

Alma, Loyola Meet This Sunday

Special arrangements have been made for viewing of the General Electric College Bowl program on campus Sunday. Four television sets loaned by the General Electric Company will be placed in Van Dusen Commons so students can view the competition while eating supper at the usual hour.

Sets will be placed on all sides of the room so the program can be viewed from any angle. The sound portion will be carried over the loudspeaker system in order to provide uniform acoustic conditions.

Varsity Scholars to Compete Before National TV Audience

The Alma College team which will challenge Loyola University on the General Electric College Bowl this Sunday afternoon has departed for New York City to conclude preparations for the appearance on national television.

Ann Dempster, Edward Garrison, Lloyd MacAskill, Jerry Smith, and alternate Robert Miner left Alma at noon to catch a flight leaving Detroit Metropolitan Airport at 4:10 and arriving at New York's Kennedy International Airport at 5:30. The team was accompanied by its coach, Dr. Edwin Blackburn, and Mrs. Blackburn.

Tomorrow night the team will be having dinner and seeing a Broadway musical production with Mr. and Mrs. Peter Mitchell of Westfield, N. J. Mr. Mitchell is vice-president of the Chase Manhattan Bank, and the Mitchells' daughter, Ann, is a senior at Alma.

At 11 a.m. Sunday the team will report to the NBC studios in Rockefeller Center to begin final preparation for the 5:30 program. If all goes well for the varsity scholars from Alma, the flight home Sunday evening will be preceded by a victory celebration.

The past week has seen some outstanding performances by the Alma quartet, and hopes for a victory over Loyola Sunday are high. One of the biggest problems now, according to Coach Blackburn, is to prevent the team from becoming overconfident.

The main cause for optimism is the tally kept by Blackburn of Alma's weekly performances against the two teams competing on television. The tabulations show that Alma would have defeated Loyola quite easily in either of its "Bowl" appearances, and, indeed, would have had less trouble with Loyola than with its defeated opponent, Arizona State University and Emerson College.

Time and again the Alma quartet has shouted out the correct answers to tossup questions seconds before either of the teams on television has pressed the button. Whether Alma wins or loses this Sunday is likely to be determined by speed of response as much as anything else.

Last Sunday Loyola barely eked out a 275-270 win over Emerson, coming from behind at the final whistle as a team member correctly identified a description of Dante's De Monarchia. This squeaker followed a similarly narrow victory over Arizona State, 165-155, the previous week.

Last Saturday the team took on a challenging alumni quartet composed of Mrs. Margaret Csete, Mr. Alfred Fortino, Dr. Eugene Pattison, and Dr. Howard Potter. The student foursome jumped to a 230-25 halftime bulge and then coasted to a 360-170 win.

Last night the "Fearsome Foursome" met the "Quaint Quartet," composed of Mr. Kent Kirby, Mr. Norman Locksley, Dr. Lawrence Porter, and Dr. Paul Splitstone. The score was not available as the almanian went to press, but a strong showing by the students should be regarded as another favor-

'Rasho-mon' Will Be Sunday Foreign Film

On Sunday evening, November 1, the International Film Series will present the 1951 Japanese work Rasho-mon. The showing is scheduled for Dow Auditorium starting at 8.

The film presents four contrary versions of the same event: a bandit's waylaying of a merchant and his wife as they travel through a forest. There is the bandit's version, the wife's version, the dead merchant's version (told through a medium) and the version told by a witness. Critics agree that in the hands of director Akira Kurosawa this clear structure becomes the vehicle of a work of art.

On the film the Saturday Review says, "'Rasho-mon' is, for my money, a great film... its editing structure, camera work, and acting, challenge comparison with the outstanding film achievements in any country or period."

Bosley Crowther, writing in the New York Times, observes: "Everyone seeing the picture will immediately be struck by the beauty and grace of the photography, by the deft use of forest light and shade to achieve a variety of powerful and delicate pictorial effects. Others, more attentive, will delight in the careful use of music (or absence of music) to accompany the points of view. But only the most observant—and the most sensitive—will fully perceive the clever details and devices by which the director reveals his characters, and, in this revelation, suggests the dark perversities of man."

Among the awards Rasho-mon has won are the Academy Award as the best foreign film, the Grand Prize at the Venice Film Festival, and the National Board of Review Selection as the best foreign film.

Individual admissions will be available at the door at 75c.

The current International Film Series will conclude on November 22 with the showing of a W. C. Fields comedy.

Rupert to Speak Sunday in Chapel

The Reverend Hoover Rupert will be the guest speaker for this Sunday's service at 11.

Dr. Rupert, who is at present the senior minister of the First Methodist Church in Ann Arbor, has an unusual and varied background. He started school in Calcutta, India, where his parents were stationed as missionaries.

He has degrees from four different colleges and universities, including an A.B. from Baker University, an A.M. from Boston University Graduate School, an S.T.B. cum laude from Boston University of Theology and a D.D. from Adrian. He also has done graduate work at Union Seminary, Garrett Biblical Institute and has had a Lucinda Bidwell Beebe Fellowship, Boston University.

His career as a minister started in Baldwin, Kansas, when he was assistant pastor for the First Methodist Church in 1936. Before his present position he had worked at six different churches. In one of these responsibilities, he was head of all Methodist youth work in the U. S.

The Reverend has shown through various activities his intense interest in young people. He has written several articles and books concerning youth; the most recent of which is, Enjoy Your Teenager—A Reading Book for Parents.

Dr. Rupert has appeared on CBS's "Church of the Air", and broadcasts a sermon weekly over WOIA, AM and FM, in Ann Arbor. He has spoken on over 85 college campuses, and this Sunday in Alma's Chapel will speak on, "You Can Never Go Home Again."

Landscaping Will Enhance Library

A major landscaping project surrounding the new Montieith Library is expected to be completed this week. It was constructed mainly to convey the unity of a future academic center with the library serving as its center.

According to Stephen Meyer, comptroller of Alma College, the landscaping is costing approximately $15,000. Don Vanderveen of Mason, Michigan, landscape architect, was hired for the specific job. However, the actual landscaping was done by Gordon Hahn of the Twin City Landscape Service of St. Louis, Michigan.

A noticeable feature of both the library and the surrounding area is the unique simplicity with which they were constructed. Stick trees such as the sugar maple, Washington Hawthorn, and Katsuaia help to enhance its beauty.

Residence hall and organization pictures will be taken November 9 through 12. See Tyler Bulletin Board for the schedule. The staff does not wish to reschedule pictures unless given advance notice. Please be there when scheduled.

Monday night the long awaited performance of Desire Under the Elms was presented by a fine off-Broadway cast. The tickets sold out long in advance. Yet there were 50 seats unoccupied at 8 that evening.

Some 50 people decided they were too busy or changed their minds or heard "it wasn't any good" or just plain forgot. Meanwhile 200 who had time, who wanted to see the play and who hadn't forgotten couldn't go. There was room but they didn't have tickets.

Certainly last minute emergencies are understandable and unavoidable. But 50 is unbelievable and ridiculous.

It all boils down to one basic reason. As irresponsibility...

With the hope of presenting both sides of the national political picture, the almanian invited the Young Republicans and the Student Committee for Citizens for Johnson to write articles explaining their stands on next week's national election.

The request was made to both groups on Tuesday, October 21 with the deadline set for copy this past Tuesday. Both sides agreed and said their copy would be turned in on or before the deadline. The Citizens for Johnson submitted their article, the Young Republicans did not. The president of the YRs excused himself Tuesday evening because he was "too busy" with other things, both academic and political.

The People of the twentieth century find themselves living in a world characterized by its complexity and rapid state of change. In international affairs, each day has become a crisis or near crisis. As a result, the governments of the world find themselves in a position whereby they must have hindsight, insight, and foresight to adapt policies to meet these crises rationally and responsibly or ultimately fail.

It is for this reason that the choice the American people will make on November third, will be such a decisive one. It is essential to the United States and indeed to the free world that they choose a responsible, qualified and experienced leader. We believe that they will choose Lyndon Baines Johnson.

In American political experience few have equalled or even approached the experienced and effective parliamentarian genius and leadership of Lyndon Johnson. He has a long and impressive congressional record. As Vice-president, Lyndon Johnson has had concentrated and comprehensive training in international affairs. He sat in the Security Council and attended all cabinet meetings.

He knows not only the intricacies of government at home, but also knows of government abroad. As Chief Executive, Mr. Johnson has guided 24 out of 30 bills through Congress and has thus proven his ability as a legislative leader.

Mr. Johnson views America as a great nation in the process of becoming even greater. In the tradition of John F. Kennedy, he wants to keep America moving toward greater heights and greater expectations. This is his goal.

In order that this goal might be realized, the issues and problems facing this country must be understood and met with a sound domestic and foreign policy. We believe that Lyndon Johnson understands the issues and problems facing this nation and that he has and will in the future construct positive measures of alleviating these problems.

Thus far on the domestic front, Mr. Johnson has guided legislation through Congress which will help stimulate our national economy: Economic Opportunities Bill, Vocational Education Act, and Revenue Act of 1964 (tax cut). An effective civil rights bill saw itself realized as the result of the driving perseverance of Lyndon Johnson and of his deep concern in affording every American equal rights and opportunities.

The institution of these measures, and others too numerous to mention here, were necessary and essential to the well being of America and to her maintenance of leadership in the free world.

Mr. Johnson's stand on foreign policy can best be summarized in his own words:

"In this age when there can be no losers in peace and no victors in war, we must recognize the obligation to match national strength with national restraint. We must be prepared at one and the same time for both the confrontation of power and the limitation of power. We must be ready to defend the national interest and to negotiate the common interest. This is the path that we shall continue to pursue. Those who test our courage will find it strong, and those who seek

Mr. Albert Katz, chairman of the Lecture-Concert Series, puts it, "Fifty people took tickets worth $4 apiece and then just did not have the courtesy to turn them in. It's all because of the general cowardice of the student body."

For those who didn't have a ticket for this or any other such performance Katz suggests, "Come on over anyway. You may be able to see the show. Whenever we are sold out for something we always have a few seats left empty."

So if you have a ticket you can't use, turn it in and give someone else a chance to benefit from it. You won't be tongue-lashed, criticized, or penalized for bringing your ticket over, even if it's five minutes before curtain time. You'll be thanked.

We have two questions. First, why didn't the YR president delegate the responsibility to another of the very capable members of his organization?

Secondly, if he knew the deadline could not be met, why didn't he arrange an extension of the deadline date, instead of backing out completely?

Either of these would be a logical path for meeting his responsibility.

We certainly hope that the national campaign is not being handled by persons showing the same irresponsibility.

Therefore, the fact that we are running only the Student Committee for Citizens for Johnson article is not to be taken as an endorsement by the almanian of the President or a rejection of Sen. Goldwater.

our friendship will find it honorable. We will demonstrate anew that the strong can be just in the use of strength, and the just can be strong in defense of justice."

November 27, 1963

We believe that the interest of the American people and of the free world will best be served by the continuance of Lyndon Baines Johnson as the President of the United States.

Loyola University, Alma's opponent this Sunday, is one of America's leading Catholic institutions of higher learning. Founded in 1912 by the Society of Jesus, it is situated in New Orleans, Louisiana, and enrolls about 3,500 students.

Other colleges and universities which are potential opponents as long as Alma keeps winning are Queens College, New York City, New York; San Diego State College, San Diego, California; Mount Saint Agnes College, Baltimore, Maryland; and Virginia Military Institute, Lexington, Virginia.

A team may appear on the program a maximum of five times, and both Blackburn and the team are looking forward to spending Thanksgiving weekend in New York.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Mr. Editor,

I submit to you that there are some people on this campus that are not afraid to be quoted in the college newspaper. There are people I am sure who are vitally interested in what is going on, that are involved in not only ideas but also the world of realities, that are leaders of tomorrow that burn with strong feelings and attitudes and who do crusade for what they feel is right and what they believe in, that do yearn to speak out and be heard on the issues of today, and who are also willing to be quoted in the paper. Where are these people? I'm not sure. Perhaps they were not asked their opinions, perhaps they did not know the paper welcomed their views, perhaps, perhaps, perhaps a hundred other reasons.

I don't know the answer. But I do believe there are people on this campus who do care and who do get fired up over things a little more exciting than the food, the weather, or what to wear to class tomorrow. There are students on this campus who do care about what is going on not only on campus, but also in Michigan, the nation, Europe and Africa and the rest of the world. There are students who care enough about politics who will look up and read about the Presidential candidates as well as the state and local candidates in order to be well informed whether or not they will be voting on November 3.

Where are all these people—these Alma College students—that the myth is talking about? I submit to you that the myth is true. Let's have some concrete proof that it is and that we do have students who have the guts to say what they believe and to be quoted in the paper.

Sincerely,
C. J.

Dear Editor,

What kind of an antiquated and irrational opinion is it that young ladies in slacks, etc. are improperly dressed. In a day when designers are cutting trousers for all occasions the present library dress code seems maddeningly anachronistic.

It is true that the new library is a showplace of the campus, but was it built as a museum or a place to study and research, for the students or the tourists? Dressing up to go to the library is as obsequious as it is ludicrous.

Perhaps a solution would be to reopen the old library as a library for the students who wish to study and use the Monteith building as a parlor for guests and fashion shows.

What is important, what a student has on his back or in his mind, appearance or reality? If the answer is what he wears instead of what he thinks there should be an appropriate educational revolution. Students should apply to Alma not with a transcript of grades but with the labels from their clothing and the Dean's list should be abolished to a more relevant Best Dressed list.

Respectfully,
Chris Anderson

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

D. for President

by D. Merit

Only five days remain before the election. The Republicans are hoping for a big turnout. They want to turnout Johnson. On the other side, the Democrats are expecting a landslide, under which to bury Goldwater. Isn't there anyone who can arise above these petty differences and unite the country. There is, but Mighty Mouse is busy this week, so the next best thing, D. Merit for President. Why not?

Before you answer that last question, consider the possibilities. I'm trustworthy, loyal, helpful, friendly, courteous, kind, obedient, cheerful, thrifty, brave, clean, and reverent. I don't smoke, drink, or do that other kind of thing. I even carry my Boy Scout jackknife for emergencies.

Now compare this against the records of a known thief and crook, and a man whose sole ambition is to blow up the world. It's D. Merit by a landslide!

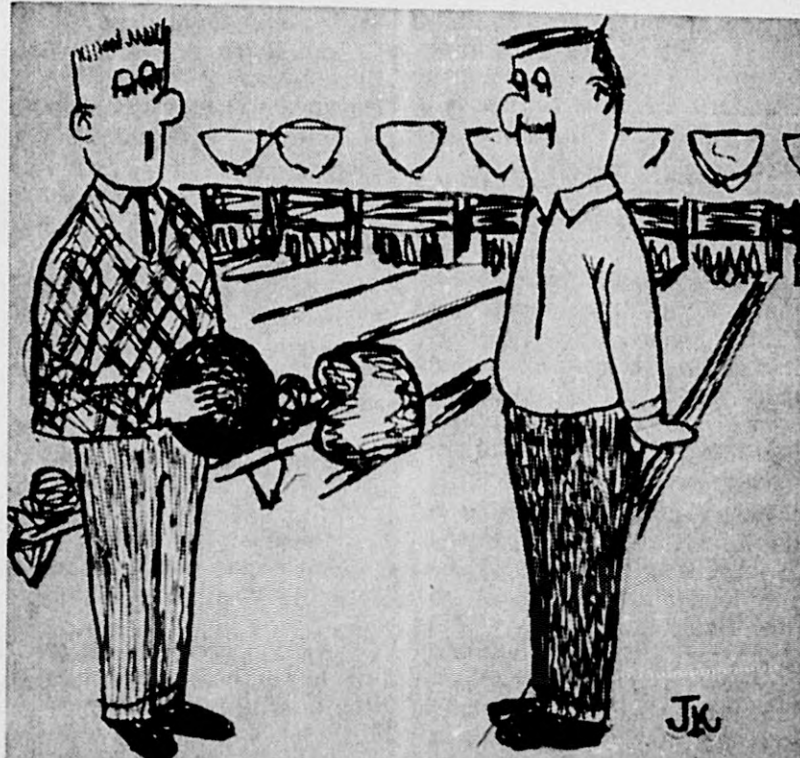

However, I don't really expect to win, just take several states and the popular vote. After all, I don't permit this column to be syndicated, nor have I a single radio monopoly to my name. I do have a fine group of citizens who have organized the "Send D. Merit to Washington Committee." Even people who like me support the idea.

The chief fear, among those who don't realize the strategy of a late entry, is that I won't have time to become exposed to the public. However, my editor doesn't think this situation is a bit objectionable. He says the Office of the President must be considered seriously.

Because I think the public will welcome a change, I will endeavor to present a well-organized, stimulating campaign that pierces right to the core of the major controversies. I will try to avoid a campaign that is so watered down it becomes muddy.

So, public, with the facts clearly in front of you, you have little choice but to vote in D. Merit. Why not?

CAN YOU IMAGINE THAT? I'VE GOT A 201 AVERAGE AND THEY WON'T LET ME ON THE "COLLEGE BOWL" TEAM

DeYoung Attends Dow Symposium

College chemistry professor Jacob J. DeYoung was one of 24 chemistry professors from Michigan, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Wisconsin to attend the 4th E. C. Britton Symposium on Industrial Chemistry in Midland, Michigan, on October 22 and 23. The symposium was sponsored by the Michigan Section of the American Chemical Society in cooperation with The Dow Chemical Company and Dow Corning Corporation.

The meeting is designed to acquaint firsthand the chemistry faculty of midwestern schools with research being done in industry. Theme of this year's symposium was "Newer Methods of Analysis."

The program consisted of two half-day workshop sessions and a half-day series of tours of Dow and Corning plant and research facilities. Among the topics covered by Dow and Dow Corning speakers were: Electron-Probe Analysis, Neutron Activation Analysis, X-Ray Diffraction Infrared Analysis, Microwave Spectroscopy, Optical Rotatory Dispersion and Molecular Structure of Polymers.

Dr. Edward Hodnett, Dow Corning director of Public Relations, addressed the group on "A Mutuality of Interest," at a banquet on Thursday, October 22.

The symposium was named for the late Dr. Edgar C. Britton, for many years director of Dow's Edgar C. Britton Research Laboratory.

Patricia Parker To Present Piano Recital This Sunday

There will be a piano recital by Miss Patricia Parker in the college chapel Sunday at 4 P-m. She will play works by J. S. Bach, Schubert, and Samuel Barber.

uel Barber.

During the past two years, Miss Parker has won the two top piano awards at The University of Michigan where she is completing her master's degree.

The recital is sponsored by the Alma College Student chapter of the Music Educators National Conference. It will be approximately one hour in length and therefore will not conflict with the Alma College appearance on the "G.E. College Bowl." There is no admission charge and all are cordially invited.

Fund Established For W. Martin

A memorial fund has been started at the Grove Bible Church in memory of the late Warren Martin. Plans are underway to purchase a matched electric organ and piano, on which will be placed plaques in memory of Warren, 19-year old son of Mrs. Carl Martin, who died recently.

Any donations may be sent to either Rev. Robert Prange, R-2, Laingsburg, or Larry Martin in Ovid.

There will also be a general donation from the "students of Alma College" for those who would rather contribute this way instead of directly. If interested please see Tom Worth, 528 College Street (Cole House) as soon as possible.

A d.j. dance and hootenanny will be held tonight in Tyler Auditorium from 9 to 12 p.m. Records will be provided and dress is casual (slacks and bermudas). The cost is 25c stag and 35c drag. Proceeds will go toward paying expenses of the Model U.N. being held on campus November 14.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:

Many thanks to Bill Gelston and all his chairmen and committee members for a great Homecoming.

Tyler Staff

Dear Editor:

Before this Homecoming is forgotten, I would like to publicly congratulate a number of persons who served as committee chairmen. These persons sacrificed a great amount of time and energy to make this occasion a memorable event for the college community.

The parade director was Gary Winslow. Jim Butteric', Larry Fiedler, and Paul Huitwitz performed a fine job supervising the freshman float. Mike Robertson, freshman class committee member, also deserves credit for his aid in the construction of the float.

Sue Maguire took charge of the commitments of the queen and her court. Sue Dilts headed the committee in charge of Tyler Center's lawn decoration. Tom Dymott chairmanned nearly all aspects of the Homecoming dance.

Last, but certainly not least, Bob Meland who served as student publicity director for the entire Homecoming celebration.

I would also extend compliments to Guile Graham for assisting in the planning of last weekend's programs. The maintenance department also rendered valuable service.

Many Alma businessmen deserve thanks for the various groups who participated in the Homecoming parade for the donation of supplies and equipment.

Scots to

by Jim Martz

Alma's Scots, sitting in this spoiler's role this week end, attempt to stop Albion's undefeated Britons in a key MIAA football battle tomorrow at Alumni Field in Albion. Kick-off time is 1:30 p.m.

Albion coach Morley Fraser has 20 lettermen on the 6-1 team that has defeated Wheaton, Ferris State, Adrian, Kalamazoo, Olivet, and Hope. The Britons can score, as they proved in the 21-0 win over Kalamazoo and the 35-20 win over Olivet.

The arch-rivals have also shown a strong defense, led by Co-captain Ken Neal, a 6'1", 205 pound tackle who was named MVP to the All-Conference team in 1963. Against Hope last Saturday the Briton defense yielded just 9 yards in rushing and 56 in passing.

The top Albion ball carrier is Russ Wallis, a 5'9", 160 pound speedy halfback. In the win over Hope, Wallis scored two touchdowns and gained 117 yards in 28 carries.

Albion may have "the horses", so to speak, but the Scots refuse to believe that the Britons are invincible. Coach Bill Carr, who would like to win this game more than any other, feels that Alma has a good chance tomorrow.

The fact that this is the last MIAA game of the season gives added significance to the encounter. For Albion a win will mean an undisputed league championship. For the Scots a win will place them in fourth or possibly third place in the conference, and if it will probably force Albion to share the league title with Olivet.

Last week's impressive 317 yards in rushing and 41 in passing gave the Scots a statistical edge over their opponents for the season. In the six games played, the Scots have amassed 779 yards in rushing and 119 passing for a 219 yard total offensive average per game. The gridgers have gained 66 first-downs to 57 for opponents.

Alma's defense has held opponents to 649 yards on the ground and 459 in the air, for a 184 yard total average per game.

The leading ground gainer for six games is fullback John Milks. He has gained 193 yards in 53 carries. Halfback Tom Miller is second with 156 yards in 41

Mike Knowlton rolls around end on a keeper to pick up needed yardage. This was a common occurrence in Saturday's game as Knowlton and senior halfback Tom Miller sparked the Scots' ground game and carried them to a 13-7 Homecoming victory.

Freshman back Bruce Haines has gained 104 yards, M. J. Bauer 67 yards, and Vern Linderman 61 yards.

Mike Knowlton, senior quarterback, is the total offense leader with 151 yards in rushing and 472 in passing.

The top pass receiver is end Howard Schaitberger. He has caught 9 passes for 165 yards and one touchdown. Jack Nigg, who is out for the season, has caught 14 passes for 136 yards.

Dick Dana has been the leading punter with a 34 yard average in 20 punts.

Spirit always runs high when the Scots tangle with Albion, and this year is no exception. Alma has the possibility of winning the last two games of the year and even its record at 4-4. And the team hasn't forgotten last year's 12-8 loss to Morley Fraser's crew at Bahlke Field.

The Scots hold an all-time winning edge over every team in the MIAA except Albion. Over the years each team has won 29 games, while 5 have ended in ties. If Albion expects to be the first team in the conference to take an all-time edge over Alma, we think they'll find it very hard to come by tomorrow. We hope you are there to see what happens.

Bulldogs Fall Victim to Scot Team Before Large Homecoming Crowd

Last Saturday was a bright day in the lives of Alma College football fans. They witnessed the Scots in their best game of the season, and possibly of many seasons. Alma's football team which had been floundering nearly all season, finally yielded.

For the first time they demonstrated a consistent offensive drive that was good for 358 yards. The coaching staff and the team found this figure hard to believe, but you can't argue with facts.

Probably the biggest reason that the Scots won, however, was the hard running of captain Tom Miller. He gained 106 yards and scored Alma's first touchdown. This was the first time that Miller has been well this year and the difference in the offense was obvious.

Mike Knowlton also had a lot to do with Alma's "new found" offense. Larry Kelly also got in on the scoring by kicking the point after Knowlton's touchdown.

With the offense being flashy for a change it must also be pointed out that the defense played a great game. They limited the Bulldogs to only 31 yards rushing. They were also contained on their attempted sweeps.

Once again such names as Jim Gray, Keith Bird, Lanny Caverly, Bill Hayes and Dick Dana must be mentioned for their fine play. The rest of the defense also did a good job.

Homecoming was a big success for the cross country team Saturday. The Scots scored a 28-29 victory over the Adrian Bulldogs, a reversal of the heartbreaking loss to Hope in October 1963. This marks the third one-point loss for Adrian's strong runners. The weather was far from ideal for most of the runners- too hot, too windy, and too dry.

Adrian's team began strong, but the Scots stayed close behind. At the finish line, Adrian picked up the first point. Jerry Smith, who ran a strong, consistent race, finished first for the Scots and second in the meet.

He was followed by two Adrian runners, but then Earl Wilson, Stu MacKenzie, Vic Yurick, Rich Bandlow, and Hugh Brenneman crossed the finish line before the next Adrian men, resulting in a win for the Scots. Bandlow's performance continues to be more amazing each week, considering that he never ran cross-country before coming to Alma.

The Scots now have a hold on third place in the MIAA, behind Albion and Hope. This Saturday they travel to Albion and meet the Britons, one of the strongest cross country teams in Michigan. Two of the Alma runners will be in New York for the College Bowl, so the Scots will be represented by just five harriers.
