the saying: "You can have too much of a good thing." At this point in the development of our College we must give some serious thought to the possibility that in academics we may be headed toward (or have reached) the point where we have "too much of a good thing."

Let it be understood from the first that the almanian at this point is NOT advocating the reduction of academic standards or a change in methods. We are simply suggesting that there IS argument to support this policy and that we should give some rather serious attention to this Increased emphasis on academic excellence seems to have resulted in decreased emphasis in other fields. For one reason or another the athletic program is severely hampered by lack of facilities. It is also becoming increasingly difficult for a man to participate in intercollegiate sports and meet academic standards.

We do not mean to imply that academics should be subordinated to athletics, but we do need to realize that the enthusiasm generated by a winning team can carry over into other areas. Mr. Charles House has pointed out a rather definite correlation between football success at large Universities and the fall semester grades at those institutions.

In other fields this problem lurks large too. Many of those students who are involved in campus government or other activities (such as the almanian) feel that they must make a choice between doing a good job in activities and letting grades drop, or keeping up grades and making activities secondary.

More people than "Tiger Kat" have suggested that it is becoming increasingly difficult for organizations to build floats, make lawn decorations, make snow sculptures, etc., without seriously endangering the academic records of their members. One fraternity has felt the pressure so strongly they have chosen to spend more money and less time on their float.

IT IS NOT WE who are making the value judgment that these other parts of college life are important. We are simply giving support to those value judgments which have already been made by the administration and the Synod of Michigan in

There is far more truth than poetry in their statement on "Preliminary Principles" and "Objectives of the College" which are printed in the College Catalog.

In effect these statements emphasize the importance of educating the whole man, which must include his social life. Of special interest is the statement that the principle of community is a "first con-

Is it possible to maintain this spirit of community and concern for the whole man and still pursue a standard of excellence in one area? M.S.U.O. has faced this question and answered NO! They have designed a "school for eggheads." Alma may in the near future be faced with this choice.

ONE MIGHT ALSO QUESTION whether the kind of emphasis is on "academics" which we now have is really conducive to that kind of "inquiring mind" which we wish to foster. When certain courses require that seven to eight hundred pages be read before mids it becomes rather difficult to do any work outside of committing to mind those ideas expressed in these pages.

The increasing emphasis on doing well on the graduate record exams may also discourage the "inquiring mind." In some departments the emphasis in course matter has changed because of poor (compared with other departments) showings on the exam. Certain facts are considered to be important because they appear on the exams and committing these to memory becomes more important than delving deeply into the implications of the material studied.

What we are trying to say is that we need to take a closer look at our system of values on this campus. There are definite arguments for a reduction in academic emphasis. These must be weighed against the mass of evidence which indicates that academic standards should rise. Only when a conscious choice is made by weighing the evidence on both sides can we put any faith in that choice.

This may not be an either/or situation. The problems which we have associated with rising academic standards may actually spring from another source and can be corrected without lowering our standard of excellence. We can tell only by taking a closer look.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor,

The editorial you printed last week under the title "we proclaim . . . " was just wasted space. There was absolutely no point to it. I believe this is typical of many of the topics discussed around this campus. Isolated events are listed, connected and then twisted to fit whatever one has in mind. Surely "et" realizes that these comments are not validated.

One of the Romans

Dear Editors: In recent weeks I have noticed a good number of my fellow Almanians wearing those gold sweat-shirts with the inscription "Almae Collegii" in black Old English type. As a former Latin student, I feel compelled to inform these people that the aforementioned phrase is unfortunately bad

This inscription was apparently taken from the "Sigillium Almae Collegii" on the college seal. "Sigillium Almae Collegii" can be translated as "The Seal of Alma College." In this case the "Almae Collegii" is in the genitive case, which it should

Standing by itself on a sweatshirt, however, "Alma College" is in the nominative case and should be inscribed in Latin as "Alma Collegium," not "Almae Collegii!"

Dear Editor and Students,

Are you aware of what is happening to your yearbook? Are you interested in that yearbook, which will hold for you the memories of your college life? A recent check with some of the members of the Scotsman staff has revealed the following changes:

1) The size of the yearbook is being cut from the 9x12 to 81/2x11. If this seems to be a small difference, compare the size of last year's Scotsman to a sheet of typing paper.

2) This year's edition will be 24 pages shorter.

3) All color will be cut from this year's book in order to operate within the budget.

If this is the type of yearbook we will be proud to show people, then we need to do nothing but sit in apathy as we have in the past. If not, there is still some time to take action.

According to those members of the Scotsman staff to whom we talked, the cost of replacing these cuts would be approximately $1000. This represents a cost to each student of a little over $1.00.

In our opinion, the students would rather be assessed the extra money, than to be stuck with a yearbook which, in all external appearances, resembles a comic book.

Do you agree? Signed: Bernie Spaulding Ron Griffith

Dear Citizens,

This letter is addressed to the editorial in last week's almanian entitled "it's the greatest." That editorial certainly had several valid points-especially in its consideration of whether or not our system of elections is the best. I agree that it is the ideal of democracy that citizens elect their candidate according to that candidate's qualifications. I also agree that one can not simply "throw around terms like 'best' or 'greatest' country without explaining what is meant . . .

On the other hand, isn't the democratic ideal of the U.S.A. the "best" foundation of any nation of our contemporary culture, or even of the ancient Greek culture which did have many aspects of merit but also many which we today can not accept or respect?

To be practical now, rather than idealistic, it is obvious that our country doesn't in every way support its high democratic ideals; but it is striving toward these goals. And to be honest, our country is still rather young (less than 200 years old), and it seems to me that the United States has accomplished more in that brief span of time than most other nations in an equal amount.

Thus I do believe that our country is the "best"; or, if it isn't the "best" now, it certainly has the potential. And perhaps part of that potential is that we have citizens who are enough concerned about their country's condition that they will seriously question it, as in last week's editorial.

Now about Mr. Romney's visit to our campus: I thought he was extremely nice to stop at the college at all. It wasn't actually a scheduled part of his tour. After all, most of the stu-See LETTERS, p. 3

Among such other obvious deficiencies as libraries, fieldhouses, and warm weather, the College lacks a good bar, tavern, saloon, or what have you. Once a person tires of the stodgy atmosphere of the union which The College offers, and CMU's five-million-dollar-University-Center glimmers when it should glamor, there is no where to turn.

Is it asking too much to want an ordinary neighborhood bar, complete with pinball machines, draft beer, jukebox, and back rooms, in a college community as large as this swelling subdivision? If there are no bold entrepreneus with a Greek accent among the local citizenry, The College should take the initiative in the matter. And it is not unreasonable to wonder why a bar was not included in the costly facilities of Tyler Center.

Of course, preliminary steps on the part of The College would necessarily include the formation of a joint IFC-SC-Board of Trustees committee and the appointment of a Dean of the Bar (probably some unemployed Head Resident). If this attempt to further the cause of civilization at The College were successful, many of The College's present facilities could easily be put to further use — for example, a system of Chapel Credit Cards supervised by the Office of the Dean and some building such as Hood being converted into a "drunk

The author, Sports Editor Dick Hughes, wasn't content with slamming the defeated Alma football team, ("Alma made the long trip home October 20 and the only thing they took back with them from Reed Field was mud."), but he childishly added derogatory comments about their own guests, the Kiltie Band. Since Olivet College for some reason has no band of its own, they paid traveling expenses for the Kiltie Band to Olivet and invited them to perform in what turned out to be a rain soaked parade and football game.

Said the article: "It just wasn't Alma's day in any way, shape or manner. They started off by losing the cross country meet 24-33. Their Kiltie Band got their pretty uniforms all wet. The band picked up so much water that they almost drowned in the middle of the

"When you want champagne for two, should you order a fifth, a tenth, or a split? Do you know the difference between a straight and a blended Whiskey?"

These questions may sound a little out of place in a college newspaper, but somehow an article on how to "determine your rating on the 'bar exam'" was printed recently in The Lawrence Tech News. Under the somewhat misleading headline, "Do You Know Your Way Around the 'Spirit World?' " are instructions on guessing "the probable effervescence of your guests by remembering that you get six to eight glasses from a fifth of champagne, three or four glasses from a half-bottle (sometimes called a tenth) and just two from a split.!"

Maybe this article has given some ideas to the almanian; next spring we may print an article explaining the fine art of successful grassers for all freshmen, new faculty members, and uninformed upperclassmen!

Said the Hope College Anchor, citing no source; "The Flying Dutchmen have the honor of being the preseason basketball favorites in the MIAA league." I'm sure the Scots will have plenty to say about that!

"How does CMU, as an institution, contribute to poor mental health?" No, this isn't from the Central Michigan University catalog, but is taken from last week's Central Michigan University Life.

In an article headlined "Psychologist Claims CMU Stress Contributes to Poor Mental Health" Dr. Ben Ard, the clinical psychologist at Central, stated that "Some of the rules are not formulated in the best interest of mental health for the student." He went on to say that the institution takes the place of parents and sometimes treats the students like children instead of maturing adults. The institution should help young people run their own lives.

But Dr. Ard-What can we do with an administration that won't even let us paint and tar an old rock?!

GREAT DEBATE!?

by T. Davis

Signs all over campus announced that on Saturday night at 7:30 "The Great Debate" was to take place between the Young Republicans and the Young

At 7:30 Tyler Auditorium was "filled" with the panel of three Young Democrats and an audience which Brian Hampton estimated to be "around thirty." One member of the audience, Bruce Warren, stated that there were six people in attendance besides him-

At this point Hampton announced that he had conversed with Y.R. president, Louise Yolton, an hour before, and she indicated that the Y.R.'s were not ready Hampton expressed amazement that the Saturday before the election the Y.R.s were not ready to defend their candidate, Romney.

"We did a lot of work on our case. We even found some good things about Swainson," stated Hampton.

The main reason that the Y.R.s did not appear, according to Miss Yolton, was that it was difficult to find three people who could take the time to prepare to debate. "It takes time to prepart for an intelligent debate. It is easy to argue but it takes work to carry on an intelligent debate." Also, Miss Yolton stated that she understood that the original plans were for discussion rather than debate.

Miss Yolton pointed out that the timing of the event was bad. It fell in the midst of midterm when students are spending a great deal of time in study. Miss Yolton stated that she considered tests of rather great importance.

Timing was also poor because of conflicting events that night, and because most students who are eligible to vote had already mailed in their absentee ballots, according to Miss Yolton.

She did state that she was glad to see that a Young Democrat club had formed on the campus. "I hope it may stir up some apathetic students." In the past there have been Democrats in the Y.R.s who wanted to learn more about politics.

dents who are 21 had sent their absentee ballots in long before his visit, and few people on campus are really eligible to vote. Mr. Romney must have known this; consequently, he wasn't here necessarily to get votes. In addition, he wasn't really expected to give an especially prepared speech to our students. Classes were being held, and few professors excused their students to hear the gubernatorial candidate speak. As a result, the "crowd" was rather small. And if our campus does constitute part of the "intellectual elite" of our country. why didn't some of our "intellectuals" ask intelligent thought provoking questions? Without a doubt, Mr. Romney would have been glad to answer them. (His capabilities have already been demonstrated in the Romney-Swainson debates on t.v.).

Then, too, as the editorial's author admitted, Mr. Swainson would have done the same thing "with certain little differences"; and unfortunately, most voters in America today expect and prefer an emotional appeal. This is not the ideal. This is the hard, cold fact. I wish the rational argument would work, but we are living in the world of today; and we must accomplish things in this world as it exists with all its inconsistencies and improprie-

Lastly, I don't believe Mr. Romney was being dishonest when he said that he thinks our country is "the best that ever was." He seems to be very sincere about this and truly believes it, as more people would realize if they had kept informed on the issues. He would like to help the U.S. reach its potential, and he's hoping to help the country by helping Michi-

Dr. Maurice Crane will speak in Convocation next Wednesday morning at 10 in the Chapel. Crane was very well received last year when he spoke on the topic: "In Search of a Twelve Foot Tree." This year he has entitled his talk "Another Way To Slice People."

Dean William Boyd is well acquainted with Crane and describes him as "One of the most brilliant men I have known."

Crane's field of interest is literature; he is an associate professor of humanities at Michigan State where he teaches in the University and the Honors College.

According to Boyd he is an excellent jazz musician and has been a band leader. He has a long publication record and is a "very productive scholar."

Crane also has a good deal of experience in educational television and has been responsible for some of State's programs in this area.

Seniors are to go to the Commons for the Convocation. Crane's address will be piped in and refreshments will be served.

The Delt Sig Dream Girl will be crowned at this affair by Linda White, last year's Dream Girl. Nominations have been made and have been sent to the Delt Sig Chapter at C.M.U. This group will choose the winner. Those nominated include Mary Arnold, who was recently pinned to Bill Peterson, Judy Neigh, and Pris Read.

The Delt Sigs are having an informal party for the freshmen and independent men of Mitchell Hall. It will be given on Monday, November 12 and will feature a card tournament and movies of the Philadelphia Eagles-Green Bay Packers game. A similar party for Wright Hall is being planned in the near future. Other events planned for this month are a closed hayride and a party with the Thetas.

Our halloween party, although postponed for one night, was a huge success. All types of costumes were donned by everyone attending. Prizes were given to winners of games and for costumes.

Dave MacFarlane and Cherie Foster were judged to have the best costumes; they were dressed as Fred and Wilma Flintstone. The funniest costumes were judged to be those of Linda Hudson, an old grandmother, and Dick Albee, a beatnik.

In connection with the party, the great Sig Tau pumpkin would like to thank the AST pledges for their donation of pumpkins for decoration.

Last Sunday night a surprise birthday party was held for Dave MacFarlane. More on the informal side, the party was very humorous as could be ascertained by the gifts which Dave received. Ice cream and cake, along with punch, were served.

Tonight we are having a closed party with our sisters. The theme, the roaring 20's, was agreed upon by the Sig Tau and AST pledge classes.

Sunday's first annual powder puff football game was a heated battle in spite of the cold weather. The game was off to a dazzling start as each team showed the effects of the expert guidance of KI coach Gene Henderson and Theta coach Tom Hickman. The Theta's made a first down on the first play but the KI's soon gained possession of the ball. About the end of the first quarter KI Ann Roberts, receiving the ball with a clear field before her ran 40 yards for a touchdown. The KI's got the extra point as Ann carried the ball again. It seemed that KI captain Nancy Gobel's expectations for her team were well founded as the KI's led at the end of the half 7-0. However, the Theta's secret maneuvers surprised the KI's and in the fourth quarter, Kathy DeBruler made the second touchdown. The KI's rallied, though, and the Thetas failed to make the extra point. For a few exciting seconds it looked like the Thetas would get another

Great Scots!

by Jim Ralston

The Alma College football team will lose only 5 seniors through graduation this year. But in this small segment of last-year men, there is talent and leadership that will be missed when the Scots launch their 1963 football campaign.

Paul Kozumplik, Ted Skinner, Dick Lee, Bob Weise, and Bill Dean will be participating in their final college ball game when the Scots take the field at Eastern Michigan University this Saturday.

CAPTAIN PAUL KOZUM-PLIK, a four time letter winner, had a real task in keeping team morale up this year. But he never let up and his hustle was an inspiration to the younger players on the team. Besides being able to get the short yardage when the Scots needed it, "Koz" proved to be one of the most proficient blockers on the team.

Ted Skinner is unfortunate in the fact that he plays center, the position least noticed by the speciators. But teammates and coaches will vouch that Ted was one of the most consistent ball players on the team, getting his job done week after week, usually playing across men 30 or 40 pounds heavier than himself.

DICK LEE, in his second year of varsity ball, has been used primarily as a defensive half-back. But in the last few games he has come into his own as a ball carrier also.. In. the game with Hope, Dick played a fine offensive game as a pass receiver.

Bob Weise came to Alma from Alpena J. C. and has been a steady performer for the Scots for the last two years. His duties have been divided between linebacker and fullback.

One of his finer moments was when he grabbed a safety-valve pass and rambled 45 yards in Alma's homecoming game this year. It was one of the few bright moments for the Scots on that particular Saturday!

BILL DEAN was used strictly for his specialty this yearpunting. With the practice Hope 30, Alma 6 teaching program conflicting with football practice, Bill did Kalamazoo 44, Adrian 6 not have a chance to play end, as in previous years. But in punting he was tops in the league, averaging over 36 yards for 15 punts. And this was definitely the year Alma needed a man who could boom the ball out of their own back yard!!

Tomorrow college football will become an experience of the past for these five seniors. It would make for a much happier memory if it all ended with a win . . .

The Class A intramural football game ended in an exciting showdown for second place between the Delt Sigs and the Take-ems. The Delt Sigs needed a win to grab the second position and the Take-ems needed a tie or a win.

It turned out to be the most thrilling game of the year as John Munsel of Take-ems made a diving catch of a pass to tie the game 18-18 in the last 30 seconds. And that is the way it ended as the Take-ems edged out the Delt Sigs for second

No More Hope, Scots Go East

Scots Keep Record Intact; Lose Seventh Straight

The Alma Scots met more than their match for the seventh straight time this year, falling to the Flying Dutchmen of Hope College, 30 to 6.

It was the same story as in all the other games this year; too little, too late. Hope jumped off to a 18-0 half-time lead taking advantage of Alma's defense both in the air and on the ground.

Early in the second half the Dutchmen tallied again. before Alma began its first sustained drive of the game, carrying them into pay dirt and narrowing the gap 24-6. Van Mulligan carried the final yard for the 6 points.

Being fired up by their score the Scots quickly obtained possession of the ball again, but a major penalty prevented them from another quick score and putting Alma back in the ball game.

Hope added insult to injury as they scored their fifth touchdown in the closing minutes of the game making the final score
