

The Almanía

Alma College's Annual
Lampoon Issue
Since 1980

Tuesday, April 6, 1982

Alma College, Alma Michigan 48801

Volume LXXVI Issue 3

Student Strife finishes Anti-Petting Policy

After a heated argument Monday night, the Student Stifle Committee added the final touches to a proposed Anti-Petting Policy designed to put a stop to excessive student-pet relationships.

The problem was originally brought to the attention of

'I've taken a lot of crap'

Kold retiring, etc, etc...

Dr. Bluegene Kold, a 14 year disabled veteran of the Alma College faculty and currently charwoman of the poultry science department, has announced his retirement effective at the end of the current poultry breeding season.

"I've cleaned up after these turkeys long enough," stated Kold. "I've taken a lot of crap," he added. "I've had enough."

"He's been quite a productive sweeper. he's gathered quite a lot of refuse in his years here. I'm glad he's been able to share it with the students of Alma College," stated Ronald Old Sapp, vice president for paper shuffling and coffee making in the the committee by Dr. Walter Beagle, professor of psychology. Stated Beagle, "As a psychologist, the salivation principles involved amaze me, but as a beagle, I feel exploited."

In his appeal to the committee, Beagle cited the problems associated with excessive pet relationships. "Take the dog fights over Anemic Center.

Dr. Brunette Davis, poultry science professor, credited Kold for bringing a vigorous style of sweeping to Alma College.

Sapp added, "I wish we could make it a clean sweep."

In the future, Kold plans to mobilize and institutionalize the functional structure of mountains. He added, "etc., etc., etc."

As a last piece of advice to students and poultry, Kold cautioned them to beware of the emphasis on preparation H and "try not to neglect long term goals for short term gains. In the long run everything will come out all right," he added.

Libya for instance, those were all perpetrated by jealousy in pet relationships. The world should be dog eat dog," he added.

The proposed policy lists three pedigrees of student-pet relationships with varying punishments for each offense.

Offenders in the first category, mild petting, will be required to take Beagle's fall term class entitled "Pets, how to know when you've gone too far."

The second category, heavy petting, is punishable by varying terms of fire hydrant cleaning in the greater Alma area.

The third, and most serious, is puppy love. Offenders in this category will be sentenced to terms of at least six months but not more than four years in an animal shelter.

Belinda Fool is one of many Alma Students who have been involved in excessive student-pet relationships.

God Squad enlightens campus

By Saburo Sakai
Night Wryter

They're young, they're

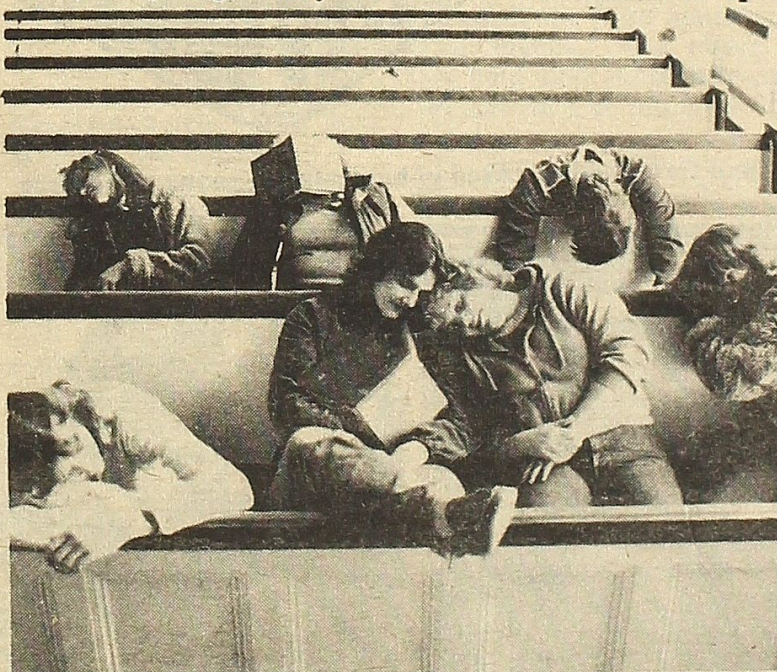

Christian, they're the God Squad. In the name of mentalism, these virgin crusaders have taken it upon themselves to reform the students of Alma College. Stated leader Cot Condom, "We've found something to believe in, now if we can convince everyone else, we'll know we're right."

Based in Brewski Hall, Condom, along with squad members Commie Lice, So Wasted and Jim Lost, partake in nightly raids, or 'purification rounds', on students who are under suspicion of playing The Rolling Stones, french-kissing or drinking something other than Holy Water.

The squad sites Brewski Hall head resident Dim Strobe as being instrumental in their success. "Strobe is our guiding light" stated

See GOD Page 7

Bored Again Christians.

AACP strives to improve student drinking habits

By Artie Shun
Staph Writer

"We have to promote awareness of alcohol on this campus," said Dandy Dial-a-Drink about the new Alma College Alcohol Awareness Program (AACP).

"Alma College is just too boring. We need something to liven up the atmosphere around here," he added.

The AACP is designed to help students with alcohol related problems. These include ignorance of its benefits, inability to choose quality products and unfamiliarity with the endless variety of mixed drinks available to the college students.

"Generally, students at Alma drink in a boring manner. They always choose beer or seven-sevens or screwdrivers. They have no creativity," commented Line A. Coker, another leader of the program.

"I'd like to introduce people to a totally new concept of drinking, with such mixes as Revelation Rum, Divinity Daquiri and Virgin Vodka," she said.

The program will center around private counseling for any problems a student may have. All of the sessions will be kept strictly confidential, and all services are free. However, students must supply their own liquor.

Also included in the program are several seminars. These will range from "Beer: An Acquired Taste" for beginners to "The Flaming Shot and Other Drinking Feats" for seasoned veterans.

See BEAUTIFUL Page 7

Alma breaks with Presbyterians, Sands strokes udder

In a surprise move today, Alma College broke its ties with the Presbyterian Synod of Michigan and announced its new affiliation with the First Hindu Church of Calcutta, India.

Gandi-Nile Sand, dean of global affairs, stated, "The project has only been discussed, nothing has been decided yet. I'm not lying but don't quote me."

However, traffic was stopped on Superior late yesterday as herds of sacrificial cows were moved into the area.

According to Gundy Sachs, assistant dean of students, the cows will be housed in the former Eata Pigma house. "The house is used to animals living there," she stated.

Despite Sands' denials, rumors began to spread that Sand had initiated the move eight months ago. Sand, who was seen early this morning ceremoniously stroking the udder of one of the cows stated, "Just because there are a few cows doesn't mean that religion is involved: this whole thing is udderly ridiculous."

Insides

Football team wins
April Fools!

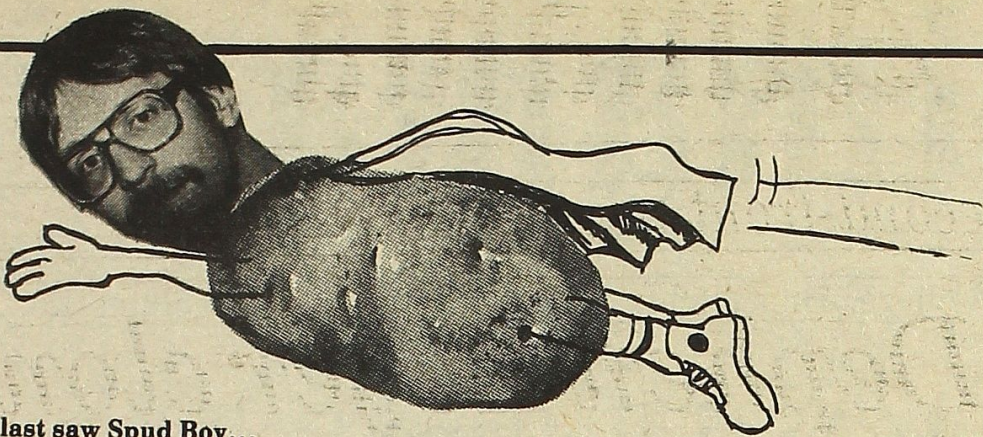

Relic's dog suicides
...page 20

Enema relished
...page 69

Pigs sue Almanía
...page 15

APD busts Coker
...page 13

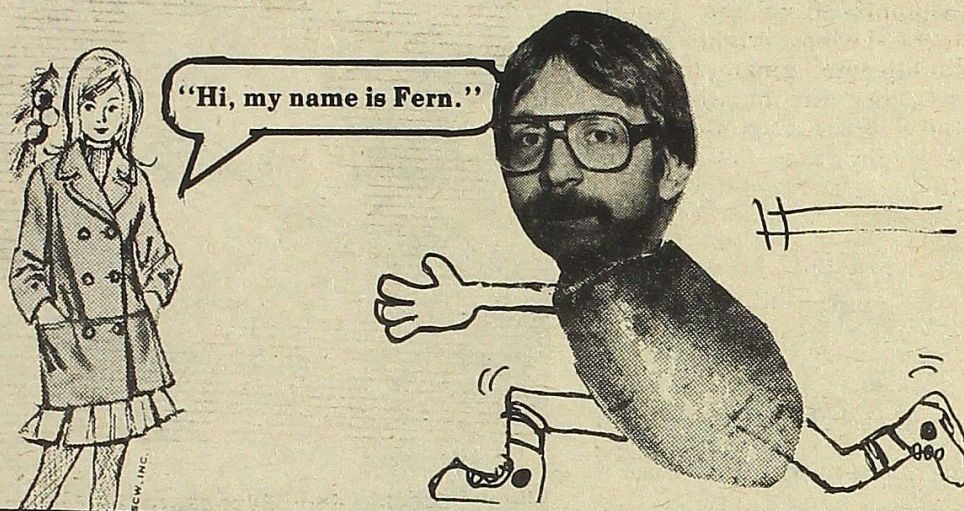

Cagers win!
Fooled you again!

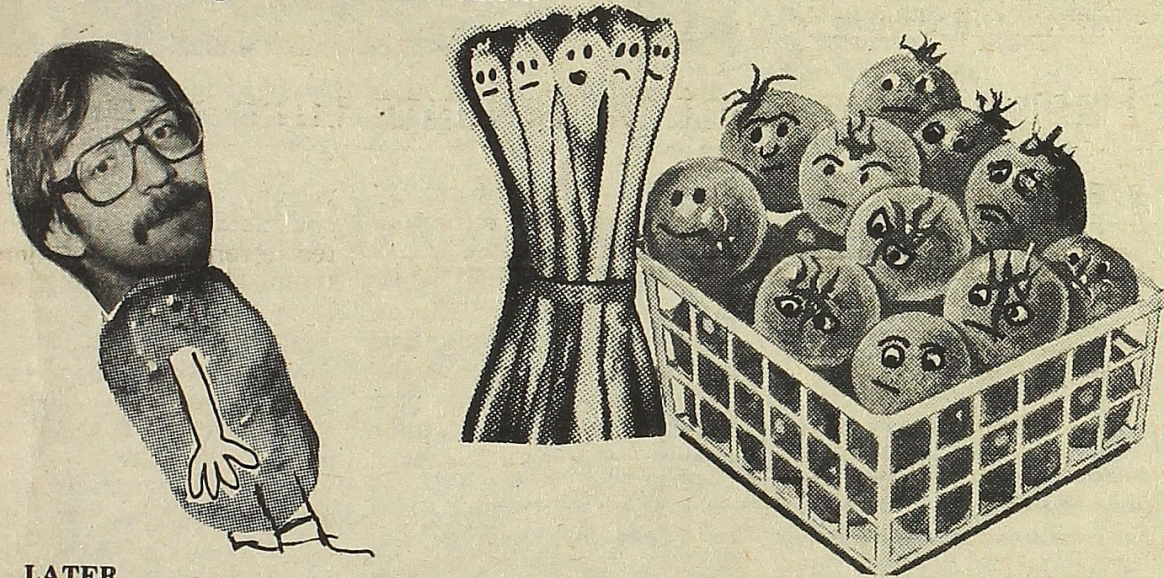

When we last saw Spud Boy...

In a desperate attempt to find foliage, Spud Boy stalks McIntyre Mall waiting for unsuspecting flora.

An innocent passerby, noticing Spud Boy's bulging eyes, cautiously approaches him.

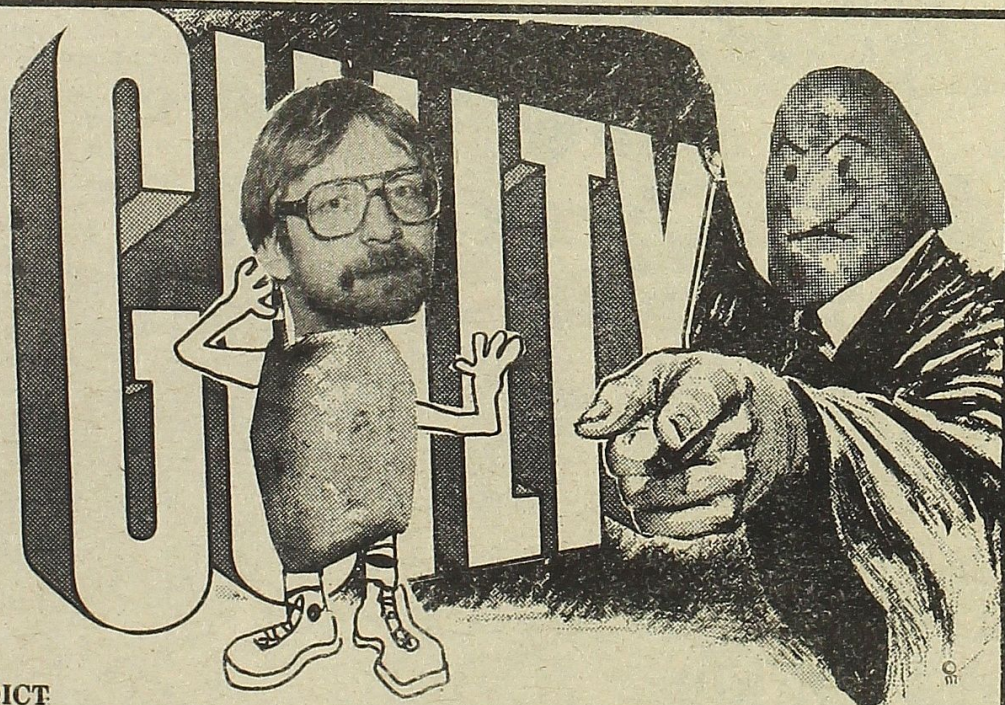

Spud Boy, his mind in a state of vegetation due to lack of green leafy things, mistakes the girl for the plant of the same name...

LATER...

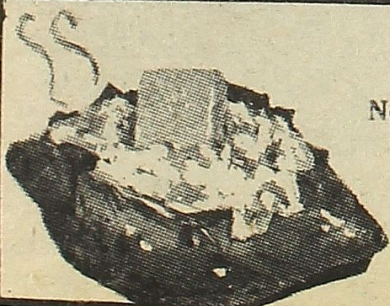

In a court of his own pears, Spud Boy stands accused of harvesting a young girl before her time.

THE VERDICT

Judge Potatoe Head presiding: "The jury has found Spud Boy unfit to stalk the earth. It is unthinkable that this potato should be allowed to hybrid--the resulting tater tots would be a menace to society. I hereby sentence him to 45 minutes in an electric frying pan after which time he will serve potatoes to Fern's family in whatever manner they see fit."

Next Week: Spud Boy's Appeal--was he given due food process?

Rabbit advocates veggie munchies

By Hedda Lettuce
Staff Writer

Winter term '82 has certainly been a term for new blossomings.

Glen Rabbit, the Zoo head resident, has a corny goal set for himself. He's interested in organizing a group made up of irregular vegetarians, the Veg Assemblage.

Rabbit sees a need for change in the groups' nibblets served at SOGGY. This perception is what prompted the cultivation of the V-A's.

"I want this to be a group that does something other than vegetate," Rabbit gnawed.

One deep-rooted complaint of Rabbit's is that SOGGY isn't aware of how veggie's dishes should be prepared.

"The V-A's like their rabbit pellets served as an appetizer," Rabbit chewed. "They prefer eating the onion skins and the sunflower plant. In addition, the V-A's prefer their fungus in the men's showers in Gelstoned Hall rather than the fungus in the showers in the Physically Educated building," Rabbit masticated.

"Canned veggies are out," Head Veg Flora Fern budded in. "The aluminum cans give me unbeetable indigestion."

Rabbit, also a member of the John Birch Society, said that vegging has become very popular. "We've weeded out those members who don't take us seriously."

Rabbit said he has done "vega amounts" of studying in the area of vegetarianism and has developed strong opinions as to how veggies should prepare their food.

"V-A's don't get a good meal often enough from SOGGY," he said. "It's so sad. Sometimes at dusk, I've seen some V-A's crawling along the bushes outside Zoo Hall munching the grass and other greenery because they're so hungry."

"In fact," Rabbit sniffed, "some veggies have resorted to growing plants in their rooms, simply for study break snacks."

Rabbit said that many students here are veggies, but have not come out of their pods. But, Rabbit hinted as to which type of students are undersoil veggies.

"Have you ever noticed some of those biology majors who stay in lab later than everyone else; who always have green leafy things stuck between their teeth; who pass up the semi-frozen carrots served at SOGGY but who seem to have perfect eyesight?" Cabbage munched.

Rabbit described himself as a "sprouting veggie." "I used to just lie in my pen and stare across the lane at Farmer MacGregor's garden patch. I was out to pasture."

Rabbit said his bushy-tailed, little friends got so worried about his health that they force-fed him carrot juice.

"Now I'm a full-sprouted veg," Rabbit said. "I feel munch better when I'm veg."

This deep-rooted veggie is interested in sharing his vegetarian excitabilities with others here.

"I really think the V-A group will help spade the way to bashful veggies," both Rabbit and Fern masticated.

"We're tired of eating our roommates plants and licking up the fungus around the shower drains to fill our bellies," Fern budded in again.

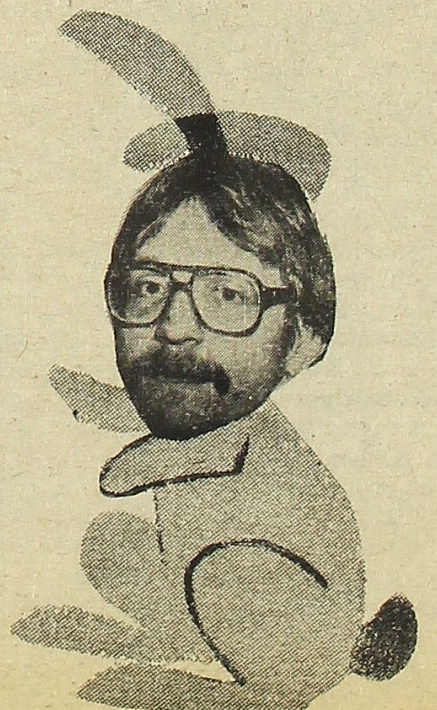

The movement is branching out. Activities have been planned for the V-A's which include taking trips to the beech, hay rides and many other field trips. "These are all delectable activities," veg V.P. Herb Petunia said.

Anyone interested in this group (bashful veggies or bio students looking for a research project) can contact Rabbit in his hole in Zoo Hall or meet him and the other V-A's during dinner in Hamilstoned Common at the table nearest the salad bar.

If you think you're a veg, want to be a veg or just want to hang out with veggies join the group before it's too late and you hit your temple saying. "Wow, I could have been a V-A."

Glen Rabbit:

"I feel munch better when I'm a veg."

Vice President Dephen Leyer cloned

President Cosmic E. Relic announced today the semi-successful cloning of soon to retard vice president for finance and leecher, Dr. Dephen Leyer.

Efforts to clone Leyer began in January after Relic stated, upon learning of Leyer's retardment, "If I could clone him I would."

Dr. Richard Doeper, best known for his work entitled, "Effects of the 4-year cosmic influence on institutionalized Presbyterian beetles," has been working, in conjunction with Dr. Richard (no relation) Bowelker, for a week and a half to perfect their cloning technique.

Stated Doeper, "Well, uh, what we did was to start with his fingers, you know, like surgically remove them and put them in petri dishes. At first it didn't work, we did get some fantastic mold samples though."

According to Bowelker, the experiment was finally successful when Leyer's glasses were pried from his face and placed in a glass of milk of magnesia. "Sure, we had to go through a few appendages before we hit on the secret, but it was worth it."

The mold from this experiment was then used to cast approximately four Leyers who will take over the duties of the retarding Leyer.

Since the clones are not exact replicas of the original Leyer, it is believed that each will assume one area of responsibility.

The first clone, named Leecher, will be responsible for embezzeling college funds. The second clone--Dephen--will carry on the office's policy of being deaf to students requests and reasoning. The third clone, named Leyer, will be involved with story making and covering tracks. It is rumored that there will also be a fourth clone which will assume the duties of resident-sitting in a chair, drinking coffee and harassing the secretaries.

Spinoffs from the experiment--Leyer's right index, middle and pinkie fingers--are currently on display at the Flora Kirsch Beck Gallery for the first annual Dephen Leyer finger print competition. In addition, the index finger and thumb from his left hand are on a tour of Presbyterian churches in the greater Alma area.

Doeper stated that he is currently working on a paper entitled, "Effects of finger prints on institutionalized Leachers."

Bowelker's study, "Leyer, the mold and the man", is due to be released in 1984.

Cosmic and Swannie brawl

Past and present presidents turn pugilists

By Hal E. Butt
Staph Writer

Students, faculty and friends packed Lappaert Gymnasium last Wednesday to witness Alma College's first Flounders Day Convocation. What they saw instead was a knock-em-dead, shake-em-up brawl between President Cosmic "Twinkletoes" Relish and President Emeritus Robert "The Bald Bomber" Swansong.

Student reaction to the fight was mixed. Some students felt the fight was a tremendous boost for college morale.

"It was great," exclaimed sophomore Hugh G. Rection. "They looked so scrumptuous! Besides, I won twenty bucks from Ron Clapp on the fight."

The majority of students, however, seemed to come away disappointed in the two men.

"I've lost all respect for Swansong and Relish," cried junior Lotta Juggs. "Swansong was obviously out of shape, and Relish kept dropping his left."

Clones Leecher and Leyer share their morning paper.

The fight broke out while Swansong was delivering an address titled "Roots--Are We Going to Let This Baboon Destroy What I've Done?"

Though the fight appeared spontaneous, close observers said they were waiting for just such an outbreak all night.

"I knew something was up," began Registrar Wilted Potted, "when I saw 'Twinkletoes' and 'The Bald Bomber' embroidered on their academic robes."

The exact cause of the scuffle is as yet undetermined. High sources have speculated that Relish wanted to rename the Academic Center after himself, and Swansong refused to use the word 'cosmic' at least thirty times in his speech.

No winner was declared as an onslaught of Alma College security forces eventually hauled both men to the city police station. The ceremonies continued with no further interruptions.

It was a shocked and silent audience that watched the bestowal of honorary degrees which concluded the ceremonies. Ironically, Swansong was presented with a Doctor of Laws degree in absentia.

Relish eyes Swansong just seconds before their Flounders Day fight.

Wholesale housing changes on tap for this summer

By Rufus Leaking
Staph Writer

The Eata Pigma fraternity will be moving into the GKE house this summer, according to Dean of Global Affairs Gandhi Nile-Sand.

He attributed the move to the poor condition of the fraternity's present house. "We need to give the house some exercise," he idiotically quipped.

The proposed move would provide two major benefits. First, it would foster greater understanding among the fraternities because of the shared living quarters. Second, Nile-Sand said it would be advantageous to be able to tell what both frats were up to merely by looking out his office window.

Gke and Pig reactions to the proposed move, however, have been less than favorable, and an alternative plan is being explored. Nile-Sand described the alternative proposal as "an exercise in cross-cultural learning brought about by an exchange in living environments." Winking, he added, "I always use big words after I've been drinking."

Briefly, the alternative plan involves a complex series of approximately thirty campus housing maneuvers. Besides the initial Pig move, the GKEs would move into the Physical Education building. Other highlights of the plan include moving the AZTs into Hamilton Commons, the AOs into Don's Bar, the Theta Chis into the chemistry lab and Mrs. Relish into the Chapel.

Nile-Sand was quick to point out, though, that a few groups will be slighted if the alternative plan goes into

See CAMPUS Page 7

Anti-lazing whips pledges into shape

In an effort to reform the pledging program of Alma's Geek system, the administration announced today that it is putting into effect an anti-lazing policy.

According to Vice President for Student Benevolence and Areers programs, D anny n Hehring, the policy would require pledges to engage in various anti-lazing activities including rolling exact replicas of the chapel pillars in front of them for three weeks. In addition, there would be a bell week, where pledges would be required to carry cast iron chapel bells on their backs.

Stated Maternity advisor Rev. em up McManicles, "Students need to use the chapel more. We couldn't find out why the chapel bells weren't ringing so we came up with this masterpiece of administrative planning."

Hehring, a former Pigma Pie, added, "The pledging program at Alma is becoming too meaningful. We need to incorporate things that make the pledges wonder why the hell they ever decided to do this."

Reaction was favorable from current members of the Geek System.

Next year's Eata Pigma president, Reemin' Ratchford stated, "It's the greatest thing that's happened to our fraternity since the invention of cement bricks and paisley prints."

Opinion

Point

By Bark Boredom

Bark packs Ratt

Bark: Ratt, readers of the Albanian and myself have had to put up with your right-winged, ultra-conservative viewpoints for the whole year, and I think it's about time someone told you where to stick your B-1 bomber. Your viewpoints have been about as interesting as the Flounders Day celebration, and about as meaningful as a re-run of "Leave it to Beaver" (whom you resemble greatly). Why do you continue to clutch to your out-dated, closed-minded 19th century view on the world? If it were up to you and your regressive conservative buddies, every woman would be "barefoot, pregnant, and in the kitchen" and every man would be fighting for his life in the sun-baked trenches of El Salvador. I'd like to see you explain your "let them eat cake" Reaganomic ideals to a mob of hungry, laid-off auto workers. Your own parents were so embarrassed by your actions that they had to move to another state to protect the Rover name. We even have a picture of you kissing an idol of William F. Buckley! Open your eyes and clean your glasses Mr. Rover! Your head and Reagan's budget seem to have a lot in common: both are over-inflated and need to be shrunk.

Counterpoint

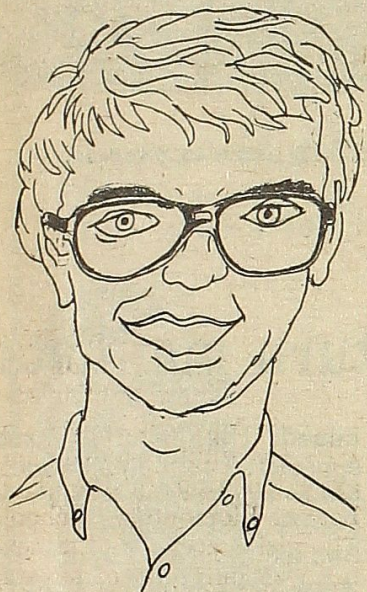

Ratt strips Bark's stand

Ratt: Bark, you ignorant slut. Since when do you and your ultra-liberal, drug related friends know anything about what goes on in the real world, beyond the walls of your brothels and crash-pads? My viewpoints are based on facts, things that you and your Albanian co-workers are obviously oblivious to. If you could clear your head long enough to think, you would see that it is the people with views similar to mine that run this country. That's why it's in the shape it's in today. Bark, you're as half-baked as a Saga potato and as flat as one of their pancakes. I happen to have incriminating pictures of you also, but mine involve you, whipped cream, a goat and a man in a duck suit. The only practical reason I can see for your Albanian existing at all is to soak up the spilled beverage-es at lunch tables. So Bark, take some advice: Quit standing up for your inept, left-wing ideals and get on your back where you belong.

By Ratt Rover

Letters to the Editor

ACDC women torment and puzzle Pyle

Dear Editor,

I'm mad! Real mad! And because my roommate's sick of hearing me whine about it, I decided to write you and whine about it. I'm disgusted with the notorious puzzle people who pretend to work in ACDC. Everytime I walk past the office these three or four women, who supposedly are secretaries, are huddled over a coffee table with a jigsaw puzzle piece in hand. They are so engrossed in their stupid puzzle they aren't aware anyone else is alive or that time exists--until it's time for a coffee break. Then they bolt to the student union to scarf down a bagel or fries then invade the space invaders games, not letting anyone else play them.

Now, you may think I'm over-reacting but I'm sick of playing second fiddle. Everytime I stop in at the drug store to pick up the newest jigsaw puzzle, they're sold out; everytime I go to the student center for a bagel, they're just out of 'em; and everytime I begin to play the video games, some wenches have moved in and monopolized the best games. Those ACDC women must be stopped before I get real mad and start to cry. Please help, dear editor.

Sincerely,
Gomer Pyle, ACDC director

Keep your hands off our nuns

Dear Editor,

What is all this fuss I keep hearing about Nun Control? I mean, just yesterday I was reading about the powerful NRA lobby in Congress. What I want to know is how in the name of heck the Nun Retirement Association became so important.

People keep bitching about millions of innocent victims being killed by nuns every year. I don't think that I'm that much of a hermit, but I've never known nuns to do anything but relieve suffering and be Head Residents.

What I'd do if I were Congress is to give this NRA a good kick in the rear. Nuns shouldn't ever be retired; they should be able to be Head Residents as long as their residents can stand them.

I think the words of that great American Douglas MacArthur pertain here: "Old nuns never die, they just fade away."

Sincerely, John Paul

Correction

The Almanian incorrectly identified the three people pictured above as Alma College foreign students. We have learned that they are really Salvadoran gorillas hired by Gandhi Nile Sand, dean of global affairs, to pose as foreign students so that Alma would have the appearance of being internationally cosmic. We regret the error.

High school memory

Dear Editor,

There is something that I must get off my chest. I went to high school. It was fun, I guess, although it's a lot more fun to look back on it because I don't have to put up with all the pinheads and dicks now. Like Jim Moran, for instance. He's dead now but we'll get to that later.

There was this girl named Lisa that I liked a lot but she didn't seem to know it. Jim Moran liked her too, and I guess she liked him but then he stole his step-father's car and missed a turn while he was really drunk. He still would have been okay after the car stopped against a tree except that he got out the wrong side and fell in the lake and drowned. But she broke up with him before that happened.

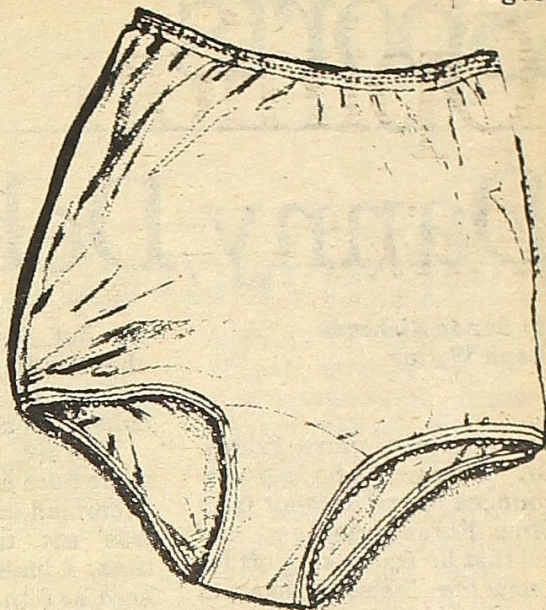

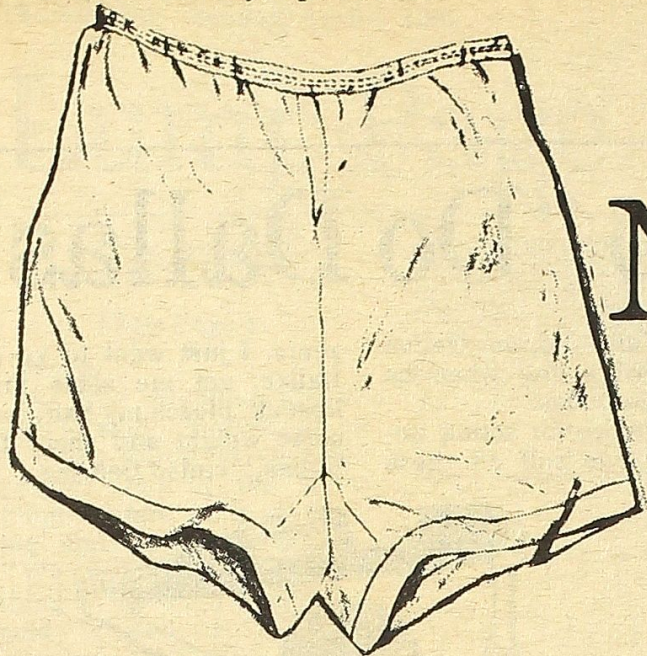

The only real dates I went out on in high school were with Lisa and we only went out twice. The second time I convinced her to go to a drive-in. I didn't have the slightest idea what to do with her once I got her there. But I did the old traditional yawn and wrap your arm around her and she just smiled and leaned against me. I almost died!

But then I was really stuck. What now? After what felt like eight years of that I guess she got bored and she moved a little closer against me. I just watched the movie. Finally she got really bored and she turned and grabbed my head and kissed me. Then I really died! We kissed for a long time, gradually turning away from the screen and lying down on the front seat.

I got up the nerve to run my hands across her back a few times and I gradually got more daring. I was pretty sure she liked it, so I got really daring and I slid my hand around and

continued on page 69

News Briefs

Orangutan troops only joking

Salvadoran orangutan troops gathered in that nation's capital city today, surrounded the seat of the newly erected government and shouted: "Surprise!"

In a recent interview with CBS anchorman Dan Blather, Harry Pitts, head of the orangutan troops, stated, "It was all a joke, we just maimed babies and raped woman to see how far Al Haig would go."

According to Pitts, he and his fellow orangutans decided to call off the joke when it appeared that Haig might intervene directly. "Having someone like that set foot on our home soil would be more than we could stand," stated Pitts.

U.S. Citizens must remove arms

In an effort to limit the U.S. Soviet arms race, President Raygun announced today that all Americans with a nose on their face will be forced to have their left arm amputated.

According to Raygun, amputation centers are being set up around the country. Stated Raygun, "We have to show the Soviets that we're willing to sacrifice. Arms limitation is the only hope for the future," he added.

Calvin Kleins don't shield

Teenage actress and model Brooke Shields shocked the nation last week when she announced that she was pregnant.

"Unfortunately, my Calvin Kleins didn't come between us," she said, though she would not comment on who the father is.

Shields made the Announcement from a hospital in Rome, where she is currently making a movie directed by Roman Polanski.

UAW, GM reach agreement

In an effort to reach a compromise agreement, UAW members agreed Monday to give up their first born children to General Motors who will use them in crash tests.

GM, also eager to reach an agreement, agreed to give the children back after the tests are completed.

Reagans give gift to needy

In an attempt to create a public image of love for the nation's needy, President and Mrs. Reagan recently donated their new set of White House china to the 12th Street Soup Kitchen in Harlem.

"We want to show that we really do care for the poor slobs," Reagan chuckled. "Besides, it's probably tax deductible now."

Roast featured on "That's Inedible"

A hot dog roast sponsored by Oscar and Meyer will be featured on the new syndicated T.V. show "That's inedible" next Friday evening. All students interested in roasting Oscar's dog are urged to attend. Oscar's wife, Mrs. Enema Relish, will serve condiments at the event.

NASAL team desensitizes

The Spaced-out Shuttle Columbia completed it's third successful run last week despite reports of snow in the area of it's desert landing strip. The National Aeronotical Snorting Associated League (NASAL) reported that all systems were go for a post flight desensitizing at the NASAL free base in Aspen, Colorado.

Iajocca will attempt to explain

Mee Iajocca, chief Executing officer of Chrysler Corporation will be the breast pecker at tomorrow's honors convocation ceremonies.

The topic for his address will be "Myths, Facts and the Liberal Fart's Mind."

In his speech, Iajocca will attempt to explain how one can make generous financial contributions to organizations on a yearly salary of $1.00.

Iajocca has long been a supporter of charitable organization, including The Socialist Business Men of America and The National Alliance for Nun Control. In addition, Iajocca has contributed his personal time to helping starving Grosse Pointe Children.

Girl ruins Rogers' neighborhood

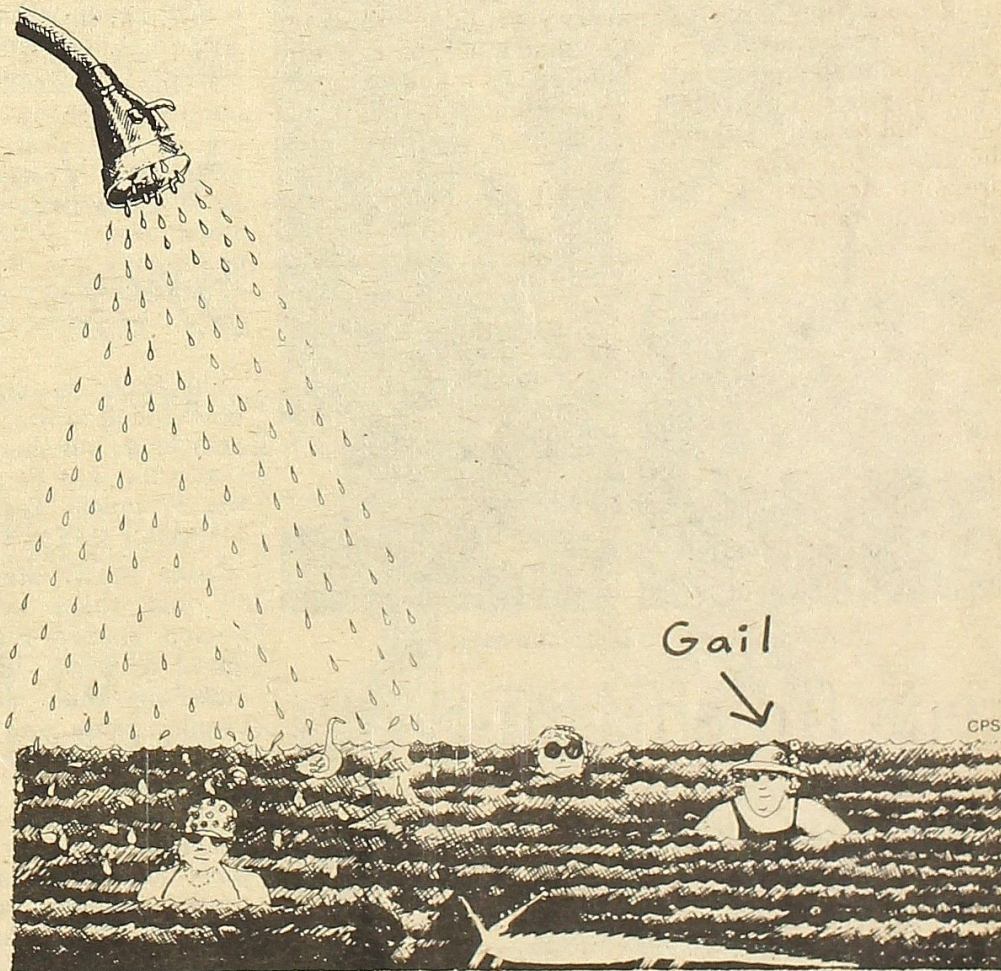

The trial of a six-year-old school girl from Florida has taken on a new light in the past few days. It seems the girls was running a drug and extortion ring in the T.O. Leary Elementary School. The girl is accused of attacking was only one of several victims, others being Mrs. Kinkle, her teacher, and the principal, Mr. Rogers.

"She threatened everyone; she had me so scared for my life," Rogers sniffled while testifying. "She's simply ruined the neighborhood."

Today's Weather

This radar weather scan shows the large faucets sited over Detroit which will bring intermittent drips and lack of sleep throughout the night.

Showers are expected over the western half of Lake Michigan today, with Gail warnings expected.

Sports

Danny Dehring decides to "Do Dallas"

By Renee Richards
Staff Writer

In a surprise move Friday, Dr. Danny Dehring announced his retirement from Alma Bureaucracy and stated that he was taking off for a new life "doing Dallas" in Texas as a cheerleader of that cities football team.

"I have had this itch, deep in me, for many years, stated Dehring. The other day I was play acting like a macho bureaucrat when I realized "no," this really isn't you Danny. At that point I found my true call. I said "Danny, you must go to Dallas and be a cheerleader."

The Almaniac learned from Dehring of a secret trip he made last year to Dallas to try out for the prestigious cheerleading squad. Dehring claims to have used no college monies for the trip.

"You see, years ago when I came here and saw the Alma cheerleaders, I knew my life was not true. Since that time, I have saved a penny here and there to some day achieve my dream. I call it my 'Danny Does Dallas Account.' Anyway, last year I realized that acting like a macho bureaucrat and getting drunk at bubbles double and acting like I was dealing on women really was not true for this Danny. I had to get out and solve my itch--Dallas was the place," explained Dehring.

Last month Dehring received a letter of approval from the cheerleading outfit with the stipulations that Dehring lose 75 pounds, bleach and perm his hair and use pink lipstick. Last Thursday Dehring accepted the challenge.

"When I got that letter of approval, I said 'wow, Danny, your dream has come true--with pink lipstick too.' I am a happy man, well I am happy," stated Dehring.

Commenting on Dehring's jog change, Alma College President Cosmic Relish compared it to Greece and Rome. "The two are intertwined, it's a cosmic relationship, Danny just could not get it together here."

The whole staff will be deeply remorseful and consciously upset at Danny's leaving. Especially my dog," added Relish.

Relish stated that he wasn't aware of Dehring's desires to do Dallas until last fall during Parent's Day.

"Remember when Danny was acting like a cheerleader during that football game? We lost a lot of financial support that day, I felt sorry for Danny," stated Relish.

Dehring stated that he will miss all the students and faculty and administration and Relish's dog when he goes to do Dallas.

"I apologize for acting unlike my true self all these years. I just want to go do Dallas, get me some pink lipstick, bleach my hair, lose some weight and cheer for Dallas," ended Dehring.

Dehring displays his cheering form.

Mutton rams her way Miss Bo Peep title

Maxine Mutton traded in her field hockey stick for a sheperd's staff last Saturday as she participated in the first annual little Miss Peep Competition at the Ram's Head Inn in Shepherd, Michigan.

"Ewe have to be really talented to win, it's not just sheer luck," stated Mutton. "Most girls are too sheepish to enter."

The girls are judged in five categories, a wool suit competition, a baaing contest and a ramrodding competition. In addition, the women were judged on analytical essays of the poem "Little Bo Peep." In the fifth category, problem solving, the women were asked to design five different ways to prepare mint jelly.

Judges for the event included Bo Schembecher, Ramsey Clark and Moses.

Mutton poses with lamb and staff.

Coeds finish Uni-Sex

Three Alma women competed in the Third Annual Free Press Uni-Sex Marathon held in Detroit. All three women and their partners finished the 26.2 hour marathon with ease.

Marathoner Jina Loospus said before the event, "The only way I will stop is if I die. After the marathon, she sighed, "I would like to do it again, but I'll have to practice more next year. My legs got too tired."

Any! Airway and Airect Gonid also competed in the

See UNI Page 7

Groveler and Bowtorch protest FAGS

FAGS sponsor contest

By Red Boofer
Staff Writer

The Fellowship of Athletic Gay Socialists (FAGS) is sponsoring a "Gayest Faculty or Student Contest" to raise money for the fledgling organization.

The group will have their booths in both the commons despite the opposition from both the Kill a Commie for Christ Committee and the Homosexual Haters Society.

Founded by Beg Hatchet and Pig Phaser last September, the group, numbering 35 members, plans to expand.

Hatchet said, "Even though there is a lot of opposition to FAGS, we'd like to sponsor this contest to make the campus as a whole more aware of what we stand for."

"We'd like to recruit more members--anyone can join." Some of us are just gays, some gay jocks, some socialist, some gay socialist and some of us are gay jock socialists," explained Hatchet.

The contest winner will be the student or teacher with the most money contributed in their name. The criterion for winning is that the person have some qualities about them which could be called gay.

Mutt Groveler, president of the Kill a Commie for Christ Committee stated angrily, "Those fags and commies are permeating every aspect of our society. Every person in that group should be shot and impaled on stakes in front of Dr. Kold's window."

"I agree 100 percent with Mutt," said Kleevin Blowtorch, leader of the Homosexual Haters Society. "We normal people pay almost $8,000 a year for a quality education, and we should not have those types of people parading about at Alma."

Dean of Student's Affairs Nudge Dilldo said, "The affairs of beautiful people are their own affairs. Let the gays and the commies do what they want. But, don't quote me on that or I'll call you a damned liar!"

Netters named top preps in the MIAA

The Scots women's tennis team failed to win a meet all year long, but their consolation prize was being named the Preppiest Team in the MIAA.

Coach Muffy Mapes said, "I told them before the season started that they'd have to worry less about matching their bobby-sox, spanky pants and hair-ribbons, but they wouldn't listen to me."

The entire team received honorable mention for "always looking good on the court." Captains Buffy Buck and Biffy Bukowski sniffed, "We don't care whether we win or not. Any prep knows that looking dainty is 100 percent more important than having a good serve."

The team consisted of seven hard-core preps and one anti-prep. The lone rebel, Rancy Balltwist, refused to wear pink ribbons, lacy panties and matching socks.

She said, "The whole prep movement makes me puke. I publicly protest preps! I think we should line them up and serve at them."

Cuffy Conner, currently involved in the career prep program, said, "I told the coach we'd play better if the ruffles on our panties matched our pink ribbons, but she wouldn't listen to me. If she'd have followed this advice we would have won a match!"

Heidi-Deidi Klein stated, "Ooh La Lal!"

Lump Page

God Squad

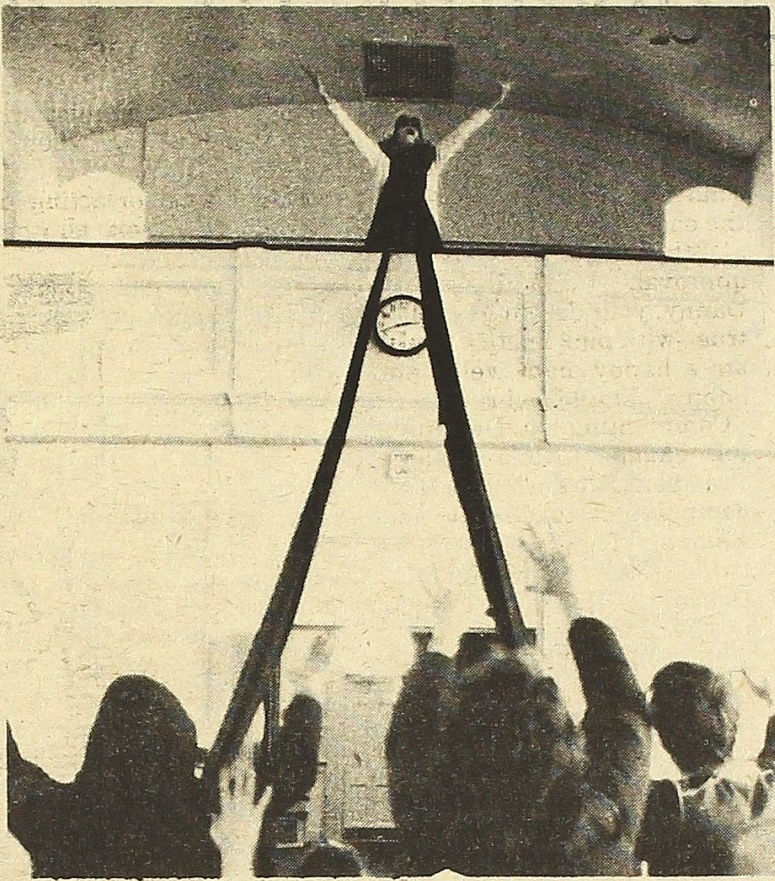

From Page 1

Condom.

The God Squaders are all bored again Christians, a growing group of religious people tired of the usual religious fare such as pray ing and going to church. "We're looking for some- thing a bit more exciting," said Wasted, a founding member of the group "alter- ing excitabilities", a spinoff of their squad. "It's good clean fun suitable for Chris- tian pre-adults," said Lice.

In their "altering excitabil- ities" sessions, the group seeks to rid the body of evils by laying on the floor in dark rooms and breathing heav- ily. According to Wasted, activities such as these are in preparation for the group's next all campus activity, a second coming rally.

Squad advisor, Revim' up McManicles stated that he is all for the second coming rally. "I've always believed in multiple orgasms," he stated.

God Squaders attend a rally in the chapel.

Taco and Torte net tasty award

Taco Bandit brought the MIAA's Tastiest Player a- ward back to Alma College after a season of beautifully seasoned play. Bandit, a four-year superstar on the women's basketball team, was selected by the men's basketball teams in the league.

Bandit's coach Marie Torte was given the Coach

With the Best Taste Trophy for consistantly being the most sumptuous dresser in the league.

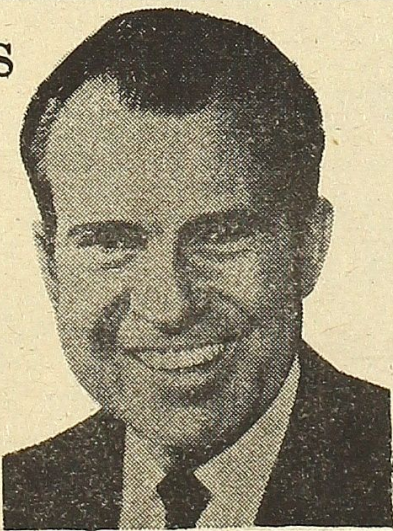

Torte exclaimed, "I'm so excited for both Taco and myself. I'm glad that the men in the league appreciate women athletes who have truly good taste."

Bandit beat out a number of well-cooked players for the title, including Hope's Cherri Jubilee, Olivet's Candy Bowl and the K-zoo Hornet's Honey Bee. Last year the Scots' Cookie No-chips was the league's unan- imous choice.

Bandit said, "I am really honored to carry on in Cook- ie's footsteps. I was really surprised to win because in the past, guys have prefer- red sugary girls over spicy ones."

Tricky Dick's Tape Shack

"We buy, sell or trade used tapes."

Coming soon to the STRANDED theater...

the
FIELD HOCKEY GIRLS
They'll thrust until they score.

STARRING: XX
Ima Hoe & Eda Pole

Second feature:
THE GIRLS OF GSS XX
they're sure to service you.

Campus movement

From Page 3

effect. Nile-Sand himself of- fered to move his office into the women's rest room in Tyler, but even his move- ment cannot be expected to alleviate the space problem overnight.

"My office would really go to pot, and my policies would go down the drain," he wimpered.

Furthermore, he noted that the Aqua Fins would be forced to perform in the showers in Newberry, and chapel services would be discontinued due to the $6 million chapel renovations requested by Mrs. Relish.

When asked if the Pig move was really necessary in light of all the campus dishevel- ment it would cause, Pig President Virile Limerick re- plied, "I'm really sorry to see chapel services discon- tinued, but, if people really want to worship, I'm always available."

'Beautiful' drinking

From Page 1

ans. Students must show proficiency to enroll in the latter seminar.

Other siminars include "Quality versus Quantity: The Great Controversy" and Spring Term Class Drinking Games." The latter will in- troduce students to such exercises in overindulgence as Passout, Quarter-Bounce and Ninety-Nine. Another seminar entitled "Managua Massacre and Other Exotic Mixes" will teach students how to add variety tro their bars..

"I know there are a lot of beautiful drinkers out there, but they won't show it," said Drink. "I want to release their inhibitions and let them drink like the beautiful peo- ple they are."

Uni-Sex marathon results

From Page 6

event, sponsored by Masters and Johnson and held on Ambassador Bridge.

The climax of the event occurred when the three Alma women simultaneously finished the marathon.

Gonad said, "I don't know if the other two girls will be able to compete next year. They haven't been able to walk very well since the marathon. I'll probably do it again. It didn't bother me at all because I've been prac- ticing for a year."

WKL gets it from IMC

By C.D. Motives
Staph Writer

We Kinda Lied, the newly established sixth maternity on campus, recently received an award from the inter-ma- ternity council for their out- standing hazing program.

Stated Eta Pigma member Rank Barkinson, "We're really pleased that they've finally seen things our way. The maternities on this cam- pus are well known for their intimidation and humilia- tion; it's a tradition that I think should be continued."

According to We Kinda Lied president Stony Stup- iano, "We didn't have any pledges so we decided to haze ourselves. We forced ourselves to drink a keg of beer apiece without stop- ping. Then we all took our clothes off and went outside. Then in an act of brother unity,

See LIED page 15

Stony Stupiano, shown here after a night of hazing himself, stated, "It was so much fun, I hope everyone will pledge We Kinda Lied so that they can experience what I have."

Oral specialist joins Alma faculty for '82

Joining the faculty next year will be Dr. Bob, as his patients lovingly call him. Bob is a 1961 graduate of Alma College. He later attended Oral Roberts Medical School and did his residency at St. Blaise Hospital in Kalamazoo. Bob is a board certified member of the American Medical Association (AMA) and the Ear and Throat Association (ENTA). He will be putting this vast experience to work at Alma by teaching an advanced first aid class, specializing in mouth-to-mouth and other forms of resuscitation. Bob is single and living at 603 W. Center in Alma. Commenting on why he liked Alma so much, he said, "The O.R. staff at Gratitude Hospital has been so much fun to work with. As for future plans, Bob hopes to expand his work into the OB/GYN field.

Dr. Bob

Scottie terriers nab 2nd MUTT title

By Betty Poodle
Staph Writer

Led by Lady Thumper's hair raising dog-trot for the finish line, the Scottie Lady Terriers finished 1-2-3-4 for a conclusive win at the Michigan Upstate Terriers Trackmeet (MUTT). The meet, held in front of Alma's dog pound, was attended by a large crowd of male dogs. The Scotties, in addition to taking the MUTT championship, last week took Best of Show at the St. Louis Dog Show. Thumper barked, "We had a ruff meet. The K-zoo Hounds were right on our tails the entire time, but our bitches pulled it off." Despite numerous potty stops, the Scotties finished well ahead of all competitors. The Hounds were second, with the Adrian Bulldogs third. The Calvin Collies were fourth, while the Albion Afghans, Olivet Corgies and Hope Setters tied for last place. Arf-Arf Growl was second for the Scotties, followed closely by Lassie Bow-Wow and Arlene Goodog. Puppy Go-fetch came in a strong sixth. Coach Chuck Greyhound howled proudly, "Our bitches did a great job! Even though they aren't as strong as our boy terriers, they have many fine qualities as runners, especially when they're in heat! As I was saying to my friend Toby, the bitches always run better when they have a handsome hound in front of them of them to fight over.!" Thumper's run qualified her for Doggie Regionals at Chihuahua, Mexico next Saturday.

Geek Spitlight

Gamma Wigma Wigma

We'd like to thank all of the students who participated in the annual bloody drive. We would like to announce that two of our sisters' donated all of their blood! They received 100 points each. Now that's dedication!

Cappa Boda

Thanks to all who attended our S&M workshop last week. Everyone had a whipping-good time! Don't forget our cocktails every Friday from 5-9 p.m. Please bring your own rooster.

Digma Boredom

Thanks to the Albania police who caused no end of trouble by refusing to clear local roads for the Missing Pothole 10K race. After paying hospitalization for the 76 injured participants, we were able to stage our new weekly activity, Chewing Gum Night, for the rest of the term.

Unfortunately, this left us with no money to buy new little sisters. So we'd like to announce the First Annual Frustrated DB's party for Finals Week. Be There!

GKE

We wonderful GKE's haven't won any sport championships lately, so we really don't have anything to report. However, we do have two wonderful GKEs in the National Gay Gator Competition in San Francisco. Good luck to Ima Ham and Sped Moth.

Eata Pigma

With the completion of pledging, we are proud to announce that only 3 of our 6 pledges depledged. The other three are reported in stable condition. For some minor violation in our pledge program, we regret to inform you that we will be on double secret disciplinary probation for the next 70 years. Oh well!

We Kinda Lie

If you are curious to know who our members are, you'll have to visit our room. We do not allow our brothers to wear our t-shirts since taste is a form of hazing, and, as you all know, WE DO NOT HAZE!!!

Sorry girls, we know you all wanted to be little sisters, but all our guys are more than busy now. Maybe next year.

Eata Thi

If you're not an Eata Thi you don't even need to read this because you won't understand any of it anyway. So we're not even going to write it. Dorjeklescomottre!!

Alpha Eata Cow

Yep! We did it! We ate an entire cow! And you thought we were just beautiful girls. Underneath our perfect, made-up faces we are really hungry girls.

Three of our girls were winners in the annual Eat-A-Cow-A-Thon sponsored by the national sorority. Alma College should be proud to have such pigs on campus!

Felta Thigh

We, the former brothers of Felta Gramma Raw, have gone national! Never fear hard-core Gram lovers... Fridays will still be set aside for our "Sissy Beers" with our famous cheap warm beer.

The Grams chose the Felta Thighs because of their macho image and the fact that we can keep many of our "True Blew" traditions.

Thanks to our wonderful sisters for the great time at lock-ins!!! You girls have really earned the right to be called Felta Thigh Sisters!

Always Mate-Us

H pulled another of her famous stunts... has a skinny guy in orange sweats with 'Eata Pigma' on them been chasing you around campus?

The AM's would like to thank our brothers, the Eata Pigmias for another typically stimulating party at the Pig house. Thanks for the effort Piggies... now we all know everything there is to know about baseball, basketball, etc. Sterile, all the AM's loved seeing your bare breasts. You make most of us jealous!

Mate-Us, just think, only another month and a half and we'll be able to drink cheap wine in the house again.

Menu

	Breakfast	Lunch	Dinner
Tuesday	Mancakes Apple Critters	Gentile Soup Hot Frog on Bun Zucchini Squish	Grilled Fork Chop Mashed Toes Knees and Carrots
Wednesday	Trampled Eggs Hash Blacks	Kicken Poodle Soup Egg Fool You Baked Dried Perch	Vegetable Slop Suey Staked Fish w/martyr sauce Green Fleas
Thursday	Critters Cork Sausage Patties	Pineapple, Cream Cheese, Sprouts on Beagles Lax Beans	Fleas and Brown Lice Baked Deans
Friday	Stench Toast Homemade Do-nots	Turkey Sandwhat Porn Bread	French cut Green Jeans Chees & Vegetable Gasserole Battered aqua fins
Saturday	Baffles Poached Legs	Minestrone Soup Mushed Prune Omelet	Flop Sirloin Steak Faked Ham Whipped Toes/gravy
Sunday	Coffin Cake Shaved Sam	Chicken Sandwhat French Flies	Chinese Pepper Beef over Lice Sparsely Buttered Potatoes Pot Chips

Is your shaft rusty?
Do your ball bearings rub?
Do your piston rods need a lube?
Is your timing off?

Then make a visit to...

the
LUBE
LAB

Alma's only organic lubricant store
'We'll grease anything!'