Sir Hugh Foot

"Africa, the Third Force" will be the topic of this evening's lecture by Sir Hugh Foot, well-known British overseas administrator. Foot has served in Cyprus, Jamaica, and Nigeria, all nations that were preparing for self-government. Tickets for his lecture are available until five today in Reid-Knox.

Foot Well Liked By Jamaica, Taylor Tells Of Past Gov.

Sir Hugh Foot, who will lecture tonight at 7:30 in Dunning Chapel on "Africa, the Third Force," is well known to at least one Alma College student.

Tony Taylor, a freshman from Jamaica, remembers when Sir Hugh was Governor of that Caribbean island for nearly seven years. Tony was once presented to Governor Foot as a winner of an academic prize at Kingston College in Jamaica.

While in Jamaica, Sir Hugh is said to have won the affection of all sections of the community for his identification with the people of the island. And he visited the United States lecturing on Jamaican affairs and usually made a point of seeking out Jamaican immigrants to inquire after their welfare.

Tony voices the Jamaican opinion of Foot by naming him one of the best and best-liked governors Jamaica has ever seen.

As Governor, Sir Hugh and his wife mixed with the people and were liked by all classes, according to Tony. "They were friendly and genuine," he says, "and the people hated to see them leave."

An example of their good will was their reaction to a devastating hurricane that hit the island in 1951. The governor and his wife actually got out among the people, talking to them and helping them to rebuild and recover from the storm.

Sir Hugh Foot was efficient in all phases of administration, says Tony. While he was Governor of Jamaica, Foot helped achieve internal self-government for the island and the foundations were laid for the Federation of the West Indies.

Jamaica is now a member of that Federation and will gain its complete independence in 1962, Tony proudly stated. Jamaica will then be a member of the British Commonwealth, he adds.

Sir Hugh Foot is also a dynamic speaker, says Tony, and he was known all over Jamaica for his excellent speaking ability.

Next events in the College Lecture Series include the Don Cossack Chorus and Dancers on March 4, and Theodore Ullman, pianist, on April 22. In conjunction with the Fine Arts festival, Franz Reynders will appear on campus April 26.

Mich. Colleges Form Press Assoc.

Five almanian staff representatives attended the second meeting of the Michigan Collegiate Press Association at Central Michigan University Saturday, February 11.

At this second organizational meeting of the association, representatives from 10 Michigan College publication staffs met to further formulate plans for a permanent state Collegiate Press Association.

At Saturday's three-hour meeting, the name of the organization was decided upon, a constitution was written, and preliminary plans were made for a spring convention to be held in late April or early May. William Click, of the Journalism Department at CMU, was elected as Executive Secretary pro-tem of the newly formed association.

Members join the organization by publication. Dues are temporarily set at $6.00 per year. Any Michigan college newspaper, yearbook, or literary magazine is eligible for membership in the association.

Saturday's meeting was at See Press Association—page 2

Off Campus Students

All off campus students may now pick up local mail or the weekly almanian in the college mailing room located in the Hood building basement.

Show Will Go On Sat. - Snow or No

Queen To Reign In "Fantasy Land" Days Events Climaxed By Dance

Pat Moulton will reign as snow queen over the third annual Snow Carnival here tomorrow. She was chosen in an all-school election yesterday, in which there were ten other candidates.

Pat is a freshman from Burr Oak, Michigan. She is a short brunette and here on campus lives in Mary Gelston Hall. This honor is a special one for Pat, as snow queens of the past two years have been upperclassmen.

Other candidates, who were nominated in a preliminary election Tuesday, were: seniors, Donna Sweeney and Carolyn Keyes; juniors, Joyce Grover and Linda Ross; sophomores, Gail Hammel, Kay Colgan, and Bobbie Welch; and freshmen, Bev Campbell, Linda Magness, and Mary Clouse.

The carnival theme is "Fantasy Land" and it is sponsored by the Tyler Board. Although the rather prominent feature of the agenda, snow, is obviously lacking, students in charge are still hoping for some of the white stuff to help the carnival to live up to its name and to provide an outlet for artistic genius in the form of snow sculpture.

The schedule of events includes entertainment and the coronation of the Snow Queen at 1:30 Saturday afternoon. At 2 the students will oppose the faculty in mock hockey games. The primary equipment is a broom serving as the hockey stick and a basketball as the hockey puck. At 3 refreshments will be served and the annual snow ball fight will take place (if there is any snow). Climaxing the day's events will be the Snow Ball

Potential Greatness In Alma's Image Says Dr. Trueblood

Dr. Elton Trueblood, the leader of Religion in Life Week this year, when asked what he would most like to tell the students of this college, replied that he wants "to see Alma understand itself, the potential greatness of its own image—the glory in it."

Trueblood emphasized in this interview, as he did repeatedly in his various appearances during this past week, that a college of the type which Alma is, i. e., liberal, small—yet with excellence, coeducational, residential, and "unapologetically Christian," has the potential of being one of the best means of higher education. It is not, he said, that other types are bad, but rather that this type does have a particularly great potentiality.

The reason for this potentiality, explained Trueblood, lies in several places. There is this matter of being "unapologetically Christian," or in other words, of not hiding the existence of the basic principles upon which the institution was founded.

This doesn't mean that the Christian character of the college must be attested to "by what goes on at the fringes" or "by the existence of scholarly courses in Biblical studies or the history of religion." No, it is the Christian "mood and conviction" — it is seeing religion as nothing short of a complete "way of life" — which makes this great potential of the Christian college possible. It is something which "permeates" the whole of the student's life.

Thus, in the matter of intellectual search, which Trueblood called the "central task of a college," he said that, "Other things being equal, the Christian scholar is likely to be a better scholar because of the nature of his motivation. He went on: "Every good investigator wants to learn the truth, See Trueblood—page 3

Dance at 8:00 sponsored by the Alpha Theta Sorority.

Committee members headed by chairman, Phyllis Burdick, say that the Snow Carnival should be a lot of fun, and they encourage everyone to take part.

Christensen To Speak On Africa, Thurs.

Dr. James B. Christensen, Assistant Professor at Wayne State University in the Department of Sociology and Anthropology, will be the convocation speaker for February 23.

Dr. Christensen will speak on the topic "Problems and Prospects for Democracy in Africa." Dr. Christensen's field of specialization is in cultural anthropology, and the area is in Africa, south of the Sahara. He also has a special interest in social structure, political structure, religion and acculturation, culture and personality.

Dr. Christensen will be on campus both Thursday and Friday, February 23 and 24. In this time he will speak for four sociology classes, the Sociology See Christensen—page 2

Alma To Join Chemical Soc.

At a dinner meeting on February 23, fourteen Alma students will become student affiliates of the world's largest organization devoted to a single science—chemistry. With 12 representatives from the Midland chapter of the American Chemical Society attending, the students will become the charter members of the Alma College Chapter of Student Affiliates of the ACS.

Chairman of the new group will be Anthony Butler, Midland junior; vice-chairman is Stanley Smith, Charlotte senior; and Linda Bartlett, St. Louis senior, will be secretary-treasurer.

Charter members will include: Mark Ryan, Judy Norreen, Art Sanders, Margaret Roe, Louise Alma, Betty Nucci, Stuart Little, Richard Colby, Shima Murakami, Bill Johns, and Cliff VanBlarcom.

Faculty advisor of the group will be Dr. Howard Potter, head of the chemistry department.

Student affiliation is a program of the American Chemical Society for undergraduate students enrolled in course work leading toward a degree in chemistry or chemical engineering. Thousands of students from over 300 schools are active.

Activity plans for the local chapter include attending regional meetings of ACS, plant trips, and social programs.

Society Donates Library Books

Twelve volumes are being donated to the Alma College Library by the Jewish Chautauqua Society, sponsors of the recent visit of Rabbi Dr. Harry Essrig.

A gift of this kind is one phase of the Society's program, which seeks to spread authentic information concerning Judaism. Therefore, the Society make literature and resource persons available.

The books being donated are The Religion of Israel by Kaufman, discussing differences between pagan and Israelite religion; The Legacy of Israel by Bevan and Singer, concerning Jewish contributions to Western civilization; A Social and Religious History of the Jews (eight volumes) by Baron, including such topics as "Meeting of East and West" and "Philosophy and Science"; The Evolution of Jewish Thought by Agus, exploring the growth and development of the various philosophical ideas in Judaism, and Judaism As a Civilization by Kaplan, attempting to redefine Judaism as a contemporary civilization.

'I Am' Theme Of Lent Services, Area Ministers To Speak

With the theme centered around the "I am . . ." statements made by Christ in the Bible, the Alma College Vespers Committee has planned a unique series of Lenten services.

Several area ministers as well as college pastors will participate in the series. All of these services will be held in Dunning Chapel on Sunday evenings at 6:30 and are open to the general public.

Rev. John E. Brown of the Alma College religion department, will conduct the first service on Sunday, February 19, speaking on the biblical quotation, "I am that I am . . ."

The series also includes "I am the bread of life . . ." by Rev. Charles House; "I am the Alpha and the Omega . . ." by Rev. Samuel J. Mujars; "I am the vine . . ." by Rev. George Gillette; "I am the light of the world . . ." by Dr. C. M. Muilenburg; "I am the way, the truth and the life . . ." by Rev. Charles House and Dr. Swanson. This final service will also include an inter-faith communion service.

The special Lenten vespers services were planned by Doug Wilson, Jackson sophomore, and Jim Sorenson, Saginaw junior, who also plan and organize the regular college Sunday vesper services throughout the year.

Is IFC Necessary?

It seems that the fraternities of Alma College do not think an inter-fraternity council (IFC) is necessary. Up until last semester there had been a functioning board of fraternity members to decide on the inter-Greek functions and operations on this campus.

As a result of such round-about tactics there will be no rules concerning rushing this semester. We think that this lack of cohesiveness furnished a good opportunity for the incoming members this spring.

Collected claims have ranged from such figures as $978, $835, $620, $383, $298, down to $7.50. A majority of the claims have been filed for appendectomies, loblitis, mononucleosis, and surgical treatment.

Dear Editor,

It has been brought to my attention as a resident of Mitchell Hall, that the aerials which the fellows in the dorm use for their radios are unsightly. Nothing was said concerning these aerials until our Business Manager, Dr. Meyer, and a gentleman from the Michigan State University faculty were touring the campus.

we built a new science building. This unit now serves as a propaganda point in enticing new students to our hallowed halls. One of the main points of interest on a tour around the science building is a stop at the observatory.

Sorority Rushing Begins Feb. 20

Sorority rushing will begin Monday, February 20, 1961. A series of rushing events for each sorority will take place in the next three weeks. The first week will be a semi-formal tea; the second, an informal spread; and the third, a dessert.

Fraternity Announcement

There will be a mass meeting on Sunday, February 19, at 8 p.m. in Tyler Auditorium for all men who signed the fraternity rush list.

Last Tuesday night, the Mitchell Hall Dorm Council met and appointed a committee to find a logical solution to how to do away with all the antennas and use just one. It is vaguely conceivable that such a system could be used, but highly improbable.

PLACEMENT CASEMENT

Social Security district office representatives will be on campus Friday afternoon, February 24, to interview June 1961 graduating students for jobs in the Social Security Administration and answer questions regarding other Federal employment (see story on page 4)

Dear President:

I regret to say this very much but because of the limited time I have for extra curricular activities, I feel that I have to resign from the position I hold in the Student Council. I hope that you will accept this resignation.

Trueblood

but the committed Christian has an added motive . . . the Christian faith, when it understands itself, is the sworn enemy of all intellectual dishonesty and shoddiness."

Speaking a bit more specifically of this college, Trueblood commented that he finds this campus one of "great vitality" and one having a "genuine intellectual life." This he said after having taught several classes, presided at several symposiums and other gatherings, and spoken to many students in private conferences.

Speaking of his plans for the future, Dr. Trueblood told of his plans for a "new chapter" in his life. For the past fifteen years he has spent half his time teaching at Earlham College and the other half speaking to colleges, universities, and other groups around the country. He travels, he estimated, about 30,000 miles a year, and makes about 150 speeches during the same period.

In this "new chapter," Trueblood says he plans to stop his speaking tours as of next September 10, concentrating instead on full-time teaching at Earlham and on study and writing. In regards to this latter, he is presently working on a new book, "The Company of the Committed." Much of the material to be presented in this book has been presented this week by Dr. Trueblood in his various appearances.

Speaking of another "chapter" in his life, Dr. Trueblood told of his duties as Chief of Religious Information, U. S. Information agency. As such, he was Advisor to the Voice of America and also did library and teaching work in matters concerning religion and philosophy.

Kapp Returns To Faculty After Leave

Back on campus after a year's absence is Mr. Ronald Kapp, instructor in the biology department. After leaving at the close of first semester last year, Kapp spent two semesters and one summer session in research and study for his Ph D. at the University of Michigan.

The determination of vegetation and climatic conditions during the ice age is the objective of Kapp's research. In order to do this he is studying fossil pollen from ice age sediments in an area of southwestern Kansas. This area is particularly suited to the purpose because it is abundant with not only plant fossils, but those of many animals (camels, rhinoceros, horses, etc.) as well.

Kapp intends to remain at Alma for awhile, since all his work requiring residence at U of M is now completed. He will, however, do some further study this summer and perhaps make a trip to Kansas. Kapp is doing all this research and study, which will ultimately result in the Ph.D. under a National Science Foundation grant.

Kapp is "glad to be back." He brings back with him his wife (married January, 1960) and their new 2 month - old daughter Lisa.

Before leaving last year, Kapp had taught here since 1957.

Bridge, Anyone?

Tyler Board is sponsoring a Bridge tournament on Tuesday and Wednesday, February 21, 22. Everyone is invited to participate—students and faculty alike. Winners will compete in the National Tournament.

College Revises Policy On Use Of Alcoholic Beverages

Possibly the most important thing which must be recognized concerning conduct on campus is that our college has a moral as well as a legal responsibility for the students.

This is the first note made in the new policy regarding the use of alcoholic beverages. The point made which has been found through student interview to be offensive and unaccepted is that the college should or does have any obligation to regulate behavior.

It may be pointed out, however, that with this new and more liberal policy, a great deal is yielded to reflect individual student thinking.

The old policy as it is stated in the college bulletin is as follows: "Alma College is opposed to the use of alcoholic beverages on the part of its students. Any student whose conduct indicates a lack of conformity to this policy is subject to disciplinary action."

Under the new policy, the college is in agreement with the statute of state law which asserts that all people under 21 years of age are prohibited the use or possession of alcoholic beverage.

However, since the college still feels that alcoholism is detrimental to the aims of the college, it maintains the right to subject disciplinary action. In the notes issued concerning this new policy, three specific examples are indicated.

- Misconduct is:
1. to involve minors in drinking.
  2. to create a disturbance of any kind on campus.
  3. to indicate before others, by their conduct, that they have been drinking

Other specifics in the policy are that alcoholic beverages are forbid in the following places:

1. on the campus
2. in residence halls
3. in fraternity houses or on their grounds
4. at any college function
5. on any college sponsored trip
6. at any off-campus social event sponsored by an Alma College group.

Comments on this subject range from—"it's better than the old policy" to "it's a step in the right direction but not far enough."

Choral Union Rehearsing Now For April Program

Schubert's "Mass in B" and Bach's Cantata No. 76 are the numbers which have been selected for the program to be presented by the Choral Union this April.

The Choral Union, composed of persons from the campus community (both faculty and students) and from Alma, St. Louis, and other surrounding areas, has started rehearsals. All persons interested in joining the group are invited to come to these rehearsals. The time is from 7:30 to about 9 p.m. every Tuesday night.

The April program will take place on Sunday the 30th. It will be part of the Fine Arts Festival.

There will be guest soloists joining the group for this presentation.

Scots Lose 2nd Time To Kazoo Wed. Night

Alma College dropped its fourth straight basketball game Wednesday night by the score of 61-50. The Hornets of Kalamazoo had previously beaten the Scots 88-87 in overtime on their home floor.

Invading Alma Wednesday night, they netted their second victory of the year over the Scots. Each team played a game of give-away. Forty-five personal fouls were committed, 27 of them by Alma.

Alma led throughout the first quarter of play to gain a 21-11 advantage. This lead slipped steadily away in the second quarter and at the half Alma trailed 29-28. The rest of the game Alma tried to catch up, but never did.

Alma finished the game with four men in the game, and five on the bench. Four of the play-

A Scotch Voice

By Thomas Befulded

Lately, friends have nearly convinced me that the most essential, most powerful, most worthy motivators aren't from the pilot house, but occur in a somewhat lower, smokier station, in furnaces, multi-piped and roaring, boweled in the lower half of the navel-centered circle. They assure me that any complex concept old starry-eyed Vere voices isn't worth heeding and that only a burn from the fire perpetrated by dark, sweating, rhythmic shovellers of coal is worth hollering about and behaving enthusiastically according to. And, they insist that my tacit resistance—mittening my ears once and quietly excusing myself another—to the impulses of fire, great flames, veritable comets, furnished by the admirably basic music broadcast daily manna throughout the union, manifests a marked naivete. They feel that this punctual music—like push-ups, clubbing mountain goats, beating adversaries' occiputs, any number of other such similes—is the highest or, less contradictory spatially, most extreme expression of the base best urges—music, of course, being the artist of the arts. And they are often ready—especially when I so indiscreetly remark during an apex of their enjoyment of the wonderfully natural music—to do to me as to the goat and the enemies' pates, when I whisper Bach's infinitely better. Usually after such incitements I can fend them off only with a profuse apology and an admission that indeed my psyche suffers a horrible paucity in an omnimportant place. I tell them I weep tears of despair into my pillow because I was raised wrong, have lived wrong, and no matter how strenuously I try and stomp and sweat an pelvic girdly gesticulate attempting entrance into the divine realm of with it, I can't. Bach, poor, lofty, imperinent fellow, still evinces my greatest response and—oh, pain and curseds upon my heretical head—Shakespeare and Dante too, in spite of Jack Kerouak.

My meek argument, usually best articulated at the wall of my room filled with say the encouraging cadenza of the last movement of Brandenburg number five, is that man's more than beast like the Bible says. Sure he has an organic old faithful bubbling and rumbling in his belly, and it will spout no matter, resist it or attempt to forget it how he may. But also, he has at the top of the geiser a magnificent array of intricate prisms and mirrors, diamond droplets, concerti, poems, that catch and make more brilliantly beautiful all the colors and forms he surveys. And this "principal beauty" can only be with much loss neglected.

And besides, the union should be a sanctuary where people might converse without having to exclaim every statement, and the music should be background. Mantovani, oozy stuff, anyway. And if you want bang bang music and snorting, whinneying, stomping, petition the administration to build you a barn, and have it.

Dave Peters Leading Cager In Scoring Chase

High scorer on the Alma College cage squad this year is Dave Peters, who is averaging 21 points per game. Dave is 9th in scoring in the league, and will be a strong contender for a position on the All-MIAA Basketball team.

Team members and their scoring records for the season so far are as follows:

The Scots are now 3-12 for the season.

Albion Beats Hapless Scots

Albion College's Basketball team dumped the Scots for the second time this year Saturday night by the score of 90-67. The Scots were cold all night long and only shot 30% from the floor.

The game was close through the first quarter, ending with Albion ahead 23-20. At the half, Albion held a 44-33 advantage, and they increased this lead throughout the game.

Dick Groat and Dale Terrell led the winners with 19 and 17 points respectively. Twelve players scored for Albion, four of them in double figures.

Dave Peters again carried the load for Alma, pouring in 27 points. He was ably assisted by Guard Don Phillippi, who matched his season's high in points, garnering 18. He and Peters scored 25 of the team's halftime total of 33.

Alma's record is now 3-11, with 3 more games to go.
