Superior Speedway . . .

Speeding motorists flash past Wright Hall daily in flagrant disregard of the posted 25 mile per hour speed limit. These negligent drivers not only scorn the traffic laws, but constitute a grave menace to the lives of all persons who must cross Superior St. at that point.

On last Friday, within a two hour period, three members of the Almanian staff clocked 17 cars traveling at speeds in excess of 50 miles per hour through this zone. Pictures of several of these cars, complete with license numbers, are being readied for publication, if necessary, in an early issue. In the meantime, any competent authority who wishes to study them may do so by calling at the office of the Almanian in the Administration Building.

We do not intend to allow this dangerous condition to exist and we pledge ourselves to take whatever action is necessary to remove this threat to the safety of the student body.

There's No Place Like Homecoming

As the campus stretches itself to receive the Alumni and guests of the college for Homecoming, we are proud to extend a warm welcome to all.

Many major improvements will interest the old timers. Former residents of Pioneer Hall will find it difficult to orient themselves to their old surroundings in the completely redecorated and refurnished dormitory, Bahlke Field has had a face lifting, and the Trailer Court, Skid Row, and Lost Week-end "ain't what they used to be."

Visitors will find, too, that the old, roaring, pre-war spirit is once again in full cry on the campus, sparked by the most aggressive football squad and the most versatile band that Alma has boasted in years.

May all those who gather here over the weekend renew many old acquaintances, and leave with an even firmer conviction that Alma College can never be replaced in the hearts of all those who love her!

Looks like the Delts are not the "dark horse" of the intramurals after all; they are now a main threat in the race. We have won our first three games without a point being scored upon us.

Our pledges have really been helping out in the fall cleaning of the house. Waiting in line to help out, the anxious pledges have painted the upstairs floor, shower room, basement steps, and have done various other jobs.

Ah, shore an' tis the wearin' of the green once more. Thank goodness that Frosh-Soph mess was straightened out. We spent a mighty strained week within the ol' ivy-covered walls.

Wouldn't it be nice if they fixed the laundry machines here at the Hall? At least fix them so that the same ones would be out of order most of the time. Quarters cost two-bits apiece these days. And it doesn't help the old morale to have to pull a sloppy, soapy mess out of that barrel-shaped monster to rinse by hand. Ask Liz Bishop what she said the other day when Bendix erupted all over the floor!

If there is a house rule prohibiting animals in the dorm, someone ought to tell the animals about it. George, 2nd named after the late feline mascot of Wright Hall, is a frequent visitor these days.

The I. W. O. had a fine party for the Frosh on Monday. Janie Haller emceed a hilarious program featuring a poem by herself, jokes by the irrepressible Phyl Hayward, stories by Jeanette Faber, and a song by Grace Avis. Cider and dougnuts were served, and we all had a swell time. Thanx, kids.

Dolores Metcalfe really sent us with her latest: "Hey, I just stepped on a spider."

"So what?"

"He was trying to cross the floor."

"Yeah?" "Know what he said?"

"No, what?" "Said he didn't have the guts to try it again!" Who invented Sophomores, anyway?

Bravo, Zeta Sigma

While other fraternity pledges wandered about the campus unshaven, pajama clad, and carrying eggs in small buckets, the Zeta Sigma wisely initiated its new members by having them dig a five foot ditch out to the water main, install new conduit to the water system of the fraternity house, and pretty up the job afterwards. In thus directing the energies of the pledges to a necessary and useful endeavor, the members of the Zeta Sigma displayed a surprising maturity, completed a long needed job of work, and saved the organization over a hundred fish in labor costs.

The injury plagued Alma Scots are settling down to rough sessions this week as they prepare for the all important clash with Kalamazoo College this Saturday in the Alma College Homecoming main event. Both schools are currently undefeated in MIAA competition with the Scots riding the crest of a four game winning streak.

Coach Steve Sebo, in his third and best season with the Alma squad has his troubles. Left Tacksquad has his troubles. Left Tack-le Dick Derby, Charlotte, a '47 letter winner and standout in his position this year suffered a broken collar bone in the Albion fray last Saturday and will be sidelined for the remainder of the Scots contests. His loss is more than enough, but injuries to Chuck Saxton, East Jordan, first string quarterback, and his understudy quarterback, and his understudy Alex Kish, Etna, Pa., still hold these two to limited duty which cuts down the aggressiveness of the team. Guards George Nickels, Bay City, and Ken Corbin, Detroit, are two more on the temporary inactive list as they recover from injuries in the last two contests. Nickel was kicked in the face Saturday and had to have two stitches taken to close a wound. Bob Walcott, a right tackle from Lansing had four stitches Jim Nesbitt, Pontiac, suffered an injury to the side of his head which kept him out of the Albion ame during the last half.

The Alma-Kalamazoo clashes date back to the early 1900's. In thirty-seven meetings, the Scots hold a one game edge over the Hornets, with a 17-16 record. Four ties complete the record.

OH! WHAT A BEAUTIFUL MORNING the weather man came up with last Friday! The combination of warm sun, blue sky, and the opening of the bird season was almost too much for me. I was going to cut chapel, but finally attended in spite of my sinful intentions. It's a good thing I did, too. 12 out of 46 faculty members were there checking EVERYONE SEEMS to be either down with a cold, up with the GI's, or in between and wondering which way to go. Phil Daab, who was ill for a couple of days, made it to classes yesterday, but didn't look very happy about it. He said that if he felt any better he'd throw up. We might as well admit that there must be something to this physical education business. At least, none of the real huskies on the campus ever seem to get the sniffles. Oh, well, that's probably nature's way of protecting them. Take Ken Corbin, for example. How would he ever blow his nose? He's got so much muscle he can't lift his arms.

Chapel SPEAKERS must often be surprised and offended at facing six hundred students all busily engaged in filling out attendance cards, class schedules, student polls, and the like during most of their addresses. Surely, there must be a more efficient and courteous method of handling these matters?

NOTE TO TED EMERY: I got your letter asking me if I would like to come out for "cross-country." There must be some mistake. I'd be glad to do most anything to help out, but there's no use considering me for that sort of thing. I can't run fast enough to keep warm.
