Soc. Pupils Tour Epileptic Colony

Thirty Visit State Institution at Wahjamega Thursday.

Thirty sociology students traveled to Wahjamega, the Michigan Farm Colony for Epileptics, last Thursday. The tour was arranged by Miss Steward through Dr. Dixon, head of the institution, as a supplement to the study of sociological conditions.

A clinic was put on for the benefit of the visitors in the morning in the colony community house. Dr. Dixon introduced the students to the topic with a brief lecture on the epileptic disease and attempted to describe the disease as it really is and not as many uninformed persons believe it is.

Dr. Dixon pointed out that there are approximately fifteen thousand epileptics in the state but provision has been made for only one thousand of this number. The rest are confined to their homes, and only the most dangerous are admitted to the state hospital. Wahjamega is primarily an institution to protect society from the epileptic and secondarily to try to help the sufferer.

The doctor explained that epilepsy is a constitutional personality deviation and such characteristics as convulsions are the manifestations of the disease and are not the disease itself. An epileptic individual has the fundamental traits of the disease in his make-up long before they become apparent through such disturbances as convulsions.

If the disease is encouraged to crop out through a brain injury or some other unfortunate occurrence it is only because the traits have always been present and have subconsciously been restrained. The seizures that afflict the epileptic play the same role in the disease that a cough plays in tuberculosis or a fever plays in some other ailment. They are results and not causes.

Six cases were presented by three staff psychiatrists for the students. The first type presented was the cases of two young boys who appeared normal in every respect except that they had frequent convulsions and were incorrigible in their behavior. They had a normal intelligent quotient but had a mania for stealing and were definitely delinquents. Both boys had been found to be suffering from epilepsy, however, and were thus detained in the institution.

The next presentation was of two girls who were feeble minded as well as epileptic. The first girl presented was a Mongolian idiot whose brain probably had failed to develop before birth or else (Continued on page 4)

American Influence Being Definitely Felt in Canada

Influence of the United States is felt very definitely in Canada, with motion pictures, women's dress, retail store organization and sports a few of the things showing American rather than British feeling. This is the opinion of Jean Richard Dupuis of Montreal, a graduate student at the University of Pittsburgh.

A graduate of McGill University in Canada, Dupuis is taking a year's graduate study in the Research Bureau for Retail Training at Pitt. His father's store, Dupuis Brothers, in Montreal, is one of the larger stores in the Dominion.

Department store buyers get most of their ideas from New York; football and basketball are steadily increasing in popularity; and Canadian people are definite in their demand for American motion pictures, he asserts.

Art Byers Plays For Phi Christmas Party Thursday

Art Byers and his orchestra have been signed by the Phi's for their annual Christmas party which will be held in the Booster's Hall Thursday night. The dance and the stag party which follow have been a customary feature of the fraternity social card for a good many years.

The hall will be decorated in yuletide theme and a Christmas tree will be bought for the fraternity house. The members and pledges draw names and give each other novel gifts at the stag party. This party is usually an all-night affair with the fellows amusing themselves with pool, cards and ping-pong playing.

Wayne Forrester, chairman of the party, has made all of the arrangements and predicts a large number of actives, pledges and alumni at the dance with an even greater number at the stag party. Chaperones are President and Mrs. Crooks, Professor and Mrs. Clack, Dr. and Mrs. Schreiber, Dr. and Mrs. Kaufman, Dr. Unstad, and Miss Foley.

South Carolina U. Putting Subsidization on Open Basis

Another university has joined the company of those who would put subsidization of college athletics on an open basis.

Following an editorial in the 'Gamecock,' a student weekly of the University of South Carolina, a movement has begun to put Carolina on an open subsidization plan, contending that if the Southern Conference does not revise its present rules, the school will withdraw. The plan follows that of the Southeastern Conference which announces that it gives financial aid to leading athletic stars.

The editorial stated that football was a business, with players working hard and long and deserving compensation for their efforts. It offered no criticism of the present administration of athletics at the University but objected to the rules of the Southern Conference forcing schools to give aid to the players — under the table.

The University of North Carolina, in like manner, has begun a campaign for open subsidization. These campaigns are pointed toward the meeting of the Southern Conference this month at which the argument will be stressed.

Bob Devaney Captain-elect of Alma Football Varsity

Robert Devaney, junior from Saginaw and a veteran of two year's service on the varsity, was elected captain of the football squad for the 1938 season. Bob reached the heights this past fall as he played a top-notch brand of ball at left end and was rewarded with a berth on the all-conference team.

Devaney was the popular choice for the captaincy and will undoubtedly take his place among the captains of Alma teams who are still remembered for their inspirational leadership. Bob is not only an excellent player but also a smart and alert individual and with his cleverness and wit should be able to keep the team on its toes and lead it into a conference championship.

Bob is not only a gridiron hero, however, for he also directs the intra-basketball league, performs on the track team as a javelin thrower, is the middleweight boxing champion of the school, and the ace soft-ball pitcher on the campus. Devaney prepped at Saginaw Arthur Hill where he was an all-round athlete and is a well known figure in the softball circles in that city.

24 Gridders Win Varsity Letters

Include Nine Seniors, Eleven Juniors and Four Sophomores.

The football candidates who will be rewarded for their ten weeks of toil and effort to bring an MIAA championship to Alma and develop a freshman aggregation, were announced by Coaches Gordon Macdonald and Jesse Ewer at the football banquet last Wednesday evening. Twenty four varsity letters and four reserve awards and twenty-six freshmen numerals will be given. Twenty six freshman have been nominated for numerals but it will depend upon their first semester scholastic record as to whether they will be honored or not.

Nine seniors, eleven juniors, and four sophomores are included among the varsity letter winners. The seniors leaving include three who were chosen to the all-conference first team and one who was chosen to the all-star second team. Only captain-elect Bob Devaney, the all-conference end, will be back next fall to represent Alma's all-stars.

The nine graduating seniors are: Captain "Butch" Gilbert, Crosswell; Art Smith and Floyd Boat; Oxford; Stanley Cater and Harold Dean, Alma; Cassius Lea, Fenton; John Fraker, Saginaw; Ted Tangalakis, St. Louis; and Russ Burtraw, Muir.

The juniors who will return next year: Bob Devaney, Saginaw; Mel Hultman, Grand Rapids; Gordon Netzorg, John Mathews, Carl Elder and George Purdy, Alma; Francis Seavitt, Ecorse; Howard Munn, Riverdale; Ken Otis, Belding; Bob Adams, Fairgrove; and Tom Plowman, Perry.

The sophomores who broke into the letter winners their first year out are: Don Smith, Charlotte; Webster Cutler, Saulte Saint Marie; Bill Ginther, Traverse City; and Clifton Carter, St. Louis. Those who won reserve awards are: Dick Bendell and Bill Follis, Bay City juniors; and Ray Walker, Alma; and Red LeClair, Fern-dale, sophomores.

Scots Honored at Football Banquet

Annual Dinner Given For College Gridders Last Wednesday.

The boys who go out on the gridiron every Saturday afternoon in the fall to do or die for dear old Alma mater were the guests of honor at the annual football banquet which was given in Wright Hall last Wednesday evening.

The speakers on the program were drafted mainly from the faculty and student body, thus breaking away from the usual custom of having a nationally known sports figure as principal speaker. The variety program presented, however, was very interesting and well-received.

Highlights on the program were the announcement of the election of Bob Devaney as captain of next year's varsity, the presentation of the four Scots who were selected to the all-conference mythical eleven, and the announcement of the varsity and reserve award winners and the nominations for freshman numerals.

Mr. Chet Robinson performed the master of ceremonies duties and let the audience in on many secrets in the private lives of the speakers.

President Crooks welcomed those who were in attendance to pay homage to the football squad and praised the team for their spirit and loyalty throughout the season. Later in the evening President Crooks was presented a varsity sweater with a gold star for his record as the All-America Alma College fan.

Mr. Jesse Ewer, who coached the freshman team last fall, announced (Continued on page 4)

The church will be decorated in keeping with the Christmas spirit by a committee from the congregation which has very generously donated its services for the past several years.

Scots Lose Twice During Past Week

Drop Contests to Ferris 35-29 and Lawrence Tech 39-20.

The Scots got off on the wrong foot in their current hardwood court comeback campaign and suffered two successive setbacks at the hands of Ferris Institute and Lawrence Tech during the past week. Ferris toppled the Scots 35-29 at Big Rapids in the season's curtain raiser last Tuesday and last Thursday Lawrence Tech of Detroit defeated Alma here, 39-20.

The elimination of the center jump has speeded up the game considerably and has added five or six minutes of actual playing time to the game. The time element has accounted for larger scores this season than last but has not seemed to have helped the Scots in this respect.

Although the Maroon and Cream cagers have peppered the basket with shots they have failed to connect often enough to pull them out of the doldrums they have been struggling in for the past two or three seasons. Once they overcome this handicap they will snap out of their victory famine and become a threat in the conference.

The Scots jumped into an early lead in the Lawrence Tech game but the prospective engineers soon erased the margin and moved ahead. The Scots kept pace with them for the greater part of the first half, however, and only a last spurt put Lawrence on top 19-14 at intermission.

The second half was a different story as the Scots attack dribbled away to a mere nothing and they tallied only six points in the last twenty minutes. In the meantime Lawrence Tech was working on the basket systematically and more than doubled their score to walk off with the victory, 39-20.

Against Ferris Institute the Scots gave a better account of themselves and were roused out only in the final moments of the game. Alma took an early lead in the ball-game and lead 18-15 at halftime. The Scots maintained their lead through most of the second half but the Ferris Bulldogs pulled ahead in the fleeting moments and went on to a 35-29 victory.

From The PRESS BOX

It's a game called the All-American myth.

It's very simple and easy to learn and because of the psychological effect it has upon human vanity it is as common as zippers and has supplanted checkers as the nation's most popular winter pastime. It serves as a topic of interest for the hot stove league in the lull between second-guessing big-time football coaches and condemning major league baseball managers for the trades they make at their annual baseball ivory mart. While it is mainly confined to this land of the free (and is not subject to government censorship) it has more followers than Mohammed.

It's addicts range from city slickers to clover kickers and the network is a coast-to-coast mesh stretching from the rock-bound coast of Maine to the sunny shores of California and from the Canadian border to the Florida keys. It has more lasting effect upon fickle John Public than all of the combined jig-saw puzzles, handies, knock-knocks, and monopoly games.

The usual procedure is like this: warm up in a comfortable Morris chair before an automatic tuning radio for ten or twelve successive Saturdays listening attentively to the gushing adjectives of an ace commentator as he describes the beautiful symphony of a galloping halfback and the weather. Arise early every Sunday morning, get the Sunday paper before the rest of the male population of the household can grab it, and turn immediately to the sports section.

Read the sport scribes' glowing account of the preceding day's fracas and note who the football expert has tagged as the outstanding heroes of the afternoon's tussle. Also gaze at the pictures of the gridiron stalwarts who grace the pages through the courtesy of the metropolitan editor and the college publicity department.

Or Monday morning be sure and read the second guess columns between cups of coffee at the breakfast table and share the opinions of the Monday-morning quarterbacks. For the rest of the week simply praise and condemn a host of athletes you have never seen. Finally, after the regular seasons are completed and whether you have followed the training rules closely or not you are eli-

A freshman intra-squad game was played as a preliminary to the Lawrence Tech game Thursday night. The squad was divided into a first team, the Reds, and a second team, the Whites, with the Reds showing more finesse and technique and capturing the victory, 24-12. gible to choose an all-star football team.

While the newspapers and magazines of the nation have been crammed for the past few weeks with a myriad of dream-elevens they are only a small percentage of the actual number of teams which have been chosen.

It is indeed a peculiar team that does not contain such famous American names as Goldberg, Matisi, Franco, Bershak, Wysocki, Zarnas, Wojciechowicz, Osmani, and a galaxy of other starlings who are conceded to be the best of the country. But from away out in California comes a team which fails to contain a single one of these popular heroes yet is as truly American as the Ford V-8.

This far-western sports expert has picked the following all-star aggregation:

At the end posts he names Capone of Penn, a slippery customer, and Hills of Wyoming, although the latter has his ups and downs, over such flankmen as Simpson of Duke, a royal player, and Parker of Penn, who smeared all opponents. Bells of St. Mary's was left off because it was believed he was a ringer.

Filling in at the tackles were Tube of Colgate, who hardened as the season progressed, and Serator of Washington, who could bungle anything. Leather of Case and Lock of Yale were a good combination but were overshadowed. Despite the praise of the Chamber of Commerce, Sunshine of California failed to earn a regular berth.

Ranger of Texas, a sharp shooter, and Pants of Ripor, a terror, were named guards while Cactus of Arizona, who made his presence felt, nabbed the center berth. Two good men were left off in the persons of Red of Rhode Island, who wasn't a bit chicken and Trail of Oregon, who could really lead the way.

Sherman of Georgia was the popular choice at quarterback although Cornelius of Vanderbilt as a money player and Horace of Troy could fit into any pony backfield. Gold of Montana Mires was also very valuable.

At the halfback posts were Cannon of Army, a big shot, and Spirit of Notre Dame, an inspirational player. Hole of Pitt proved to be a stumbling block to his opponents while Cocktail of Manhattan was a very potent, but they both lacked the necessary something to place on the first string.

The fullback berth was a three-way battle with Fruit of Citrus, a little squirt, finally winning out because he was a always in the public eye. The other candidates were Cow of New Jersey, who wouldn't give, and Junior of College, a two-year man.

Hockey Team Organized By 16 College Students

Sixteen enthusiastic college hockey fans organized a team at a meeting November 30, selected Willis Gelston and Ace Cutler as coaches, and began formulating plans for a schedule. The team has been practicing on the Pine River and expect to polish up their rough points before Christmas.

The college outfit played its first game with the high school team last Saturday and lost 5-2. Alma's tallies were a result of a solo dash down the ice by Bill Smith and a goal by Killer Kain on a pass from Doug Garrison.

Spectators attest that the team has potentialities and with more practice will give a better showing. Several other games have been tentatively booked with Midland high and the Men's Universal club.

nounced the yearlings who are eligible for freshman numerals if their semester marks warrant the honor. He spoke highly of his first year charges and predicted that they would help bring the football championship back to Alma next fall.

Mert Dean, the Saginaw New's local correspondent who covered the college games and is himself a former player and coach, gave the newspaper angle of the grid game. He emphasized the part that "breaks" play in a ball game and stated that Alma had the best team in the conference and probably a championship outfit if the breaks had been in their favor.

Irene Folkert spoke for the coeds and explained the part the girls play in the careers of the football heroes both during the season and during the off-season.

The four Scots who won berths on the all-star team each spoke a few words. They were Stanley Cater, the "grand old man of the MIAA", and acknowledged as the best lineman in the conference; Cash Lea; captain-elect Bob Devaney; and Captain "Butch" Gilbert. Art Smith, the second team quarterback choice, also spoke. Devaney stole the show with a pleasing humor that had the audience literally rolling in the aisles.

Coach Gordon Macdonald praised the team as the hardest-fighting and most spirited team he has ever coached. He said the members of such a spirited team would certainly go on to greater heights in the future. Coach named the letter winners and praised each player individually.

Professor Hamilton concluded the speech making portion of the program. He called attention to the fact that many of the team were not only stars on the gridiron but also in the classrooms. He pointed out that both past and present athletes from Alma didn't restrict their prowess to the athletic field but shone in other fields of endeavor.

During the course of the evening Mr. Robinson read several congratulatory telegrams and entertainment was interspersed through the medium of a novelty German band under the direction of one Schnitzel Kauffman.

had been retarded in growth soon after birth. The second girl was an imbecile. The last two cases were of a boy with a nearly normal mentality and a girl who was afflicted with St. Vitus dance as well as epilepsy.

A luncheon was served to the students in the community house dining room following the clinic. After the luncheon the visitors were taken on a tour through the various cottages and the hospital.

The male and female inmates are confined to cottages according to their grade of mentality and the nature of the disease. The women and girls in the higher grade cottage were able to assist each other when stricken with a convulsion. They could also do things for themselves and some were very clever with the needle. But in the lowest grade cottage the pitiful creatures just sat around incapable of the slightest form of activity. Many victims, ranging from two-year old babies to old men and women were confined in the hospital due to their inability to do the simple body cares.

The administrative officers were located in the hospital. A new social service bureau has recently been organized and a series of offices have been opened for research and statistical survey. Dr. Dixon has high hopes of obtaining a greater appropriation from the state in order to carry on his work and to possibly open a school for the epileptics in the near future.
