THE PRICE OF PARKING -- Although the snow situation is not as bad as in the above photo, taken during last year's big snowstorm, Assistant Comptroller Robert Fraker is looking ahead to snowbound days. Fraker said recently parking regulations will be observed more closely in order to allow for snow removal from parking areas.

PARKING RULES TO BE ENFORCED

More enforcement of parking regulations is in store for A.C. student drivers, according to a recent statement by Assistant Comptroller Robert Fraker. "The obvious reason for this move," Fraker said, "is to clear parking areas for snow removal."

Students are allowed to park only in the following designated areas: parking lots by Wright, Gelston, Mitchell, and Bruske. According to Fraker there is enough space in these areas for all registered student vehicles.

The fine for the first parking violation, according to the Student Hand Book, is $1. After the first offense, the fine is twice the amount of the previous penalty.

The fine for not registering an auto is $25.

Fraker also said there is no parking on city streets during the night. He added that the Reid Knox parking lot and Harvard Street (next to the Heather Room) is reserved for visitors during the day.

"There has also been a lot of improper parking in cross-walks, next to fire hydrants and in emergency areas," Fraker concluded.

COMMUNITY GOVERNMENT

The Committee and the council

John Cook

The question of student involvement in community government was raised again at Wednesday's meeting of the Community Government Preparatory Committee, as committee members discussed the 'Community Council' in alternate 'B' and the constitutional amendment procedure in plan 'A'

During the meeting committee members agreed to submit final revisions of the alternate plans, to faculty members and the student body in early January. During past weeks the Preparatory Committee has been examining suggestions made after the three proposals were submitted to the faculty and students for preliminary investigation.

Dr. Eugene Kolb and Dr. John Kimball said the 'Community Council' of alternate 'A', central decision making body consisting of nine administrators, twenty-five faculty members and twenty-three students, was too large and of poor composition. According to Kolb the Council in plan 'B' means "students have the primary responsibility to run the college." Kolb added that he "disagreed radically" with this approach.

Kolb also said that the composition of the Community Council makes it unacceptable to the Faculty. Dr. Vern Bechill replied that he was not prepared to speak for the faculty. "I don't believe you are either," Bechill continued, "pragmatism should not be the only consideration in forming a plan."

Dr. Tracy Luke said the Community Council of alternate 'B' was large, but added it was the only one of the proposals which resembled a senate-like plan. Student representative Jim Magee said that, although students do have some influence in alternate 'B', it is not as extensive as it appears.

Another topic which came under discussion was the procedure to amend the constitution in proposal 'A'. At a meeting held two weeks ago, the committee revised the amendment section of plan 'A' giving the Faculty Organization final power to ratify amendments when the Administrative Council fails to resolve a dispute between the faculty and the Student Council.

Magee and fellow student committee member Greg Sutherland proposed an alternate amendment Wednesday which would divide the final ratification power between the Faculty and the Student Council. Dr. Kolb objected to the amendment on the ground: that it was unworkable. The committee agreed to discuss the matter further before making any revisions.

OLD CHURCH GALLERY EXHIBITS METAL PRINTS

The Old Church Gallery of the Alma College Art Department is currently exhibiting a collection of 36 metal plate prints, woodcuts and lithographs representing several countries and spanning four centuries. These prints are from the permanent collection of the Kresge Art Center of Michigan State University.

This exhibit of prints is made possible with the support of the Michigan State Council for the Arts. Proposed by Governor Romney, and established by the 1966 Michigan legislature, the council provides a wide variety of programs and services in the performing, visual and literary arts, available to community groups and organizations throughout the state.

This exhibit will be on display through Friday, December 1. The Old Church Gallery is located at the corner of West Center and Cedar Streets and is open to the public Monday through Friday afternoons from 1 to 5. There is no charge for admission.

Alma College's A Capella Choir will present its annual Christmas Concert on December 3rd at 3 p.m. and 8 p.m. Reserved tickets, free of charge, are available at the Information Desk in Reid Knox.

Both concerts will open with a traditional candlelight procession as the choir sings "Today Is Born Immanuel" by Praetorius and the sixteenth century melody "On This Day Earth Shall Ring."

The program will include familiar numbers such as "Good Christian Men" and "Jingle Bells," the novelty Spanish carol "Gatumba" with instruments, choral works by Palestrina, Handel, and Hassler, and contemporary Christmas songs by Benjamin Britten, Ulysses Kay, Martin Shaw and Lekberg.

Mary Beth Peil, affiliate artist, will be the guest soloist in the finale of Britten's "A Boy Was Born." She will also be heard in an aria from Handel's

"Messiah" and the familiar Appalachian carol "I Wonder as I Wander."

The Alma Singers, a select group of 20 vocalists, will be featured in a group of numbers including two Spanish Christmas carols and a Hungarian zither carol.

After the finale, the choir will be touring southeastern Michigan. During these three days they will present concerts in Lansing, Livonia, Pontiac and Birmingham.

A Capella concert scheduled for Sunday

What makes it absurd?

By Dr. Phillip Griffiths

(Editor's note: The following article by Dr. Phillip Griffiths of the Department of Speech and Theater describes the kind of plays which are being presented in tonight's sellout performance of the Queen's Court Players.)

Perhaps the quickest way to characterize the Theater of the absurd is to ask what it is in these plays which is considered to be absurd. What has traditionally been believed to be absurd or ridiculous was behavior exhibiting unnatural affectations. Such behavior has always been a fit subject for a comedy. Absurd behavior by dictionary definition is "contrary to reason" or "inconsistent with opinions generally held."

It is laughable because it deviates from our sense of what is correct or fashionable. A man acts absurdly who is out of harmony with his social framework.

Increasingly, however, and I think particularly since World War II, the sense of a social framework is disintegrating. Fundamental beliefs which were previously thought to be shared, and hence which held us together in a common community, are in fact no longer shared.

Beliefs in such concepts as a loving and vigilant God, a respect for human life, the fundamental goodness of man which previously had been assumed to be axioms of civilization are now seriously questioned by the cruel events of war, mass living, and racial conflicts. Thus, the social framework itself is seen to be out of harmony. The world no longer makes sense. It is absurd, and the absurdity hurts rather than titillates. The absurdities of a man's hypocrisy and vanity are laughable; the absurdities of his most cherished beliefs in himself and in his society are not necessarily so.

Making fun of the absurdity of a man's behavior is making fun of something superficial and separate from the essential person; it is only a temporary social affectation. This category is the traditional target for comedy. Making fun of the absurdity of a man's beliefs questions the very essential links man has made to the surrounding institutions which create his sense of reality. The Theater of the Absurd tends to function in this latter category and thus causes us to see these institutions of school, church, state, corporation as arbitrary and tentative and not as a final reality.

HERSHEY WANTS AN EXEC ORDER

Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey is recommending that President Johnson issue an executive order making it standard procedure for disruptive antiwar protestors to lose their draft deferments.

Although the proposed executive order has not been made public, its intent reportedly is to "tighten up" sections of the draft law which outline when a Selective Service registrant should be declared a "delinquent." Delinquents are reclassified and placed first in the order of call.

The proposal follows a letter which Hershey sent to local draft boards in late October recommending that those who block entrances to army induction centers or obstruct military recruitment on campuses be drafted first. If the executive order is signed by the President, this plan, which now is only a suggestion by Hershey to local boards, will be clearly spelled out as standard procedure.

The Justice Department could quickly end consideration of the proposal by declaring it unconstitutional. Since Hershey's letter to draft boards has been made public, there have been numerous charges that reclassifying protestors is a violation of the First Amendment to the Constitution.

A Selective Service spokesman said, "This office has received no formal notice from the Attorney General that this document (the letter) is unconstitutional. Unless we receive such a notice from the Justice Department, we will have no further comment."

Hershey said his letter to local boards contains no new policies, but is rather a recommendation that the present draft law be strictly enforced. The relevant section of the Selective Service Act says those who "knowingly hinder or interfere or attempt to do so in any way by force or violence or otherwise" with the Selective Service system should be declared delinquent and face penalties or reclassification. The proposed executive order presumably would explain this section of the law in more specific terms and order local draft boards to declare registrants delinquent accordingly.

Hershey emphasizes that the existing draft law says deferments should be given only to individuals who are acting in the national interest.

Since Hershey's letter to draft boards was sent out, at least two students have said they were reclassified 1-A as a result of their involvement in protests against the war and the draft.

Club sees business in action

BY CURT CHADWICK

On Friday, November 17, the Business Club traveled to Detroit and toured the Ford Motor Company and the brokerage firm of Paine, Webber, Jackson, & Curtis.

Departing around 8:00 in the morning, the group of thirty club members and interested students, accompanied by advisors, Mr. Beauchamp and Mr. Gazmararian, arrived at the Ford Motor Company shortly after 10:30.

The group was divided into three sections which were given a tour of the management offices, computer operations, and data processing equipment. One of the sections was guided by Jim Johnson, an employee of Ford and a recent graduate of Alma College.

Lunch was obtained in the Ford cafeteria after which the group was disbanded and scheduled to reconvene in downtown Detroit at 3:00, the meeting place being the brokerage firm of Paine, Webber, Jackson & Curtis, one of the leading brokerage firms in the nation.

A lecture was given by an official of the firm, which was followed by a tour of the facilities.

The group felt that the initial project of the Business Club was most beneficial and informative to all those concerned. A trip to the Midwest Stock Exchange in Chicago is being planned for this spring.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

WHO'S KING?

To the Editor:

Before vacation you told us a king was coming to the Union if we voted for our favorite candidate, but you still haven't told us who is king of the Union. Is it Mr. Beauchamp or Mr. Kirby? How can Tyler get along without a leader? I mean, it's pretty hard to keep running back and forth between tables--un, courts.. After all, it's pretty late in the season. Don't you think we should have a king?

A Would-be Subject

Editor's Answer:

Since no one voted, we cannot announce a king. However, ballots can still be mailed in to the Pub. By the way, did you vote?

A forum on the Michigan Open Housing Bill...

there's none better...

reject it...

By George Cottay

By Craig Quimbach

The freedom to seek a place or residence without discrimination based on race, color, religion or national origin... The freedom to discriminate when selling or leasing property... On the surface it seems that these freedoms are mutually exclusive, but this is not at all true. Both are vital parts of House Bill No. 2032, the Fair Housing Bill of 1967.

The bill seeks to obtain long denied freedom for those who, because they are different in some identifiable way, have been victims of blind discrimination. At the same time the very same Bill seeks to protect property owners' freedom to exercise judgment in selecting those to whom they will sell or rent.

The Fair Housing Bill gives the blind person the same right to sell or rent as the sighted person. It does not require a blind person to sell or rent to a sighted person, but it does require a sighted person to sell or rent to a blind person. This is my answer.

refusal would, of necessity, be based on the judgement the seller makes on a man, not a minority group.

Some of those opposed to H.B. 2032 do not believe that we should legislate against discrimination in housing. Others who are opposed do not recognize the right of the property owner to decide whom he will sell or rent to. Some consider the bill too stiff; others too lenient. What can we say to those people? We say that H.B. 2032 walks the thin line between the rights of all human beings to be judged as men and the right of property owners to determine who shall and shall not buy or otherwise occupy their properties.

I believe that every American whether his skin is black, white, yellow, or red has the right to enjoy the fruits of affluent America. But so far, America has failed to deliver for many Americans, particularly the Negroes, the basic necessities of a well-fed society. America has the ability to make this delivery.

Surely the most prosperous nation in the world, concerning itself with poverty and deprivation the world around, can apply this same concern towards eradicating the wide-spread ills at home.

Today 1.7 million Negro families, representing twenty-nine per cent of the total Negro population live in sub-standard housing. Twenty-eight per cent of the homes are over crowded. Statistics show that in the cities, fifteen per cent of the dwellings have no hot water.

Another fifteen per cent of America's Negroes have to share bathroom facilities and in twenty-one per cent of the accommodations no bath tubs or showers are available. Surely when such conditions exist the government must act to alleviate the conditions.

There are various arguments against open housing laws that can be cited. Open housing is looked upon as a further encroachment of the government upon the private lives of its citizens. Perhaps even more important it infringes upon the almost sacred right to own property. It can also be pointed out that such legislation is unenforceable. The government cannot legislate away prejudice and bigotry.

The time is upon us to set aside these arguments, valid as they are, and to take up the task of promoting the general welfare of the American people in hopes that all men will be at liberty in their pursuit of happiness.

Here are several reasons why this house bill #2035 should not be passed in its present form:

First, all unfair practices do not govern contractors of suburban development, per se. It will take a lengthy proceeding to determine the actual status of these persons.

Secondly, the bill excludes 'grandma's boarding house,' in other words, a person owning a boarding house and living on the premises is still allowed to determine through discrimination who will live in the house. When a person operates such a house for the purpose of offering a service in exchange for payment, that person must be governed by the same rules of fair practice as is the real estate broker.

Thirdly, the civil rights commission has been charged with task of enforcing the law. The filing of a complaint is a long and involved process; but when the result of the process ends in an order to 'cease and desist' the unfair housing practice and imposing a fine of a mere $500, it hardly seems worth while. Nonetheless, the government has to take the first step in open housing reform.

Fair housing legislation should be the means of changing the values of the white majority in order for a genuine assimilation of the Negro population. House Bill #2035 is only a piecemeal attempt at achieving this goal. I therefore urge you to reject this bill and to work for a more fair and equitable open housing bill.

the bill explained...

By Dr. John J. Agria

SYNOPSIS: HOUSE BILL NO. 2035

The Synod Church of the United Brethren in Christ has endorsed the Open Housing Bill (H.B. 2035).

Since 1953 the General Assembly of the United Brethren Church in the USA has made a special study of the open housing problem.

- 1) In a letter to church members, committee chairman, Dr. J. J. Agria, urged the following action:
 - 1) let your legislators know from your personal office
 - 2) let your Session endorse the bill;
 - 3) write the governor and urge him to actively intervene in behalf of the bill
 - 4) let your legislators know where you and the church stand in regard to this bill;
 - 5) and see that local and county units of Democratic and Republican parties take a stand.

A LIST OF ALL MICHIGAN CONGRESSMEN WILL APPEAR IN MONDAY'S ALMANAC

House Bill No. 2035, the Fair Housing Bill, prohibits unfair housing practices in real estate transactions. According to the Bill, introduced in the Michigan House of Representatives on November 15, 1967, it is an unfair housing practice to refuse to negotiate or to accept the 'sale, exchange, rental or lease' of real estate on the basis of race, color, religion or national origin.

Other unfair housing practices include refusing to receive or submit an offer on real estate, representing a property as not available for inspection, sale, rental or lease when in fact it is, on the basis of race, color, religion or national origin. Discrimination through advertising or form of application for real estate and accepting a listing for real estate with the understanding that a person may be discriminated against are also defined as unfair housing practices.

None of the above applies to the rental of accommodations in two or more units in a building where the person resides in that home, or to the rental of rooms in the owner's home, or to the sale or rental of accommodations not publicly advertised. Religious institutions may discriminate on religious grounds, if accommodations are to be used for religious purposes.

The Bill also declares that it is an unfair housing practice for persons or institutions who make loans for purchasing or improving real estate to discriminate against applicants. And, realtors or like persons commit an unfair housing practice if they try to induce a real estate transaction by indicating that a change in the composition of a neighborhood will lower property values or the quality of the neighborhood.

The Bill provides for enforcement by the state Civil Rights Commission established by the 1963 Constitution. A person who believes that he is the victim of an unfair housing practice may file a complaint with the Commission. The Commission investigates. If it has sufficient reasons to believe that an unfair housing practice has been committed, the Commission may try to settle the matter by negotiation or, after a hearing, issue an order requiring the cessation of the unfair housing practice. Persons in the real estate or loan business may be fined if they practice discrimination in transactions.

Under the Bill political subdivisions may pass local fair housing ordinances and establish local commissions for enforcement of the state law.

It is anticipated that the Bill will be amended both in the House Committee on Civil Rights where it is under consideration and on the floor of the House when it comes up for debate.

Stoltz is 'Coach of Year'

Dennis Stoltz, coach of A.C.'s undefeated MIAA champion football team, has been named Michigan Coach of the Year by coaches of the Michigan District (No. 23) of the National Association of

Stoltz

Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA). One of Michigan's youngest college coaches at 33, Stoltz brought the Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association (MIAA) title to Alma in his third season as coach of the Scot gridgers.

A former Haslett and Lansing Eastern High School coach, he came to Alma in August, 1965, just a few weeks before that fall's gridiron action was to begin.

Last year his team compiled the first winning record at Alma since 1960. This fall his Scots swept past eight opponents without defeat for the first MIAA championship at Alma since 1953 and the first undefeated season since 1948.

His nine-game winning streak began with a 17-7 triumph over Wayne State University in the final game of the 1966 season.

This fall the Scots swept past non-conference foes Michigan Tech 33-7, Bluffton 25-13, and Defiance 34-3 before edging Hope College 20-18 in their MIAA opener. Stoltz's team then shut out the remaining four opponents--Albion 14-0, Adrian 27-0, Olivet 34-0, and Kalamazoo 30-0.

A 1955 graduate of A.C., Stoltz earned four letters in football and was an all-MIAA quarterback in 1954. He also coaches track at Alma, coordinates recruiting efforts, and teaches physical education.

Nine members of his 1967 team were named to the all-MIAA offensive and defensive squads. Thirty-six of the players on his 47-man roster are freshmen and sophomores.

HETRICK MVP

Alma's Gordon Hetrick and Olivet's Bob Harple were chosen to share the honor of Most Valuable Player in the MIAA.

Hetrick, who twice was named Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association back of the week, was a versatile performer for the Scot's undefeated and untied gridiron powerhouse. The 165 lb. senior athlete from Fowlerville played defensive halfback, did all of Alma's punting frequently directed the Scots' attack from the 1 position, and occasionally ran from the offensive wingback.

Harple's heroics from his halfback position included 438 yards rushing in 82 carries for a 5.4 average. The 178 lb. senior was selected to the all-MIAA elite for the second straight year. The hard-running Comet back was runner-up for the MIAA MVP award last season.

Ciceri

Frayer

Ciceri and Frayer co-captains of 1968 Scot team

Tackle Jim Ciceri and defensive halfback Roger Frayer have been named co-captains of the 1968 Alma Scot football team that will be gunning for its 10th straight victory when the season opens next Sept. 14 at Bluffton, Ohio.

Alma, 8-0 in 1967, launched its current win skein with a 17-7 verdict over Wayne State University in the final game of the '66 season.

Ciceri, an all-MIAA lineman, is a junior from Westfield, N.J. A three year regular at the anchor spot on the left side of the Alma line, Ciceri weighs 210. He is a 1965 graduate of Carson Long Institute.

Frayer, a former Livonia Franklin star, also has been a regular with the Scots for three seasons. A 175 pounder, he's top hitter in Alma's defensive backfield.

HETRICK, JAKOVAC AND FUZAK ARE ALL NAIA

Alma's Gordon Hetrick, Tom Jakovac, and John Fuzak were named to the 1967 National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) all-state football elite.

Hetrick, a 165 lb. senior defensive halfback from Fowlerville was selected to the squad for the second time.

Sophomore quarterback Jakovac, a 170 lb. single-caller from Lansing, directed the Scots to their perfect '67 season. Jakovac is a two-year All-MIAA performer.

Fuzak, a 190 lb. offensive end from East Lansing, was the leading pass receiver in the MIAA.
