VIOLATING LAWS?

CITY OF ALMA

Seen the Pine lately? Have you had trouble fighting your way through the crowds of fishermen at your favorite soot9 Can you really tell if you are swimming in a river in the central portion nf beautiful Michigan? Are vou sure it's not the Mississippi? Yes, in case you were (apathetically?) unaware of it, the Pine River is dying. Phosphates. Yes, that is probably the weapon as was seen by Dave Croom, a senior biology major at Alma College. Croom has been working with phosphate content on the Pine as an indivkhial research project for this past term. His results tend to aim the fickle finger at the City of Alma for contributing bevond and above the call of duty the pleasant chemical Phosphate. Pleasant. Certainly, it promotes growth of that lush green growth-algae, which in turn uses up the Oxygen, which suffocates the fish, who clean the river, which goes through the town of Alma. How does he know it is Alma and not Riverda e. Croom took tests above and below the dam and found that the Phosphorous content above the dam (water that has not vet been through Alma) to be containing almost zero Phosphates. dam (water that gets the municipal sewage drainage from Alma) was found to be producing 35 millograms per day. The Michigan Water Resources Commission set a limit of 6 milligrams as the maximum tolerancy. Over that would be inviolation of the state statutes. Not only is Alma running over the limit of Phosphate content, but the Pine must also trayelby way of Midland and several other cities before it finally makes it to Lake Huron, 'v dence of an over abundance of Phosphate can easily be seen in Lake Erie, which conservationists say has aged the lake 15,000 years in the past 50. It was found that a secondary sewage plant is in the planning and 'ter tolking to employees there was revealed that this would remove 85% of the Phosphates they are presently putting in. This stil leaves us pretty close to the Umit.

Well, now that we know who puts it in the river, who gives it to them to put im According to Croom, detergent seems to be the most significant contHbuter to the cause. The purpose of Phosphates in detergents is to act as a *builder or a type of water softener. It works unquestionably well. Approximately 50 - 60 /c of the Phosphates in most cities comes from municipal sewage. The other comes from industrial wastes.

H it were possible to get the people of Alma to quit using high Phosphate detergents, it would theoreticaUy cause a reduction in the city's output of Phos-

ALMANIAN SPORTS SPORTS SIDELIGHTS by Randy Sergeant A True Professional

One often hears of the viciousness of pro football, of the pure violence that occurs on a hockey rink, of the mayhem created by "beanball" wars and the like. Often, the kind acts of individuals who participate in profesional sports go unnoticed or are regarded lightly due to the nature of the competition.

Golf, although certainly not a contact sport, is a grueling test of a man's ensport, is a gruening test of a man sen-durance and his ability to withstand the punishments of a long round, filled with excruciating tension, under a burning Arizona sun or a driving Augusta rain. It would not be natural to assume that such men so hardened to outside pressures would be of a benevolent lot. However, I would like to relate a story about Roberto DeVincenzo, a veteran tour performer, whose heart appears as noble as any Saint's

In late 1969 Roberto managed to overcome a large field on the last day of a tournament and win the 'big money'' event by a stroke in sudden death over-time play. After receiving his trophy and cash check for $15,000 on the last hole he broke free from reporters. Head-ing alone toward the clubhouse he was confronted by a small woman who appeared to be in grief. Stopping to survey the situation, he inquired if there was anything the matter. The tearful reply followed. "My baby," sobbed the woman, "He's dying and needs help immediately."

"Well, can't he be helped somehow?"

shot back the anxious pro. "Only a very expensive operation will save his life," she blurted.

DeVincenzo though for a moment then inquired how much the surgery would cost. The answer was about 10 or 15 thousand dollars. With little more than a moments thought, Roberto saw what he thought to be the only correct action, He endorsed the check and handed it to the woman for her to cash. "May God be with you and your son," he said as she vanished.

A fine story alright, but that is not the end of it. Of course you have heard similar ones a million times before. But the true value and merit of DeVincenzo's character was revealed a few weeks after the incident.

While seated at dinner in a fine Boston restaurant he was approached by the maitre'd who asked him if he were accosted a few weeks previously by a woman who said she needed money for her baby to have an operation. Roberto nodded and the waiter continued.

"Oh, Mr. DeVincenzo, I hate to tell you this but that lady is present at all the major tournaments. She is but a farce and does not even have a baby son.

The golfer whirled in his chair and demanded, "You mean there is no dying baby?"

The waiter shook his head no.

A smile formed across DeVincenzo's face and he sighed, "You know, that's the best news I've heard all week."

Scot's have captured three MIAA football titles in Zins' stay, including a co-championship in 1970 with Adrian.

A four-time All-MIAA cross-country selection, an All-American in both cross country and track, and a captain in both sports was selected as the Scots' most valuable cross country runner for 1970. He is Midland senior Don Yehle, who this year led the Scots to an undefeated season and the school's first undisputed MIAA cross country title in history. A week ago, Yehle was selected as the league's most valuable runner.

A young sophomore from Mayville, Michigan, Clare Kreger, was chosen as the Scot cross country captain for 1971. Kreger, after an outstanding track season last spring in which he placed second in the league's two-mile run was one of three Scots on the All-MIAA cross country team. The others were Yehle and fresh-man Bill Chenoweth of Charlotte, Kreger and Chenoweth placed third and fourth in the league meet at Albion on November 11.

Two linebackers and an offensive back will captain Scot football fortunes in 1971. They include linebackers Dave Stewart of Perry and Howell's John Dukes, along with halfback Rick Manzardo of Davison.

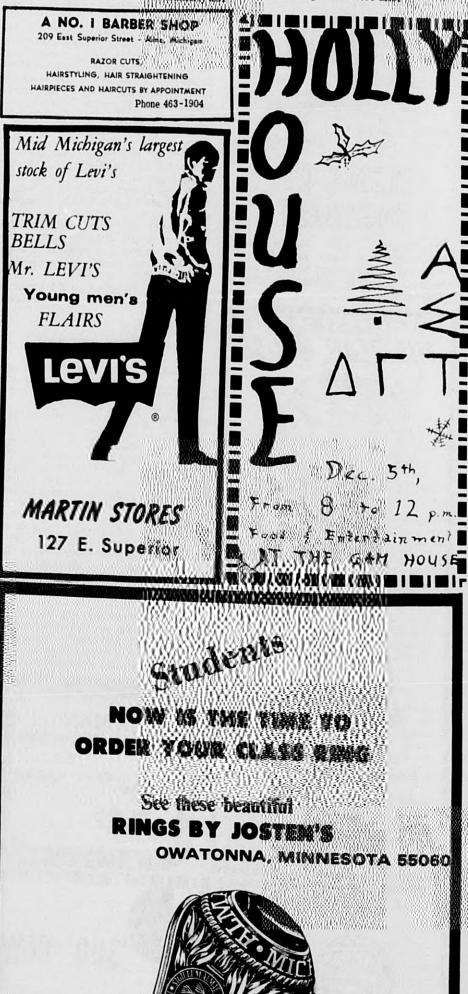

Stewart is a nard-bitting, inspirational type of ball player, who worked his way into the starting lineon this season, Dukes, The start of the started at a linebacker spra ence on Average at a linebacker spra ence on Average at a linebacker zins. Also an aggressive tackler, Dukes was named honorable mention Ali-MIAA. Manzardo was one of Alma's top groundgainers this season as well as last. Like Dukes, he was an honorable mention All-MIAA selection.
