What Have We to Offer?

By Bill Shumaker

Now that our forces are plunging into Germany and the struggle for control of the Fatherland is at hand, it is necessary that we begin thinking of what lies ahead not only for us but for the German people. This is not the job of the leaders in a democracy but rather it is we, the common people, who make the policies and on whose shoulders rests the whole future of our common race.

When the forces of the Soviet Union enter as conquerors, into Germany, they will have a German government prepared by Germans for Germans. The German Committee of National Liberation has been prepared in Russia by the Germans themselves, many of them former officers of the Wehrmacht and representing all Nazi points of view.

This committee is prepared to take over the government of Germany upon entry, much as De Gaulle's government did in France in spite of continued American coldness and outright political opposition to De Gaulle.

The De Gaulle government seems to be successful, and there is every reason to believe its German counterpart would also be successful if given a chance. But what have we Americans to offer the enslaved German people? Only a hated military government and the prospect of being ruled from a foreign country for an indefinite period of time.

When the United States and the Soviet Union meet on common ground in Berlin who will emerge

Our question for the week concerns whether or not we should have girl cheerleaders at Alma College. We presented the question to three of the more outstanding connoisseurs of femininity. Here are three answers. (Direct quotations, mind you.)

Lee Matejcek came across with this illuminating remark: "I know what cheerleaders are, but what are girls? Now let me think. Oh yes, I remember. Stay, come to thing of it that's not a bad idea. Now take Shame, but let's get back to the subject. Why? Such a question. Any guy who doesn't like one of those cheerleader's uniforms is nuts. I'm nuts because I usually like what's in 'em."

Lou Hogopian has a slightly different idea on the problem: "I don't think it makes any difference whether we have male or female cheerleaders. All we need is two enthusiastic and able cheerleaders, regardless of their sex. I noticed that there wasn't one organized cheer for their team in last week's game. My suggestion is that a faculty member should be responsible for securing cheerleaders. This is another one of those little things the college has failed to do and is apparent in the evident lack of school spirit?"

Pete Jurica also has a few suggestions to offer: "Why, ah, yes! I know a few reasons why we should have girl cheerleaders; namely: ummm, secondly, think of those nice uniforms and those—you know. Seriously, I think we should have girl cheerleaders because who wants to yell for a boy even if he is a nice boy. So bring on Alma's feminine beauties, make them pretty and watch the attendance rise."

So there you have it. What a few of the boys think about girl cheerleaders. Now what's your opinion?

victorious? Will the German people be subjected to more propaganda rule, this time from Washington, from a hated enemy or will they be given guidance and help toward peaceful rule under their own patriots of a new and better age?

It is an undeniable fact that Russia has progressed much farther in her thinking toward a peaceful world than we have. The big question facing us as citizens of a democracy is: Will we take heed by the example of Russia and anti-Nazi German thought, or will we take upon ourselves the right to judge another people's political destiny? Will we continue in the age-old American tradition of making ourselves happy at degrading the others of the world or shall we go back to our purpose of promoting freedom and equality for all peoples independent of foreign wars?

We must hold fast to these fundamental principles with regard to the Germans as well as ourselves and the other liberated countries of Europe. Freedom to live without degrading any the outside must be the first goal, and that goal must be achieved before "The common sense of most shall hold a fretful realm in awe, And the kindly earth shall slumber lapt in universal law."

Miss Kathleen Gillard of the English department has been granted a year's leave of absence during which she will work on her master's degree.

Barolo Birthday Bang-up Brawl

On Saturday night, September 2nd, there was a big birthday party in honor of Brian Barolo. Although her mother really gave it, Brian deserves a great deal of credit for giving us all a wonderful time and such good refreshments. For Miss Klein, Mr. Cole, Mr. and Mrs. Gross were the chaperons of the evening. During the first part of the night almost everyone got to the show—and then came back to the show. The ice cream had been scattered on the occasion, even though a false ceiling, the property of which had been lost somewhere on the way.

Convinced now that the music was good, he furnished a lot of loads of smooth records. You might even say he was the host of the evening. All the food was harbored in the back room, and the cake was so beautiful that we couldn't resist making trips out there to see it. Yes, indeed. Around eleven o'clock, cakes, sandwiches and relishes were served. Before the mammoth birthday cake was cut (Johnny did a super job), Fran opened her gifts. They were all lovely, especially the engraved skivvies presented by the Navy guests. Fran's putting them in her new scrapbook to show what she got on her birthday—that's what she said. However, the fellows did come through with a lovely Navy insignia locket.

The rest of the evening was devoted to dancing and . . . dancing. Poor Brookman kept chinning himself on the crepe paper, while the rest of us were sliding into the drain in the middle of the floor. . . . ah, but it was fun! Twelve o'clock, we Cinderellas went back to our hovels, wishing that someone had a birthday every Saturday night.

NEWS FROM THE PRESIDENT'S OFFICE

A series of Alma College Days are being presented to acquaint the Presbyterian churches of Michigan with the college. The first of the programs was held at Eastminster Presbyterian Church in Detroit on September 17 with others scheduled for October 15 in The First Presbyterian Church, Flint, and October 29, Tecumseh.

President Hamilton recently attended meetings of the Detroit Presbytery in Northville and of the new Western Michigan Presbytery comprising the former presbyteries of Kalamazoo and Grand Rapids at Coldwater. Dr. Hamilton's message concerning Alma College was cordially received at both meetings.

The Synod of Michigan will meet at Westminster Presbyterian Church in Grand Rapids, October 10, 11, 12. The Alma College report will be presented by President Hamilton, October 12. The Board of Trustees will be represented by Dr. Samuel H. Forrer, President of the Board.

President Hamilton will be guest pastor at Eastminster Presbyterian Church. Sunday, October 1.

N. CLUB ANNOUNCES BON VOYAGE, OCT. 14

Hasta la vista, Senores y Senoritas! The Navy club will present this semester's Bon Voyage Dance on October 14, 2100-0030. The dance will be semi-formal and strictly drag. Place: The College gym.

Lou Hogopian will be in charge of the music committee which means knowing Lou that we should have a very good band.

This dance is the first formal of the season and the last one for many of the Navy fellows. The Navy club will be expecting a big crowd. You want that date? Well, get busy on the phone.

FULLERTON SPEAKS AT FELLOWSHIP

Next Sunday, October 1, at 6:30 in the Chapel Recreation Room, the College Christian Fellowship will introduce Miss Ann Fullerton as leader of the discussion on "Race Relations."

Miss Fullerton served as one of the leading members of the Committee on Race Relationships while studying at the University of Iowa. Her experiences should be very interesting and furnish much material for discussion. Miss Fullerton is a graduate of Alma College and plans to study creative writing at the University of Michigan this winter. She is the recipient of a graduate scholarship given to the most deserving senior at Alma each year.

Students and faculty are urged to attend this meeting of the Christian Fellowship.

Chapel

Two weeks ago Wednesday the music department presented a fine, though innocuous assembly. The program was purely musical, consisting of a piano and organ solo by Ruthe Krueger, piano solos by Barbara Kemper and Phyllis Babcock, not to mention Andy "Frankie" Edgerton's singing.

For obvious reasons, musical programs seem to have greater appeal than any other kind of assembly. Our vote is for more music department assemblies.

John Pfarr at last week's assembly gave an interesting and instructive talk on the ins and outs of high octane gasoline. Mr. Pfarr started his speech with a short review of that organic chemistry relating to gasoline and with this as a background explained the difficulties inherent in obtaining high octane gasoline. He described the early processes of cracking petroleum and what could be told about the more recent methods. Without divulging any production secrets, Mr. Pfarr disclosed that we had won the battle of high octane gasoline.

After his speech he answered pertinent questions concerning the cost of high octane gasoline and the uses of this gasoline in the post-war USA.

Professor Egger displayed some excellent colored slides of Yellowstone Park in a recent assembly here. He explained as the slides were presented something of the geological factors which cause geysers (some of us were disappointed to learn that "Old Faithful" was not faithful after all), hot pools, and the like.

In addition to sides of scenery, Dr. Egger had slides of Yellowstone's animal life.

New Additions to College Staff

Miss Jane Grills, who has received her Master's degree from the University of Michigan in the field of Speech, will assume the responsibility for the work of this department for the coming year, taking the place of Professor Westley Rowland, who is on leave of absence with the Navy.

Mrs. Bernice King, our new dietitian, who is to direct the new course in home economics in November, has assumed her position at the good ship Wright Hall, replacing Mrs. Stowe who is taking a hospital position.

Return Game U. of M. (B) Team

The committee headed by Professor Howe and Miss Smith have completed and released the plans for Alma's Homecoming which will be held Friday and Saturday of October 6th and 7th.

Celebration will start Friday evening at 8:00 p.m. with a pep meeting in the gym. Coach Lear will make a short speech. After the pep meeting the Queen-elect of the homecoming festivities will be presented, and following this presentation, there will be informal dancing in the gym.

On Saturday the Homecoming will center around a return game with the University of Michigan B team. At 2 o'clock there will be a review of the V-12 Battalion on Bahk Field. At 2:30 the football game will begin, and the Homecoming Queen will be crowned between the halves. Immediately after the game coffee and doughnuts will be served at the Senior House.

At 8:30 there will be an informal dance in the Chapel Recreation Room. All alumni, former students, and friends of Alma College, including the families of Navy men now in training at the College, are cordially invited to attend. The game scheduled will be a good one, and there should be something going on to suit any taste.

The committee particularly wishes to stress the fact that the lounge of the Senior House will be open for the use of guests all day Saturday.

For convenience the following concise resume of the program is printed:

- Friday, October 6
- 8:00 p.m. Pep meeting, Gym
- Presentation of Queen
- Informal Dancing
- Saturday, October 7
- 2:00 p.m. Battalion Review, Bahk Field
- 2:30 p.m. Football game, Alma vs. Michigan B team
- Crowning of Queen
- Refreshments, Senior House
- 8:30 p.m. Homecoming Dance, Rec room

Saturday Mixer Well Attended

Mixers are a popular social occasion at Alma College. The first mixer of the year was held on Saturday, October 7, in the gymnasium. It was well attended and was having an extra good time.

It seemed to be mostly couples among the Coeds and sailors—and the town girls had the stag field all to themselves—and they seemed to enjoy it too. Oley and Burkman seemed to be having fun—in a sort of "we want to be alone" way. Andy and Ruthe, Shirley and Paul attended. Betty Ellis looked very sweet in her new hounds tooth check flannel—Ed Rutherford should have been there. Barb Kemper looked a little lost without Margie. Beverly (of the chow line) swears every time that tonight she'll break down and dance and then she never does. Come on Bev, give the sailors a break.

Two of the best dancers on the floor were Miss Smith and Fran Long. Even after that workout in the game, Fran seemed to have plenty of his usual pep.

It was a good mixer and we enjoyed it. The next dance will be the homecoming frolic. Everybody seems to turn out for that—it will be one of the best of the year if homecoming lives up to its past reputation.

Touche? . . . .

Today's editorial may sound slightly like a rehashing of the one hundred tritest statements and cliches, but, with our noses tilted to escape the smell of must and oldness, we go bravely along.

We have noticed at Alma recently, as other observers have noted all over the United States, a tendency toward slackness, a tendency toward the I-don't-give-a-damn attitude, a tendency to give up before the game is finished.

The sources of this attitude are not hard to find: Perhaps the greatest single cause among the sailors is the recurrent feeling that the war is almost won and that the oars are now in a shape to be rested upon. Anyone with half a grasp of current affairs should realize how silly this argument is. The Pacific must still be cleaned up, and even if Germany were defeated today, there is still the immense problem of post-war reconstruction. Secondly there is the end of the semester slump. Now when we should be expending our utmost efforts to succeed, we are bored almost to ennui . . . All the fault can't be the prof's.

And if the sources of this feeling are not hard to find, the manifestations of it are just as easily found: There is the large academic "tree" at Wright Hall, the almost organized imbibing going on, the football team that plays brilliant ball for half a game and then throws in the towel.

Rome wasn't built in a day and neither was any conflict resolved by giving up. Nothing that was ever important is any less important now. When the war is over, they'll let us know about it, and then we can all degenerate into the muck if we choose. Until that time, however, each of us has a job to do.—See that YOU have the guts to carry it through.

Dere Belle

I guess it's just about time I was writing you again but there really isn't much doing around here. Last Sunday I hitchhiked back from Saginaw and got a ride with a woman driver. Well, three men were repairing a ~~the window~~ <sup>the window</sup> ~~there~~ and when she saw them up the pole she said "look at those silly feds, you'd think I'd never driven a car before."

I went down to show the other morning and found a fly in my coffee so I told her about it. She got kind of nasty and said if I wanted my fortune told to see a gypsy, then the exec caught me taking toast out of the mess hall but when I told him I was just going to make some charcoal sketches he said it was allright.

then in the afternoon the chief had me fill out a questionnaire. he said "when were you born?—I say mac when is your birthday?" I told him "am what do you care for—you aren't going to give me anything." but I was wrong, he did give me something, namely: ten demerits. woe is me; at this rate I'll never get a commission—but I've been thinking maybe I could make more on a straight salary anyway.

the history prof said to me yesterday "it gives me great pleasure to give you a 92 on this test." so I said "why not make it 100 and have loads of fun?" then in naval org the c.o. asked me where the mizzen mast was . . . I felt silly, I didn't even know it was missing, in math the prof asked "if I take 36 from 59 what's the difference?" so I came back on the beam with "yah, that's what I say, to heck with it."

I still love you most of all belle and I'd go through fire for you—but I guess that'd make me quite a silly ash.

Cat Chatter

Let's see—what do we know—we'd like to rip the top off this place and spill the really good dirt we know—but even in this game there are ethics and besides this paper is censored.

Who's it to be with Betty Ellis—Ed Rutherford or Chuck Pecor? One time she dines and theaters with Ed and then dances and wines with Pecor. It must be nice to be popular.

Cupid seems to have done a neat piece of work on this Olander-Burkman affair—one date and poof! every night after that, stars in their eyes and all the rest.

Something seems to have happened to the Marge-Cal, Barb-Bob setup. It can't be possible that some of these sailors have decided to be true to their women at home, can it?

(Mrs.) Betty Welgoss is keeping her fingers crossed that she'll get what she wants for Christmas. It seems husband Ted has made over 50 combat missions over there.

What is this thing between Sharpie and Brookman coming to—Saturday night. Shirley's papa and little brother made a tour of Wright Hall with Paul as their very special guide.

It's about time that something about Sandy and Junior got by the censors in this column. This will make the third time we've written up an item on the matter. It seems that the main attraction is that big Buick—and that she's a "college girl."

What are these rumors we hear about Irresistible Rutherford—we admit Ed's attractive and all that—but Betty is he really irresistible?

Pioneer Hall is once again serene and happy—since Ace Edgerton has made up with Perky. Men can be cruel, can't they? He says quote, "The worse I treat her—the better she likes it." Honest? Probably rationalization if you ask us.

The idea of college without classes has always appealed to us—but we didn't think it could be actually worked out. Fran Barolo seems to have the perfect setup however. George Penwright and Bob Amell have certainly appreciated her vacation and have helped her to make it what it's been. By the by Fran—you looked very special the other night—white dress, tiny black velvet hat—black Chesterfield and white gloves—to add the final touch.

We hear Mr. Dickinson of Dickinson Drugs has something new and charming in the way of rec rooms where a few of our members were entertained the other night. Let's not be partial, Dick, we want to see it too.

Here's to more and better dirt for our next column—it may be our last.

Cinema

M. G. M.'s latest fling at the technicolor extravaganza pushes form-fitting Esther Williams into the usual glass-walled swimming pool and incidently provides her with her first starring role. Xavier Cugat and Harry James provide the appropriate backing for the underwater cavortings, and Red Skelton, the I-Dood-It boy, plays the fall guy.

Red, as a song writer preparing the score for a water pageant, falls in love with streamlined Miss Williams who is currently employed as a teacher in a girls' school. The funniest scene comes when I-Dood-It crashes the girls' school and revolutionizes the ballet.

Miss Williams has come a short ways in a long time since her first tentative splashes in the Andy Hardy series, when she was evidently under the impression that a leer and a sloe eye constituted seductiveness. She still has the leer but it is directed toward herself now. Nevertheless this feminine Narcissus does have a nice figure.

Pioneer

So much has happened the past four weeks—doubt if we can tell all in this short column. We are now under a new regime. Mrs. Davies has left for Hillsdale until the fall semester when she will be housemother at the Senior House. We welcome back Mother Hutton to cope with the problems of flaming youth.

Fran Barolo returned for a week's visit—to pack her belongings and have a farewell fling before going to Wayne University in Detroit. Before the dance Saturday she gave a spaghetti dinner for the girls in the dorm and their dates—very good spaghetti, but it must have been salty, we were all so thirsty afterwards.

The dorm has changed since the last issue. New maid service keeps the halls in much cleaner shape—also, we've had new fire escapes equipped with doors and soft treads, Patt Williams has been surprised several times by the pitter of little feet outside her window.

Pioneer Postscripts: Barbara Lull came back for a week-end visit. Last week Phyllis Yunker and Nancy Wauchek were up for the game—incidentally Phyl went to Katherine Gibbs in Chicago Friday for a secretarial course. Pad and Oley took a civil service exam in Lansing Friday—wouldn't be surprised to see them taking a P. G. course now after their terrific time. Alice Titus is home again and is much better. "John" will be sprouting wings again soon, we hope.

If we missed anything in this column you can bet there was a reason—

Alma Loses Return Game

After holding Central Michigan for three quarters, Alma's defense faltered, and the Chippewas broke a 13-13 deadlock with a 19-point surge in the final period for its second win over the Scots this season.

The Chippewas scored first in the first period after they recovered a Scot fumble on the 23 yard line. Ken Smith, Central's halfback, sprinted the end for the score. The try for the extra point failed. Alma came right back and took the lead on Charlie Lectka's touchdown and an extra point by Menza. Central regained the lead when Smith scored his second six-pointer. George Hammel place-kicked the point to make it 13-7. The Scots tied the score in the second period when Seymour Ekelman completed a pass to Paul Chapman who made a beautiful run for a touchdown. The try for the extra point failed. The third period was scoreless.

In the final period the Scots defense weakened and the Chippewas scored three touchdowns. Two touchdowns came on long runs, and the other was made by Richard Alban, who intercepted an Alma pass, and raced 35 yards for the score.

The Scots line showed big improvement since their first game with Mount Pleasant. They held the Chippewas to eight first downs compared to the seventeen they had in the first game.

GITTLEMAN'S LOSE TO FLINT TEAM

Gittlemen's, the Navy team, playing their last game of the season lost to the Yellow Dogs from Flint by the score of 3-0. The Yellow Dogs playing a smart game of ball and mixed with two errors scored all three runs in the second inning. Chapman was touched for three hits while Gittlemen's got one off three Yellow Dog pitchers. Gerry Renish, the bow tie kid, umpired the game.

Denison Out Plays Alma; 46 to 0

The big, high-powered Red team from Denison University playing a hard game, ran and passed themselves to a 46-0 victory over the Alma Scots. The Scots fighting hard on every play couldn't keep up with the three fresh teams from Denison. Gerard Lacey, Alma's hard hitting fullback, played a great game on defense.

ALMA PLAYS MICHIGAN (B) TEAM

The Scots lost their first game of a two game series with the Michigan Junior Varsity by a score of 32-13.

The first quarter of the game was played on an even scale until Max McWilliams of Michigan plunged eight yards for Michigan's first touchdown. The kick for the extra point was wide. Alma came back in the second quarter when Quarterback Paul Chapman threw a pass to "Red" Dillon who caught the pass in the end zone. The kick for the extra point was wide. Both teams played on even terms until the half.

Alma kicked off to Michigan in the second half and Ousterhaut sprinted 89 yards for a touchdown. Babiac scored two more touchdowns in the third period.

In the fourth period Dillon took a pass from Dewey Miller, broke loose from three men, and outran everyone to the goal line. Menza kicked the extra point. Michigan's last touchdown came on a pass intercepted by Ousterhaut.
