T. S. Eliot's "Murder" First Of Three Shows To Open Thursday

The Spring play production, T. S. Eliot's "Murder in the Cathedral", will open next Thursday in Dow Auditorium. Two more performances will follow on Friday and Saturday. All performances will begin at 8 p.m.

Tickets will be available beginning Monday, April 26. They may be obtained at Tyler Center, or at the Information Desk in Reid-Knox. The tickets are free, but should be gotten in advance. If there are any tickets left, they will be available at the door. But experience has shown, as Director Albert Katz will verify, that there are rarely any left.

Doors are opened at 7:40 so that the audience may get seated. At 8 the house is checked. If there are people waiting in the lobby who have been unable to get tickets, but who wish to see the play, they may fill any seats that are empty. People who are late once the performance has started will not be admitted, in any event.

Katz is very pleased with the cast and the amount of work they have put into this production. "The cast has acted with a good deal of self discipline and responsibility." There have been two vacations during the long rehearsal period and the cast has used this time to strengthen their portrayals. They have achieved not only a sense of character, but also a sense of mood and a sense of playing together.

"In each case," says Katz, "the actors have matched the goals I've set for them. In most cases they've exceeded them. Each person has carried his share of the load."

"The chorus," remarks Katz, "is a very interesting and difficult aspect of the show. They are the Women of Canterbury, and their dialog is about a quarter of the entire play. They open each act, close the play, and are vital to the success of the play."

The unique thing about the chorus is that it speaks in unison, in two's, in three's, and individually, the lines of the dialog. The chorus has achieved in unison, the effect of one single voice, and flawless sense of rhythm, says Katz.

Katz expected five rehearsals on rhythm alone. He has not needed one for this. The characters have been working together in the dorm on their own time. "There are times when it's a delight to be used."

Cornelius Takes Over As Boyd Takes Off

Dr. Samuel R. Cornelius has been appointed dean of the faculty, effective July 1, according to an announcement by President

Robert D. Swanson.

With regret, Swanson has also announced the resignation of Dr. William B. Boyd, who since 1958 has served as dean of the Alma faculty. Boyd's resignation is effective June 30. He is resigning from his Alma College position to accept another appointment.

Cornelius joined the Alma faculty in 1957. He has served as head of the English Department and Chairman of the Humanities Division.

Cornelius is a graduate of Maryville College (Tenn.). He holds the M. A. degree from Vanderbilt University and the Ph.D. from the University of Pittsburgh.

Since joining the faculty, Cornelius has been one of the leaders in the development of the Alma curriculum. He was a member of the committee that designed Alma's interdepartmental course "The History of Western Man" which is taken by all freshmen and sophomores. Cornelius edited the two-volume series "The Foundations of Western Civilization" which is used in the course. He has also participated in College curriculum revisions which have resulted in accelerated language classes, a program of independent study for each student in his major field, and a senior study program, "Man in Modern Society - The Examined Life." As a member of the curriculum committee, Cornelius helped formulate the new 3-3 program which Alma begins in September.

Cornelius is married to the former Elizabeth Ann May. Dr. and Mrs. Cornelius have four children. Prior to joining the College faculty, Cornelius served on the faculties of Memphis State College, Memphis State University on the Tennessee State Committee which studied the Role, Purposes and Function of Higher Education in Tennessee.

Cornelius is a member of the American Association of University Professors, Modern Language Association, Shakespeare Association of America, and the College English Association.

APPOINTMENTS

Dr. William Boyd has announced the appointment of Eugene J. Kolb to the position of assistant professor of political science.

Kolb holds the B. A. and M. A. degrees from City College of New York. He has completed all the work for the Ph.D. from Yale University with the exception of the dis-

Charles Bross and Bruce MacDonald run through a few lines in rehearsal for T. S. Eliot's "Murder in the Cathedral." The play is scheduled to open next Thursday at 8 in Dow Auditorium and will run through Saturday night.

McKinnon, Bailey, King Head '65-'66 Classes

In class elections held yesterday, Terry McKinnon, Dave Bailey and Marvin King were selected to head the senior, junior and sophomore classes, respectively, next year.

McKinnon polled 76 votes in the junior class balloting for president to win over James Johnston and Ted Rowland, who received 26 each. Keith Sturgis was elected to the vice-presidency with 99 votes to Jack Shaw's 25. All other officers for the future class were elected unopposed, with Nadine Stearns becoming secretary, Warren Wyman treasurer and Karen Smith and Ramsey Sa'di student council representatives.

In sophomore class balloting Bailey received the presidency with 87 ballots to 37 for Greg Jackson and 36 for Paul Portney. John Steele polled 103 votes in defeating Bill Nichols, who received 55, for the vice-presidency. Running unopposed, Dick Osborn became secretary-treasurer. James Beck and Mary Lou Davison were elected student council representatives.

Out of a close race King became next year's sophomore class president, winning over Jim Ryckman 66-64, while Karen Madden had 52 ballots and Sam Pfeiffer 51. Rick vandenBerg's 144 votes gave him the vice-presidency over Richard Douglas, who polled 81. The secretary-treasurer position went to Stephanie Allen, who defeated Barbara Baker for the office. Nine students ran for the future sophomore student council representative offices, which were won by Marianne Miller and Jim Magee in a close ballot.

Board Names Heinlein, Hopkins, To Lead Almanian, Scotsman

Gary Heinlein, Elwell junior, has been appointed editor-in-chief of the almanian for the coming year, and Randall Hopkins, Sturgis sophomore, will be the new Scotsman editor according to an announcement by Dr. Samuel Cornelius, head of the Board of Publications.

In other action by the Board, Jan Anderson, Coldwater sophomore, was appointed managing editor of the almanian.

Other almanian positions which were filled for the 1965-66 academic year include Paul Lichau, Saginaw freshman, as photographer; Barbara Dean, Auburn, New York sophomore, as circulation manager; and Helen Love, Detroit freshman, as business manager. Heinlein has worked on the almanian staff for two years. As a sophomore he served as a reporter and presently he is managing editor.

Hopkins, an art major, worked on the Scotsman this year.

Anderson has been a reporter on the almanian this year.

Lichau is presently assisting with the photography on the almanian.

Both Miss Dean and Miss Love have served on the almanian this year. Miss Dean has worked in the circulation department while Miss Love has served as assistant to the business manager.

The Board of Publications will meet within the next two weeks to complete its voting for the positions on the publications. Yet to be filled are assistant editor on the Scotsman and copy, news and sports editors on the almanian.

Hopkins is presently making plans for next year's Scotsman.

The new almanian appointees will begin their functions with the last three issues of the semester.

CGF for alma . . .

The recent Student Council elections were a testimony to the renewed interest in campus government. Three of the four candidates advocated a major change in the Council's organization. We agree that the Council should be revamped. And we also think that next year's calendar change would be an appropriate time for reorganization.

First of all, we propose that the "new look" of the Council begin with a new name. We suggest Campus Government Forum (CGF).

The CGF would consist of three branches—the Executive, the Round Table and the General Forum.

The Executive would be comprised of the president, vice president, secretary and treasurer. The four officials would be elected by the student body in a general ballot.

The Round Table would consist of CGF committee heads, class presidents, the IFC and PanHellenic presidents and the AWS president. The committee heads would be appointed by the president with approval of the Executive branch.

The Round Table would be presided over by the president and would meet on the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month.

The General Forum would be made up of representatives from each living unit plus one representative for non-resident students, approximately 35 in all. The vice president would preside over this body which would meet on the first and third Tuesday of each month.

The process of CGF action would follow this pattern: 1) General Forum members and interested students attending meetings would bring problems before the group. After discussion the problem would be referred to the appropriate committee.

2) The committee would investigate and make its recommendation to the Round Table.

3) The Round Table would discuss, approve or amend the proposal. It would then suggest action to be taken by the General Forum.

4) The final form of the proposal then would come before the General Forum where it would either be approved or vetoed. If vetoed the proposal dies or must be re-introduced. If approved it becomes effective immediately.

Routine matters would be handled by the Executive branch.

Agendas for both the Round Table and General Forum meetings would be drawn up by the Executive and posted by the secretary.

a contribution . . .

In what must be considered a gesture of consideration and concern for the future growth of Alma College, 40 seniors have recently donated $1,000 to the fund for the new fieldhouse through $25 room deposits. We commend not only their generosity but the spirit in which these contributions were made.

Much has recently been said about the machine-like coldness of today's colleges and their loss of tradition. Many students here have also complained of the lack of a sense of campus unity and "wholeness."

The donation of these seniors, however, shows that a certain amount of warmth and loyalty still does exist here at Alma.

In this sense the contribution goes beyond the "cold cash" it has added to the fund for a fieldhouse. It stands as an example of the feeling that members of a campus can and should have toward their college.

Only when such a feeling exists can a college be more than a "knowledge factory". For this sense of "wholeness" adds a spirit of humanity to a college education.

It is our hope that the entire campus will still remember not only the donation of these seniors but the ideal behind it when the new fieldhouse is built.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

Dear Diary

by D. Merit

Today was Sunday, April 11. Just a day like all days at Alma, except that something happened! Mainly, all the lights went out! Of course, no one was really very disturbed (except maybe the Concert Band which had just started its performance).

Actually, the only trouble was that everyone either got lost, or kept bumping into walls. Why at least a couple hundred young men almost stumbled into the entrance of Helen Newberry Hall by mistake. Fortunately, several diligent student body leaders (I think they are called R.A.s) were able to alleviate this problem.

As it was, about thirty boys did manage, against almost insurmountable odds, to accidentally stumble in a side door. (The girls should certainly be more careful about leaving those doors open at night.) The boys had to wander aimlessly through the halls until they were able to find the exits. Of course, because it was dark inside, a great many doors had to be tested to make sure they were exits.

And if people weren't getting lost they were constantly falling in the mud. With almost clock-like regularity, some girl could be seen to stumble, and go flying through the air, and then splash in a puddle. Of course, most girls fought to keep their balance, but they just couldn't seem to manage. Maybe they were wearing high heels.

Someone even spotted people climbing rooftops. It was suggested that they might be students, but I know for a fact this couldn't have been true, because college rules don't permit such things.

The town suffered considerable damage from the tornado. Unfortunately, it lost its chance to qualify as a Disaster Area when it sent home all the college kids who volunteered to help. However, most of the students were so shocked when they found that high voltage wires had fallen down, that they didn't stay long anyway.

Most of the students, dearest diary, were well-behaved, careful, and thoughtful students who really did nothing but shout. Perhaps if we could have organized them properly, things might have been different. But I guess you can't have everything.

Well, I'll write you again the very next time something exciting happens at Alma. Shouldn't be more than a couple of months.

College Makes Final Plans For Parents Day

The annual Alma Parents' Day will be Sunday, May 2.

Dr. Harold E. Meyers, pastor of Indianaola Presbyterian Church in Columbus, Ohio, will address the morning worship service in Dunning Memorial Chapel at 11.

From 12 to 1:15 p.m. punch will be served in Tyler courtyard.

All residence halls will be open from noon to 4 p.m.

Dinner will be served in Van Dusen Commons, at 12:15 and 1:30 p.m.

There will be a band concert on the Monteith Library mall at 3 p.m.

Student art work will be on display in the lobby of Dow Science Building and the faculty will be on campus throughout the afternoon.

Letters To The Editor

If you wish to write a letter and remain anonymous, THE ALMANIAN will honor this desire. However, policy dictates that the author of any published letter must be known to at least the editor of the paper.

Editor's note: This is a letter written by Terry Davis, a 1964 graduate of Alma. He addressed the letter to Dan Swinney, one of the organizers of the recent March to Lansing.

Letters to Editor

I am writing to commend all of the Friends of SNCC for your work in the field of Racial Justice. The statements which all of you made which were printed in the almanian were well thought out and sound statements. Your concern is heartening, and the wisdom with which you turned this concern into action is to be commended. The way you all handled the request to halt the march because of danger to others is a demonstration of the fundamental principles for which you stand and the responsibility that you have undertaken in witnessing to these principles.

I was very much amazed, and very pleased to find that there was such a large number of students who were willing to give so much of themselves to this cause, especially in light of the length of the march and cold.

I think that the fact that the first act of the demonstration was the act of prayer is tremendously significant. The entire country, and especially the press is becoming aware that the God of History who led the Israelites out of Egypt is also the force active in leading the Negroes in America out of bondage, and setting us all free from the oppressing weight of hatred. This has been dramatized by the presence of the clergy in Selma and in a very dramatic fashion by the presence of nuns.

However, we need to recognize that God has been at work in this effort long before the Church has become involved, and indeed God is not dependent on the actions of a conservative, footdragging Church to accomplish his will in the world. In our time it may well be that God is more at work outside the walls of our church than within, and this is a judgement of the Church.

I saw two cartoons in the past week which spoke to this point. The first was a scene outside of the "White Segregationist Church, Selma, Alabama." The signboard proclaimed the sermon title: "The Meaning of Lent." A large white man is standing in front of his church blocking the door and saying "we don't want any outside agitators here." The figure before him trying to enter the church has on a white robe, long hair, and strange glow around his head.

The second was in today's Courier Journal. It shows the feet of marchers and one pair is bare and has the marks of nails having been driven through them.

In contradiction to the hope I see in your actions I was frankly shocked to read about the cross burning. To even use the work "prank" in regard to this action is to treat it too lightly -- although I thought the almanian's editorial position was commendable, although more conservative in "tone" than we could wish. The fact that there are students at Alma who consider it either funny or right to set aflame the symbol of the Christ who died to reconcile man to God and man to man, is tremendously disturbing. It makes manifest the real hatred which is in the heart of some men and should create in us a tremendous concern for these students whose lives have been so twisted by hatred and ignorance. I hope that we may not only be shocked and dismayed by such actions, but that they may stir us to real love and concern for people so desperately sick. These people need our love and our prayers as well as our condemnation. (And that is a hard combination.)

Along with this letter I also send my prayers that the witness that you are making may bear fruit.

Terry Davis

Dear Editor:

After last Sunday night's display (April 11) by the Alma College students, we wonder if a few electric lights constitute the dividing line between civilization and barbarianism. We keep arguing for more self-rule and an honor code. Is this an example of our maturity or does maturity vanish in the anonymity of darkness?

Dear Editor:

In recent weeks I have read, seen on T. V., heard on the radio of the trend of our Civil Law agencies toward a closed door policy designed to allow said agencies to act in any manner they deem best for the welfare of the public.

Apparently they feel this "public airing" open door policy we of the U.S.A. have had since the birth of our Nation, is distasteful. Evidently it is unfair to allow the general public to (to coin a phrase) call a crook a crook, especially the "Public" who are connected with the news media.

Our nation's Bill of Rights gives us certain freedoms which (as indicated by the closed door, barring of the press, etc.) are no longer wanted or needed. I am certain that you feel as I do that, (and I'm sure many other free Americans who do not have the time to raise their voices in objection feel the same) we must keep all our freedoms at any cost.

We must, however, not allow See LETTERS -- P. 3

Dean Vreeland Retires After Serving 13 Years

Not only will Saturday, May 29, be Commencement for 191 College seniors, it will also be graduation day for Mrs. Esther Vreeland who will retire after serving as Alma's dean of women and professor of sociology since 1952.

A graduate of Alma, Mrs. Vreeland served for six years as professor of sociology and director of family life education at Denison University (O.). While at Denison, she was president of the local chapter of the American Association of University Professors. Mrs. Vreeland also has taught at Stephens College (Mo.) and Purdue University, and was librarian of the E. B. Janeway Medical Research Library, Columbia University Presbyterian Hospital.

Mrs. Vreeland's major areas of study have been zoology, sociology and psychology. She holds the M. A. from the University of Michigan, with additional work toward the doctorate at U. of M., Columbia University and the University of London.

She has served on the Board of the Michigan College Personnel Association as well as holding membership on the Executive Committee of the Michigan Association of Women Deans and Counselors. Active in Alma civic and church affairs, she holds membership in the American Association of University Women, the Alma Women's Club and the League of Women Voters.

In 1954, Mrs. Vreeland was invited to deliver the Willson Lectures, an endowed series on human relations, at Texas Wesleyan College. She has presented papers at the National Association of Women Deans and Counselors and articles written by Mrs. Vreeland have appeared in the publication of the association.

Mrs. Vreeland is a fellow of the American Sociological Association and holds membership in the American Academy of Political and Social Science, the National Council of Family Relations.

Mrs. Vreeland is now in the process of building a new summer home overlooking Crystal Lake, near Beulah, Michigan. She plans to continue with research that will result in the publishing of a book on sociological study.

According to an announcement by Dr. John Kimball, Dean of Student Affairs, Miss V. Christine Kinkead has been appointed to the position of Assistant Dean of Students, for Women, effective in September.

For the past year, Miss Kinkead has been head resident of Gelston Hall, a residence for 200 women. She is a graduate of Adrian College and holds the M. A. in guidance and counseling from Michigan State University. She is a registered nurse and a graduate of Bronson Methodist Hospital School of Nursing in Kalamazoo.

3-3 Plan Introduces Instruction Separation In French Department

The coming of the 3-3 plan next fall will bring with it some changes in the French Department. The most important change will be the separation of those students who have had no instruction in French from those who have had two or three years of instruction in high school.

Those students who are just beginning in the language will have three units required of them. These units are French 111, 112 and 113.

Those students who have formerly had instruction in French will be given a proficiency test in the fall, the results of which will determine whether the student is placed in either French 112 or 113. At the end of French 112 another proficiency test will be given. If a certain proficiency is then established, French 113 will not be required and the student will have completed his language requirement.

If a student has had a four year sequence of French in high school, the language requirement will not be required.

A major in French will require the completion of nine units. For example, if a student starts in 111, he must complete 112 and 113 as well as six other units. If a student starts with 112, he must complete 113 and six more units.

Mr. Earl Hayward states that "extra time and effort" will be put into "strengthening the intermediate level of the course offerings so as to allow for adequate preparation for the junior year abroad."

The following upper level courses will be offered next year for one unit. Introduction to French Civilization (227); Oral French (228); Advanced Composition and Conversation (333); Introduction to French Literature (335-336); French Poetry (338); French Drama (348); French Novel (345); and Independent Study (449 or 450). Pronunciation and Diction (236) will also be offered as a fractional unit.

ourselves to be prejudiced. We must allow our leaders the time to try out their policies, allow them to prove to us that they are only interested (as police, legal counselors, jurors, etc.) in what is best for us. We must trust their judgment for certainly they are all honorable men, otherwise they would not be connected with any part of our law agencies, for we choose them by free elections.

We know "police" means preserve our rights; "civil servants" means they are our protectors by law; "juries" are our peers. But I for one recall a trusting non-prejudiced public who allowed their definitions to be changed to: "police state" meaning Hitler; "civil servants" meaning Gestapo; "juries" meaning Nazi.

In closing, may I state with utmost sincerity my hope that changes in the definition of the words or the alterations of our Rights shall never be.

Sincerely,
Pete Weatherby

Dear Editor,

To the students, faculty, administration, and friends who braved the elements to attend our spring concert last Sunday evening, our heartfelt thanks! In view of the weather, the size of the audience was most gratifying. We sincerely regret that we were not able to play for you.

The concert has been rescheduled for Wednesday, May 19, at 3:30 p.m. (Campus Day). It will be performed outdoors on the Library mall and we will do the same program we intended to play Sunday. We hope all of you will be able to attend.

Sincerely,

Linksmen Drop Hope But Fall To Britons

Alma's defending MIAA golf champions opened their 1965 conference schedule with a 12½-3½ trouncing of Hope College last Tuesday, but lost a heartbreaking 10½-5½ contest to Albion on Wednesday.

The Scot linksmen are idle until an April 30 encounter with Kalamazoo at the Pine River Country Club.

In the victory at Hope, Alma sophomore Denny Nelson won medalist honors with a 76. Jerry Knowlton followed with a 78, John O'Dell an 82, Dave Blanden an 85, and Jud Lind a 90.

In Wednesday's affair at the Alma course, Albion's Britons handed the Scots their first dual meet loss in the MIAA in nearly two years. Four of the five matches were decided by two strokes or less in the extremely close contest.

Scot sophomore Jud Lind jumped from last to first to take medalist honors with a 77 and winning his match by 2 strokes. Nelson tied his match in shooting an 80, while O'Dell lost by just one stroke in shooting an 80. Knowlton lost by 5 strokes in shooting an 83, and Blanden lost by one in shooting an 87. The final stroke total was 492-407 in favor of Albion.

Alma Faces Hope In Tennis Battle

A strong tennis crew from Hope College visits the Alma courts tomorrow afternoon in a rugged MIAA battle.

The Dutchmen, who finished second to Kalamazoo last year, have won their only conference meet of the season, 5-1, over Calvin.

The young Scot team of Coach Joseph Walsler will carry an 0-1 conference mark and 0-2 overall record into the encounter.

Alma opened its 1965 tennis campaign at Mt. Pleasant against a rugged Central Michigan team on April 12. The Scot wins in the 9-2 loss came

Hope Visits Tomorrow For Noon Twin Bill

Hope College's defending MIAA baseball champions invade Alma tomorrow afternoon for an important conference doubleheader with the Scots at Bahlke Field.

The Flying Dutchmen from Holland, Michigan, appear to have another strong team this season. Last week they opened their conference schedule with 14-0 and 2-1 victories over pre-season favorite Calvin. Hope's Don Kroodsma hurled a nifty 2 hitter in the 2-1 win.

The Scots of Coach Charles Skinner will take an 0-1-1 league mark and 1-3-1 season total into tomorrow's action. The Alma nine opened MIAA action Wednesday at Albion, losing the first 14-6, but gaining a tie in the second, 6-6.

In the opening affair at Albion the Scots enjoyed a 5-1 lead in the sixth inning when the Britons hammered three Alma pitchers for 13 runs on 8 hits and 5 walks.

Scot hitters gathered 5 hits in the contest -- a home run by Howard Schaitberger and singles by Paul Portney, Bo Minnich, Mike Knowlton, and Rich Skinner.

The nightcap was called after 8 innings because of darkness. Alma led 5-3 in the last inning of the scheduled 7 innings affair when Albion's Jones socked his second homer of the day, this one with two men on, to give the Britons a 6-5 lead.

The Scots tied the game when Schaitberger drove in Portney with a single. But Schaitberger, as were two runners in the 8th inning, was left on base with the would-be winning runs.

Alma hitters outslugged Albion 8-7 in the second contest. Jim Ralston led the way with a triple and a double. Tim Pete gathered 2 singles, Stan Tapp a double, and Knowlton, Jim Grey, and Schaitberger singles.

Last week at the Motor City the Scot nine dropped a pair to the always powerful University of Detroit Titans, 6-2 and 23-6.

In the opener the Titans scored 5 of their runs off Tim Pete in the second inning. The second game saw the Detroit scoring most of their runs on 18 walks given up by 5 Scot hurlers.

less, and for me, this is one of them," he affirms.

The play has twenty-one costumes, designed and executed in their entirety by Mrs. Virginia Katz. She and five girls working on the costume crew did the sewing.

All together, $260 was spent in material, with 125 pounds of fabric being used excluding trim and elastic, the plastic material from which the armor was made. An interesting sidelight is that Mr. Katz and the crew were making the armor in the Quonset hut the night of the tornado. Thinking it only a thunderstorm, they proceeded in candlelight when the power failed.

It would have cost the college $450 to rent costumes. By making them, the cost was a little over $300. In addition, they now belong to the college and may be used later on.

The mood of the play is autumn and the costumes of the women follow this pattern with brilliant vivid colors of autumn leaves -- deep green, light green, burnt orange, mustard or ochre, deep wine red, and deep brown.

The knights and tempters wear long tunics and capes in rich colors. The priests will have long black hooded cassocks. The knights will also have armor, helmets, greaves, and swords.

Shots In the Dark

By Jim Martz

A large support from the student body would be greatly appreciated tomorrow afternoon at the baseball diamond and tennis courts at Bahlke Field. The baseball and tennis teams from Hope College will provide some of the finest competition that can be seen in the MIAA this season, and wins by Alma teams will be a must.

No one expects the tennis team to be battling for first this year, but now is the time to see this young crew in its early stages of development into what many feel will be Alma's finest tennis team a year or two from now.

The baseball team has problems of its own. Pitching, which was supposed to be the strong point, has suddenly become a weak spot. But most of this can be attributed to the severe ankle sprain by Jim Bristol which forced him to miss the University of Detroit contests and to see only limited action at Albion and probably against Hope.

A double win on the diamond tomorrow is a necessity at this stage of the season. As it stands now the baseball, golf, and perhaps tennis teams stand the only chance of finishing in the first division for Alma sports this school year.

Wednesday was the crowning blow of this year's sports record as Albion made it a clean sweep over all Scot teams. The Britons, who shut us out in football 59-0, in cross country 15-50, clobbered us twice in basketball (once 118-88), added a 7-0 shut-out in tennis, handed us a loss and tie in baseball, a loss in track, and an upset loss in golf.

When it rains it pours, but this year the storm hasn't let up. The baseball games Wednesday were typical of "Alma luck"—all bad. The Scots had 19 baserunners in the first game—15 were left on base. In the second game Jim Ralston banged a double and triple then had to leave the game because of a leg injury. Later, first baseman Mike Knowlton successfully pulled the hidden ball trick at a crucial point in the game, but the umpire claimed not to have seen the play. Add to this the three run homer popped over "Morley's Pennant Porch" in right field and you have quite a frustrating afternoon.

Then there was Albion's first game hurler Tom Balistrere who walked 6, threw 5 wild pitches, hit a batter, gave up five hits and allowed 3 stolen bases and still got credit for the win. He'll be All Conference, though. Somebody will see to that.

when freshman Ron Sexton downed Bill Kooiman 6-4, 0-6, 8-6, and freshman Fred Purdy beat Dan Pattison 6-4, 3-6, 6-3.

The MIAA schedule for the netters began Wednesday in a 7-0 loss at Albion. Although each match was fairly close, the Scots failed to gain a win.

Playing for Alma in the five singles matches that counted towards the final score in the Albion meet were senior Brian Hamton, sophomore Jim Ladd, and freshmen Marc Sylvester, Tim Lozen, and Sexton. Lozen and Sylvester combined in the doubles play.

Also seeing action for the Scot netters in early season play have been Bill Nichols, Earl Newland, John Bickle, and Sam Pfeiffer.

Thinclads Outrun In Dual Contest

Albion's defending track champions downed Alma's Scots 112-24 in dual meet action Wednesday at the Alma High School track.

Alma's points were scored by Stu McKenzie, third in the mile; Jim Ogg, second in the 440; Fred Calkins second and Rich Wilson third in the high hurdles; Jerry Smith, third in the 880; and Steve Kovacs, second in the intermediate hurdles.

Also, Dave Huner, third in the shot; Sim Acton, third in the javelin; Huner, first in the discus; Skip Beltz, third in the broad jump; and Bob Cilwa, third in the high jump.

The Scot cindermen meet Hope College at the latter's track tomorrow.
