graham, who resigned because of heavy outside schedule. John Anderson was elected Vice-Chairman to fill the vacancy left by the graduation of Charles Miller. Katherine "Sis" Campbell was elected Secretary, the office vacated by Edith Davis because of outside work. All the elections were by unanimous ballot.

Defines "A Gentleman" In the Light of Christ's Teachings

Dr. Dunning's Wednesday morning sermon was on "A Gentleman." It is extremely hard to find the limits of a word through definition. "Gentleman" means entirely different things to a native of Cameroon, an Englishman, a classical Greek or a modern American. Perhaps the best definition has been given by George Bernard Shaw who says that a gentleman is one who "puts back into life more than he takes out." There is a phrase which links "a gentleman and a scholar." King James declared that a Presbyterian was no gentleman, looking into the direction of a rebellious Scotch church who had the democratic idea of freedom for everyone. Charles Lamb said of Pafe "though a Presbyterian and brought up a merchant, he is one of the finest of gentlemen." In this quotation we see more nearly a parasite than a gentleman. Although Shaw says he is no Christian one can see by his definition he has caught the idea of Jesus.

Thus the gentleman must first take something out of life. We are all entitled, within our limits, to acquire not money but skill, knowledge, love, power and kindred qualities. We must get before we can give. The trouble with the church today is that there are those who having taken from life are not willing to put back in and so must be carried along the way by some other. Everyone is

GELSTON ASKS FOR STUDENTS SUPPORT

Friday morning Rev. Willis L. Gelston of the First Presbyterian Church of Alma had the chapel service and invited the students to help participate in a county-wide campaign in the cause of Christianity. He asked their co-operation with their attendance and participation in all services where they could be of any use. The campaign concerns almost all of the evangelical protestant churches of the county.

HERE IS ORIGINAL STUDENT CONSTITUTION, 1891, WHICH GIVES EQUAL GROUP AND CLASS REPRESENTATION

In these days of constitutional revisions it is interesting to go back into the early history of the college and find out how the students began to be considered part of the body of their own government. The form of student government which we print here is taken from the college catalogue of 1889-90. It is probably the earliest such document extant in the history of the college and it is quite interesting to compare it to the governing constitution under which we are at present working. The fact that the students now largely govern themselves is evident in that no reference to form of government is made in the current college catalog, the natural inference being that in this, as in other modern institutions, the students govern themselves.

FORM OF GOVERNMENT.

The students are made sharers in the government of the College, thru the College Council, which consists of the President and a representative from each class and society. The President, who is the representative of the Faculty, is the presiding officer.

Articles of Agreement

Between the Faculty and Students
The aim of these Articles of Agreement is that Education which comes from sharing in and submit-ing to a Representative Government.

There will be a reunion of Alma alumni in Chicago in the middle of March in conjunction with the meeting of the North Central Association. The President's office would be glad to receive word of any alumni or old students in Chicago or the vicinity.

LUNDBOM TELLS OF GEO. WASHINGTON

Yesterday morning the chapel speaker was Rev. Carl Lundbom of Grace Church of Saginaw, who spoke on George Washington. As his text Rev. Lundbom used, "I will send thee and I will be with thee."

History shows us that the workings of this world are governed by a higher power who, in the time of need, has always raised up some one of his creatures to meet the need. Such men have been Noah, Abraham, Moses, and getting into secular history, Miltiades, Themistocles, the half-legendary Horatio of Rome, Charles Martel, Jeanne d'Arc and in the time of need of America, George Washington.

George's childhood was not much different from other boys of his time except that he began early to form the character which later developed into his power of leadership. He had a superior strength and a love of the right. Though we seek to find the beginnings of his climb to fame the accounts of his early age are meagre

DEBATE TEAM WINS 2 OF 3 LAST WEEK

Three Alma debate teams were in action last week. The Negative Varsity Squad won a 3-0 decision over Calvin at Stanton Wednesday night. On Thursday the Freshman Negative lost to an experienced M.S.C. team at Carson City, while Friday night at Shephard the Alma Affirmative won the audience decision over the Michigan State Squad.

Barker Brown and Donald Blackstone in their last experiences in intercollegiate debating turned in a victory before a good sized audience of 150 people in the Court House at Stanton. Leo Beters and Peter DeVisser upheld the Affirmative for Calvin.

Scots Drop Two Close Ones To Albion and Kazoo, 36-34; 26-24

Hachadorian and the Schau Twins Too Much for the Scots to Handle

Methodists Eke Out 2-Point Win After Three Over- times

Following a well-established Alma custom, the Scots led Kalamazoo until the last two minutes of the game on the Hornets' floor Friday night, and then stood back and watched Kerroo tie the score and then win, 26-24. Mike Hachadorian, who made two last minute baskets to beat Alma last year, entered the game with four minutes to go and made five points to tie the score. Then in the last minute, M. Schau took a long shot off the backboard and pushed in the winning basket with one hand.

Hachadorian's two baskets were remarkable, to say the least. Both were one-handed shots from back of the foul circle—the kind that can't be guarded and have no business going in. But the fact remains that they made, and Alma lost another game.

Borton and Kahn starred for Alma, while the Schau brothers shared honors with Hachadorian. Maynard Schau was high point man with five baskets. Borton and Dawson made eight points apiece for the Scots.

The first basket of the game was a typical Borton shot—he batted the ball in with one hand.

Alma looked like a million-dollar team until Hachadorian went into the game and raised the stakes.

SOPH SHUFFLE SET FOR SATURDAY NITE

The annual Sophomore Shuffle will be given by the Class of '34 on Saturday evening, Feb. 27th. Preparations are under way for one of the biggest parties of the year. It will be held in Wright Hall, and the music is to be furnished by Eddie Baker, of Saginaw. This band is making its initial appearance here, and is highly recommended by the Saginaw students, attending Alma, who have heard it. Tickets are now on sale by various members of the Sophomore class.

It took Albion three overtime periods to do it, but they finally managed to squeeze out a 36-34 victory over Alma here last Wednesday evening, and kept their record against the Scots perfect for this year. It was a close, hard-fought battle, and the score was tied no less than 15 times. A long shot by Risley from back of the center of the floor gave Albion the winning points.

Albion jumped off to a four-point lead as the game started on baskets by Risley and Krapp, but Dawson and Crawford got buckets to tie it up. Chapman and Kahn got short shots to make it 6-6. Rice swished one in from the center of the floor. Dawson tied it up with two foul shots. Krapp sank a free throw. Dawson got a basket from the foul line and Williams made a short shot. Krapp put Albion one point ahead with two tip-in shots, but Borton tied the score with a foul shot. Chapman dribbled in for a short shot, and Borton got a long pass from Crawford for a short one. Risley and Crawford made a foul shot apiece. Chapman made a freesty shot from the corner, and Williams squared up things again with a follow-up shot. The half ended 18-18.

After four minutes of the second half, Krapp got a foul shot. Crawford matched it. Risley made a basket and Dawson a foul shot. Krapp got a foul and Borton tied the score with a nice short shot. Two foul shots by Chapman and a basket by Williams made it 24-24. Alma got a four-point lead on baskets by Crawford and Dawson, but Risley made a basket and two foul shots to tie the score again just before the end of the regulation time.

After both sides missed shots in the first overtime period, Borton was fouled and made one of two shots. Rice sank one from back of the center, but Wehrly evened things up with a foul shot. In the second extra period, Wehrly got a short shot, and Risley matched it. In the final session, Wehrly made another short shot, but Rice made one from the foul circle. Then Risley made his momentous contribution to the Albion cause and ended the agony.

Risley was the big star of the evening with thirteen points. Rice, who appeared as cool as the well-known cucumber no matter how hot the game was, also played a good game. Scotty MacKahn was Alma's shining light. Dawson was high-point man with three baskets and three fouls.

After many years of fruitless search, Carl Williams has at last found a basketball player shorter than himself. He and Chapman had some nice hand-to-hand battles.

Harry Wehrly tried hard to be a hero, but Risley outdid him. Harry

SCOTS PLAY OLIVET CHAMPIONS TONIGHT

Tonight our Scots take on Olivet on the home floor, and we'd like to see the boys hold a lead for 40 minutes just once. It would seem as though 38 or 39 isn't quite enough in this league. So far the Crimson have won every Conference game, and have the title all sewed up, but it would look nice if the boys could put one over on them. Incidentally, we need victories over Olivet and Hope to finish the season with a 500 average in the M.I.A.A. It's true, as the girls sing, that we play basketball when we play basketball—so let's play basketball for forty minutes, and show Milankov and the Highland Park gang that the Fighting Presbyterians still have a little fight left.

"WHAT IS WORTH WHILE"

"What is Worth While?" was the theme of Dr. Dunning's chapel talk on Thursday morning. Jesus pointed the way to the attainment of this end, "I come that ye might have life and have it to the full." There has been written a story by an English clergyman which makes up from his later life appropriate beginnings for the life of Christ. He had the problems and habits of young people. His life as a youth seemed strange as compared to that of his playmates but he was building toward his great destiny. He knew his Bible well and quoted often. Isaiah's prophecy in regard to the Saviour was perhaps his favorite and he was always measuring his life and picking out ideas and things to do. He feels for young people making their decisions. He still gazes on and loves mankind especially the young. He is afraid for our choices for he has realized the toy-ness of many human goals and has a greater good to offer. Tolstoi wrote a gripping story of a man who wishing to have all the land a man needs, journeyed to a land where for a sum one might have all the land he could walk around in a day. His covetousness drove him to run to his death and he finally acquired all the land a man needs, 7 feet of earth.

It is not length of life that is worth while. Methuselah had length of days but that is the only thing for which he is important. Why should we wish for attainment of old age when our life is infinitesimal in the world-eternity. The eternal life of Jesus was based on its content, not its span. Life has two sides, the here and the hereafter. We must look at these two pictures through the stereoscope of faith in order to get the whole picture. Jesus showed that the worth of life is in seeking God.

Tiberius, though with vast power and wealth, had no joy comparable to that of his little-known, persecuted contemporary, Jesus of Nazareth who always spoke of his "joy." There is a vast distinction to be made between happiness and pleasure.

Success is another achievement thought worth while by many. Self-esteem is a fraction of which achievement is the numerator and pretensions the denominator. Its value may be made greater by decreasing the pretensions or by increasing the achievements. The student must reach out for the highest value and his achievements must measure up to his ambitions. Jesus said, "I am come that they might have life evernew." Paul took him wholly and Jesus did for the life of Paul what the gods did for Pygmalion's creation Galatea, brought it to its highest fulfillment. The people who are happiest are those who carry the crosses of the world.

Jesus opens the way to illimitable growth, answering all questions which crowd down from infinite space. When anything has ceased to grow it has begun to die. Growth is knowing the thrill of growing in ideas and ideals, feeling the sense of increasing powers. May we, in the days of our youth, hear Christ as he passes by that we may for the rest of our lives grow.

FACULTY DOINGS

President Crooks, Dean Florence Steward and Dr. Dunning spoke last Wednesday at the Presbyterian Retreat of the Saginaw Presbytery, held at the Midland Clubhouse.

Professor Robert W. Clack spoke on the possibilities of the present China-Japanese conflict before the Mt. Pleasant Rotary Club last Monday noon.

President Crooks last Thursday attended, at Lansing, a meeting of the Synod's committee on Christian Education. Friday he spoke at the Teacher's Institute at Alpena.

ALUMNUS AT WASH.
BI-CENTENNIAL

Washington, D. C.—Dr. George J. Brilmyer, an alumnus, '13, Alma College, Alma Michigan, represented that college at the Bicentennial Convocation of the George Washington University held in Constitution Hall, the auditorium of the Daughters of the American Revolution, on the evening of Feb. 22. Dr. Brilmyer is associate professor of Pathology at the George Washington University.

In honoring George Washington on this occasion, representatives of colleges and universities throughout the country and the Department of Superintendence of the National Education Association, joined with the University founded in the District of Columbia in furtherance of his expressed hope, bearing his name, and dedicated to his educational ideals.

The convocation address was delivered by Dr. Cloyd Heck Marvin, President of the George Washington University and Chairman of the District of Columbia Bicentennial Commission.

The convocation is designated by the Bicentennial Commission as a collateral patriotic event of the National Capital's program of participation in the Bicentennial celebration. It was also scheduled as an official part of the program of the Department of Superintendence of the National Education Association and was attended by several thousand members assembled in Washington.

The winter convocation of the George Washington University is traditionally held on Washington's birthday. This year, marking as it did, the opening of the nationwide Bicentennial observance, Feb. 22 was a day of extraordinary moment in the University calendar, and the University commemorated it by conferring honorary degrees upon a considerable number of its graduates who, through attainment in their several fields, merit such distinction. The list of those so honored includes graduates who have won distinction in the fields of science, education, public service, statesmanship, diplomacy, law, medicine, engineering, banking and industry. They came to Washington from all parts of the country to be present at the convocation exercises.

The George Washington University was founded in 1821 in furtherance of the hope and project of the first President of the United States for a university located in the Capital of the Nation "to which the youth of fortune and talents from all parts thereof might be sent for the completion of their Education in all the branches of polite literature;—in arts and sciences, — in acquiring knowledge in the principles of Politics & good Government." With Washington's desire in mind, John Quincy Adams, the Secretary of State, and all the other members of the Cabinet, together with thirty-two members of Congress, contributed to the fund for the purchase of land and the development of the institution. Three years later when the first commencement was held, President Monroe headed the eminent company attending the exercises.

In the evolving of its curriculum the University has sought to develop opportunities in the National Capital in the various phases of education as set forth by George Washington.

BOARD OF C. E. WILL BROADCAST ON KDKA

Greetings to more than 27,000 undergraduates, alumni and faculty of 52 Presbyterian colleges and 40,000 Presbyterian students at 47 university centers from the Presbyterian Board of Christian Education will be carried over the air from station KDKA in Pittsburgh, Pa., Saturday evening, March 12.

The large group of local students who plan to listen in will hear Dr. Hugh Thomas Kerr, president of the Board and former moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, U.S.A., offer a message of cheer, encouragement and appreciation to college students, Presbyterian university pastors and Westminster groups throughout the U. S. Eastern colleges and universities will receive personal greetings at 11:15 P. M. Eastern Time; Central United States institutions will tune in at 10:15 Central Time; the mid-western group at 9:15, Mountain Time; and the Pacific Coast schools at 8:15 Pacific Time.

Other program features of the hour's broadcast will include songs by the glee club of Washington and Jefferson College, Washington, Pa., and a brief address by Dr. William Chalmers Covert, of Philadelphia, general secretary of the Presbyterian Board of Christian Education.

Character and leadership development is the aim of the 52 Presbyterian colleges and 13 theological seminaries in the maintenance of which the Presbyterian Board of Christian Education co-operates. The schools are not sectarian, all faiths being represented in their student bodies. Notwithstanding the great growth of state supported institutions the steadily maintained attendance at Christian colleges indicate that the smaller school is keeping its strong and unique appeal.

Through the Department of University Work the Presbyterian Church maintains 64 university pastors and church workers who minister to Presbyterian students at 47 university centers. These pastors offer understanding comradeship to students at a disturbing period in their intellectual and spiritual lives. Since the young people of our schools and colleges are to be civic and also church leaders within the next few years the Presbyterian Church is endeavoring to prepare them for positions of Christian responsibility.

COUNCIL DANCE

The frosh game last Wednesday was hard for most people to endure for there was a Council dance scheduled immediately following. Beside most people had seen all the basketball they wanted in the Albion game Brownie's orchestra wasn't able to get going until after ten but soon made up for their late start, they seem to get better every time they play. It was one of the best evenings of entertainment the Council has given us; everyone was too hoarse to talk so they all danced. Feature of the evening was the Scotch-twinning of Menech and Cameron.

1. Verdict of Fact. The Verdict of Fact shall state the facts of the case as ascertained by the jury. This verdict shall be agreed to unanimously.

2. Verdict of Opinion. The Verdict of Opinion shall state the penalty. This verdict must be agreed to by a majority.

Both verdicts shall be in writing and certified by the Foreman.

ARTICLE X

Right of Appeal

Appeals may be taken to the Faculty.

ARTICLE XI

Jury Limitations

1. No decision of the jury shall be valid if it conflicts with laws or rules enacted by the Board of Trustees or by the Faculty.

2. The President is the executive officer, and although he may at his discretion modify the penalty, he shall in no case impose a penalty heavier than that fixed by the jury, and he shall have no vote in the matter and he shall have no vote in the matter.

ARTICLE XII

Duties of the Jury

It shall be the duty of the jury to administer justice. To this end they shall ascertain the facts of any case presented to them by every honorable means. The jurisdiction of the jury shall cover all matters relating to the peace, order, rights, security and good name of the College community.

ARTICLE XIII

Amendments

1. The two parties to the adoption of amendment and annulment of these articles are the Faculty and the students.

These articles shall stand adopted if the two parties agree by a majority vote of each.

2. Amendments may be proposed by a majority vote of either party, and at the expiration of one week's notice to the other party, they shall be adopted if a majority of each party then vote for so doing.

3. Either party may decide by a three-fourths majority vote to give notice to the other party of its intention to withdraw from these Articles of Agreement, and at the expiration of four weeks from the giving of such notice may by another three-fourths majority vote to affirm its withdrawal. The administration of justice shall then at once revert to the Faculty.

It comes in the simple universal symbolism of poetry.

Theologies and science have added much to Christianity which makes it unattractive but a great many of puzzling church doctrines are not in the Bible. The simple faith is the best; the definitions should be left to God to determine.

made a foul shot in the first overtime period to tie the score, and he made a basket in each of the next two to give Alma a lead. Risley, however, proved himself the man of the hour with his last second baskets that finally meant victory for the Methodists.

And speaking of Methodists, four of the Albion regulars—Risley, Chapman, Rice and Gearhart—are sons of ministers. Rice is the son of the famous Dr. M. S. Rice, of the Central M. E. Church of Detroit.

met Donald Curry and Robert Hurley, of Michigan State, in the High School auditorium at Carson. Both the State debaters were Juniors, and despite the efforts of Alma's team the more experienced men were able to secure the audience's favor 22-15. However, both Freshmen gave a good account and will be a real help next year.

At Shepherd High School Friday night Robert King and Jack Williams won by a single vote, the decision over the M.S.C. team composed of Kenneth Anderson and Paul Kindig. Incidentally this team had earlier in the season given Albion their first League defeat in their last thirteen or fourteen engagements. As both Alma's victories were in League debates Alma finished well up with a percentage of .750.

This week Friday the Alma Affirmative will meet a Negative team from Detroit City in the last intercollegiate debate of the year, and hopes are high to finish with another victory.

Lundbom Tells of George Washington

indeed. His father died when George was eleven, and it was his mother who greatly helped to mold his character into its noble, bold and true form, intrepid and fearless, withstanding the fiery trials of youth. Little did his mother know of the destinies which lay ahead for her son.

Washington became great because of the environment in which he was placed. Religion was stamped deep into his mind and soul, he believed in God and knew how to pray. In his later life his campaigns proved to be inferior only to those of Napoleon in Italy. To his wife Martha much credit is due for the manner in which she supported and upheld him throughout his career. It was indeed a sad farewell which he made to his troops at the close of the war and in the end to the country which he had served so nobly. When a monument was planned to him it was said, "Build it to the skies, you cannot make it higher than his principles."

Dunning's Wednesday Speech

entitled to something; students are entitled to get the most possible in an educational way from their college courses. It is up to the young people of the nations to save the world but in order to give such a great amount they must first get much. It is what one gives that makes one great. There must be a favorable balance of trade in our lives, more export than import, without such a balance no unit of society prospers.

In the world's history there have been two forks. The first came when the vegetable and animal kingdoms separated. The vegetable growth took the easy road and ceased to develop nobler forms, while the animal group took the harder road and developed a higher type of life. The second split came when the animal kingdom went into its easier way while a more ambitious branch developed into the noblest form of life—man. There is a third fork in the highway of life; the first leads to spending all on self and is a descending road while the second puts more into life than it takes out, ascending toward a perfect day, it is taken by those who have sensed the things that are valuable. Ford and Gandhi offer the two examples, Ford of the one who puts his value on wealth and material things while Gandhi represents the spiritual values. He can never be a true gentleman who counts material wealth, that is the trouble with the world today. Lincoln, by most definitions, was no gentleman but ask the question of the ages. Credit is given today to the clever men, the greatest fortunes of the day are anti-social.

The greatest mistake we can make is to think that our contributions will not be missed. We must brace against the spirit of getting something for nothing as the only way to get things out of life. In order to be a gentleman each must put in something extra. Decker said, "Jesus was the first true gentleman ever to live, he made a great advance."

There can be no demonstration of whether being a gentleman will pay for the richest values are not sureties.

YEARLINGS DEFEAT CARSON CITY 44-25

After the Albion game Wednesday night, the Frosh took on Carson City High School, a class C team, and had little difficulty in winning, 44-25. Lee Weimer played his first game with the yearlings and made 7 baskets. John Volk, of American Legion fame, made 12 baskets for Alma and five for Carson City. Chinaman ("Horseface") Clack accounted for the rest of the Frosh points. Cautious Hinshaw played his usual fine game of watchful waiting. Stanislaus Bussardopolos drew an injured ankle, after putting on a fine exhibition of ballet dancing. James Breckenridge Tuma, late of Coppersville, acquitted himself nobly.

The big feature of the evening was the "Local-boy-makes-good" act of our own Robert "Deadeye" Lehner. Due to the depression, or the Chinese situation, or some such reason, Saginaw Jim appeared for only a few fleeting moments, so we saw very little Day-light.

Carson City really had a snappy little team, and ought to do well in the tournament which comes off here in a couple of weeks. Garlock, the center, ran circles around Volk while Urie in particular and the rest of the first five in general, turned in good performances.
