FROSH ARE PROUD OF CLASS HISTORY

Class of '30 Has Established Great Prestige in First Year.

To the halls of Alma College, To these famous walls of learning, On a morning in September Came a group of half-scared Freshmen,

Youngsters avid for great knowledge, Youngsters with a look of verdance, Youngsters hoping for the best, but Always wary for the oldsters. Anxiously they looked about them Anxiously they speculated;

Made their brags before the Seniors. Then before the Sophs and Juniors. Still the foemen made no movement, So the Freshmen boasts grew louder Of their class and of their prowess. Then came on the fated Flag Rush Hailed by red and green-hued placards,

Posters shrieking out in challenge, Posters answering with insult. Say, that Flag Rush was a knockout

A walkover, pure and simple; For the Freshmen demonstrated And made good their lordly boasting; Showed the Sophs in their true col-

Made them out as cock-eyed bullies. Then a round of teas, receptions Helred the new to meet the old ones; School began to get in action And the Profs. piled on the class work

Till the youngsters almost capsized But were told that "This is nothing! Music Pupils to Give Wait until you're really started." For the fellows came a party Staged by enterprising Seniors Giving barrel-staves as favors And resounding whacks as prizes. This by all was well attended. Then green pots made their appear-

Pots that almost hid their wearers, Pots that came off in a hurry When a Senior was accosted. Soon pajamas came in fashion Somewhat costly, just ask Al Knapp Then a parade of great dimensions Was arranged for Frosh delection With a program of choice talent Talent from far distant regions Talent from the nearby buroughs. Then the whooping and the pushing As the Freshmen braves were crowded

On the stage of the Strand show house.

Then the serenade that followed Floating to the thrilled eardrums Of the beauteous Wright Hall dam-

Now came classes and more classes Interpersed with paddling parties. Those gay revels for the Freshmen. O, that evening in November When the Frosh threw "one hot par-

WHO STARTED IT?

Wally Burton and a group of freshman struggled through dense fumes the other evening seeking a fire, but they discovered that you can't tell fire by the smell of the (smoke?)

Athlete, orator, debater, scholar, and all around good fellow. Those are the achievements of Francis Grandpa' Angell, honor student from Hastings, Michigan. After winning rst place in the oratory competition n the college chapel, Frank was sent o the state contest at Olivet. From here he emerged last Friday with fifth place, a very good showing for freshman orator. In addition to this he was a member of the chamionship football team and a member of the affirmative debating team. While in high school, Frank was president of the student council, president of the Hi-Y, and was awarded the Hi-Y scholarship cup. He was also one of the lucky few who took the Hi-Y European trip. His modesty and "woman shyness" is well noted on the campus. He is our idea of a real fellow, and the freshman class is very proud of him.

soprano, Miss Hannah Spencer, violinist, and Miss Grace Roberts, accompanist, in a recital at the college chapel at 8 P. M., March 10th.

Miss Roberts has been with Alma College over a period of sixteen years. Probably she is the most able accompanist of this vicinity. Miss West has been prominent in musical work in the college during her four years, and many will welcome the opportunity of hearing her in concert. Miss Spencer is new to Alma this year, but has already attained a high rating as a violinist.

The program is: (Allegro, molto appassionato) Mendelssohn .

HOPE DEFEATED IN FAST GAME

Campbellites Win at Holland Tuesday Night by Safe Margin.

Alma's heroic basketeers journeyed to Holland last Tuesday and defeated Hope by the decisive score of 29-20. The badly lighted, miniature gymnasium had the Alma men buffaloed during the first half. Hope led at the half with the score of 13-9. The second half saw a decided change. Seng scored soon after the whistle blew, and Tiderington followed with two more baskets. From this point on Alma was never headed. Seng and Tiderington were the outstanding athletes for Alma, scoring 11 and 13 points respectively. Japinga shone for the Dutch with 6 points. This game cinched third place for Alma in the Association

RAVINGS OF A DELUDED FRESHMAN

O, the curtains in Wright Hall How they stick up on the wall Is really quite a mystery to me; And their color's muddy brown flea.

Alma College is proud of her Freshman Class President, Harold Logan; but no more proud than the freshman class is itself. Harold is one of the most popular men on the campus. Graduating from his home town high school, at Niles, Michigan, he arrived here heralded as an honor student, and well has he lived up to his reputation. Of five college Martin 2, Kleis 2, Walters and Japinga. subjects taken last semester, he received a grade of A in each one. Recently Harold received word from Congressman Ketcham that he had been named for an appointment to the United States Naval Academy at Well in Oratory Meet Annapolis. He passed his mental and physical examinations successfully and will take his entrance exattended the oratory contest at Olivet aminations sometime in April. The place in the Women's contest was ordeal. The loss of such a man will Victory Practically Assures Albion of 1927 Association Title.

Alma wound up her basketball season by losing to the Association champs by the score of 21-20 in the Memorial Gym, Saturday evening, before a capacity crowd. The game was hard and fast throughout. Gaelor and Captain Anderson, who played his last game, were the shining lights for Alma, while Bromley and Gray showed up best for Albion. The Albion men, under the severe tension of playing for a championship, committed many fouls, but the Campbellites seemed unable to keep the ball in the basket.

Captain Anderson, Gaelor, Seng,

Tiderington, and Hawthorne, started for Alma. The Albion men trotted out, took their stations, and the game was on. The play was fast and hard from the start. Hawthorne committed a foul on Bromley, who made the first point of the game. and drew a penalty. Gray missed his shot. Another minute of play and Gray followed up a long one and tipped it in. Alma kept the ball in her possession most of the time. Gaelor took shot after shot, but they just wouldn't stay in. Bromley took careful aim from the center of the floor and sunk a "long Tom!" A few minutes later he repeated. Alma kept on shooting and missing until, finally, Seng located the meshes for two points. Wolters replaced Hawthorne at this stage of the game. Some fine passing from Walters to Gaelor netted another basket. Albion worked the ball down and Carlson found the hoop for two points. Gray soon followed with another short shot, which set the Methodists in front by an 11-4 score. Goldberg was called for blocking, Gaelor missing his shot. Seng was penalized again for two shots. Gray missed the first one but counted a point on the second one. The play around Albion's basket waxed fast and furious. Walters and Anderson missed shots which should have stayed in the basket. Liepham replaced Walters. Seng was again called for a foul, Bromley making his shot count. A technical foul was called on Bromley. Tiderington shot and missed. Goldberg was caught in the act, but Gaeor seemed unable to count from the misdemeanor stripe. Gray missed a ong one as the whistle sounded for the half. The score at half time stood 14-4.

Alma came out for the second stanza with a do or die spirit. Wolters appeared in place of Hawthorne, and Leipham took Seng's place. Goldberg was caught holding and Wolters shot foul, which he missed. Captain Anderson was called for blocking, but immediately retaliated with a beautiful basket from midcourt. Soon after Leipham tallied from under the basket, making the score 14-8. Things looked brighter for Alma this half, the Campbellites completely outplaying the Betchell-Anderson was called for charging, but Bromley missed the free award. Babcock committed an error. Alma did not make the point. Walters found the hoop for his first and only score. Gray fouled, and Gaelor missed from the penalty stripe. Gray sunk a pretty basket bringing the score to 16-10. Tiderington fouled on Bromley, who counted on the free throw. Goldberg dropped one through the ring when he was awarded a shot on Gaelor's foul. Some pretty passing by Gaelor to Leipham resulted in another score for Alma. Gaelor was in on every play, exhibiting his best form of the season. Goldberg committed his fourth error of the game and was ejected. Tiderington dribbled the entire length of the floor and scored, being fouled as he shot. The basket counted and he was awarded two shots. He missed both, the ball jumping out of the basket. Seng replaced Walters and aided Gaelor in scoring the next basket. Seng again committed a misdemeanor and gave way to Hawthorne. Bromley made the foul shot. Anderson, playing in tip top form, dribbled down the floor and contributed a pretty basket Time was called for Anderson who (Continued on page two)

COMPULSORY CHAPEL

ATTENDANCE

Chapel attendance here in Alma College is now compulsory with the exception of the permitted ten cuts each semester. The attendance would necessarily be somewhat diminished, if it were not compulsory. Still those who did go would be the ones who went for the good they could get out of the service.

There would have to be no discipline administered to such an audience. Now many students go because they have to, and don't intend to listen and won't let anyone else. This annoys every one in the room as well as the speaker.

Those who now care to get something out of the service, often times can't because of the noise. But with , those absent who do not care for such things, the speaker would enjoy speaking and those students resent would feel that their time had been profitably spent.

Chapel is a service in which one should feel a certain reverence. If it is impossible for one to feel that books of the home club. reverence, it is better for him to stay away.

With only ten suts, much studying is done during the talk. The speaker has usually put much time and thought into his talk, so it is not doing justice to the speaker. The student neither hears the speaker nor prepares his work. If, at all times when the student had work to do, he could stay in his room, he could concentrate and do at least one thing at a time.

If chapel were put before the student in the form of a privilege, where he could get some pleasure as well as improvement the chapel attendance would be of the right kind and attentive.

But, you ask, just what connection does all this have with this particular college? You claim that we have men around here who can find the inclination to think in terms of women most of the time; you stop to enumerate them. Rightly so, -but think of the multitudinous ones who have been hibernating all winter, waiting, with eager expectancy, for the coming of spring to blossom forth on the campus as an eligible one for the waiting many in Wright Hall. Deep down in their souls they have longed to be counted with married ones on the campus, and have been waiting only for this needed incentive. So you in the hall across the street, whom fable and story has it that you are waiting patiently, beware of the rush which is sure to be forthcoming as soon as this weather seeps into the hearts of we occupants of Pioneer, Zeta Sigma, Phi, Beta, Monks, Murphy's and all the others.

If we were to stop here in this discourse on the flighty subject, we would not have gone the second mile as we are so many times urged to do by our superiors. This phase of the subject is not nearly as pleasing or enjoyable as the other usually is. At this time of the year it seems impossible to settle down to concentrated study. It must not be implied that we have been doing such, it must not be imagined, for it must be known and believed that such is the case. For when this is believed by our instructors the burden is not so hard to bear. They seem to appreciate the state of mind we are in, possibly they are in it themselves, and in this sympathetic understanding more is accomplished than otherwise would have been.

So let us hope that spring is here to stay. It would be terrible to get one's mind all made up to step out, to ease a little in the studying, to dream a little, and then have to retract and wait another month.

On February 7 I addressed a Parent Teachers' Association at Alma, missing most of a basketball game thereby. The next day I addressed a teachers' institute at Marshall, speaking twice to people who gather under a plan of compulsory attendance. I performed before a similar group of teachers at Owosso, compulsory attendance being a feature.

On Sunday, February 13, I talked for the new pension scheme of the Presbyterian church at the Westminster Church of Grand Rapids. Attendance was voluntary and very good, although announcement of the speaker had been made.

While at Marshall I spoke before an organization of which Dr. Pills Gesner is president, namely, the Rotary Club. I also addressed the Exchange Club at Jackson on February 18. At these gatherings attendance is compulsory, fines being levied on absentees. Compulsion also (fines being levied) exists in these luncheon clubs to such an extent that penaities are assessed if fellow members are addressed formally, first names being the requirement. If out of town for a week, a member is compelled to visit a club of this sort if possible, and record is made on the

After the Exchange Club at Jacksn on February 18, I went to Eaton Rapids and spoke to a high school banquet. It was quite an affair. Here I found Mrs. Helen Grimm Mingue teaching under an old Alma student, Superintendent Murray J.

ALBION WINS BY ONLY ONE POINT

(Continued from page one) took a heavy spill, twisting his ankle. A technical foul was conceded to Albion quintet because the ball was in their possession when time was called. Bromley made the goal which proved to be the winning margin. Holdship replaced Anderson with but a few minutes to play. The game grew exciting. Albion tried to stall with but little success. The score was 21-18 at this point. Amid much excitement Hawthorne sunk a goal and brought the score to 21-20. Alma called time out with but ten seconds to play. A last desperate effort failed and the whistle sounded ending one of the most exciting games of the season. The superior play of the Campbellites was very evident in the second half. Alma outscored Albion in this half by the score of 16-7. FR F PF TP

ZETA'S SMOTHER PHI'S

Battle of Century Staged in Gym Last Saturday Night

Re-enacting scenes from the World War struggle in the great open space of the Memorial Gym, the Phi's succumbed to the better marksmanship of the Zeta warriors to the tune of 16-6, last Saturday night. The battle was the preliminary to the Alma-Albion conflict.

Out of the rank and file, four players stood head and shoulders above the rest, McKinnon, Sartor, and Frazer for the Zeta's, and Hop Anderson of the Phi's. Referee Moco called the principals to the center of the floor and gave his instructions concerning biting, kicking, strangling, and premeditated murder with intentions to kill.

Round 1-The Zeta's started with a rush. McKinnon received a pass and after ducking a right swing scored the first two points. From then on the battle waged fast and furious. Hogan succeeded in landing one to the head but was fouled for using his knee. Brown and Hogan changed tactics and engaged in a wrestling match. Lee Crooks scored a technical point with a perfect bull's eye on a baldheaded man in the crowd. Crooks, Sartor, and Hogan fouled in succession, Hogan winning the wrestling match by tossing Brown into the stands. Brown was stunned and seemingly couldn't find the foul line so took a short shot, but missed. Draw.

Round 2-Knowles replaced Hogan, and Frazer went in for Lamb. Sartor crawled between two opponents and found the basket for two more points. The fight slowed a little, both showing signs of weariness. Frazer stooped over and dropped the little pea through the hoop, making the score 6-0. Both sides were missing punches now. The Zeta's were having a little the better of the infighting. Knowles took plenty of punishment having entered underweight-minus his mustache. Bixby took perfect aim and dropped in a "long tom" making the score

The game slowed up a little to allow time for a game of "button, button, who's got the button." Hop was fouled and Sartor sunk it. Hop got mad, dribbled down the floor, evaded a poorly aimed kick, and made a dog. The Phi's were re-enforced by the Round 3-Hogan rushed from his corner landing heavily on three Phis. Bixby made assault on Sartor and was called for it. Sartor gained revenge by making the shot and on the next play followed with an underhanded left to the stomach. Hop Anderson was awarded a free throw for tripping himself and made it. Referee Moco was unable to see all the fouls being kept busy ducking the assaults of Hogan, Sartor, Knowles, and Brown. Lamb was aught in the act and called for a oul. Frazer and McKinnon scored successively swelling their total to 14-4. The whistle blew. Zeta's nd Crooks re laced Hogan and and began countering with rights nd lefts. The Zeta's hurriedly stavd off defeat by recalling Hogan. He nore than evened up matters, and nanaged to land a side swipe as the nal bell sounded. The Zefa's took he decision by a 16-6 count.

Frosh Enjoy Chapel Service of Thursday

Something that will be remembered and cherished by the class of '30, Round 4-Hogan opened hostilities was the chapel service of Thursday by flooring Morrow for a count of last. A good time was enjoyed by hree. The referee caught Hogan all, including our green hat assembly. rying to step on him and awarded We feel that a debt of gratitude is ded a free shot, which he made. Jim due the member of the senior class Blanford entered the fray, replacing who graciously entertained the whole Frazer. He had time to get in a school, sans intimidation. Facts were ew blows before the final bell. An- aired which we little suspected. But derson was awarded another free first consider the setting for the imhrow and made it. Dodo Anderson promptu Caspianolia. The faculty were cordial, the president jovial and amb. The Phi's plucked up courage interruption trivial. Laughing was not a duty but a pleasure. Lack of attention was at a minimum.

Many of the student body were properly classified, some as to accoutrments of wear, others to idioyncrasies of taste. Of course we refer to the ear ring episode of our so dear "Drev," and the wide open places" of rotund MacDougall. The meeting of our honorable president and our invulnerable editor was recalled and evidenced merriment to the two parties involved. As far as Caspian was concerned we were at ea, but as far as entertainment was oncerned we were in the heart of the vein.

No one was neglected. Perfect equality was the keynote of the whole affair. We were pleased to see that our faculty still possess the ability to laugh. Some of them laughed rather tardily, but who can criticize the lack of instantaneous action from a mind imbued from the cradle with solemn philosophy, beautiful language, or dusty history?

Refering to our misbehavior in the unforgettable past, we assure our honorable faculty that had we realized the importance of the message being carried to us, we would have teen all ears. But like all youths, we are prone to err, and in the case of that chapel service we were more prone than anything else, but we hall rise to atonement all the more remarkably inasmuch as we have had such a low start. We feel that any chapel service conducted as was Thursday's will win our hearty cooperation, entirely devoid of detestable browbeating.

· Fire!!!

All is quiet. The last dishes from he numerous spreads have been washed, good-nights have been said, secrets of lovelorn maidens' have been confided to trustworthy diaries, and the girls of Wright Hall are enjoying that sleep which promises beauty. The halls are studies in dim shadows formed by the erie glow of the nightlights at the ends of the corridors. No noise disturbs the peace except the dismal moaning of the wind outside.

Suddenly, all Bedlam is loosed. The silence is shattered by the deafning clanging of the firebell. Girls jump out of bed-frantically seize bathrobes and coats, slam windows thut, and dash madly down the stairs. Fire lieutenants speed from one room to another in hasty inspections, banging doors after them, and then likewise rush downstairs to report to the captain. The tumult ceases. The fire captain mounts a chair and announces to the coatclad figures that "the drill took three minutes and twelve seconds which is fairly good time but can be improved upon; and, girls, there was enentirely too much noise. We must be more quiet." Then the sleepy damsels slowly wend their way back to their rooms and are soon lost in dreams of cavaliers or nightmares of unprepared lessons. Quiet once more broods over Wright Hall.
