Greeks Start Rushing for Pledges Monday

The fraternities will begin looking for fresh blood next week. On Monday each of the Greek organizations will receive from Dean Stielstra the names of the men who are eligible for fraternity membership, and at their evening meetings will select those to whom they will extend "bids", or invitations for membership.

Second semester freshmen and upper-classmen who have a scholastic standing of 1.00 (C) or better are eligible for consideration by the fraternities and sororities.

After the fraternities have voted on new members, a general meeting of all eligible men will be held, and an envelope given to each man containing the bids extended to him, if any. He will then sign his name on the back of the bid which he wishes to accept, return the envelope, and become a pledge to the fraternity of his choice. The date and place of the meeting will be announced by Dean Stielstra in the near future.

Canterbury Club Elects Officers

A dinner was served and officers were elected at the last meeting of the Canterbury club on February 5. Lois Howell was elected president; Jane French, vice-president, and Donelda Hamp, sec-treas.

Meetings of the organization will be held on the second and fourth Sundays of every month. The group will meet at 8 a. m. to attend Eucharist. This will be followed by breakfast and discussion periods.

Jewish Rabbi to Speak Here Next Wednesday

Rabbi Alfred L. Friedman

Rabbi Alfred L. Friedman of Congregation Shaarey Zedak of Lansing, Michigan, will be the assembly speaker on February 2 in the college chapel. His topic will be "The Background of Prejudice."

Rabbi Friedman is a graduate of New York university, did graduate work at Michigan State college, and was ordained rabbi at the Jewish Institute of Religion in 1943. Prior to his present pulpit, he served as rabbinic leader at Temple Isaiah Israel, Chicago; Temple Beth El, Benton Harbor, Michigan; and was Hillel Foundation director at Michigan State college.

Rabbi Friedman is a lecturer in the department of religion at Michigan State college, and is a member of the administrative committee, commission on justice and peace of the Central Conference of American Rabbis.

Tyler Student Center Will Open Next Week

The $225,000 Jerry Tyler Center, the first of the new buildings included in the Alma college development program will be opened on Thursday, February 26, at 9:00 p.m. The opening ceremonies will include a semi-formal student dance. The formal dedication of the building will be at a later date.

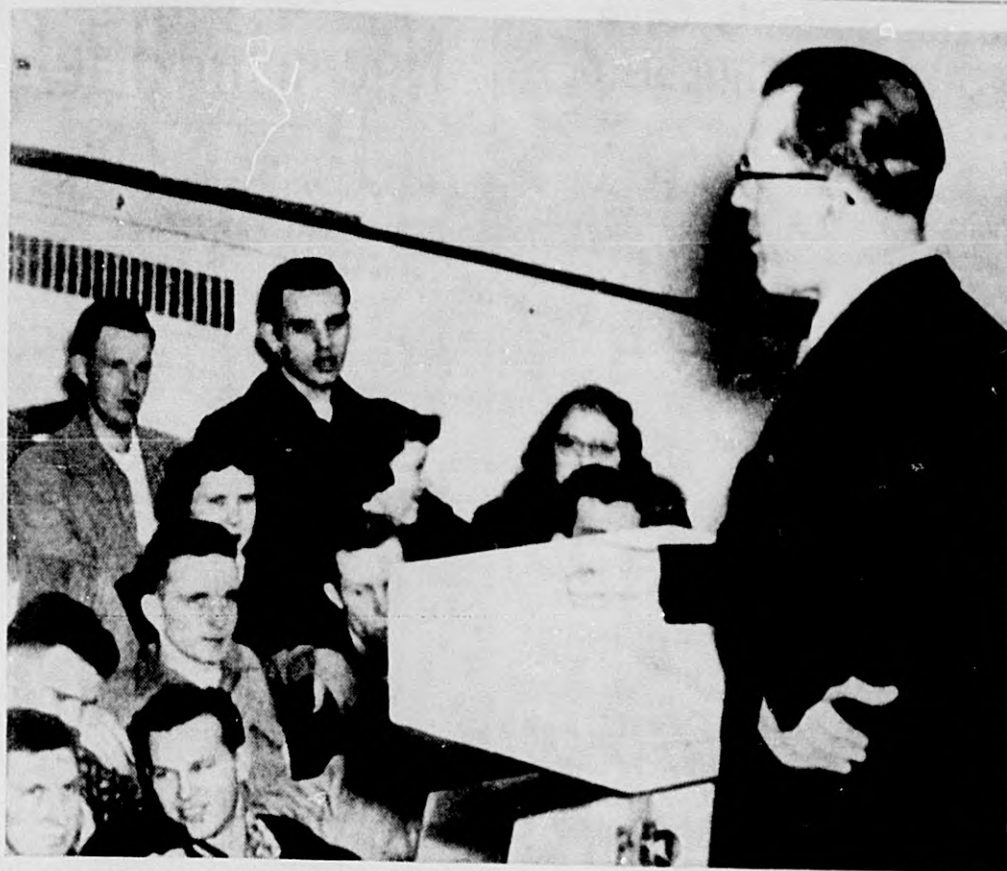

The new student center is the gift of Dr. and Mrs. Leon L. Tyler and Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Tyler of Niles, Michigan. The Tyler family gave the building as a memorial to Dr. and Mrs. Tyler's son, Jerry, his wife, Marry Witt Tyler, and their son, Michael, all of whom died in Chicago's La-Salle Hotel fire in June, 1946.

Dr. Tyler, who in 1949 announced the memorial gift to Alma, was superintendent of schools at Muskegon Heights from 1920 to 1928. He later was head of the Alma college department of education, and since 1937 has been a college trustee. Robert L. Tyler is president of the Tyler Fixture company of Niles, Michigan.

The main lounge was furnished through the efforts of the Presbyterian women of Michigan, under the sponsorship of the Women's Advisory committee of the college. Mrs. Crawford H. Daily, Alma, is chairman of the Women's Advisory committee.

The public is invited to inspect the new building at an open house planned for Sunday, March 1, from 3 to 6 p.m. Student guides under the direction of the student council will show the visitors through the new building.

The Rev. Dr. Frederick Wyngarden of Westminster Presbyterian Church, Grand Rapids, raps the lectern as he addresses last Monday's chapel on the subject "Where do you live?"

Dr. Wyngarden Closes Chapel Series Today

Dr. Wyngarden, pastor of Westminster church in Grand Rapids, also visited the fraternities and sororities for fireside chats and presided at daily inquirer's hours in the student union. A number of students sought him for counseling on personal matters and students preparing for church vocations met with him for advice and information.

The week's program was planned under the direction of Dr. Ross Miller, dean of religion, and Barbara Hoeflin, Detroit, student chairman. Planning committees for the week included: chapel services, David MacKenzie, Clawson; Judson Joyce, Monroe; Douglas Gillesby, Ferndale; Frank Williams, Detroit; and Dr. Miller.

The inquirer's hour, schedule, and host committee included Dalton Love, Port Huron, Allene Stolt, Harbor Springs; William Voska, Flint; and Bruce MacLean, Manistique.

Publicity and literature were handled by Roger Vance, Alma; Marian Pike, Fairgrove; Vernon Robinson, Marlette; Grant Gallup, Gaastra; and Professor A. Westley Rowland.

Frances Booth, Pontiac, and Betty Burns, Detroit, were members of the interview committee.

The A.C.A. in conjunction with Religion in Life Week, has set up a bookshop in the library, so that the students may purchase religious books for their Lenten reading. Authors whose work is included are C. S. Lewis, Archbishop Temple, J. B. Phillips, Dorothy Sayers, Carroll E. Simcox, Elton Trueblood, Henry P. VanDusen, Chad Walsh, and Angus Dun.

Miss MacCurdy has assumed charge of the bookshop.

Campus Notes

The Campus Wives held a Valentine's dinner for their husbands and children on February 11 in the college gym. After the meal, mixed teams were formed to play volley ball. Later everyone gathered at TV sets to watch the Davey-Gavilan fight.

At the meeting Bill and Dorothy Parish were welcomed back to the campus. They were absent from the college the first semester because of their involvement in an automobile accident last summer.

The floral decorations and plantings in Wright Hall have recently been replaced through the kindness of Mrs. Richard Waggoner of St. Louis, a member of the Women's Advisory Committee.

Volume Eight of the Encyclopedia Americana has been missing from the library since the week before final examinations. Since it is impossible to replace a single volume of an encyclopedia, the loss is more important than it seems. Miss MacCurdy would appreciate it if the person who borrowed it would also return it.

IN AMERICAN COLLEGES AND UNIVERSITIES

John Douglas Gillesby
President of the Drama Club

by Roger Vance

The portly form of J. Douglas Gillesby rocked comfortably away from a copy of W. B. Yeats, and put flame to an H. Tareyton. Exhausting the fumes, he considered with satisfaction the kind life fate had dealt him. Then he considered with alarm how much of it he dared let be published. Feeling his way carefully, he began to ex-hume facts.

Douglas Gillesby was born in Detroit General Hospital on June 2, 1932, becoming the youngest of three sons born to the Gillesby family. His father is a YMCA physical education director, his mother an elementary school teacher. The family reaches back to Scotland on both sides.

Douglas stretched and smiled hugely as he realized there was no need to be reticent about his background, it being wholesome. Squinting into the distance he prepared to deal with his childhood.

The first thing Douglas wanted to be was an actor. As a youngster he appeared in numerous children's productions, and was fond of giving his own neighborhood marionette shows, involving perhaps three marionettes and an audience of six or eight buddies. However, about the ninth grade Douglas changed his mind and decided to become a minister, the change being wrought (says Douglas, with great mystery), by certain experiences and personalities molding the impressionable clay of his young mind.

Time flew by and soon Douglas was gracing Highland Park High, where he displayed some interest in journalism, student government, and, again, dramatics.

Yet alack, just as he was getting the feel of the saddle, he was sharply reined in by his father, who mentioned something about cutting off Douglas' corner of the table. The upshot was a paper route; next he felt an urgency to work in a YMCA, then finally he gained a position as head page in MacGregor Library.

Praising, Douglas registered internal blues as he recalled the spending of his profits from his labors. The spare money went largely into books and music, both of which have been objects of joy and interest to him.

Planning to attend college, he was racked with indecision between Hope and Alma. Alma won, and accordingly he caused himself and his baggage to arrive in the fall of '50, as a sophomore, a one year stint have been completed at Highland Park J. C.

He immediately began to invade the different realms of student activity, with the vim of the superior student. He returned to his first love, drama, with such force that he became president of the drama club. He became a member of Phi Phi Alpha, and found time to work on the Almanian.

Having completed a major in English literature, Douglas is slated for graduation in June. Beyond that, says Doug, several actions impend, the most probably being a three year bout at Princeton Theological Seminary.

Adding to this he stated that he hoped to study abroad, and that he had a deep indifference to politics, he likes to take long walks, and to swim. J. Douglas Gillesby arose grandly (Douglas always arises grandly) and departed from the Phi house on his way to help serve evening chow.

Bearded Sage to Address A.C.A. Group

Professor Wilson Daugherty will speak on "Religion in Literature" at the next meeting of the A.C.A. on February 25 in the chapel.

The choir will present a program for the A.C.A. on April 1, and on the 16th and 17th of May the annual retreat will be held. Remaining meetings will include hymn sings, outside speakers, movie films, panel discussions, worship services, and a picnic later this spring.

On February 11 the A.C.A. held a social meeting in the student union. Jean MacKellar did a pantomime, Bruce Reed gave a reading, and Janet Anderson played the accordion. Refreshments were served. The door prize was won by George Spriggs.

Famed MSC Coach to Lead Hillsdale Team

Amidst nationwide publicity, Charlie Bachman, former Michigan State mentor, has been signed as Hillsdale college's head football coach, effective next fall.

Bachman will continue his private refrigeration business in the "off" season, and will maintain his home in East Lansing, although he and his family will live in Hillsdale during the football season. In 11 years at Michigan State, Bachman's teams won 70, lost 34, and tied 10.

Students Urged to File for Deferment Tests

All eligible students who intend to take the selective service college qualification test in 1953 should file applications at once for the April 23 administration, Selective Service National Headquarters has advised.

An application and a bulletin of information may be obtained at any local selective service board. Following instructions in the bulletin, the student should fill out his application immediately and mail it in the special envelope provided. Applications must be postmarked no later than midnight, March 9, 1953. Early filing will be greatly to the student's advantage.

Results will be reported to the student's selective service local board of jurisdiction for use in considering his deferment as a student, according to Educational Testing Service, which prepares and administers the college qualification test.

Prof Profile DR. STANLEY CHIPPER Professor of Economics

Dr. Stanley Chipper holds a class in economics over coffee cups and textbooks in the student union.

by Grant Gallup

Dr. Chipper's accent has probably helped his students to guess that he is not a native American, and some have perhaps read in the college catalog that he received his education in Czechoslovakia. But few probably know all of the things that we have had the good fortune to find for this "Prof. Profile."

To begin with, he comes from a family of professors—his grandfather was a famous mathematician in Austria-Hungary, and represented the Czechs in the Viennese parliament. His father founded the first modern agricultural college in the country. Dr. Chipper, himself Alma's professor of economics, says, "Three generations of teachers are more than one family can afford."

He was born in Pilsen, a city famous for its beer and notorious for its political works, and was educated in the normal European gymnasium, an eight-year liberal arts college. At the end of that course of study, the students took an examination over everything covered in the entire eight years. About one half of the students passed the exam and were permitted to go on to study at the university. Dr. Chipper, as he says, was "one of the lucky ones," and enrolled in the law school at Charles university in Prague, one of the oldest seats of learning on the continent. After two years of economics, he passed examinations which gave him a doctor's degree. He wrote his thesis on the subject of "Free Trade and National Sovereignty."

Upon completing his education, he married the girl who had been his neighbor in Pilsen. Then he had to hunt for a job. He worked for a month in the office of his uncle, a prominent lawyer in Pilsen, but was left. His reason? The uncle "was too successful for my taste."

Then for about a year he worked in Czechoslovakia for the Bata company, then the largest shoe industry in the world, and in 1937-38 was sent wandering about as a trouble shooter for the company, to such places as Yugoslavia, Egypt and Turkey.

In 1939 the political situation on the continent seemed unhealthy and Dr. Chipper applied to this world-wide concern for a transfer. He got a position in London, which he used as a home base for more export work in the Near East and India. War was inevitable, however, and when it came he joined the service of His Majesty George VI and the Chippers became British subjects. Dr. Chipper's wartime work was with the Intelligence Service. Part of his experience was parachuting into occupied territory and returning to Britain by submarine or surface boat.

In 1945, he was injured by a land mine and subsequently demobilized. He rejoined the shoe firm, whose headquarters had been evacuated to Cambridge, and there he had the privilege of attending lectures by Bertrand Russell, the philosopher, and Professor D. H. Robertson of the economics department.

In 1948 Mrs. Chipper's uncle, from Reading, Pennsylvania, came to visit in England, and persuaded them to come to the United States. They arrived on the twenty-third of December, and had their first hamburgers on the way from New York to Reading. They immediately liked the Americans they met, and appreciated their friendliness.

His very attractive wife, who had been a member of Pilsen, was born in Vienna, and received her Master's degree in language. Her father had also been a teacher. During the war she worked as an interpreter for the British Broadcasting Corporation. At present she is assistant to the fortunate Dr. Davies, an Alma dentist. The Chippers have two bright daughters, Jane, thirteen years old, and Susan, five.

Asked what he likes about Alma, Dr. Chipper replied that he especially appreciates the cooperation which the students give to the teachers, and believes that it is typical only of the small American college, for he has seen this spirit nowhere else.

He is at present working on a paper which he will read at Wayne university in April, before a meeting of the Michigan Academy of Arts and Sciences.

Scots Play Host to Kazoo Tonight

Tonight the Alma Scot basketball team meets head-on with a determined Kalamazoo college team which is in the midst of the fierce battle for the MIAA championship. The Hornets have lost only two games and are tied with Adrian for second place, behind Hope college which has lost only one. Should Hope falter, Kazoo hopes to squeeze in for the possible trophy and the championship. Kazoo eked out a close 77-72 victory over Alma at Kalamazoo and will definitely have trouble on the Scots home floor. While Alma has won only three games all year, she still proves a formidable opponent for any MIAA team when playing at Memorial gymnasium.

Kazoo sports a high scoring center in Manny Glasser, who is rolling along with a tremendous 26.1 point average per game this year, which places him fifth in the entire nation. Stopping Glasser will present a difficult problem to the Alma cagers, and should they succeed, an upset will definitely be in the making. He scored a tremendous 34 points in the last contest, while Dudley, an energetic guard, poured in another 26. If this duo can be curbed, look for Alma to surprise the Hornets.

Following this game the Scots have only one remaining home game with Calvin College on March 1, ending a rather disastrous season for the Alma cagers. Certainly it is the worst since the 1936-37 season when Alma won three games while losing 14.

Scot Cagers in a Slump

Howard Wiley

The Scots have been in a serious slump since returning from semester vacation, and are still seeking their first victory this semester.

The last game was with a Hillsdale quintet on their court. Although the Hilltoppers presented no problem for the Scots in their first contest who won by a wide margin of 76-59, the results of this last game did not indicate a lapse for our Scots, but a great improvement of the Dale squad.

The game started as if it would be another contest to be decided by the team that got the lucky break. The first quarter ended in a deadlock 1-15. The second quarter was the same nip-and-tuck type of basketball, with each team exchanging basket for basket until the intermission showed Alma ahead by one point 32-31. The third period was the same scrappy type of game, and still the Scots managed to hold the determined Hillsdale squad to a one point deficit, 45-44.

The final stanza once again spelled defeat for the Scots as they faded to a meager nine points while Hillsdale romped to victory with 22 points, making the final 66-54. The points were well spread for the Scots with George Fox and Bob Graham leading the scorers with 18 and 14 points respectively.

Alma 15
Hillsdale 15

The Scots' first game of this semester was with Olivet on the Comet court. Olivet trounced the Scots to the tune of 71-34 but once again it was that lagging second half that cost them victory, for they were leading a half 33-29.

The second contest following the vacation was the game with the league leading Hope quintet. The game was touch and go until George Fox, Alma's sensational guard, fouled out of the game in the third period. The Dutchmen promptly went on to win in the last stanza by a 79-67 margin. Fox, Miller, and Sawyer had 18, 17, and 16 respectively for Alma.

The Albion quintet was next to add to the Scots' losing streak by trouncing them 80-60. The Scots were only in contention for the first quarter, when they trailed by one point, 20-19, after blowing a 14-1 lead early in the game.

Hope College Sets Pace in MIAA Contest

All the general fans Hope is willing for were in MIAA competition with a total of nine victories as against only one loss. Adrian, the dark horse of the MIAA race, is holding down the number two spot along with Kalamazoo, each having won seven games and lost two. Adrian was edged by Kalamazoo in a thrilling contest that knocked Adrian out of a first place tie with Hope. The only remaining chance for either Adrian or Kalamazoo to finish in first place is for Hope to lose one of the two contests it has yet to play. Also, surprisingly out of the title race with a mere two victories and eight losses, is tied with Olivet for the cellar.

Everyone has wondered from the start, why, and how it is here also removed from the fly leg. We've heard that Larry Park was taking in order that he could go home to see his girl. The rest of the boys were taking just as they could get their extra credits, but the same never had to travel in check.

We think that Don Corbin should be in line for a prize for the most terrible playboy in this board getting around. Before he goes to hope this week, we wanted to see and found exactly one hundred and fifty six whippers.

The house owners are bringing very cultured. There is a continuous audience in the art gallery found in Kalamazoo's, T.C. Hall, and Brown's room. That's where to see going on, so we'll see you later.

PRELIP

After a double elimination ping pong contest that was held last week, we have a very hard champion in Jack Bennett. It was a hard fought affair, with "Killer" Wiley and John Norton displaying plenty of talent, but not enough to stop the champion.

We are happy that Ray Moore has joined Kalamazoo.

At our last meeting we welcomed Dick Skurky's return to campus. Dick has been away for a semester, but he has returned to graduate this spring.

KAPPA KAPA

Our country club was joined last week members by some of the X's and their friends. The news looks as sure that we're having a big fun our anniversary on Sunday, February 22.

We're glad to see that the McCall, Jr. Proctor, Elmer Park and Betty Stone have returned from the fly.

We had two worthy additions on the volleyball team the other night. James V. V. and Hugh Driman joined their team to allow another victory.

Carol is holding out holding about her work and in suspension. Mary Jane went to Flint, Maria and Joan were in Detroit and Nancy Foster went to Bristol.
