SPIRIT REVIVING FOR ALBION GAME

SCHOOL SET FOR BIG HOMECOMING

Play, Albion Game, Dance, and Banquets Feature Program.

By CLAIRE WILSON

The invitations and announcements for Homecoming went out last week, and it promises to be a gala week-end.

It starts off with a bang Friday evening at 7:00. Everybody coming to the pep meeting? It's bound to be good.

Then keep your coats right on because we're all going to the Strand Theatre. There at 8:15 the Drama Club presents its first play this year, "The Clean-up." The leading roles are taken by Spray Dehnke and Harold Matteson. Sounds good!

That's all for Friday but better days are coming. Saturday promises to be the most hectic day in your college life. We haven't heard whether or not classes are to be held but here's hoping.

The dinner at Wright Hall which everybody is not only invited but urged to attend will be followed by a parade. All the plans have not been completed for this although it is commonly supposed that every campus organization will have its float.

At 2:00 o'clock we can watch Albion fight it out on the old grid. It's going to be a real game, regardless of past records. And after the battle Dr. Crooks is going to hold an open house. 'Tis rumored that coffee and doughnuts will be the main item of entertainment at that little session.

At 6:00, the fraternities and sororities will entertain their members at the annual parties at the Wright House and Beta Tau Epsilon, at the Park Hotel, St. Louis. Alpha Theta, Philomathean and Kappa Iota are having special tables at Wright Hall.

To wind things up in the approved manner the Student Council is sponsoring an informal dance at the Gymnasium at 8:30. From what we understand, the Michigan Collegians are going to provide the music and the college students and alumni the dancers. Sounds like a great week-end to me. And believe us, everybody is going to be happy! Are you with us?

FRESHMEN FETED AT ZETA SMOKER

New Men Enjoy First of Entertainments by Fraternities.

Whether or not we had weather or not made no difference whatever to the Zeta Sigma and their guests, the Freshmen and newcomers, at their annual smoker, last night at 7:30.

Invitations were issued to all new men on the campus, old members and honorary members, and they (the men) started pouring into the house about 7:15. The committees had functioned and everything was ready. The men were welcomed at the door and taken on tours of inspection.

Before the program started, ping pong was the main attraction. The guests were given the preference, and the members sat around with jumpy hands. The older they get the better they like the game. Ask the Coach and Chet. Upstairs, some stood by their games (said bridge while others enjoyed (said they did) pinochle and hearts. Cigarettes, peanuts and mints were in evidence everywhere (that is for awhile). Cigars were passed to the guests of honor and Coach Campbell was handed one.

Along about 8:45 the whole horde gathered downstairs for the program, of which Smitty hau charge. It must have been that he realized it was his last chance. He did a good job.

Mr. Smith introduced the presi-

Good News, folks! We aren't licked! What if our team hasn't scored a point this season! What if they are weaker than any time since Coach Campbell came here! It is not true, as some have said, that the number of touchdowns the varsity has scored equals the school spirit, for Alma can and will support a team whether it wins or loses, if we know the boys have done their level best.

Last year, in spite of tough luck and superior opposition, our basketball team fought to the end of every game because the students were back of them even in defeat, and the students were back of them because they never fighting. Although we won only four games all season, the students never let up on the team.

Now, the question is, have the team done their part this year? Many of the players, realizing that we have no chance for the championship, have laid down on the job, both in practice and in games. But that is all over. They are going to work harder this week than they ever worked before, and they are going into the Albion game with the spirit to win!

Is Alma sick? Smitty has been perhaps too busy this year to work as hard as usual, but if the school will back him he will, beginning this week, be above par for the remainder of the school year. Our season's schedule has been such that it has been practically impossible to have a spirit equal to that of last year, but we must fight to overcome that handicap. Only a third of the student body has the spirit to support our team. Where were the other two-thirds the night of our Hillsdale pep meeting? We can't indict the football squad alone, but the student body must take its share of the blame.

Let's be on our toes and inspire our team to win the remaining games, including the one with Central State! Alma by far has not been Michigan's peppiest college this year, but it shall be.

Two years ago Alma lost but one game, and that to Kalamazoo. The week following the game, the Kazoo students penned a poem, which is a real tribute to Alma's team, her band, and her student body, and which reflects the spirit of fine sportsmanship existing between the schools.

Alma, as friend to friend,
We send our heartfelt praise to you.
The spirit which you brought to us,
Nigh thrilled us through and through.
You sang and clapped your hands,
You came in goodly numbers, too;
And 'round that peppy band of yours,
Your spirit always grew.
So keep that gallant fight!
Support the wish to win and do!
For in one game, Oh Alma,
You lit the torch of old Kazoo.

The last four lines might be parodied to read:
Let's get back that fight!
Support that wish to win and do!
And light the torch of Alma
As we lit the torch of old Kazoo!

BEAT ALBION!
WE'RE BEHIND YOU, TEAM!

DRAMA CLUB HAS POLITICAL PLAY

"The Clean-up" Will Be Given in Strand Theater Friday.

The College Drama Club Homecoming presentation, "The Clean-up" by Barry Connors, offers the students and people of this vicinity a fine opportunity to obtain an inside slant on modern day politics. Coming four days before a presidential election, this timely comedy will offer every prospective voter, and those who are to vote within the next four years a chance to see and hear the modern day political trend. "The Clean-up" is one of the finest, funniest, and most instructive plays yet presented by the Drama Club. Are women interested in politics subject to the same temptations of graft as are men? Do they react in the same way as men in difficult situations? How does the insignificant husband of a lady politician feel? These and many other modern day political questions will be answered in a fine and rapid fire way.

Director Strube states that the fine cast is working hard every day to perfect their lines, and that the players are excellently chosen for their parts. Quoting Mr. Strube, "I don't believe I have ever worked with as fine a group of players so well fitted for their parts as I have in 'The Clean-Up.' Although our time is limited, and we have to work overtime, the whole play is going along very smoothly, and I know that we will give a performance which will be pleasing to everyone."

Due to the extremely low price of admission, a record crowd is expected to attend the play. The tickets will go on sale early this week, and everyone is urged to purchase their tickets as early as possible, as the "depression price" of the admission assures a complete sellout. The seats at the Strand Theatre will go on reserve Thursday, November 3rd, at noon. The admission price is thirty-five cents each, or seventy cents per date. The tickets may be purchased from any Drama Club member.

26 GIRLS TAKEN BY SORORITIES

Pledge Breakfasts Served on Friday Morning for New Girls.

Closed rushing came to an end on Friday morning, October 28, at Wright Hall, when the three women's societies, Alpha Theta, Philomathean, and Kappa Iota, entertained newly pledged members at breakfast. Societies and their pledges include:

Kappa Iota: Jane Allen, Mary Catherine Craig, Royal Oak; Jane Currie, Midland; Jo Anna Ewer, Alma; Isabel Palmer, Kalkaska; Florence Pierson, Alma; Phyllis Randall, Traverse City; Jane Rice, Midland; Jane Schroeder, Spring Lake; Louise Stickney, Alma; Josephine Wilkinson, St. Louis.

Philomathean: Florence Gussell, Caro; Louise Hagaman, Brown City; Dorothy Hannigan, Grand Haven; Margaret Hodges, Clawson; Dorothy Johnson, Alma; Helen Kellogg, Ithaca; Helen MacCurdy, Alma; Elizabeth Malcolm, Three Rivers; Margaret Randels, Alma; Helen Reynolds, Alma; Mary E. Tenney, Oberlin, O.; Mary Smith, Alma; Elizabeth Willets, Crosswell.

Alpha Theta, with two available openings, pledged Constance Clack, Alma, and Marion Cook, Harrisville.

Week-end guests were Mrs. Hubbard, Mrs. Hinshaw and Willie Hinshaw, ex-'25, and Mr. and Mrs. Randall, of Traverse City, Mrs. Vincent of Saginaw and Dr. and Mrs. E. H. Campbell of Newberry.

K. I.'S ENTERTAINED TWICE LAST WEEK

The Kappa Iotas were entertained at two bridge parties last week. On Tuesday afternoon they held a surprise party (it really surprised her) for Mary Elizabeth Soper in honor of her birthday. Ann DeKraker won the prize at bridge and then a lovely supper was served.

Wednesday evening Helen Murphy, ex-'34, entertained the society in her home with a bridge party, at which Marion Day won first prize.

ALUMNI NOTICE

This is the last issue of the Almanian which will be sent to those who have not mailed us their subscription fee. We hope you have enjoyed the copies we have sent you, and that you can scrape up the two dollars that will bring you every week the latest news of your Alma Mater. If you are here for Homecoming, give your money to Irwin Nichol or Margery Spendlove. If you can't make it this week-end (and we're hoping you all can) just send your check to Miss Spendlove at Wright Hall.

dent, "Buck" Hinshaw, who extended the fraternity's welcome to all the guests. He is quite a well-comer. Hubbard (you know) introduced the members of Zeta Sigma and incidentally threw in some tart remarks. Smitty again took the microphone and introduced the microphone members and alumni present. We were glad to have in the assembly Mr. Lobdell, Dr. DuBois, Dr. MacInnes, Dean Mitchell, Chet Robinson, Prof. Tyler, Prof. Ewer and Coach Campbell.

After the introductions were over, the program got into full (Continued on page 4)

FACULTY TO PRESENT SERIES OF LECTURES

For the third consecutive year, a course of lectures will be given at the College by various members of the faculty on topics of general interest. It has been the custom in the past to open these lecture-meetings to the townspeople in the hope that everyone would find them of cultural value. While these lectures are intended largely for faculty and the general public, they will also offer topics of great interest to all the college students. The complete program is as follows:

Wednesday, Nov. 16—Roy W. Hamilton, professor of English language and literature.

Wednesday, Jan. 18—Margaret E. Foley, assistant professor of French.

Wednesday, March 15—R. W. Clack, professor of mathematics and astronomy.

Wednesday, May 24—Concert by the music faculty: J. W. Ewer, professor of voice; Grace D. Roberts, professor of piano, Mary Jeannette Mitchell, instructor of violin.

The lectures will be held in the College library and the concert in the College chapel. The time will be eight o'clock in all cases.

This constitutes a complete schedule of the lectures but detailed announcements of each event will be made immediately before the date for which it is scheduled.

A petition has been presented to the faculty asking them to excuse the students from classes Saturday morning because of the homecoming program.

If there are no classes, Saturday, the pep meeting will be held in the chapel at 10 o'clock.

ALBION HERE FOR HOMECOMING GAME

Saturday is Homecoming and with it comes Alma's old traditional rival, Albion College. These two schools face each other for the twenty-second time since 1904. Since 1921, Alma has won this classic only 5 times. Last year the Scots were humbled 13 to 2 by a comparably weak Methodist team. This year the Purple and Gold defeated the strong Kazoo team 13 to 6 and tied the Hope eleven 6 to 6.

However, last week the Methodists were beaten by Hillsdale 33 to 6. This seems to show that that they are purely an offensive team and weak on defense. So far this year, Alma has had no chance to show scoring ability and the defense is not as strong as other teams previous.

As far as pre-game dope is concerned, we can best predict a game like the last Albion-Alma game on Bahlke Field in 1930. Alma won 27 to 12, after rallying in the closing minutes. Albion always has a scrappy team, especially against Alma. Therefore, we predict one of the best home games in years.

In the Methodist backfield, we find two old faces, Teddy Watts, the pride of Northville, does most of the running, with Jack Nelson as his alternative. This Watts lad has a knack of intercepting passes and running for touchdowns. He will bear watching.

Wally Pezet received quite a wallop in the Black and Gold, the Traverse City High School paper, for his stellar work as quarterback on the Traverse City independent football team. Gordon MacDonald coaches the team, Aldy Potter captains it, and Vondy Wahl and Bryant Bain are also playing on it.

SPORTS

DUTCHMEN, WIND DEFEAT ALMA 9-0

Light Hope Team Outfights
Alma in 40-Mile
Gale.

Two tough breaks decided the fate of Alma in the game with Hope last Saturday in the teeth of a fierce howling wind. The game was played at Holland and the final score was 9 to 0 in favor of the Dutchmen.

After battling for three scoreless quarters, with three minutes to go, Louie Japinga shot a long pass to Korstanje for a 19 yard gain on the three yard line. This was the first long pass that Hope had completed out of 12 tried. Japinga tried right end for two yards and then Bonnette, who had been playing with an injured foot, hit center for the final yard. On the point after, Drury charged but was ahead of the ball. He missed the block, and the ball rolled out in the end zone. On the second try from the one yard line, the point was successful.

Shortly after this, Borton was downed on the 10 while attempting to pass. His kick from the end zone got about 30, but the wind caught it away safely out and it bounced back out of the end zone for a safety and two more points for Hope.

The game was more evenly matched than the score would indicate. However, the team that defended the west goal had the advantage of the wind and that was some advantage. Hope had the advantage in the first and last quarters and Alma in the middle two. The first downs were seven for Hope to six for Alma.

Hope kicked off with the wind and thus all the play was in Alma's half of the field. This made Alma take the defensive from the start and this continued to the middle of the next quarter, when Muscott recovered a Hope fumble on their 35. During the time that Alma was on the defensive Hope made four first downs and were held to that for the half.

The first down followed Japinga's charge around left end for 2 1/2 yards, when he passed to Dawson for 15 yards and took the ball to the 22. However, the effort was wasted, for three incompleting passes gave Alma the ball on her 20. Borton and Catherman could not gain, so the big fullback kicked to his own 43.

Van Zanden carried the ball out of bounds and later gained four through left guard. Dawson missed Japinga's long pass, but Hope was offside. Bonnette's pass was grounded, so on last down, Van Zanden through the Scots' line for 14 yards. Japinga shot off right tackle and then cut back for a total east and west gain of 12 yards. At least four Alma would-be tacklers had a hold of him on that play, but couldn't bring him to earth. Three more plays gained only a few yards and then Leahy grounded Japinga's pass in the end zone.

Alma couldn't gain, so Borton kicked almost straight up, and Dawson caught the punt, so Alma was penalized back to the 11 yard line. Hope couldn't gain and after two line plays the quarter ended with the ball in Alma's possession on her own 11. Borton punted to Van Zanden who was downed on the Scots' 42.

Things remained in this state pretty much with Borton getting the edge on Van Zanden in the punting duel, until Muscott recovered the fumble.

Alma was penalized and then Catherman lost five more on an attempted lateral. He then passed to Wilkas for 11 yards. On this play Wilkas was playing guard, and as his opposing guard made no effort to get through, he started down to get the secondary. Catherman saw him and threw the ball so Wilkie just naturally grabbed it. The officials said nothing about it, so it passed by. Even with that gain Alma was forced to give the ball over on the 34.

Ronald Bacon and Borton stopped three line plays for only four yards, so Van Zanden kicked outside on Alma's 42. Muscott on a delayed back punched the line for 5 1/2. Borton added three and then made it a first down with a 9 1/2 gain at center. Muscott gained four more, but Alma was holding. Muscott missed Borton's pass, but the big Scot squirmed and struggled through for 19 yards at center. Slagh intercepted Catherman's pass and ran 30 yards to the Alma 35.

Two incompleting passes and two small gains gave the ball over to the Scots. On the next play Catherman wiggled past most of the secondary for 15 yards. Hope was penalized five yards, so Borton crashed through for 13 more at center. Borton was thrown for a 9 yard loss by Freeman on a lateral. Slagh came through again with an intercepted pass on his 32 where he stepped out of bounds. Japinga lost two as the half ended.

Dawson kicked off for Alma to Japinga, who ran from his five to the 35. Seekamp got four yards at center and Van Zanden added 1 1/2 at left guard. Japinga was stopped at right end for only one yard, so Van Zanden kicked out of bounds on his 45.

Catherman was stopped at right tackle, but Borton made eight at center. Jacobson lacked inches of a first down, so Borton made it with three at center. Borton hit the center of the line on a spread for four yards, but was stopped the next time. Catherman lost two and then missed Borton's pass. This was the only first down of the quarter.

The remainder of the quarter resulted in a punting duel except near the last. Borton punted to Japinga, who ran back to his 37. Van Zanden carried the ball outside, making two yards. Seekamp fumbled and Wilkas recovered on Hope's 35. Jacobson was stopped, and Borton failed to make yardage around left end. On the first play of the final quarter, Hope recovered a fumbled lateral on their 42. Van Zanden punted to Dawson on his 41.

An exchange of punts gave Alma the ball on her 20. Drury plunged through center for four yards on a fake kick. He made two more on the next play. Borton passed to Drury, but the ball was knocked down. Borton punted, but Hope was offside giving Alma a first down. Borton gained only 1/2 yard at center, but Drury found a hole at left tackle for seven. Borton made it a first down with a short plunge at center. Borton finally had to punt and the wind carried the ball out on Hope's 39.

Here Japinga broke around left end for 23 yards, before Catherman could throw him outside. Nettinga hit center 2 1/2 yards, and Japinga was off again this time for 15 yards around right end. Two line plays were stopped but then came the fatal pass to Korstanje and the touchdown.

CAMPUS POET FINDS HALLOWE'EN LYRIC

By PROF. CLACK

Just to prove that in the Chinese one can find a poem for every occasion, how will this do for Halloween? It dates from the latter part of the Ming Dynasty (some 300 years ago), but I do not know the name of the author, as I got it through Japanese sources.

R. W. C.
The Ghosts of the Sea

In the hush of the night now the wind on the sea lies asleep;
Not a ripple is heard; all lies dead in the silence so deep;
'Twill the eyes on the prow of the junk shines a signal light red:
Let me dream by the rail while the stars gleam so bright overhead.

And I fancy I see the huge spirits of heroes of old,
Swinging maces and swords, clad in helmets and armor of gold:
They come forth in the dead of the night from forgotten sea graves;
They march past with inaudible steps on the face of the waves.

Eerie fires of St. Elmo are blinking and flitting around;
And weird tones from the bells of a temple far off faintly sound:
But no other disturbance mars darkness and silence so deep:
It is midnight and ghosts are awake, while the world is asleep.

(Notes: All Chinese junks have a pair of eyes on the prow. "No got eyes how can see? No can see, how can go?")
St. Elmo's fire is the nautical for what is called "Will o' the wisp" on land.

FOOTBALL NOTES

Student Manager Smitty says that Holland is the coldest place in the world, or at least last Saturday. At one time he had to lean at a 45 degree angle into the wind to keep from falling over.

Your reporter sat next to Watson Spoelstra, whom many of you will remember as all MIAA center of Hope last year in basketball. He is reporting for the Evening Sentinel of Holland and is general all-around publicity manager. He also is the announcer of their public address system that tells all the spectators what is going on. We ought to have that kind of a contraption for the Museum Steps.

In that wild final quarter, Japinga went back to pass, but the Alma linemen forced him back about 25 yards. He made a desperate heave on the ball with his left hand over the pack. Bonnette had been blocking for him, but he turned just in time and caught the ball and ran about 29 yards, but as he was 15 yards back of the scrimmage line, only 14 yards counted.

Ronald Bacon and Herbert Estes started their first game together. Both played good ball, and the latter played the whole game. Bacon was fooled on a couple of those cut backs by Japinga, but he finally got on to them and finally he smothered him. L. Smith injured his knee, so Leadbetter was inserted.

Hope had one of the scrappiest teams seen in several seasons. The outstanding Hope lineman was little Zwemer, who played left tackle. He weighed only 154 pounds, but he certainly made use of it.

Sunshine Jacobson who played defensive left end a couple of times dove through the two man interference to get Japinga for three yard losses. Except for that one slip-up, the defensive backs did a good job of batting down Japinga's and Bonnette's long passes.

In case you haven't heard, the freshmen lost to a heavier Hillsdale team Saturday, 20-0.

STIDGER INTERVIEWS DE MILLE

By PROF. TYLER

De Mille is a motion picture producer with very good religious ideas. He is the producer of the pictures "Ten Commandments," "King of Kings," and is soon to produce "Sign of the Cross," from the drama from Berrit. He had a hard time persuading the managers to produce such pictures but they have turned out to be great money makers for the company.

The King of Kings was given in Turkey and a crowd came to see the pictures but after the showing they remained to pray.

De Mille's parents were very religious and his father read two chapters of the Bible every day to his family. With this and the memory of an old preacher who taught him to bring the word of God to others he has a background which enabled him to produce such pictures as the three above mentioned.

THE POSITION OF THE ECONOMIST
By PROF. WEIMER

(The following is taken from a speech made in chapel last week, as is also the short article by Prof. Tyler found elsewhere in this issue.—J. B.)

Last spring President Crooks in one of his talks from this platform in which he was discussing the somewhat uninviting subject of our present business depression, said that the business men knew nothing about it, neither did the economists, nor the politicians.

That statement, of course, brought a response from me, and I tried to tell him that most economists were able to point out the causes of the depression, and also that they could indicate ways out. This position was substantiated by a report made at that time by some twelve members of the department of Economics of the University of Chicago. The difficulty was of course that they had no power to put their ideas into practice.

I fear that my argument failed to convince him, and I admit that it raised in my mind the problem of just what the position of the economist in his relation to practical affairs should be. Generally he does nothing but talk about conditions, situations, the laws of price, supply and demand, etc., but seldom actually does anything. In view of such a situation, is there, after all, an excuse for the existence for such a branch of knowledge?

The question is a fundamental one. Too often we fail to ask ourselves questions of this nature—either because of sheer ignorance, or because we are so concerned with special branches of a subject that the significance of the whole escapes us. Too frequently a subject is studied without the slightest knowledge of what it really means or what position it occupies.

True, there is some value in knowledge for its own sake, yet there are many branches of study which really add something to the solution of the practical problems of the world. The chemist for example, works with actual materials, performs real experiments in a laboratory under controlled conditions, and makes real additions to chemical knowledge. Such advance is definite and apparent.

But the economist cannot carry on controlled experiments—it is only in the abstract that he is able to "keep other things constant." He may know more about things in general than the business man or the politician, but what good is his knowledge? He can bring about no fundamental change in business practice or in the social order, except as his teachings gradually react on the body politic and on the business world.

Hence the problem—just what is the position of the economist in relation to practical affairs anyhow?

Last summer a solution to this question presented itself. In one of my classes at summer school, this question was under discussion and the instructor drew an analogy between the position of the economist and that of the art critic, which I think really explains the problem.

An art critic is seldom an artist himself—he would be unable to begin to paint the picture, write the play, or compose the symphony which he is criticising. Yet, his criticism, even though apparently antagonistic leads to the development of a finer art.

The position of the economist is very similar. He would probably not succeed as a business man, statesman or politician. Yet he has the audacity to criticise the activities of the men who actually play these parts in life. His role is that of critic, and in no less a degree than the art critic. As a result of this criticism, both destructive and constructive, conditions are actually improved just as an art is improved partially as the result of the work of the art critic. It is a division of labor, which actually brings results.

FRESHMEN ENTERTAINED AT ZETA SMOKER

swing. Prof. Ewer sang a solo. Prof. Tyler gave us several good examples of how good men get on in later life even though their marks may not be so good. Coach Campbell, a true Zeta Sigma, thanked us for the invitation and said he would be around when we had food again. Mr. Robinson gave us some very interesting reminiscences. At last there is another trio on the campus second to none—Bull Smith, Bob Campbell and Cactus Erickson. The wreck of the old '97 really becomes a wreck.

The keynote of the whole affair, was sounded by President Crooks. Fraternities have put into college life what the professors failed to supply. A fraternity should not be greater than the college nor should it be not great enough to supply a definite factor in the life of men it takes into membership. The program ended with a much subdued group singing the old Zeta Sigma song. Following this came the hot dogs and coffee and everybody was happy.
