Spendlove Is Re-Elected To Edit Almanian

Herb Spendlove, Merrill junior, was re-elected editor of the Almanian over Carl Wahsten in the campus election which closed at noon, May 29. Vic Fox, sophomore of Alpena, defeated Stewart McFadden of Alma for the position of Business Manager. Other officers elected were the President of the Athletic Board, Manager of Oratory and Debate and the officers of the sophomore, junior and senior classes.

The position of President of the Athletic Board was won by Don McKeith who defeated Bill Carr. Harold Draper was victorious over Wilbur McCrum in the race for the office of Manager of Oratory and Debate.

In the junior class elections, Art Russell was defeated by Charles McLean for the presidency. Elected to the vice presidency was Mavis Harrison who polled over Margaret Conrad. The secretary of next year's senior class will be Lois Goldie who defeated Connie Sieg by a narrow margin. Marvin Koffman was defeated by Eugene Nixon in the competition for the

61 Seniors Set For Alma's 53rd Graduation; Exercises to Take Place in Memorial Gym Saturday

The sixty-one graduating seniors of Alma College's class of 1940 are hurrying with the last minute preparations for Commencement week and its full program which will begin June 9. At 11:00 A.M. of that date a farewell communion will be held in the First Presbyterian church. That evening at 7:30 Dr. Dunning will deliver the baccalaureate address at the church.

A special breakfast in the Wright hall dining room will open the activities of Senior Class Day, which will be held on June 13. The college kiltie band will present a concert at 8:15 that evening on the campus. Following the concert, the senior promenade and farewell to the buildings will take place.

The annual meeting of the Board of Trustees will be held at 10:00 A.M. on Alumni Day, Friday, June 14. During the afternoon an informal tea will be given for the mothers of seniors. In the evening there will be an Alumni dinner and business meeting. The A Capella choir will give a concert in Bahlke field at 8:30. Following the choir concert there will be a reception at 9:30 in the President's House.

An academic procession from Wright hall to Memorial gymnasium will start the program of commencement day at 9:45, June 15. Commencement exercises will start at 10:00 A.M. in the Memorial gymnasium. Rev. Henry Hitt Crane, pastor of the Central Methodist church of Detroit, will deliver the commencement address.

Prof. Hamilton to Speak at Marquette Sunday

Prof. Roy W. Hamilton will present the baccalaureate address at Northern State Teacher's College at Marquette on Sunday, June 9.

On June 13 Prof. Hamilton will speak at the commencement exercises of Alpena high school. In the morning of May 30, Prof. Hamilton delivered a memorial address in St. Louis and in the afternoon of the same day he presented a similar talk at a Memorial service in Breckenridge.

On June 2, he will speak at the First Presbyterian church in Ypsilanti.

New Staff To Take Over In The Fall

Herb Spendlove, the first Editor of the Almanian to be re-elected in the history of the paper, has recently named the editorial staff of the Almanian for next year.

George H. DeHority, a member of this year's reporting staff, will act as Associate Editor when the activities of the paper begin again in September. Jack Crittenden will fill the position of Sports Editor. Art Russel and Marvin Koffman have been chosen to work as Co-News Editors. The new Editorial Directors will be Stewart McFadden, Betty Cleland and Eloise Allen. Virginia Wilson will act as proof reader.

The remaining members of the editorial staff and those who will work as reporters next year will be chosen in the fall.

Roving Reporter Puts the "Bee" on the Seniors

The inquiring reporter has been roaming around for the past few days asking the graduating seniors just what was the most important lesson that they have learned in their four years in college. At the same time some of the seniors told of their plans for the future.

Ruth Niles says she got four years' worth of knowledge. Ruth plans to work in Alma's First State Bank after she is graduated.

Virginia Maze says that she learned how to live with other people in the dormitory, and that she gained sufficient knowledge. Ginny will teach the third and fourth grades in Hesperia next year.

Jane Fraker said, "I learned how to get along with people and I found out how little I really know."

The fellowship that is found in college has been most important to Hugh Cook who will study at

Concert Series Set For 1941 In Saginaw

Alma College students will be privileged again next year to attend the Saginaw Community Concert Series. Many students have availed themselves of this opportunity in past years to gain a well-rounded education in adding music-appreciation as a vital part of their college education.

Concert-followers will be glad to learn that the New York Philharmonic Symphony orchestra under the direction of John Barbirolli has been engaged to open the concert season next fall.

The American dramatic soprano, Helen Traubel, who next season is scheduled to take over the Wagnerian roles of Kirsten Flagstad at the Metropolitan, heads the list of artist-recitals for the tenth anniversary season of the concerts in Saginaw. Miss Traubel, a native of St. Louis, Mo., won critical acclaim this past season in Wagnerian roles and has loomed as the only logical successor to the great Flagstad at the Metropolitan Opera.

The other artists engaged are Rudolf Serkin, the Bohemian pi-

Successful Season Ends For Kilties

Bahlke Field will be the site of a concert to be given by the Alma College band at 8:00 p.m. Thursday, June 13.

The college band, which is one of the three kiltie bands in the United States, will soon end another successful season. At the Blossom Festival in Benton Harbor, the Kiltie band made one of its finest showings of the year and was highly praised.

The program for the band concert will run as follows:

the University of Michigan Medical School next year.

Amelia Arnold said, "I've found some wonderful friends among the faculty and students. The thing I'll miss most is the choir." Amelia plans to teach public speaking, English, and maybe French.

Eileen Sullivan is planning to teach English and Latin in New York State. Eileen contributes, "I learned how to read fluently, and I learned that other things besides knowledge are important. I also learned how to play 'Russian Bank'."

Sally Hinkley hasn't definitely made her plans for next year. Sally says, "I've learned how to be more broad-minded."

Margaret Arnold plans to teach English, journalism, and French. Margaret quotes, "My friends are the most important thing to me, because I think people are the most important things in the world."

It's Great to be an Editor!

Along about this time of the year, every college editor writes an editorial telling what a great year it has been and signs it dramatically with a "30", the newspaperman's code for the end of a story. Why I should write such a touching piece is more than I can figure out. Anyway you look at it, this has been a terrible year.

In the first place, some students didn't like the idea of a shorter dirt column or the eliminating of it altogether, followed by an almost unanimous disapproval of The Almanian by certain groups. Not long after that a few of the reporters failed to click and when I bawled them out I gained the dislike of part of my staff.

I've had trouble with the printers because I didn't or couldn't get the copy in on time. I've had to work until midnight and sometimes later every Sunday and Monday. I've been blamed for releasing news stories too early or too late, and if the story of some group wasn't written just the way they wanted it, I was accused of intentionally "playing down" their activities.

I've had discussions with various administration and faculty members, often on the taking end, and I have cut classes in order to get editions out on time.

All in all, it has been a terrible year. But do I wish it hadn't happened to me? Certainly not! It has been the greatest year of my life, and nobody can take it away from me.

I would like to thank my staff of associates; especially Jack Crittenden, George DeHority, Marvin Koffman, Virginia Hardgrove, Katie Thomson, and Betty Cleland, also Sud Hayden who, I believe, has done a swell job on this, the annual Freshman Edition. I thank Morley Webb for his work on the business end of the staff which has made The Almanian possible.

Next year, after a year of more or less experimentation, I have plans for a bigger and better paper which will require more writers. The columns of The Almanian are open to all and I invite anyone to use them.

Morley Webb and myself wish to thank the merchants of Alma who have advertised in the paper during the year. We hope their advertising has benefitted them.

Until next year—"30."

(Signed) Herb Spendlove.

Society News

Well, I'm sorry to say I don't think my column will be its usual witty self today because there really isn't any news.

The K. I.'s had quite a shindig I hear out at the Midland Country club. The tables were decorated gayly with spring flowers for center pieces. Speaking of flowers, did you see the vice-president sporting an orchid? Her date was no other than the old maestro, Bob Spencer.

The Casa Royal gave forth sweet tunes for the dance lovers. The little president, Anita Byron, all decked out in red-chiffon and American beauty roses, cut a mean figure on the dance floor with Roger DeNoyelles.

Honors go to the social chairman, Lois Goldie, a pretty good little arranger, dontcha think? Well, there went the last party of the year. T'was fun though—Yes sir, quite a year.

The Pi Sigma Nu's had a picnic last night at Conservation park. Margaret Elliott had charge and they entertained their sponsors.

The Phi's walked out on the gals last Tuesday and had a picnic all by themselves. Cliff Carter and Morley Webb said that it gave the more bashful boys a chance to get out and shine.

The Alpha Thetas are planning a picnic for their senior members. Mary Lou Williams is planning quite a program too. This time the water will be warm enough to go in, Tommie.

The Deltas are the bashful type; they wouldn't leave the girls at home. They had stacks of hamburgers, pop, and all kinds of games Decoration day out at the Lumberjack park. The faculty seemed quite anxious to get home as dusk began to fall, but they couldn't budge Howe, Peterson, Gillert, Cook, and some of the other young Casanovas.

Pioneer hall opened its doors to the public last Sunday afternoon. They had lots of fun showing visitors in and out of the ancient rooms. Mr. Volpel looked on as a proud father would, seeing his boys acting like such nice young gentlemen. Yes, I'm talking about the frosh boys. They're practically sophomores now.

Well that just about winds up everything for the year, doesn't it? I hope you all have a nice vacation and I'll be seeing you next year. Hey?

On the Campus

Big K. I. formal Satiddy night... Conrad and the Bill put in an appearance... Jack an Eddie sit this one out... and that one too... Mary Baker gives Doug the Bird and whistles for a little blonde number from State to take his place... Jeanne's Willis delays the party with a flat tire... Mary Goedwyn with a delicious import... Whose fault was it, Bill? We don't know... Well, the last of this year's formals, hey?...

Thursday, the delts fling a party at Lumberjack Park via the Sandbanks... Busses n'everything... Thomson goes domestic, fries hamburgers, while Duvendeck amuses the crowd... Galinet had his hands and a careful... Kinney and Hardgrove wander through groves and things... Betty Hamilton hits the ball on the nose... Mary Jane and Matty were there... but not together...

Someone gave Pioneer the homey touch what with all the lilacs tossed about... Mr. Volpel's idea?... Some Petty's even we haven't seen before... A few textbooks lying about, open too... Princess Pat Smith didn't start crying until Prof took her in to see Ducky's room...

Still the steadiest couple on the campus—Ginna Maze and Clancy... Lots of hearts are going to be broken in a couple of weeks... Duke Sterling is back in our midst... And we wanted to hear you sing in chapel that day, Duke... Silena and her silver sandals... Ramsey has changed his mind. Its Alaska instead of Pango-Pango this time... We like Bud and Phyllis Taylor... Also Fulton and Verna, Esquire and Mademoiselle...

It's been an edifying year for us freshmen... Not all book-learning either... We've learned that the people we liked first aren't the ones we'd write to this summer. And could give millions of examples if we wanted this dirt colyum dirty-like... However, we will state that we were wrong about Woodrow. But could we know the first time we saw him? All we could see was paddle pops...

Excuse, but somehow the fact that this little old year is nigh over has just beamed us and we may get maudlin... But do you remember "The Man that Comes Around" every five minutes in the State?... And Black Wednesday, or was it green, between semesters?... And the first time we woke up in the middle of the night shouting "Draw two?" And Barney Roepke's little talk the first day we were here?...

Why don't we pin a few medals, just to be nice?... There's always Prof. Spencer who worked so hard to keep us in our places... And Bernecker, who got typed as a heavy for scaring all the freshman girls... Duck Smith, for being so irresistibly irresponsible... Neil Lysski, for being so consistently surly... Tullis, for wearing that red sweater and those striped pants... George Dehority, because he's a sweet kid, even if we don't like the company we see him in... Mavis, on account of that beautiful black eye... Louise Marshall because she's always there... Johnny True, because his reputation is still intact... Krall, because he really doesn't bite... Jean Taylor, for making us sit up and listen...

In Appreciation

As editor of the freshman edition of the Almanian, I would like to express my appreciation for the loyal support of the Freshman staff. I would especially like to thank Betty Polson, Wally Moore, Eloise Allen and Kay Thomson for the work they have done in the desire that this edition would be a success.

The whole staff would like to thank Herb Spendlove for the advice and many other helps he has given us in the preparation of this freshman edition.

Brick bats usually go with orchids and there's one enormous one we'd like to have, but it might go through a first floor window... Another brick bat to the local band. The emblem was upside down or something... We didn't know how patriotic Vic was until this week... We've been thinking those were blitzkreigs he's been serving for lunch... The one thing we can't figure out is why Welgoss wears his sweater inside outside... What will we do without 'Scoop' Jones and his newsreel at the local shootin' gallery? We always go, just in case... And won't it seem strange to walk home at night without having a light flashed in your face?...

Other Problems of the Day
Mr. Volpel, will you sign this excuse for me?

Mr. Volpel, are there any chances of my getting an A in Math?

Mr. Volpel, I just had a conference with Dr. Dunning. He sent me to see you.

Mr. Volpel, have you any iodine? Mr. Volpel, has the Reader's Digest been returned?

Mr. Volpel, did you see all that water on the floor upstairs?

Mr. Volpel, can I borrow your compasses?

Mr. Volpel, can you lend me two dollars until Saturday?

Mr. Volpel, can I have a new lock put on my door?

Mr. Volpel, did you write that letter to my parents?

Mr. Volpel, how can I get excused to go home Saturday?

Mr. Volpel, can I have the key to the store to get a package of cigarettes?

Mr. Volpel, do you think it will rain this afternoon? We have a tennis match.

Mr. Volpel, have you got a match?

Mr. Volpel, have you any tape of any kind?

Mr. Volpel, have you the correct time? And so on through the day!

The World In Review

By DAVE KINNEY

Germany claimed to have captured 1,000,000 Allied troops during the "mop up" campaign on the channel ports. She also declared that Nazi fliers sunk ten transports and four battleships, including the Nelson, British flagship of the home fleet.

France announced that she is ready for any German assault that might be made upon Paris. At the same time the Ministry of War admitted that the French army was retreating locally for "strategic reasons." It's nice to be so confident. French civilians have suffered severely from German air attacks upon Marsailles, Lyon, and other cities in southern France.

From Moscow came the report that the Russian army is ready to move if either Germany or Italy endangers their interests in the Balkans. At the time this article went to press it appeared that Italy's bluff might become a reality within a fortnight. The nation has been on a war-time basis for some time now, with new orders being issued daily. Turkey is reported to have Greece's permission to cross her soil if Italy enters the war. The French army and the British navy are awaiting the signal to bombard and devastate Italy as soon as she decides the "kill" is near.

From London we are made to believe that nearly all the British soldiers from Flanders have been evacuated, although they gave no indication of just how many there were. As far as neutral observers can determine over half of the British forces in Flanders are "missing."

Here in America congress passed, 56 to 4, a plan to transfer the immigration and naturalization service from the labor to the justice department. Martin Dies reported to congress that he had reliable information telling him that German agents were pouring into Mexico.

String Ensemble is the Most Progressive

During this past year one of the least publicized but most progressive units of the music department has been the String Ensemble.

Last fall Miss Beryl Harrison accepted the Herculean task of making something—anything—out of the remaining remnant of last year's group. For material she had six violins, a cello, and a double bass. Starting with mediocre talent, inadequate musical arrangements, and under a psychological disadvantage in that the Ensemble had always been the dark ruminant of the genus Ovis of the department, Miss Harrison quickly sized up the apparently hopeless situation and laid plans accordingly.

The extent of her success may be easily determined upon consideration of several facts. During the past six months the Ensemble has appeared before audiences totalling two thousand people. Not receiving an allowance from the Student Council, nor requesting one, the Ensemble approaches the end of the year with a substantial financial balance. Equipment and music have been purchased in anticipation of a larger membership in years to come.

CONCERT SERIES

With the Coolidge String Quartet with Erno Balogh, pianist, and a joint concert of Norman Gordon, bass baritone, and Marcel Hubert, the French cellist.

Rudolf Serkin made his American debut in 1933 with the Coolidge String quartet, which also appears on next year's concert series, and has since played as guest soloist with the New York, Philadelphia, Boston, San Francisco and others of the famous symphony orchestras of this country and abroad. Balogh, who has gained recognition the past few years as a solo pianist, for many years was the accompanist of Bette Lehmann Hubert, to be heard with Gordon in joint recital, made his Paris debut at the age of 14.

Prof. Grace D. Roberts has been re-elected this year to the Board of Directors of the Saginaw Community Concert association for a three year term of office, and will again manage the Alma College concert drive, assisted in arrangements by George H. DeHority.

office of treasurer. The juniors elected to the student council were Betty Thomas, Lois Friedrich, Bob Hanzel and Jeanne Speerstra.

Clancy Hoogerland won over Keith Carey for the office of president of next year's junior class while Phyllis Koepfgen defeated Ann Wacker for the vice presidency. Anna Jean Sherman was elected secretary over Betty Cleland and Bruce Lindley won the position of treasurer over a tie between Bruce Kane and Max Crandall. The Student Council representatives elected by the sophomore class were Vic Fox, Bruce Mellinger and Carra Jones.

In the competition for offices among the freshmen, Don Gillard triumphed over Dave Kinney and Warren Heitman to gain the presidency. The position of vice president was won by Elizabeth Miller who out-pollied Connie Grimes, Kay Peshke, and Marion Metcalf. Phyllis Sowton was elected secretary over Bill Galinet and Georgianna Tuck while Jack Crandall defeated Paul Hurrell and George Orluck for the office of treasurer. Katie Thomson, Maurice Willits and Catherine Root were elected to represent next year's sophomore class in the Student Council.
