CHORUS TO GIVE ANNUAL CONCERT TOMORROW NITE

A Cappella Choir Appears in Final Program of Year.

One of the most important and interesting events in the Commencement program of this week is the third annual grand concert of the A Cappella Choir which will be given on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock in the First Presbyterian church. The concert is open to the public and a silver offering will be received to aid in defraying expenses contingent to the organization.

The choir has never been in better trim for the concert than this year. Prof. J. W. Ewer and the choir members have been rehearsing faithfully for weeks in preparation for this appearance and with an excellent group of selections to offer the Wednesday evening audience is sure to be delighted and satisfied. This group of approximately 75 singers includes the best voices on the campus and several trained singers from town and incidentally is a musical organization of which Alma College and the community is justifiably proud. The choir has given some excellent programs during the years since its organization and will continue to please its audiences in the future. Its success has been remarkable from the first and in both home concerts and appearances out of the city has been highly praised and commended.

Miss Grace Roberts, the loved college pianist and organist, presides at the organ on Wednesday evening and her special numbers will add a distinctive touch to the program.

A number of members will be lost through graduation this year and their departure from college musical circles is deeply regretted. They are Alice Biondi, Katherine Campbell, Mrs. Mable Quail, Mary Elizabeth Soper, William Goggin, Harold Matteson, Kenneth Rehkopf, George Roberts and Lavon Winterberg.

The entire personnel of the choir is as follows: Alice Biondi, Sara Brodebeck, Katherine Campbell, Elizabeth Chapin, Joanna Ewer, Spray Dehnke, Elizabeth Goggin, Virginia Hill, Dorothy Hannigan, Margaret Hodges, Marion Laman, Louise Hageman, Evelyn MacCurdy, Florence McCallum, Helen MacCurdy, Elizabeth Malcolm, Mae Nelson, Maryon Osterhaus, Mary Painter, Mrs. Mable Quail, Margaret Randels, Frances Rice, Mary Smith, Mary Elizabeth

Marjorie Morrison Heads New Wright Hall Union

Marjorie Morrison of Manistique was elected recently by the three women's societies to preside over the governing board of the newly formed Women's Union. The new organization, composed of all the members of Alpha Theta, Kappa Iota, and Philomathean, is the outgrowth of a cooperative movement started after the disintegration of the intersociety council last winter. Other officers and members of the board include: Elizabeth Willets, vice-president; Gertrude Elliott, secretary; Marion Day, Helen Walker, and Spray Dehnke. The board will hold a meeting Thursday to draw up rushing rules and make plans for next September.

The new Union, the purpose of which is to secure cooperation and harmony among the three societies with regard to rushing rules and pledging, is the result of several disputes involving the constitution of the former organization and the question of increased memberships. The recently adopted constitution provides that a governing body composed of two members from each society shall meet annually in May and draw up rules for the forthcoming year. To insure con-

President Tells Seniors in Baccalaureate Speech To 'Find Something New'

The annual Baccalaureate service took place at 7:30 o'clock Sunday evening and lovely summer flowers made the chancel beautiful. The faculty, robed in academic caps, gowns and hoods, headed the Senior class, which entered the auditorium as Miss Grace Roberts played the brilliant prelude, "Pomp and Circumstance" by Elgar. The audience stood until the faculty and class were seated. Under the direction of Prof. J. W. Ewer the A Cappella choir sang two beautiful numbers during the service, and the presentation of "Souls of the Righteous" by Caley and "Let Thy Blessed Spirit" by Tschesnokoff was a musical privilege deeply appreciated by the audience. Prof. Charles D. Brokenshire led in prayer and the response was the impressive "Sevenfold Amen" sung by the choir.

The Baccalaureate address delivered by President Harry Means Crooks was developed from the theme "The Call to Adventure," and in opposition to a period when there is opportunity for some discouragement and pessimism, the college president gave a sincere challenge to the graduating class that they pioneer in spiritual and intellectual spheres.

The service closed with the benediction by Prof. Roy Hamilton, the recessional and postlude, "Triumphal March" by Verdi.

Dr. Crooks suggested all kinds of endeavor for those of us who are going out to make jobs, to find something new: "What a world to explore in, what unsurveyed fields clearly to chart and map out so that all may know the real boundaries: Facts and the truth are needed: here is your field for scientists trained in fact finding and they must be joined by our social leaders who know how to deal with facts and our philosophy."

SENIORS MEET SUNDAY FOR FINAL COMMUNION

The events of Commencement Week were formally opened Sunday morning at the Presbyterian Church when the Farewell Communion was offered. In his address to the departing Seniors, Reverend Gelston pointed out the advantages arising from the continued activity in church work. He stressed the importance of affiliating oneself with a church immediately rather than waiting until one has settled which often isn't for many years. He also warned against becoming a "church tramp," meaning that it is important that people should not change from church to church but should tie themselves to the church where they feel that they will be able to do the most work. Professor Hamilton and Professor Brokenshire officiated at the Communion Service.

tinuity of practice, one of the two representatives from each group must be a Junior elected for two years. Any constitutional changes must take place in the May session. Hereafter rushing rules will be printed and distributed to freshman girls at the end of the Y. W. C. A. week in the fall. The question of increased memberships, center of the disagreements this year, has been put tentatively aside, to come up automatically for reconsideration in May, 1934. New proposals require a two-thirds majority, except that in case of disapproval, any society may petition the Dean of women, who is empowered to cast the deciding vote. The governing board is given the right to assess societies for support of its program, and may sponsor social functions in the name of all three societies.

The new constitution is an effort to carry forward the best features involved in the former intersociety organization, and to correct some of the existing defects. Those who drew up and submitted the plan include: Dean Steward, Nancibel Thorburn, Alice Biondi, Josephine Woodard, Isabel Sanderson, Marion Day and Edith Davis.

STUDENT COUNCIL ELECTS ESTES AS NEXT PRESIDENT

Lawrence Smith to Act as Student Marshal for Next Year.

Herbert Estes, of Perry, for the past two years one of the outstanding members of the Student Council, has been elected president of that body for next year. He succeeds William Goggin, of Alma, who graduates this week. Lawrence Smith is the new marshal, Claire Wilson is vice president, Marjorie Morrison is secretary and John Darbee treasurer. The elections took place last week at a meeting of the old and new members of the council.

Estes has been active in many fields during his three years at Alma. As a sophomore, he was president of his class, and this year, besides representing his class on the student governing body, was chairman of the J.Hop committee and directed a party that was a marked success. Estes is a varsity football man, a star debater, and was recently admitted to the Drama Club. While participating in all these activities, he has earned practically all of his expenses by swiping, working on the athletic fields, and as house manager of Zeta Sigma, and has maintained better than a B average.

Lawrence "Bull" Smith, of Alma, the new student marshal, is a star tackle on the football team, and is also noted for a fine baritone voice. He is the type of man who will command the respect of the students in enforcing the rules of the council.

Claire Wilson, of Clawson, and Marjorie Morrison, of Manistique, while they have been elected to the Student Council for the first time, have been active for three years in class and society functions. Claire also holds the all-time record for consistency in the oratorical contests, having taken second place three years in a row. Both girls are members of the A Cappella choir.

John Darbee, a sophomore from Caro, is another of the noted graduates of Clawson High School, and has had a year and a half at Michigan Tech.

SENIORS SWING OUT IN CAPS AND GOWNS

The annual senior swing out took place Wednesday morning of last week, and when the mighty Seniors in their caps and gowns marched into the chapel, everyone knew that the class was leaving a big hole in the student body to be filled next year. The question, of course, is, "Is there any class that can take the place of the class of '33?"

Miss Roberts was at the piano and the strains of her lively march brought everyone to his feet to pay tribute to the graduates-to-be.

After the seniors had taken their places, the whole group joined in singing an old favorite hymn, "God of Our Fathers", and the Prof. Ewer sang "Invictus".

Instead of delivering the usually hackneyed swing out speech, President Crooks read some delightful passages from a number of books, wherein various great men referred to the happiness of their school days. The whole program left the impression that college days will be a source of very pleasant memories to those who are leaving.

The chapel service ended with the singing of the Alma Mater.

WOMEN'S TENNIS

The annual women's tennis tournament got under way last week, with all the first round matches played. Helen Vincent, the defending champion, won her first match from Jane Allen rather easily, 6-2, 6-1. Phyllis Hupy, runner up last year, was defeated by Jane Edwards in a hard fought match, 7-5, 6-3. In the other matches, Phyllis Randall defeated Jane Rice, Frances Rice defeated Jean McGarvan, and Annabel DeKraker defaulted to Isabelle Sanderson.

Program Is Full For Commencement Week

Class of 1933 Has Outstanding Students

In the senior class that graduates this week, while it is considerably smaller than that of last year, are quite a number of outstanding students, and many who have contributed in other ways to college life. Since we have no annual to recount their accomplishments, it might be well to mention here a few of the outstanding ones, for they certainly deserve recognition.

Mary Louise Peters, of Rochester, regardless of the grades she gets this semester, will depart from Alma with one of the best scholarship records in the history of the school. Coming here with an all-A high school record, Miss Peters continued the good work, and during her first seven semesters has received only one B, in a three hour course. All the rest of her work has been A. It might be well to add that she has never indulged in that well-known sport of "picking the courses." She has been on the Library staff for four years, and last summer was one of the girls who worked in Wright Hall all summer. This year she was president of the Wright Hall Senate, and was general chairman of the Y. W. C. A. Christmas party for the welfare children. She is president of the honor society, Phi Sigma Pi.

Another student with a brilliant record is Lillian Ogle, of Uby. Majoring in chemistry, a task not very often attempted by a girl, nevertheless she has compiled an imposing string of A's, with just a sprinkling of B's, in that and her other subjects.

Albert Calkins, of Sebawaing, the leading student among the men of the class, is a chemist par excellence. He has assisted Dr. Kaufman a great deal in his private lab, and has done exceptional work all along. Calkins was class president his junior year, and has served as head swipe this year.

William Goggin, of Alma, senior class president, is another scientist of note. His accomplishments lie along the lines of physics and math, where he has almost an all-A record. Goggin has been president of the Student Council this year, and has always been one of Prof. Ewer's standbys in the bass section.

Alice Biondi, of Chicago, found herself loaded down with executive offices at the beginning of this year. She was president of her society, Alpha Theta, of the Y. W. C. A., of the A Cappella Choir, and vice president of the Drama club. Her work in the last-named group includes two stellar performances in very difficult roles. She was the editor of a very good Co-Ed edition of the Almanian this year. She has served on the Student Council and held other class offices.

Ronald Hinshaw, of Traverse City, is one of the chief promoters of the well-known Alma spirit. His hard work and clever chatter on the football field won him the title last year of "peppiest player in the MIAA." As chairman of the Boosters Club for the past year and a half, he has done much as a leader in their activities, especially in the matter of advertising the school.

Nancibel Thorburn, Royal Oak, is winner of the coveted Michigan scholarship. While maintaining a high scholastic record, she has been a leader in the Wright Hall Senate and the International Relations Club. She won the local women's oratorical this year and represented the school in the district contest at Mt. Pleasant, where she again took first place.

DEBATE LETTERS

After a reasonably successful year for the debate teams, six men are to receive their A pins in debate. Herbert Estes, Ray Hallin, Arthur Boynton, and Robert King debated throughout the season, Boynton and Hallin taking turns as second man for the negative. Louis Meisel and Hugh Breneman debated enough at the first of the season to earn their pins. The prospects for next year's teams are pretty good with all these men coming back and the expectation of a large freshman class.

With exams over, the college is getting ready for the really serious business of graduating its seniors. Already they have partaken of their last communion service together at the "college church," and received their last official message from their president at the Baccalaureate service on Sunday night. The rest of this week is full of special programs for the seniors, plus the routine of farewells and final packings up.

The big event of Commencement Week is the concert tomorrow night by the A Cappella Choir. After a year of harder work than any musical group on this campus has ever undergone, practicing regularly twice a week, with little reward save the fun of singing, Prof. Ewer's chorus of sixty voices is ready to give us probably the finest exhibition of A Cappella music that Alma has ever known. We predict a full house, so go early.

Thursday morning is a special treat for the members of the graduating class—a breakfast in their honor at the home of President and Mrs. Crooks. Since the president and his wife are known as entertainers par excellence, the seniors are looking forward to a most enjoyable morning.

Friday, the alumni come to the fore, although the seniors are not entirely out of the picture. At nine o'clock is the Farewell Chapel service, with presentation of letters and other awards in oratory, debate and athletics. A number of seniors will receive special sweaters, the gift of the Student Council, for service in athletics extending over two or more seasons. At ten o'clock is the annual meeting of the board of trustees, who after deliberating over the problems of the college, will meet with the faculty for a luncheon in the grove.

In the afternoon, a golf tournament for faculty, alumni and students is scheduled. In the last few years interest in this tournament has not been great enough to get it under way, but it is hoped that this year will find all the members of the above named groups that swing a club out trying to outdo each other. Also in the afternoon, at four o'clock, is a tea given by Dean Steward for the mothers of the seniors in Wright Hall.

At six o'clock on Friday, the alumni are to gather in the First Baptist church for the annual alumni dinner and business meeting. During the past few years the Alumni Association has grown to be a large and active organization, and these banquets have been the means of strengthening the association. All alumni who are to be here for the Commencement program are urged to attend.

At 8:15, with the campus decorated with Chinese lanterns, the seniors will make their final tour of the campus in the Senior Promenade. They will bid farewell to the buildings, and all those who care to follow them will hear the reading of the ever-interesting and amusing documents, the class history, prophecy and will. These last have been in the making for several weeks and promise to be masterpieces.

Following the promenade, Dr. and Mrs. Crooks again play host and hostess, this time to all the members of the college family and its friends, in an informal reception at the President's home.

Saturday is the big day, when

EDITORIAL

C'EST FINI

It is with regret that we come to the end of a most enjoyable year, and lay down the editorial pen for the last time. While we have had our share of troubles, on the whole we feel that our work has not been in vain. We have tried to give you the news, well-written, serious when the occasion demanded, not so serious otherwise. We hope that none has been offended by any unkind statements we have made; we hope you have been pleased with the paper.

It is unfortunate that, since the closing of the banks, we have been unable to publish the paper every week; altogether there have been four less issues than last year. That we regret especially, but it's just one of those things that has to happen.

And now, to drop the well-known editorial "we", (I hope that the rest of the staff are with me on the above statements) I wish to thank sincerely all those who have helped so loyally to keep the paper full of good readable material. If the paper has been a success, it is because I have had the whole-hearted cooperation of every member of the staff, and a number of others who have assisted from time to time.

And I wish to add a special word for the business manager, Irwin Nichol, and the circulation manager, Margery Spendlove, who have worked hard and faithfully on the "dirty jobs" of the publication, and received as their only reward more work. They deserve a good deal of praise for their service.

To the new editor, Edith Davis, we of the staff of 1932-33 extend our congratulations and best wishes. We have the utmost confidence in her ability, and are sure that she will make a name for herself as one of the best. Bon voyage!
John Hurst.

FOR SENIORS ONLY

President Crooks, in his Baccalaureate address, offered the members of the graduating class a wonderful challenge: "We must make our own jobs; we must give the world something new." Of course the prospects are on the whole blue, but we have here a ray of hope that ought to send us all out on the great adventure to do something that will really count.

We have the stuff to do it. In ability we probably do not surpass any other class that ever passed out of this college, but if we can keep that old Alma spirit that has characterized our school life, we will show the others that we won't be daunted by any adverse conditions we have to face. The college has done a lot for us; now let's see what we can do for the college.

ALUMNI BANQUET

Leon Colvoord, of Allegan, prominent alumnus who graduated in the class of 1913, will be the guest speaker at the annual Alma College Alumni banquet, to be held Friday evening at six o'clock at the Baptist Church. Many alumni are expected back for the banquet and Commencement exercises Saturday morning, June 17, and will doubtless be guests at the Commencement luncheon at noon on Saturday. Among those from out of town who have indicated their intention to return are the Rev. John Broek, class of 1903, pastor of the Trinity Reformed church, Plainfield, New Jersey; Lester Sharp, of the biology department in Cornell University; Col. Frank Knox, editor of the Chicago Daily News; the Rev. John Wirt Dunning, Kalamazoo, and Miss Alice Marsh, formerly Y. W. C. A. secretary at Dayton, Ohio. Miss Marsh has been a guest of the college for the past few days, and was a graduate with the class of 1902.

The banquet menu will consist of scalloped chicken, mashed potatoes, salad, strawberry shortcake, coffee, and buns. Following the dinner there will be election of officers for the coming year, and a general discussion of plans for the forthcoming Alma College Jubilee. Those in charge of arrangements include Robert Baker, president; Mrs. Mary Johnson Clark, vice president, and Chester R. Robinson, secretary.

COMMENCEMENT WEEK HAS FULL PROGRAM

forty-odd young people tuck under their arms those elaborated specimens of Latin composition vulgarly known as "sheepskins" and start out in their attack on life. Starting from Wright Hall at 9:45, the candidates will march behind the faculty in the academic procession, to arrive at the gymnasium at 10:00, when the Commencement exercises are to begin. Dr. A. G. Studer, whom we have mentioned before as a leader in Y. M. C. A. work for over forty years in Detroit, and a trustee of the college, is to deliver the address. Following the program is the Commencement luncheon at Wright Hall, when the class of '33 sings its swan song and joins Alma's great band of alumni.

The following seniors will receive their degrees:

Nelson Abernethy, Port Huron; Doris Amsbury, Alma; John Anderson, Marlette; Shirley Barton, Gregory; Katherine Berry, Alma; Alice Biondi, Chicago; Norman Borton, Alma; Louis Braddock, East Tawas; Freedom Burget, Marlette; Florence Burlingame, Chesaning; Albert Calkins, Sablewaing; Katherine Campbell, Alma; Marie Cook, Alpena; Eleanor Curtis, London, Ontario; Vincent D'Angelo, New York City.

William Goggin, Alma; Ronald Hinshaw, Traverse City; John Hurst, Alma; Edward Jacobson, Newberry; Charles Leadbetter, Detroit; Orindo Luchini, Alma; Dean Laginbill, Detroit; Catherine McCuaig, Alma; Clifford McEvers, Clawson; Jean McGarvah, Detroit; Harold Matteson, Muskegon; Irwin Nichol, Ionia; Lillian Ogle, Ubley; Dean Parr, Big Rapids; Mary Louise Peters, Rochester; Mrs. Mable Quail, Alma.

phers who know values in terms of human welfare.

"That we are in a mood to welcome political daring is one of the thrilling revelations of the past three months. Courage and fearlessness, coupled with imagination and insight, have been at work in the White House . . . Fact-finding that smacks of the university laboratory is being followed by fearless action and firm demand."

And again, in regard to the money question: "The suggestion I'm trying to make is that fortunes will be made—and better than that, services rendered to society—by many of your day who dared to leave the beaten tracks of established processes and accepted ideas. There will still be new teaching processes, new chemical processes and discoveries, new applications of the laws of physics . . ." and many more were mentioned.

The big need of today was stressed in a demand for faith: "If we could only remove fear from the hearts of the peoples of earth and substitute faith! And faith is an adventure. If faith could—and it cannot—be made certainty, then all the beneficent influences of faith would be removed . . . Faith in individuals is just as much needed. If we could—tomorrow—but wake up, all of us in America, with complete faith in our banks and our bankers, absolute trust in our rulers and our governors and our legislators, assured trust in our trust companies, steadfast belief in our business associates—I say, if such a miracle could be wrought, the humming of the wheels of industry would unite with the shouts and songs of happy people everywhere."

ALPHA THETA ELECTION

Alpha Theta held its election last night for officers for the first semester next year. Helen Vincent, Saginaw, was elected president. Other officers are: Vice president—Alice Girvin. Recording secretary—Evelyn MacCurdy.

Corresponding secretary—Helen Walker.

Treasurer—Marian Laman. Keeper of the archives—Constance Clack.

Sentinel—Marion Cook. Almanian reporter—Marian Nummer.

The Alma College Booster Club, working in conjunction with the publicity department of the college, has passed another successful year in its efforts toward advertising the school. With the trio going out very frequently to sing in high schools, and professors accompanying them and speaking, the school has achieved a wider popularity among the younger people than ever before.

Basketball Championship Crowns Athletic Achievements.

The year has been a very interesting one a fair amount of sports are concerned with the Scots. The football team did not win a M. I. A. A. game but the season was not unsuccessful. The basketball team won the M. I. A. A. pennant in basketball, and naturally the season was extremely successful. In track, the Varsity did not win in any dual meet but took enough points to get third in the M. I. A. A. Field Day. The tennis team did not win a meet, but again the season was not unsuccessful.

Intra-mural basketball was started near the close of the basketball season, and enough interest was aroused to form ten teams. Not only did the players themselves take an interest, for Wright Hull girls and their escorts witnessed the games and other athletic contests provided. Wrestling and boxing became very popular and the following was large. Varsity intra-mural also became popular with the spectators. Four baseball teams were organized and sufficient interest brought about a game with an intra-mural team from Central State Teachers.

In giving a summary of the year, the football naturally comes first. Eleven veterans graduated the previous year, so Coach Campbell had to start in with inexperienced men. To add to all the handicaps, Captain Norman Albert Burton returned with his old injury to his side, so both defensive and offensive play was weakened. The green Scots battled against the Spartans in the opener and were shut out, 93 to 0. Although completely outweighed, the Scots put up a fight throughout the game.

The next game was with Michigan Normal at Ypsi, and though the team played better ball all around they were again shut out, -1 to 0. But then Ypsi had one of the best teams in the state. Injuries again seemed to spoil Alma's chances. The next game was with the hardest team in the M. I. A. A., Hillsdale, the defending champions with a bigger team than ever. The game at Holland was a tough one to lose. A long pass put the ball within scoring distance and then they went over. Borton later attempted to kick from behind his own goal, but the 40 mile an hour wind took the ball back over his head for a safety and Alma came back defeated again, 9 to 0. Homecoming saw Alma again go down to defeat, as Albion took the annual classic, 19 to 0.

The Scots then went down to Kazoo where a field goal by Ted Thomas in the last few minutes gave the Hornets a 3 to 0 victory over the Scots. Then came the final game of the year with Central State. The Bearcats were favorites almost live to one. But the Scots came back in this final game to take the decision 9 to 0 in a thrilling game.

A different chapel program was held at the conclusion of the season instead of a football banquet. A radio program was put on reviewing the current season, and then Miles Casteel of Michigan State gave an address. The letters to the Varsity accompanied with the remarks necessary by Coach Argyle.

Basketball started two weeks after the football season. Three veterans returned from a fifth place team the year before. Borton was the only senior, and Dawson and Kahn were the juniors. John Volk, six foot four center, added to the stature of the team, making four of the live varsity players six feet or over. Howard Cathennan, considerably less than six feet, worked at the other guard and did a remarkable piece of work.

Two games were scheduled as preliminaries with independent teams in the north. The Charlevoix Polar Bears were humbled 58 to 22 as Borton made his ten baskets count. Johnny Volk pulled the Traverse City Elks' game out of the fire with three baskets in the last few minutes. Three former College stars played with the Elks who were coached by Gordon McDonald, 26.

The regular schedule started off with Kalamazoo and the Scots won the opener 31 to 24 and Kelly Beach came back with a nickname. The next night Battle Creek College was turned back 42 to 30. Hillsdale came up here with a big team, but Alma took the Dales 34 to 28, after Selby went out on fouls. Hope, who had done so well against the defending champs, Olivet, was sent home with the small end of a 48 to 31 score. The Scots set a new modern record in the Memorial Gym by scoring 100 points against Battle Creek College's 24. Against Albion the next week, the Scots scored 40 points in the first half to set a new M. I. A. A. record, and finally came through with a 55 to 34 victory.

Between semesters, Central State took a 35 to 29 decision from the Scots at Mt. Pleasant, and Michigan Normal, another one 33 to 27, at Ypsi two nights afterward. Then Olivet came up for the classic of the year. The score was even the first half, but a second half spurt gave Alma the game 43 to 27. Hillsdale tried to stop the Flying Scots there, but the game ended 45 to 32 for the Campbellmen.

With three men sick before the game, the Scots were forced to drop a game to Olivet in the McKay gym 23 to 25. Albion couldn't stop the Scot- there, 40 to 29 and Kalamazoo was stopped here 33 to 28. Two non-association games

Post-election dope: There's one thing the Phis and Zeta agree on—811-Blue.

Alice (Wildan') Wolley tried to pull a Lady Godiva down at the old swimmin' hole and almost had to come home in a barrel. You will dive for swimming suits!

Prof Clack—"No, Gordy isn't here. He just borrowed a nickel off me, so he probably has a date."

Notice how Grube always picks a girl with a car? Just in case Louis might be out of town.

Spendlove went home to be a bridesmaid. Don't worry, Margy, you've got two more times to go.

And still another Joe E. Brown—the synthetic redhead has pushed her boy friend out of the picture. Like Gunsell, she talks a lot of good strokes.

We always knew that Smitty needed a nursemaid, and of course the name Junior suggests one.

Glance says so many people call him Aloysius that he forgets to get mad.

When Teuny has a heel torn on her shoe, grass stains on her dress, and bruises from head to toe, and Colbeck has his shirt almost torn off, can we help suspecting a new revival of an old fight extra?

These immodest boys! Olmstead, Nichol and Estes appeared at Turek's in trunks, and got sent home for more.

Add funny sights: Bill Johnson, last Thursday night, rolling a tire down the street with one hand and holding an ice cream cone in the other.

Clizbe Universal has nothing on the Grand Haven Cosmopolitan: Little Netherlands Osterhaus, Little Glasgow Campbell, Little Jerusalem Hirschberg and Little Warsaw Glance. And they're all in Dutch!

Tomes took the girls out for a boat ride, and Gert Elliot had to row back. Earle, when will you learn?

Bishop Leyrer gets an awful beating from the other history students—shoulder slapping, under-the-ribs-pokes, etc., and all he does is smile sweetly and says "Nertz, Herman!"

Buck has a spring song: "What is this glue that makes palms stick together this nice spring weather?"

Borton's big weakness is mosquitoes. The gang had a picnic and he couldn't take it.

Johnson says: "I hope there's no Rice thrown at my wedding."

Introducing the master chiseler—Flossie Gunsell now listens to the Dawson radio.

We do an entirely unprecedented thing when we offer our last bouquet of the year to Prexy for a darn good baccalaureate address.

From Wright Hall's most fastidious co-ed: Will the gentlemen who wear white linen knickers please get petticoats?

Connie Clack was in her glory this week-end, with the old high school sweetheart. Show Saturday night and Crystal Sunday.

"Darn you, get off my mattress!" Just five little W. H. maidens holding a roof party on the balcony.

And now, dear children, we close the Campusology for the year. Even if you haven't enjoyed us, we, as the surgeon said, have found a lot to laugh at in you. We've tried to write it in the best of spirits (no, not what you mean, Smitty) and we hope you've taken it the same way. Just a few boys and girls trying to keyhole our way through college. Signed: Shadow Hurst, the original Gunshoes.

Sniff and Snoop, the last of the Argyles.

Keyhole Kittie, the Klawson Kibitzer.

Daisy Day, the Daring Detective. Picture Picker, the Petoskey Pest.

Olfertory, The Answer (Wolstenholm)—Miss Roberts.

The Living God (O'Hara)—Mrs. Ruth Moore.

I Wrestle and Pray (J. S. Bach). Czecho-Slovakian Dance Song. (Arr. by Krone).

Let Thy Blessed Spirit, Tscheknokoff).

Alma Mater (R. Hamilton). A Cappella Choir—

The clever cartoons that have adorned our sports page this year, plus the very appropriate decorations at the head of our campusology column, have been the work of Leslie Struble. Struble not only draws the designs, but cuts them out in the composition from which the cuts are cast. This demands much finer work than ordinary drawing. The Almanian is very grateful to Mr. Struble for his work.

BOUND COPIES
Since the annual has been discontinued, the only way of keeping a compact, complete record of the year's activities is to have a bound copy of all the Almanians for the year. These may be obtained at a lower price than ever before—$1.25. Order yours now!
