

MONEY FOR TRIP

Varsity Club To Sponsor Jazz Festival

The Alma College Varsity Club is sponsoring a Jazz Festival Friday, February 5th to earn money for the Alabama bound baseball team.

Last year's squad traveled to Tennessee for their spring trip and posted a fine record winning five of its seven games against the colleges of the deep South. This year Coach Carr has decided to take his boys deeper into Southern territory; they will play in Jacksonville, Alabama.

T-Board Plans Snow Carnival

Tyler Board has planned two days packed with activity for this year's Snow Carnival.

The festivities will begin with the A Club Jazz Concert on Friday night, February 5. The Student-Faculty Hockey Game, played with brooms and volleyballs, will take place Saturday morning.

At half-time of the game the Snow Queen will be crowned and entertained. This will be followed by the second half of the hockey game. Around noon snow sculptures will be judged.

An ice skating exhibition, a frosh-soph Tug O'War, the dedication of James Mitchell Hall, and a snowball fight will complete the afternoon's activities.

Following the basketball game with Kalamazoo College, the Alpha Thetas Sorority will sponsor the Masquerade Ball.

Hughes Resigns Takes Position At Stetson U.

Miss Frances Hughes, assistant professor of Music, Alma College, terminates nine years of service this month with acceptance of a new position at Stetson University, DeLand, Fla., where she will be Head of the Preparatory department, School of Music.

Born in Charleston, W. Va., Miss Hughes received her training at Mason College of Music, Charleston; Cleveland Institute of Music and the Philadelphia Conservatory of Music, where she earned both her Bachelor of Music and Master of Music degrees, majoring in piano.

She also holds a Teacher's Diploma from the Philadelphia Conservatory and has studied at the Aspen Institute, Colo. She has done post-graduate work in two-piano ensemble with Allison Drake, Dean of the Philadelphia Conservatory and completed the Piano Foundation Lecture Course with Madame Olga Samaroff Stokowski. During the summer of 1958, she studied in summer workshop at the University of Indiana.

In the local community, Miss Hughes is known for her teaching of piano as well as for directing the notable duo-piano recitals in recent years.

K. I.'s Present Luxury Liner

The second girl-bid dance of the semester will be presented by the Kappa Iota sorority Saturday, January 16, 8:30 p.m. at Tyler Auditorium. The theme of the K. I. "Luxury Liner" will be "India."

Tickets may be purchased from any member of the sorority.

The main feature of the Festival will be the selecting of "Miss Alma Supporter". Entertainment will include the singing of vocalists Lyn Salathiel and Marilyn Henry plus the Sigma Tau Gamma and the Alpha Theta quartets.

The "Fears Five" and the "Trio", Dave Proctor, Dave Elliot and Al Stevens will also entertain.

The club disclosed no figure as to how much is needed or how much they expect to earn from this festival, but Tom Taber, a spokesman for the club said, "We'll need quite a lot—I hope we have a good crowd," A very non-committal reply.

Alien Registration Deadline Jan. 31

All foreign students on campus are reminded to fill out Alien Registration cards by January 31. These cards may be procured at the Post Office and must be returned there upon completion.

A. C. Lists 7 Jan. Grads

Seven students will be graduating at the end of this semester. This list includes: Joyce Burchett, B.A. (Spanish); Robert Emmert, B.S. (Biology); Nancy Erber, B.A. (English); Dominic Paterra, B.A. (History); Suzanne Taylor, B.A. (Education); Ronald VandeGiessen, B.A. (Business); and Patricia Voska, B.A. (Education).

Edgar Notified of Ph. D By U of Michigan

Dr. Arlan L. Edgar, associate professor of Biology, Alma College, was notified that he had completed work on the Ph. D. from the University of Michigan.

Titling his dissertation "The Biology of the Order Phalangida in Michigan," Dr. Edgar concentrated on what is commonly known as the "Daddy Longlegs." For his material, he collected specimens from 83 counties in Michigan and in the search, near Charlotte, discovered a new species, the Leiobunum Lineatum. Also, he found new methods to be used in the study of this particular group.

Dr. Edgar has spent the past five summers at the University of Michigan engaged in course work as well as research, and was granted a National Science Foundation award during one summer.

A 1943 graduate of Ithaca High school, Dr. Edgar attended Wheaton College in 1943-44 and later, transferred to Alma College, where he received the B. A. degree in 1949. Named for a State College scholarship, Dr. Edgar entered graduate school at the University of Michigan, from which he was granted the M. A. degree in Education.

He entered the U. S. Army in 1951 and for the following two years was stationed at Ft. Dietrich (Md.) where he served as a research assistant in the Pathology branch. While there, he also did further study at the University of Maryland.

After release from service, Dr. Edgar returned to Alma's faculty ranks, where he had taught in 1950. During 1956-57, however, he was granted a leave of absence to attend the

Do Not!

Tyler Board requests that there be no smoking in, or food taken into, the auditorium or T.V. room, the former South Lounge, of Tyler Center. Students are asked to refrain from smoking or eating in these rooms otherwise the rooms will be closed.

Kapp Granted Leave For Grad Study

Mr. Ronald Kapp, Biology instructor, Alma College, was granted a one-year leave of absence from February, 1960-61 to do graduate work toward the Ph. D. degree at the University of Michigan.

Besides the academic year, he will be working for the next two summers under a National Science Foundation grant to do research on Ice Age (Pleistocene) vegetation in Kansas and Oklahoma. The research will be pursued by means of pollen analysis by which fossil pollen grains are extracted from buried soils and other sediment which has persisted from the Ice Age, dating from 10,000 to one million years ago.

Kapp will use this study as the topic for his doctoral dissertation.

On January 31, he will attend a three-day meeting sponsored by the American Association for the Advancement of Science in Washington, D.C., where he will serve on a panel. The purpose of the panel is to select participants for summer study from applicants of secondary teachers in the field of Science and Mathematics.

University of Michigan for concentrated work toward the Ph. D. In 1957, that school awarded him the M. S. degree and, on January 16, he will be formally granted his doctorate in Zoology.

At Alma, Dr. Edgar teaches Embryology, Comparative Anatomy, Animal Physiology, Bacteriology, Invertebrate Zoology and Microtechnique.

He is a member of Sigma Zeta, Phi Phi Alpha, Phi Kappa Phi (graduate honor society) and Phi Sigma (a graduate student society). Dr. Edgar is listed in the last edition of American Men of Science and is a member of the American Association of Advancement of Science and of the Michigan Academy of Science, Arts and Letters.

S. C. Successful In Recommendation to Faculty

Alma College faculty has approved the Student Council recommendation that classes be cancelled after 12 noon on Good Friday, April 15. However, the approval of this recommendation does not necessarily mean a long Easter week-end for many students. Saturday classes will be held as usual. This announcement was made at the weekly Student Council meeting Tuesday evening.

Trip To Bermuda Is Offered To Students

Bermuda College Week is the name given to the travel plan sponsored by the National Student Association.

Students interested in vacationing in Bermuda during Easter vacation can apply for the trip through the student plan at a reduced cost. It is possible to fly to Bermuda for eight days at a cost of $205. This includes the airplane trip from New York, housing, two meals daily, and special tours.

Anyone interested in the trip can obtain further information by contacting the campus representative, Sue Little at Gels-ton Hall.

Gentleman's 'C' Get Year's Leave

Satisfaction with the once-fashionable "gentleman's C" appears to be giving way to serious thoughts about the "under achiever." The pressure of numbers and costs in the nation's colleges and universities will leave less and less room for the capable but unmotivated student who deprives a more eager learner of his college opportunity.

A new policy is currently in operation at Amherst College which seeks to solve the problem of the "under achievers." In his 1959 report to the board of trustees, President Charles W. Cole explained that the college has decided to grant these students a year's leave of absence "in hope that some months in another environment would give them enough added maturity and perspective so that they might return here and perform at a higher level."

Fifty-one sophomores and juniors were suggested as possible under achievers in the middle of the last academic year. These students were informed of the college's new policy, conferences were held with faculty, administration and parents, and the student's performance was carefully watched throughout the spring semester. Of these 12 were granted leaves, 14 began to work up to capacity, 12 were found to be not laggards but

Tri Beta Members Attend Conference

Because Alma College is unique in its chapter of Beta Beta Beta, national Biology honorary society, two award-winning students attended the annual three-day meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science in December, all expenses paid.

Barbara Busby, Detroit senior and James Delavan, Alma junior, were winners of an award given by Parke-Davis and Upjohn companies, entitling them to accompany Professors Lester Eyer, Arlan Edgar and Ronald Kapp to the Chicago meeting.

Winners were selected by chapter members and Alma faculty members who judged the students on active membership and contributions to the local chapter, Gamma Beta.

While there, the group attend the business meeting of Beta Beta Beta and heard an address by Dr. H. Bentley Glass, geneticist at Johns Hopkins University. They were present for the "paper sessions" of various societies, visited the Museum of Science and Industry and met several authors of textbooks used at Alma.

Also traveling with the group, independently, were Beta Beta Beta members William Reist, Saginaw senior; Susan Beatty, Saginaw sophomore; Nancy Vogan, Saginaw junior and Elliott Garb, Benton Harbor sophomore. An addition to the Alma party was Phyllis Maureen, Alma graduate and currently a graduate student at the University of Michigan.

"Because of the award from Parke-Davis and Upjohn companies," said Dr. Eyer, "students have the unique opportunity to associate with some of the finest minds in the field of science. They exchange ideas with future scientists, like themselves, and they view the world of science beyond the college walls."

At the executive committee meeting tonight at 5 p.m. five delegates are to be chosen to attend a National Student Association workshop in Flint this week-end.

The possibility of holding regular Sunday worship services in the college chapel was brought up and discussed. The council felt that they, as a governing body, should not be taking on the investigation of this matter. It was suggested that groups of students interested in this possibility should

Russian Students "Meet the Press"

Two reporters from the DUKE CHRONICLE, Duke University (Durham, N. Car.): say they were impressed by the "mannerliness and charm" of the 12 Russian students who visited Duke, but they had doubts about the "intellectual sincerity" of replies to questions. Some replies were:

1. The Soviet Union does not expect the U.S. to overtake or surpass it in the scientific conquest of space.

 2. Socialist and communist societies are the most progressive, and therefore, most successful. Final victory (in economic race) will belong to Communism.
 3. Women are best kept in the home. (But how?)
 4. American rock and roll is not musical art.

Shakespeare's The Taming of the Shrew.

Despite the excellence of the portrayal of Petruchio by Max Helpmann and the competence of Tudi Wiggins as Katherina and certain lesser members of the cast in their respective roles, the play suffered from the self-consciousness of the unorthodoxy with which it was presented. The costumes and incidental properties were of relatively modern derivation, yet of no specific period, apparently to assign a condition of timelessness to the play; although this gesture was amusing, it was unfortunately self-defeating because of the very nature of the language in the script. Certainly these devices did not contribute appreciably to an understanding of the central issue of the play. The frequent modifications and alterations of the players' speeches, presumably, unless accidental, (which is not altogether likely among players of their reputation and caliber) were effected with the same purpose in mind; that is, to make the play acceptable to a modern audience. Sadly enough, since this tampering with the script added nothing aesthetically gratifying, it seemed perfunctory and faddish.

The set, highly suitable for touring purposes, was functional and artistically austere, and scene shifts were made in view of the audience with relative precision by members of the cast.

Disregarding the wholly technical difficulties of the production, the personalities of an extremely adroit group of players managed to seep through enough to make it interesting, if not inspiring, theater.

students with limited intellectual ability, 9 will have their record studied further, and 3 withdrew voluntarily for one year.

Although seniors are not included in the mandatory leave program, since the college feels it is too late to take action for them, it was noticed that about two-thirds of the seniors who had been coasting had definitely better records after the new policy was announced.

Kimball Attends College Confer.

John Kimball, Director of Admissions, Alma College, is a member of the Secondary School-College Relations Committee, composed of secondary school principals and MACRAO members.

In his position as Director of Admissions, he met in the College Conference January 12 at Jackson High school with representatives from Jackson Junior College, Eastern Michigan University, University of Michigan and Jackson High school.

The purpose of the panel was to inform high school counselors, parents and prospective college students of the opportunities offered by each type of school represented.

"It is a fallacy to say that schools pick their students," said Kimball; "in truth, students pick their schools. We can only tell them what we have to offer academically and socially; they make the decision."

investigate the matter. The council announced that it is accepting any and all possible Homecoming theme suggestions.

Students interested in helping, or participating, in the ice skating show for the Snow Carnival should contact Kurt Frelvel, at Wright Hall, or Miss Hatten in her office.

IT IS AMAZING how the college student grows in material wealth! I refer specifically to those bound items of parchment called 'books.'

For some reason or other, the shock of the high cost of education strikes the freshman with personal importance as he does out 20, 30, 40, maybe even 80 dollars for books after the first day of class. One never quite gets used to it. As one comes 'round the bend into the home stretch of the sheepskin trail, he has by this time achieved some sort of acceptance of the soul-searing pain connected with the bookstore counter — but it is still there, just the same.

Perhaps the senior will look upon his library, tho, as something more than a collection representing untold hundreds of American dollars — at least this is the hope of the college educator. From another standpoint the library may be looked at for the memories it invokes, as each book tells more of a story than its contents, by its mere presence in the student's collection.

As I look over my several hundred volumes, stacked neatly (?) over the major area of two walls of a 14x14-foot room, I wondered what any collection would tell of its owner. There is on my desk a short book-rack, as there is on the desk of many a student, and I wonder just how indicative of the student's personality is the selection?

Mine includes such things as: "The Public Philosophy", "We Have This Ministry", "My Best Science Fiction Story", "Reader's Digest Teen-age Treasury", "Presbyterian Law for the Local Church", "Common Worship", "A Short History of the Civil War", "The Hidden Persuaders", the Baltimore Roman Catholic Catechism, the Bible, and "The Service Hymnal." On the shelf facing my desk are two volumes of The New Century Dictionary, Foerster's "American Poetry and Prose," "Handbook of Social Psychology," "Treasures of the Great National Galleries," Pickering's Greek-English lexicon, "Graeca Majorca," the works of Pope, and a Studebaker maintenance manual.

But there are memories connected with all of them. When I notice "The Satyricon of Petronius Arbiter" idle on its shelf I am reminded of the rise of Playboy as a campus-man's magazine. After a few issues which included modern translations of episodes from the ribald classics, "The Satyricon" and "The Decameron", to mention two, were suddenly in demand—and I am just as curious as anyone else. Strange to say tho, with the satisfaction of a rather morbid curiosity, a larger, healthier, intellectual curiosity has been aroused, and my shelf includes a Latin-English dictionary, the works of Caesar, Cicero, Epictetus, and Aurelius.

With a textbook bought merely to fulfil a language requirement there are now by its side books in Spanish, Greek, Russian and French. (No, I can't read them all—but I know something about each of them, which is far beyond my original intention.)

imity of books to one another. "Portrait of an American Labor Leader" leans heavily upon "The Argosy Book of Adventure Stories." "The Complete Medical Guide" shares its corner with another book heavily concerned with psychosomatic disorders. "Studies in Motivation" stands majestically beside "Funeral Services," and "Dynamics of Groups at Work" is wedged between Nietzsche and "Man and The Universe." Perhaps most cryptic of all are the duo: "Constitution of the Presbyterian Church" and "What Divides Protestants Today." It is also interesting to note that "Thinking With God" has the McCormick Seminary catalog on one side and the Alma College catalog on the other.

Perhaps it is folly to attempt to psychoanalyze from the contents of a library. All of the disciplines are represented. Certain intervening variables are present on top of the bookshelves: a fishing rod, a ceramic Mandarin, a chessboard, binoculars, and a copy of Dali's "The Crucifixion," really a half-hearted question, for if he doesn't know by now, he never will.

RINGS, PINS SPARKLE

Cupid Has Busy Holiday

By Carol Steward,
Feature Editor

As customary around the holiday season Dan Cupid was busy playing his role to the hilt. Particularly on Alma's campus the engagement rings seemed to be flourishing on hands in every corridor.

Lynn Bliss, Midland freshman, became engaged to Steve Sias who is also from Midland. They are planning a June wedding and will reside in either Midland or Mt. Pleasant next year. Steve will be a junior at Central Michigan University in the fall.

A January 30th wedding is being planned by Vonnerie Wood and Dick Holt. Vonnie is a freshman at Alma and Dick is a sophomore at Central. Both Vonnie and Dick are from Marshall, and the wedding will be held at the Trinity Episcopal Church in Marshall. After their marriage, the couple plans to live in Alma while Vonnie attends college here, and Dick continues his education at Central in the fall.

Anne is a sophomore from Grosse Pointe, and Dale is from the Detroit area. An October wedding is being planned.

Jan Howarth, Northville junior, became engaged to Bob Ludtke, who is an Alma College graduate of last year. Jan is majoring in Spanish, and is a member of the Alpha Theta Sorority. Bob was affiliated with Delta Sigma Phi Fraternity, and is presently employed by the Wyandotte Tribune. Their marriage plans are dated after Jan's graduation.

A late summer wedding is being planned by Sue Yale and Robert Rhodes, both of Alma. Sue is a sophomore at Alma, and Bob is now doing graduate work at the University of Michigan. In the fall Sue plans to attend Alma, if Bob gets a teaching position in this area.

The wedding of Judy Hill and Phil Erlenbach will take place August 27th in Dearborn, the couple's hometown. Judy is a sophomore at Alma this year, and enjoys reading and dancing. Both Judy and Phil plan to attend Wayne next year.

Nancy Fashbaugh and Dave Kinner announced their engagement over the holidays. Nancy and Dave are both seniors at Alma, and are majoring in business administration. Nancy plans to enter the teaching profession, while Dave is interested in going into business. After their wedding in August, the couple will reside in the Detroit area.

Kathy Hoffer, sophomore from Grand Haven, became engaged to Gary Clark on Christmas Day. Gary graduated from Alma last year, and is now working as a civil engineer in Livonia. Their plans for the future are indefinite.

Janet Gettel, Owendale senior, received her diamond from William F. Redford who is also from Owendale. Janet is majoring in elementary education, and the couple has no definite plans for the future.

The engagement of Nancy Russell and Bod Burley took place over Christmas vacation. Nancy is a senior from Grosse Pointe, and is a member of the Kappa Iota Sorority. She is majoring in elementary education, and plans to teach in Detroit next year. Bob is in his second year of grad. school at Lehigh University, and will obtain his masters in psychology. Their wedding date has been set for July 30.

Sue Edgar, Detroit senior, became engaged to Norv Schock, a senior at Eastern Michigan University, who is from Detroit also. Sue, a member of the Kappa Iota Sorority, is majoring in elementary education, while Norv has physical education and natural science majors. After their August 20th wedding, Sue plans to teach in the Detroit area, and Norv will attend graduate school at Wayne.

JoAnne Stocker received her diamond from Richard Heuschele, who graduated from Alma last year. JoAnne, a senior from Monroe, is majoring in elementary education, and intends to teach in Ann Arbor next year. Richard, who plans to become a doctor, is attending graduate school at the University of Michigan. The couple will be married this June.

June 25th has been set as the wedding date of Nancy Erber and Charles (Skeets) Miller. Nancy is a senior at Alma and is a member of the Kappa Iota Sorority. She is an elementary education and home economics major, and plans to teach kindergarten in Livonia next semester. Skeets is now doing graduate work in dentistry at the University of Detroit.

Margo Klingelhoffer, Grosse Pte. Shores sophomore, became engaged to Bill Swain, who is also a sophomore at Alma, and is from Birmingham. Plans for the future are not yet definite.

Nancy Vogan, Saginaw junior, became pinned to Ron MacKenzie, a junior from Detroit. Nancy is a member of the Kappa Iota Sorority, and Ron is affiliated with the Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity. She is majoring in elementary and sociology, and his majors include biology and chemistry.

Women Show Interest For Modern Dance Club

Orgesis, is the name of a new contemporary dance club on campus which is under the sponsorship of the Womens Athletic Association, (WAA). The group studies dance as a communicative art, and as a plan of movement in time and space.

The group of approximately 37 women is under the guidance of Naarah Crawford, and Nancy Teachout. Their meetings are held on Thursday evenings in the gym from 8:00 to 10:00.

Scott Heads AST's

Sue Scott was elected president of the Alpha Sigma Tau sorority for the coming semester. Working with her will be Peggy Emmert, vice-president; Karen Larson, treasurer; Mary Heying, recording secretary; Ginny Hickey, corresponding secretary.

Judy Thacker, chaplain; Bethel Jean, historian; Judy Wedler, custodian, and Ponny Morris, editor.

Hartley Attends Teacher's Conf.

Mrs. Elizabeth Hartley, professor of Education, attended a two-day meeting of the Teacher Education Professional Standards Conference in Detroit, January 7-9.

The theme for the conference was "Cooperative Concern for Teacher Education." Such notables present were Dr. Raymond Hightower, Kalamazoo College; Dr. Francis Rosenhht College; Dr. Francis Rose-crance, Dean, Wayne State University; Dr. R. H. Boundy, Vice President, Dow Chemical Company; Dr. John A. Hannah, President, Michigan State University, and Dr. John Goodlad, University of Chicago.

The conference was a state follow-up gathering of the preceding two T.E.P.S. conferences.

Mrs. Hartley-is a recorder of one of the groups.

Alma Downed By Powerful Youngstown

Powerful Youngstown University unleashed a brilliant offense against the undermanned Alma squad and smothered them 88-51 last Saturday.

Midway in the first period the Ohio team showed why it is considered one of the finest teams in the nation. With an offense that worked like a well-oiled machine, they worked the ball for good clear shots making more than 47% of them.

The Alma defense tried vainly to stop the hot-shooting Ohioans and to set up an offense of their own, but they lacked the visitor's finesse. The Scots put up a game fight, however, and even looked good on occasion, but obviously this did not happen enough.

Unusual was the reaction of the home crowd. It was a fine crowd which cheered occasionally even for a losing cause.

The Youngstown team was led by six foot six Mickey Yugovich, who is one of the finest scorers ever to play in the Alma gym. The big boy scored 20 points mostly on an uncanny jump shot, and was his team's top rebounder.

Ferris Saxton was Alma's only player in double figures, the lanky senior guard hit for fourteen points mostly on a jump shot from way out; the Youngstown defense bottled-up the center so well that Alma was forced to take mostly long shots.

Butch Cantrell made four baskets and a free throw for nine points and played another fine game under the boards, but he could not cope with the much taller opposition.

Don Phillippi, who replaced Charles Barge for half the game, also played very well. The Livonia freshman handled the ball very well and seems to have more confidence in his passing and dribbling.

The next game is a league game against Calvin on January 15; it is another home game. Alma is 2-1 in conference play thus far this season.

Three-Way Tie For First Spot In WAA Contest

The final game of the Women's Athletic Association (WAA) Volleyball Tournament played Thursday, Jan. 7 resulted in a three-way tie for first place between Gity Moayed's team, "Yogi Bears", the Alpha Thetas, and the AST's.

A playoff to determine the first place winner will take place soon.

Eight teams or approximately seventy women have participated in the tournament.

Olympic Gallery Gods At $7.50

Tickets for the VIII Winter Olympic Games in Squaw Valley, Calif., Feb. 18-28, are now on sale at 5,000 outlets. The daily admission fee will be $7.50 for which the hardy spectator will be entitled to watch at least five major events. These are not seats which the committee is selling but standing room.

Seats are available only in the roofed, sheltered arena which looks upon the ice skating rink and the site of the victory ceremonies. The $250 boxes are all sold, but there are still a few $200 boxes to be had for the full eleven day program. Spectators seated therein will be able to see hockey games, speed and figure skating competitions. But to watch the skiers go by, they, too, will have to stand and walk around the slopes with those who come in on the $7.50 general admission.

Peters, Northrup Are Alma's Most Outstanding Athletes

Jim Northrup

Dave Peters

For the past two and one-half years the names of Dave Peters and Jim Northrup have dominated the four major sports at Alma College.

Both boys have distinguished themselves in football, basketball, baseball and track. Each has earned the maximum number of letters during his college career.

In the past, Northrup has held the edge in the fall and winter sports of football and basketball; while Peters was top in baseball and track.

Last season, Peters led the baseball team in hitting with a .478 average, but was ineligible for MIAA recognition because he missed a couple of baseball games in order to run track. On last year's rather weak track team Dave was the only bright spot. He placed either first or second, mostly first, in the high and low hurdles, the high jump and the broad jump and could have also run the sprint events when needed. He holds the Ferris Fieldhouse records for the hurdles events.

Northrup was All-Everything in football, was All-MIAA pitcher in baseball and basketball and placed in the league track meet.

So far this year these two boys are staging a personal battle in basketball. Each is averaging more than 12 points a game and is doing a fine job under the boards.
