McKissick speaks here Sunday

Floyd B. McKissick, National Director of CORE, will speak at a convocation scheduled for Sunday at 11 a.m. in the Chapel.

McKissick, born in Asheville, North Carolina, was the first negro to attend the University of North Carolina Law School. He was admitted to the North Carolina bar in 1952 and the United States Supreme Court in 1955.

All four of McKissick's children were 'firsts' in desegregating the Durham, North Carolina city schools. He handled a record number of civil rights cases, and his clients included businessmen, labor unions, Muslims and whites. During this time, he was directing the affairs of the Durham CORE and State Advisor of the NAACP Youth Groups.

In March, 1966, McKissick was appointed National Director of CORE by its Board of Directors, succeeding James Farmer. Taking over the helm of the organization which was in serious financial trouble, McKissick was faced with the responsibility of reorganization from a business as well as philosophical point of view.

When James Meredith was shot down while walking across his home state of Mississippi, in June, 1966, McKissick made a call to continue the march "from the spot where James Meredith fell." Most national civil rights leaders joined the march.

CORE has a six-point program with guidelines to Black Power and Self-Determination; economic power, political power, improved self-image, the development of Black Leadership, the enforcement of federal laws, and mobilization of Black Consumer Power.

Lay plans for '67 homecoming

Tyler Board held its first meeting last night with discussion primarily concerned with Homecoming 1967.

A report was given by co-chairmen Bill Moss and Rob Gould, who were appointed last spring by the Board.

The theme for Homecoming will be The Old South. Chairmen reported that they have contacted the band, Don Metcalf's five piece orchestra who have played at past Homecomings.

Other persons involved with Homecoming include: Bob Nicol, in charge of the committee judging the floats, Karole Olson and Sue Rogers, in charge of the dance, Sandy Wilson will organize the parade before the game, and Mark Foster is supervising the Freshman Float.

In charge of the Queen and her court will be Sue Buckmaster, and Marli Mauch is in charge of the pep rally Friday night before the game. At the meeting, Sue Rappley was appointed chairman of the half-time ceremonies, with publicity being handled by Sue Alexander, and lawn decorations by Clair Weigman.

The Board elected officers for the year; Mary Priestly will be recording secretary, and the calendar chairman will be Nancy Cofer.

Bill Moss reported that due to the strike of the Ford Motor Co., we will not be able to use the warehouses owned by that company for the floats. However, through the efforts of Guile Graham, organizations will be able to use three buildings at the State Fair Grounds. If float chairmen are in need of a space, contact Bill Moss.

FRESHMEN ELECT OFFICERS TODAY

Freshmen vote today on class officers for the year.

Election time is 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. at the Student Council Office in Tyler.

Candidates introduced themselves at a voluntary frosh convocation Tuesday evening. Presidential and Student Council Representative contenders gave three-minute speeches.

Running for president are: Clark Lincoln, Reed City; Bill Klintworth, Greenville; Jim Karry, Bay City; and Craig Quimbach, Grand Haven.

Student Council Representative candidates are: Colleen Winner, Priscilla Jenkins, and David Lukins.

Vice-presidential hopefuls are: Sue Cook, Hellen Bendall, Richard Thurston, and David Thomen.

Candidates for Secretary-Treasurer are: Sue Sweet and Candy Ayers.

And how does the Freshman Class look?

"The number of petitions this year indicates that the Freshman Class may be one of the most involved classes in many years," commented Sandy Wilson, Student Council Election Board Chairman in charge of today's elections.

Said Mark Foster, "Orientation has had a positive effect on the incoming freshmen." Mark is sophomore Class President and advisor for the frosh homecoming float. Both hope that the spirit of the Freshman Class can be marshalled toward the building of the float.

SCOTS MEET HOPE HERE FOR ANNUAL PARENT'S DAY

With possession of three straight victories over non-league foes, Alma opens its MIAA season Saturday against a Hope College eleven at Bahlke Field. Alma scored a 1337 Homecoming win over the Flying Dutchmen last year.

Outscoring their 1997 opponents 92-23, Coach Dennis Stolz's Scots are enroute to one of their finest campaigns in years. With All-MIAA selection, Tom Jakovac at the helm, the Scots have rolled up a total offense of 1025 yards while the strong defense crew has limited the opposition to 654.

Powerful tailback Chris Clark has pounded out 238 yards in 39 carries for an impressive 6.1 rushing average. Clark has also tallied three touchdowns to pace Alma's scoring.

In the pass receiving department, Captain Dennis Bongard has four catches for 118 yards and two touchdowns from his wing back position, while tight end John Fuzak has grabbed eight tosses for 114 yards and two TD's.

Sophomore quarterback, Jakovac, has thrown for 267 yards and four touchdowns. Place kicker Jeff Blough has booted two field goals and six conversions for 12 points.

Game time for the Parents' Day is 2:00.

OUTLINE NEW MAGAZINE PLAN

The staff of the "Scotsman" is currently solidifying plans for the change from a yearbook to a once-a-term magazine. The decision to change was announced by the Publications Board last spring.

The proposed "Scotsman" magazine would be an extension of the old "Scotsman" to include written features, original student writing and research, and student-faculty-administration identification section. The series of three magazines would have a silk-screened self-binder.

Mason Cobb, editor-in-chief of the "Scotsman" commented that the opposition to the magazine is based upon the premise that yearbooks capture students as they are remembered, and that the pictorial feature approach best conveys the spirit of the school. There is also some concern that the magazine would become too "artsy" and not capture the important happenings at the school. The yearbook format is also a tradition as far back as people remember.

Cobb said he believes the spirit of the school also includes the products of the students, and that the best of student work, in art, science, and the humanities, deserves recognition.

The written word, through in-depth features, can reveal the school better than the old picture feature approach, as it is more versatile. Pictorial features will form the bulk of the magazine, but they can be used best in their illustrative and artistic capacity. Cobb said, on a model of "Life" magazine, for example, "This is the tradition of the "Scotsman" in the tradition of the "Scotsman" as we have always known it, an attempt to reveal Alma College in its entirety."

CENTER SHOW OPENS SUNDAY

This Sunday the Alma Arts and Crafts Center will open a new show: The Birds and the Beasts. In conjunction with the Ford Motor Company, the Art Center is presenting the work of Charles Culver and Charles Harper, both of whom are long time contributors to Ford Times magazine readers.

A.C. Students can take part in this teaching learning experience during the following hours: Sunday afternoon, 2-5 p.m.; Monday through Friday, 9 a.m.-5 p.m.; Tuesday and Thursday evening, 7 p.m.-9 p.m. The Center is located at 608 N. State Street.

INTERNATIONAL FILM SERIES

The International Film Series presents JULES AND JIM this coming Sunday, 8 October in Dow Auditorium at 8:00 o'clock.

JULES AND JIM, a 1961 French work, relates the story of a friendship between Jules (a German) and Jim (a Frenchman) and of their twenty-year love for the same woman. Using these relationships, the film illuminates especially a modern woman, Kathe, who is amoral and classically beautiful. She loves both her fraternal friends, both of whom she must have even if she must die to do so. For her, no commitment is forever and only death is final.

This film is one of three Francois Truffaut works included in this year's series. Coming later are his THE 400 BLOWS and SHOOT THE PIANO PLAYER. JULES AND JIM established Truffaut as leader of French New Wave directors. With this one he won the Best Director at the 1962 Mar Del Plata Festival. Richard Roud, writing in SIGHT AND SOUND, claims: "No one, I think, will have anymore doubts about Truffaut's stature; he is right up there with the great directors of our time."

The critic for the NEW YORKER assesses the film this way: "I'm so taken with the beauty and novelty and wit and loving high spirits of Francois Truffaut's JULES AND JIM that I scarcely know where to begin in singing its praises... I look forward to seeing this picture at least once or twice a year for years to come." And the New York POST notes: "This picture is almost in its entirety, devoted to breaking new emotional ground... Truffaut's unique talent. He is truly a creator of the world he sees and desires. This one is a beautiful thing!"

Critic Pauline Kael, in her I LOST IT AT THE MOVIES, puts the film in a context when she writes: "JULES AND JIM is, among other things, the best movie ever made about what I guess most of us think of as the F. Scott Fitzgerald period. This treatment of the period is a work of lyric poetry and a fable of the world as a playground, a work of art as complex and suggestive in its way as the paintings and poetry and novels and music of the period that it is based on."

Series tickets are still available and remain a real buy even though the series has already started. A ticket good for the nine films still to appear is just $4.00.

Individual film admissions will be available at the door Sunday evening at 75¢ each.
