FROSH DEFEATED IN ANNUAL RUSH

Sophomores Victors in Most Hotly Contested Battle in Years.

Although outnumbered nearly two to one, the Sophs successfully defended their flag last Saturday morning at Davis Field. Four times throughout the conflict, a Frosh started up the pole, but only one of them succeeded in touching the flag. The overpowering numbers of the Freshmen were not able to keep all the Sophs busy and each time a Frosh elevated himself above his fellows, eager hands pulled him down to be trampled beneath the fighting masses.

All activities on the part of both sides were performed in a true sporting fashion. The contest was governed by rules drawn up by the Student Council and no disobedience of these rules was apprehended at any time. Following the chapel service, Wednesday, a joint meeting of the Sophomores and Freshmen was called by the marshal of the Council, who read and explained the rules regarding the rush. These laws were compiled last year by the Council to avoid the loss of time in starting school work and free for all fights which occur from time to time.

All day Thursday, the Frosh were noticed to be laying in provisions and talking together in a very secretive manner. That afternoon they brought the flag pole to Davis Field. It was an excellent pole capable of withstanding any resistance or strain. The Sophs could not be outdone so they adorned the pole with a flag of the best linen.

That night the Frosh mobilized in Pioneer Hall. About twelve o'clock, they went quietly and unobserved, so they thought, out the back way across the Athletic Field and embarked in trucks. They spent the remainder of the night and part of the next day at Half-Moon lake, but learning that their whereabouts had been apprehended, decided to move. On Friday afternoon the Frosh left the lake and after covering the greater part of seven counties in a futile attempt to throw their pursuers off from the track, took refuge at the home of F. W. Ruggles in Alma. The Sophs interpretation of this move was, that the Frosh were very frightened, so they went home and wisely indulged in a peaceful night of rest, knowing that their expensive flag was safe.

Saturday morning came, with the Sophs arriving first on the field of battle. The Frosh appeared soon afterwards and both sides made ready for the struggle. The Soph forces looked pitifully small in comparison to the numerous Freshies. The crowd which had come from town as well as the college declared that the odds were too great to overcome and their sympathies were accorded the older men. However, the Sophomores presented a bold front and took heart as they paid homage to their flag and at the blow of the whistle, broke the onrush of the Freshmen. The fight was as thrilling as it was bloody. At one time the pole was completely unguarded and a Freshie succeeded in grasping the coveted flag, but the Sophs rallied and proceeded to pull him down before he could tear the flag from the pole. On several other occasions the Frosh reached the pole, but never threatened the flag. At the end of ten minutes, the whistle blew and the little band of strong-hearted Sophs came through victorious, their unsoiled flag still flying.

FRESHMEN STUNT

The Freshmen girls entertained the Upper Class Women Thursday night with a very clever pantomime entitled "Wanted a Wife." A bolshivist member of the class gave a most emotional speech, taking his material from the alphabet and numerals.

There was also present, an actor of dual nature, masculine and feminine, who entertained with numerous solos.

College Opens With Record Enrollment

With the largest enrollment in the history of the institution, Alma College opened Wednesday morning with chapel services in the administration building. As the Almanian goes to press, registrations, not counting those in the music department, totaled 270 as compared with 237 at the same time last year, making an increase of over 10%.

Registrations, excluding specials and music students will reach the 300 mark before the end of the semester is predicted by President Crooks. Of the total number of students, one hundred and fifty-three are men and one hundred and seventeen are women. One hundred and twenty new students have enrolled, of which all but ten are freshmen.

Pioneer Hall has been changed into an exclusive freshmen dormitory with Prof. L. M. Sharrar occupying rooms on the first floor and serving as governor over the yearlings. The Hall was completely redecorated and gives to the new students probably as fine a young men's dormitory as will be found in the middle west.

Plans were made to make the Clizbe house, which recently became college property, into an annex to Wright Hall, but such was found to be unnecessary although the girl's dormitory is full to its capacity.

With the return of several old students, the senior class will be nearly as large as last year's record group.

The measures taken by the administration toward a greater Alma, have been marked by marvelous strides of success during the past few years. With the graduation of last year's senior class, all effects of the abolition of the kindergarten department have been lost. Much credit must go to President Crooks and we are all appreciative of his success.

SOCIAL OPENING IS WELL STAGED

Large Attendance Marks Annual Y. M. and Y. W. Reception.

The Annual Opening Reception for the student body was given by the Young Men's and Young Women's Christian Associations, Saturday night at Wright Hall. The event gayly closed the unusually busy week which attended the college opening.

After the hostilities of earlier in the day, the freshmen and sophomores, having apparently buried the hatchet, mingled in friendly course. Faculty and Upper Classmen were of course largely in evidence. The principle occupation of the evening was getting acquainted, a ceremony very necessary to the Wright Hall administration. This process was simplified considerably by the use of the well-established but result-getting "I am—, Who are you?" librettos. This unique method of introduction, though quite informal, has been authorized by the college and now takes its place in the college curriculum.

Following several journeys through the crowd, the students' directories, appearing very much in hotel register form, were completed. More formality was evidenced when the new students ran the gauntlet of the awe-inspiring reception line, composed of the college faculty and friends and several notables including the coach. Here the frosh made their acquaintance with several personages whom they will undoubtedly (Continued on page two)

The Gelstons Show Usual Hospitality

The hospitable doors of Rev. and Mrs. Gelston opened to a varied crowd Tuesday night when the first great event of the year, the Christian Endeavor social brought freshmen, sophomores and upper classmen together for a good time. A large and happy crowd was present in fact the house was so crowded that Mr. MacDougall was forced to spend part of the evening on the porch. He entered, however, in time to take an active share in Mr. McGlone's skillfully superintended games.

Everyone took part in "Marching Through Jerusalem" and each time a certain individual's two hundred and sixty pounds of advoirdupois deposited itself vigorously on an offending chair one could almost hear the hostess groan. But the aforesaid individual won; nobody cared to come near enough to incur the risk of being sat upon instead of the chair.

Previous to this event, it must be mentioned, a game of questions and answers seriously threatened the health and dignity of some of the guests. Some of the questions were nevertheless answered with a wisdom which certainly could not have been exceeded by Solomon himself. An improvised semaphore spelling match produced much waving of arms and its share of fun.

The old favorite, "Brother, I'm Bobbed," was proposed by the untiring McGlone, and a half-willing victim was led to his fate and the sacrifice began. We can not dwell upon his ill-fortune although it evidently delighted the barbaric natures of the on-lookers. The guests then formed couples and refreshments were served. Old familiar anthems and the college songs terminated a truly delightful evening.

ALMA'S GRIDIRON PROSPECTS GOOD

Loss of Several Stars Discounted by Exceptional Frosh Material.

The Alma College football team will open the 1923 season Saturday against the University of Detroit outfit, usually one of the strongest teams of the middlewest, and the first indication of the probable strength of the Maroon and Cream will be forth coming.

There is no question but what the loss of Johnston, Stewart, Foss and others means a far lighter aggregation than the one that represented the Maroon and Cream a year ago, but Coach Campbell hopes to make up for the loss in poundage by a greater speed and a more aggressive eleven.

It had been expected that Ex-Captain McNaughton would not be able to play this year because of the amount of scholastic work that he is carrying, but the former Maroon and Cream leader could not resist the call 'of the wald' and has joined the squad. With Tarzan back, eleven veterans are now available, Captain Wright, Ex-Captain McNaughton, Shaver, Carty, Tarrant, Couturie, Harley Catherman, Lamb, McDonald and Calkins.

The squad contains a large number of new men of promise, including Elias, quarter on Alma's high class B state champs last year; Anderson of Alma, all state tackle last year; Langton of Detroit Eastern; Burton of Manistique; Partee of Breckenridge, Huntley of Greenville, Dennis of Redford, Whitney of Hiram, Ohio, and a number of other men who may show good development. Reserves from 1st season who are again seeking places on the eleven are Maurer, Tredway and Orr.

What may happen in the opening game with the University of Detroit, Saturday, is something that the Alma fans will not worry greatly over as the ultimate aim of the eleven is of course to knock off the Michigan Intercollegiate rag and the team will be developed with that end in view, and it is certain that when the M. I. A. A. contests start in a few more weeks, it will find the Maroon and Cream a polished and capable aggregation.

The schedule this year is a hard one with nine games on the list, including two unusually hard frays, the U. of D. and Western State Normal, the latter a team that was not scored upon all of last season.

The schedule follows:

- Sept. 29—Alma College at the University of Detroit.
- Oct. 6—Ferris Institute at Alma.
- Oct. 13—Alma at Kalamazoo Normal.
- Oct. 20—Alma at Michigan State Normal at Ypsilanti.
- Oct. 27—Olivet College at Alma.
- Nov. 3—Alma College at Hillsdale.
- Nov. 10—Alma at Albion College.
- Nov. 17—Kalamazoo College at Alma.
- Nov. 24—Mt. Pleasant Normal at Alma.

Carty is looking like a fixture at Johnston's end position and probably will be the running mate of "Cuddy" Shaver, who will be at the other end. McNaughton and Tarrant are both veteran tackles, and in addition Anderson and Partee are showing class enough to insure their seeking plenty of action. At the guards Couturi and Calkins have won their letters. Maurer is also showing good form at the guard position. Captain Wright and Tredway are both being worked at center. Wright is playing his usual strong game and Tredway, who was out with injuries considerably last year, is showing a greatly improved form.

The quarterback job will be cared for the best that it has since Campbell came to Alma with Elias and Huntley, two heady pilots. Elias with greater experience than Huntley probably will be used to start the Detroit fray. In addition to experience (Continued on page three)

For a number of years it has been the hope and purpose of Phi Phi Alpha to own a society house in order to secure the advantages which come from close companionship. This year with a large number of the old men back they have made arrangements to purchase a house. The McIntosh residence at 421 West Superior St., familarly known to the college as the "Castle," has been selected and is now being outfitted for the purpose.

Its proximity to the college along with its beautiful surroundings and yard make it a very desirable place for a college group. Although built as a residence the house can be very easily altered to serve the needs of the society. In the course of the next few weeks the Phi's hope to be well enough settled to entertain their friends.

The annual Y. W. "Get acquainted reception room at four o'clock on Friday afternoon. The room was prettily decorated with many colored asters and autumn-toned gladiolas and made cheerful with many smiling faces. The new girls were each piloted by their older sisters and introduced to those who were present.

Over the clink of tea cups, many a new friendship was formed and many an acquaintance made that will stand the test of years. The new-comers were made to feel entirely at home and given a glimpse of what Wright Hall hospitality will mean during the coming months.
