Inaugural Set for Dr. Harker

Announce Program for Date of May 18

Inauguration of Dr. John Stanley Harker as president of Alma College will be held at 3:00 on Friday, May 18, at the college. Dr. Hugh Ivan Evans, moderator of the Presbyterian church, will deliver the main address.

Educational institutions in Michigan and the Presbyterian related colleges in the United States are invited to send representatives.

The complete inauguration program is as follows:

- 11:00 a.m.-2:00 p.m. Registration of Official Representatives
- 1:00 p.m. Luncheon
- 2:30 p.m. Assembly for Academic Procession
- 3:00 p.m. Inauguration Ceremony in Memorial Gymnasium
- 4:30 p.m. Reception in the President's Home

A faculty committee composed of Dean William J. McKeefery, Dean William Stielstra, Dean Mary McKinney, and Professors A. W. Rowland and Harlan McCall is working with the board of trustees committee composed of A. E. Merritt, business manager, and William McFadden, secretary of the board, in making arrangements.

MISS MUSSELMAN TO TEACH HISTORY HERE

Miss Ann Musselman will teach U. S. History and State Government during this year's summer session, replacing Professor Henry Howe who will be finishing work on his doctorate at Michigan State College.

Miss Musselman is a graduate of Michigan State College where she received her B. A. degree and she has her masters degree from the University of Minnesota. At the present she is completing work on her doctorate in the field of Political Science and History at Michigan State College.

She has taught at the University of Minnesota and at Oregon State College at Corvallis, Oregon.

Schaeffer Resigns

Working for Ph.D.

Dr. Harker announces the receipt of a letter of resignation from Professor Klaus H. Schaeffer, formerly of our Department of Philosophy. Professor Schaeffer is now studying at the University of Michigan for his doctorate in philosophy. He asks to be released from all responsibilities in order that he may give his full time to completing his residence and doing the research involved in preparation of his dissertation for the Ph. D.

Professor Schaeffer's many friends on the Alma faculty and among the students regret that he will not be returning to us next fall.

Pageant, Crowning and Band Concert Campus Day Plans

Plans for the Annual Campus day are now in the making. This is the annual holiday at Alma College in honor of the Scots and their Queen. This year, as in the past there will be the Championship intramural soft ball games in both the men and women's divisions. The annual Soph-Frosh tug of war and the picnic in the grove, weather permitting, will take care of the morning's activities.

In the afternoon will be the band concert given by the Alma College Band and the Highland Fling will be put on by the Bagpipers. Next will be the Coronation of the Queen, whose identity will be a secret until the moment when she is crowned by last year's Campus Day Queen, Miss Joanne Hookey.

After the Coronation the pageant 'Graduation Ball' by Strauss will be given as this year's ballet which is presented in Honor of the Queen. It deals with the story of a girls school which is preparing for their Graduation Ball and plan on inviting the boys from a nearby Academy. The humorous part of the story comes when the Headmistress of the School and the General of the Academy are smitten with each other and carry on a flirtation. The climax comes with four famous dances of the ballet being performed for the audience. Those are the Drummers dance, a solo ballet dance, a couple of clowns dancing a very humorous number, and the famous English dance the 'Sword Dance'. The music of Strauss is especially adapted for this performance by Miss McKinney and the Alma College Music Department.

Also at the present time Bruce Butler, Alma's baseball coach, is trying to arrange to have a baseball game played here on campus day.

Plans for the dance have not yet been made public.

George Lennox Will Serve Detroit Area

Mr. George Lennox of the class of 1950 has been appointed Admissions Counselor for the Detroit Area. He will work under the direction of Mr. Ralph Appell, Director of Admissions, and will have primary responsibility for promotion and enlistment for Alma College in the Detroit Area. Mr. Lennox, while a student at Alma was an outstanding speech major. He won the State Oratorical Contest in 1950 with his oration 'Deep Roots', and he represented the State of Michigan at the Interstate Oratorical Contest at Northwestern University. He was a member of the Debate team which won the National Championship at the National Tau Kappa Alpha Conference at Kentucky University in 1950. Mr. Lennox also was an outstanding Dramatic student.

He married the former Vivian C. Crean on January 16, 1951. Mr. Lennox has recently been discharged from the U. S. Army and his appointment was effective May 1, 1951.

Selective Service Regulations on Deferments for Students Clarified

At a recent meeting in Ann Arbor, Colonel Irwin of the Selective Service Headquarters in Washington made the following suggestions to men now in college:

1. The responsibility for deferring college students rests with the local draft boards. Selective Service Headquarters does not make deferment mandatory. Your deferment is based on your local draft board's "judgment, conscience and patriotism" as they determine your importance in our national security.
2. Although either your rank in college class or your score in the Selective Service aptitude test may be sufficient to permit deferment, evidence or high rank in both criteria will be more likely to insure deferment than evidence from one criterium only.
3. The Selective Service aptitude test will be offered only once to each registrant. This means that a registrant who elects not to take the test during the scheduled May or June dates will not have a chance to take the test at a later date. The test will be given at later times but only for those who have come under the Selective Service classifications, in the meantime.
4. The local boards are authorized to grant deferments, not exemptions, in the case of college students. This means that military service must be fulfilled at a later date.
5. Selective Service recommends that each man capable of college work take the test. He will then be more valuable to the Armed forces and farther along in his career when he returns to civilian life. Selective Service well recognizes that there will be social pressure on any man who asks for educational deferment because "Little Joe has already gone. It will take a certain amount of courage to continue school work in the face of popular pressure.

6. Be sure to give your local board all the information concerning your status that you can. This implies additional information such as the rank in class and score from your aptitude test. If you are a graduating senior, evidence that you have signed a contract for a teaching position in the fall. (Selective Service may take this into account.) It is equally important to know that any new evidence submitted in your file at your local draft board automatically opens your case for reconsideration. This means that if you have received a deferment for the present academic year and now take the test, this will constitute new evidence to reconsider your draft classification. If a local board should classify you 1-A, you have the right of appeal (which must be made within ten days of notification of such classification). The appeal board will only consider the evidence in your folder, i. e. personal appearance is not permitted. It is very important, therefore, that you have all the pertinent information in your folder at Selective Service.

This is your Deah's interpretation of Colonel Irwin's remarks in Ann Arbor. He will be happy to talk with any student personally on these matters in his office.

Program and Faculty for Coming Year Announced by Pres. Harker

The question going the rounds of every campus and all alumni circles today is, "How greatly will the staff of our school be cut next year? What kind of program will be offered?" The press is full of announcements that one school is cutting its faculty by 37% and another school will not maintain an athletic program next year.

Dr. Harker has asked the Almanian to announce that Alma will maintain its full program next year. This will include varsity sports, forensics, choir, band, and what have you.

At a recent meeting of the Board of Trustees, Dr. Harker was also authorized to offer contracts to a full faculty for next year. With exception of a few normal changes in personnel, the same strong faculty will greet the Alma students next fall. All positions are now filled with two exceptions. A lady assistant is being sought for Professor McCall in the Department of Education. This woman is to be a specialist in the field of elementary education. An assistant is also being sought for Director of Athletics Lloyd Eaton. This man is to assist in varsity sports and teaching in the men's physical education department. Many applicants are available and two strong additions will be made to the Alma staff in these departments.

At a Faculty meeting at Dr. Harker's home Wednesday evening a full discussion of faculty assignments for next year was held. As a result of that discussion, it was decided to announce next year's faculty as follows:

Musical Festival

The annual Gratiot County Music Festival will be presented on May 9 at Balke Field at 8 p. m. The general public and college students are cordially invited to attend, the admission is free.

It will consist of a mass band and chorus as well as the mass Boy's and Girl's Glee Clubs from seven high schools in Gratiot County.

Plan Art Exhibit

Mrs. Julia Roecker

Mrs. Julia Roecker, head of the Art Department extends an invitation to the students, Faculty, and friends of Alma College to attend its annual Exhibition of work done by its beginning and advanced studio and design classes. To be given on May 16 (Campus Day) from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. in the Art room and halls of the Arts building.

Work in drawings and paintings will be on exhibit. Work in charcoal, watercolors, oil painting, and ink will be featured. The art exhibit will show the best work of each individual student in the department. A student of the department will be on hand at all times to show you around and give you any desired information that you may desire.

This exhibit gives the students a chance to see the work of our own students, and it occurs only once a year. We won't get a chance ever again to see this work. This will be our big opportunity to appreciate Alma College Art work.

FROM THE DEAN'S ANGLE

You are living in a day of unprecedented transition in which the predominant characteristic is tension. You are encountering stresses at the national level, the academic level, and the personal level. Just as the insecurity of the depression years overshadowed our student days, your days are being clouded by international tensions. In times of tension, there is a tendency to lose perspective. It is difficult to see the relationship between French parodies and Korean battle news, or honesty in examinations and American patriotism, or an academic grade point and the selective service classifications. It is easy to lose sight of your goal because of persistent tensions that lead the unwary into confusion.

One of the most important perspectives to keep in mind is this: life can only be meaningful when the present conflict and your possible term of military service are considered as an interlude after which you will return to your chosen vocation. By your choice of college training, you have cast your lot with the minority upon whom will fall the responsibility for leadership in world affairs. You can't afford to get lost.

It is quite probable that tensions will continue for some time—perhaps your whole life span. You may be required to learn and work while surrounded by uncertainty and threats. You can lament this situation or seize upon it as an opportunity to mature. The character and stature which we need so desperately in the national affairs is gained or lost in times of crisis. We grow most rapidly when our efforts are fully extended. There is both peril and great opportunity in days of tensions such as these.

With only a few more weeks of Semester 130 remaining, don't forget what you are "here after". The one thing you can do best while you are here is to acquire academic stature. Personality development and social duties are very important, but they in themselves are not sufficient reason to set apart four years of your life as college days. You have been given the privilege of attending college. It can open doors to vocational opportunity, enriched living, and civic leadership. Don't sell yourself short. Produce your best under tension for in the words of the late Senator Arthur Vandenberg's favorite motto, "They too shall pass." You owe it to your nation and yourself to develop your abilities to the fullest extent. This can best be achieved by maintaining your perspective and continuing your training.

Dr. McKeefery.

KAPPA KAPERS

What an exciting spring—after it finally sprung! Everyone is so excited about the formal dinner dances, weekend parties and — exams!

A week ago Monday night we had our mormal initiation dinner for our pledges at the Park Hotel in St. Louis. Several of our patronesses went and we were glad to have them with us. After the dinner we returned to our sorority room where the new members entertained us with a little party. Some of the pledge papers read that night proved to be very interesting.

Last Sunday night was an exciting evening for a little K. I. named Rosalie. Do you need any help carrying the Phi frat pin around Rosie?

It seems that another K. I. has been floating around in the clouds, or else spring fever hit pretty hard. Isn't that right, Dee?

That was some softball game we had with the campus wives. There for a minute I thought we were playing professionals.

Well—back to the term papers and studies for now.

DELT NEWS

Hey, men, don't forget to write in to Selective Service System in Princeton, N. J., for the army deferment tests starting May 26.

Several of the boys here at the frat forgot about it till yesterday and have been taking short rides down to the Draft Board here in Alma for the applications.

Thought Stu Frisima had been ill lately. He hasn't been eating with the boys. Now we know!

Doesn't seem right, but Callow's "Blue Beetle" hasn't moved an inch in five days. Bet it's the longest rest the poor Merc's had since it started rolling.

The boys have been swimming lately. Sherm Filmore travelled to Lake Huron to try its water for coldness, then tried out at Rock Lake. Claims that Huron's a little more breath taking.

Just four more weeks and we've had it! Be it the army exam, the actual service, graduation, marriage, working in the factory, or summer school. We bid you adieu amidst the screams and moans of, "Oh, no, not another term paper!"

PHI LIP

Spring has finally broken down some of our more stolid members. Frat. pins have been doing quite a bit of traveling this week; at least certain of them. Our friend Ron Sadler painted a rather dumpy morbid picture after his cold shower this week. Then there is the story of Dave, "Never'll give my frat pin away." Young, who finally succumbed. Congratulations! Pat!

It would seem to some of us that Mr. Roth has gone to the dogs. Question of the week: Why is that we can't get Dave Win-

Dick Roth Reigns over Annual M-Day

Patterned after the well-known Sadie Hawkins day, M-Day for Alma College meant "Girl-treat-boy." All day long, the girls opened doors for boys, treated them and carried their books. This great occasion, from the fellas' point of view, took place on April 27.

In the evening, the couples danced by lantern light on the tennis courts, at the "Tennis Ball." The big event of the dance came when Dick Roth was crowned "Potent Potentate of Alma College for 1951."

ston to charge?, some of the fairer sex keep asking us.

Overheard a serious discussion this afternoon concerning the removal of the trees between Phi House and the "Sunning Parlor" of Wright Hall; something about blocking the "Telescopic" view. They are pretty bathing suits aren't they, men?

Noticed by the light of the moon Wednesday night, a slinking character conveying drinks to a back door of a certain Girl's Dorm. "Coke Man C—" they call him now, heh, Bill? ??

Closing word, we just heard about the girl who soaked her strapless evening gown in coffee so it would stay up all night!

IWO's Hostesses Entertained at Tea

The Independent Women's Organization entertained their new patronesses at a tea on Sunday afternoon, April 22. The tea was a double celebration because it not only gave the IWO's a chance to meet their patronesses but it also gave them a chance to use their newly redecorated room for something special.

The patronesses who gathered around the tea table were: Mrs. Woods, Miss MacCurdy, Miss Thomas, Mrs. Goodman, Mrs. King and Mrs. Wheatley.

The Independent Women's Organization is very glad to welcome these women as their patronesses.

Three Students Await Recital This Sunday

The music department of Alma College will present Donald Dwyer, Richard Heuschele and Sandra Walsh, pianists, in recital at the Alma college chapel, Sunday, May 6, at 4 p.m. The program follows:

General Culture Tests Offered

Because so many students decide to enter the teaching field late in their college career, they find that they are short of needed courses and have taken many semester hours of subjects that will not benefit them. To avoid such confusion, the sophomore student should take the General Culture Test in a group.

The date for this test has been set at 8 - 11 a. m., Tuesday, May 15. All students eligible to take this test will be excused from classes at that date.

The test will be held in the chapel. Student are requested to bring two well-sharpened pencils. Mr. McCall, who will be in charge, states no special preparation is needed.

All students in the Sophomore, Junior, and Senior classes who have not yet taken this test are expected to take the test on the above date. Approval to be excused from this test must be obtained from Mr. McCall in advance of the test date.

The test includes six general fields: 1. Current social problems; 2. History and Social studies; 3. Literature; 4. Science; 5. Fine arts; 6. Mathematics.

Educators Vote 'No Acceleration'

Bronxville, N. Y.—(I.P.)—"The acceleration of college programs in colleges of liberal arts is neither necessary nor desirable in the present situation," according to a statement by President Harold Taylor and the faculty of Sarah Lawrence College.

By a unanimous vote of the faculty, a resolution sent to the American Council on Education expressed the view that, "The role of the liberal arts college is to increase the breadth and depth of understanding and knowledge on the part of American citizens. For the colleges to act, in the absence of total mobilization, as if the United States were about to become involved in a world war, is to imply that the role of the colleges is not to help prevent war and maintain peace but to foster a military attitude on the part of our social institutions."

The resolution stated that in the case of institutions which are concerned with technical education or in professional schools where the preparation of trained personnel for specific jobs can be accelerated, there is some justification for acceleration, since there are manpower shortages in certain areas. There is also some justification for accelerating on the part of those colleges and universities who wish to make college education available all year round to those men who will be drafted and would otherwise be unable to enter a regular college program.

"Our experience at Sarah Lawrence College with acceleration in the last war," the resolution concluded, "has shown us that an accelerated program in liberal arts colleges is educationally unsatisfactory. Plans can be made for individual students who wish to complete their college education in a shorter time but this does not entail the complete shut of the curriculum of women's colleges to a faster schedule."

"Therefore we wish to report that in our view the present situation does not call for the acceleration of college programs in the liberal arts, and that Sarah Lawrence will continue to plan for the individual needs of its students, not in the speed of education but in terms of its quality and function."

Humor!

Delt (at movies)—"Can you see all right?"

Theta—"Yes."

He—"Is there a draft on you?"

She—"No."

He—"Seat comfortable?"

She—"Yes."

He—"Mind changing places?"

A young woman had been studying voice for some time and at last was granted an audition by a great teacher. After singing for a short time, she turned and asked brightly, "And now what do you advise me to do next?" "No question about it," was the response. "Raise a family."

She—"I wouldn't marry you if you were the last man on earth!"

He—"Why not?"

She—"There wouldn't be any minister."

Definition of a kiss: Something given to a child, stolen by a lover, bought by an old man.

From the Daily Texan, University of Texas

"Dating problems are going to be tougher, and the caliber of football will be lower, if colleges pass either the Selective Service act or the Universal Military Training act (according to Dr. C. Dolley, University vice-president)."

Little Worth the Price
The Duke and Duchess, student humor magazine at Duke university, has been suspended from publication. The ban came after the magazine had devoted an entire issue to a satire on the Littleworth family (called the Duke family), endowers of that institution.

Here is a fairly typical passage from that issue, which may have helped inspire the ban on the part of university authorities:

"Young Diane Littleworth inherited piles from her father. Considering her painful childhood, Papa always made certain that there was a shack over her head... Her education was of the finest, but not of the most practical sort, for Papa always insisted, 'Hell, I didn't need no Latin to make my piles.'"

"Diane took a fresher viewpoint and would reply, 'I wouldn't need these piles to make my Latins.'"

Editors Needed
Mr. Wilson Daugherty, Chairman of the Publication Committee, announced today that applications for the positions of Editor of the Scotsman and Almanian are now being accepted. These posts are attained by appointment of the Publications Committee, and are for a period of one school year. Anyone interested should submit their applications to either Mr. Stielstra, Mr. Rowland, or Mr. Daugherty before May 11, 1951.

Students of Today Far Better Equipped

The college graduate entering the field of finance today is far superior to and better equipped than the "Bond salesman, ex-college football star type who entered the field twenty years ago," according to a statement issued today by Arthur Wiesenberger, noted financial leader, member of N.Y. Stock and Curb Exchanges and the nation's foremost mutual investment fund authority.

Mr. Wiesenberger pointed out that today's college curriculum equips graduates to enter the financial world prepared to perform useful public service as analysts, statisticians, financial writers and investment counselors. Whereas 20 years ago, the college graduate considered his prowess on the gridiron as adequate testimony to his abilities in all fields. Unfortunately, Mr. Wiesenberger added, the financial world employer then had a similar view. Mr. Wiesenberger stated that this changed perspective has resulted importantly from the presence of a man in the street is an enlightened investor and he has abandoned the service, investment and financial affairs of the past for applying personal training to meet these new demands.

Mr. Wiesenberger was recently nominated to receive an Horatio Alger award from the American Schools and Colleges Association, as a sterling example of an individual who achieved success in the tradition of Horatio Alger, and is the recognized spokesman for the $3 Billion investment company field.

The American Schools & Colleges Association is a free educational guidance organization with a membership of more than 800 schools and colleges throughout the United States.

Students, If . . .

If you can fool your prof without his knowing
That you are shooting him: a line of bull,
And while this bull from you is freely flowing,
By degrees you get with him a pull.

If you can force yourself by mighty effort
To laugh when he dispenses his stale jokes,
And when all your fellow students miss a question,
You read the answer calmly from your notes;

If you can fill the unforgiving hour
With sixty minutes worth of spoofing done,
Yours is the course, and three hours credit with it,
And what is more, you'll make an A, my son.

"I've a friend I'd like you girls to meet."
Athletic Girl—"What can he do?"
Chorus Girl—"How much has he got?"
Literary Girl—"What does he read?"

Religious Girl—"What church does he go to?"
Society Girl—"Who is his family?"

Comic Books Are Educational Aids

Bowling Green, O.—(I.P.)—Comic books should be used in American schools, an educator, Herbert G. Williams, believes. His recommendations are made in a thesis accepted at Bowling Green State University in a partial fulfillment of the requirements for the degree of master of arts.

"Comics are an integral part of our culture and consequently cannot be ignored by educators," declares Mr. Williams, who is head of the English department at Lawrence Institute of Technology. "The comics provide a basis for learning history, geography and science in a natural and personal setting."

How can comics be used effectively in the classroom? Mr. Williams answers the question by listing these comments: "Reading readiness—Animal comics offer a wide and varied library at small cost; Remedial reading—Since the interest level of the comics is high and the vocabulary level low, they would seem to contain all the qualifications for material in this field; Creative writing Comics help the young pupil familiarize himself with organization and the idea of a central theme."

"The advantages of better books can be shown," he adds. "There should be careful guidance to better forms of children's literature."

"Incorporation of comic books in the educational material does not mean a lowering of our standards, any more than the use of the primer or nursery hymns represents the ultimate in reading taste."

"The evils of the art work in comics cannot be mitigated. The artistic approach and technique and the content material can only be bettered by education and greater art appreciation."

Forbidding comics enhances their glamour and promotes interest in them, Williams quotes students of children's literature as having said. Comprehension and enjoyment of the comics is at the fourth grade level, according to his study of two copies each of Superman, Batman, Detective Comics, Action Comics, Star Spangled Comics and Boy Commandos.

The thesis writer points out that the Falk School of the University of Pittsburgh admits comics as textbook material in all grades from the first to the 12th.

Free Guidance Is Offered In Detroit

As an annual service to college graduates who hope to enter advertising, the Henry Koltys Company, Detroit advertising agency, is planning to offer free vocational guidance to all who need help in selecting and applying for their first advertising job. Called the "Advertising Job Clinic," this year's event will be held on the Ballroom floor of the Hotel Staller, May 24, 25 and 26, and will consist of private consultations for all who write for an interview. Interested students are invited to address this agency at the Francis Palms Building, Detroit, enclosing a self-addressed penny postal card, which will be used to advise them of the time and date of their appointment.

The decision to sponsor such a service was prompted by the questions young people have asked this agency when being interviewed for a position. The following are typical: "How can I overcome the handicap of no experience? Are my chances of getting located better in a big agency or small? Which is the better place to look? Where will I advance faster? How much money can I hope to earn when starting out? How much shall I ask?" Members of the Henry Koltys Company Vocational Guidance panel will make every effort to answer these and other questions which they hope will help college graduates in this region become more quickly located in a job for which they are best suited.

Due to the limited time and facilities the agency has available for the purpose, it will make no attempt to actually place or secure employment for those whom it interviews.
