Student Budget Vote Again Tuesday

The revised Student Activities Budget, which was voted on May 22, was defeated due to the rejection of the Radio and Television Budget by a majority of the students voting. The other budgets, ALMANIAN, African Fellowship, SCOTSMAN, Student Council, Student Directory and Union Board were all passed in that election.

According to the Student Council Constitution, all items in the budget must pass in order for the entire budget to be approved. Also, the budget must be passed by the student body before the end of the academic year. If a new budget is not passed the budget of the previous year goes into effect.

The Student Activities Budget will be re-submitted for approval on Tuesday, May 29. It should be noted that the identical budget will be submitted again. The following explanation of the status of the Radio and Television is included here to allow the student body to become aware of where the radio station is, where it is going and why the Radio and Television Committee needs the appropriated budget in order to function properly.

When voting on Tuesday, Council strongly urges that students consider the following items in reference to the Radio and Television Budget.

1. With sufficient student input, participation and monies, it is feasible to have a functioning radio station on campus next year.
2. This year's senior class will receive a refund through the Business Office for the amount paid for the Radio and Television Budget due to the fact that there is, at present, no functioning station.
3. If there is no radio station on the air by the end of next year, seniors will also receive a similar refund.
4. Finally, the radio station needs student monies in order to be established and to function. If the radio station fails to be established, all students will receive a refund for the amount they contributed to the Radio and Television Budget.

AS I SMELL IT

by Theodis Karshner

For the second time, last Tuesday, Alma students voted on the 1973-74 activities budgets. And for the second time, last Tuesday, an illegal election was held. Now Alma students will most likely be faced with a third-time-around budget vote.

Student Council President and Vice President, John Richards and Steve Oesterle, are to blame for these fiascos. For the first election Oesterle drew up the proposed budgets himself and presented them without the approval of the Student Budget and Finance Committee (which he heads) or the Student Council. The first vote, which was considered an opinion poll, was also ruled illegal because seniors were allowed to participate. Only 371 students voted and it wasn't disclosed by Student Council until nearly a month later that the ALMANIAN and radio and television were defeated.

That was over two months ago. Richards and Oesterle have had ample time "to get it together."

In last Tuesday's election the ALMANIAN was approved 251-178. Radio and Television was defeated 179-250. However, the vote didn't count because once again seniors were allowed to vote.

Judi Sachs, next year's Student Council President, was in charge of the election. Neither Richards nor Oesterle informed Sachs that seniors could not vote.

Another interesting tidbit which complicates matters even more is the Student Council constitution. The constitution ambiguously states: "...if a budget does not pass it must be resubmitted to the students until it is approved." This clause fails to specify whether the whole budget or just the rejected budget must be resubmitted.

It's high time this clause is amended. Resubmitting the entire budget time and time again is ridiculous. Not only does this risk a smaller turnout, but a previously passed item, such as the ALMANIAN, might be defeated the next time around. The Student Council should also specify how many times a budget is to be voted on before throwing it out.

DR. POTTER

Potter to Speak at Honors Convocation

"If you lose track of how far you have come from where you were, you are lost" will be the title of the Alma College Honors Convocation address to be presented by Dr. Howard A. Potter, professor emeritus at the college on Wednesday, May 30.

Dr. Potter, retiring this spring after 27 years as a member of the Chemistry Department faculty at Alma, is also an alumnus of the college.

Another highlight of the Honors Convocation, to be held at 10:30 a.m. in Cappaert Gymnasium of the college Physical Education Center, will be presentation of the coveted Barlow Trophy to Alma's most outstanding senior. Nominees for the award are Mrs. David (Nancy Stodola) Lemmen of Alma, formerly of Big Rapids; Rick C. Scatterday of Plainwell; and Charles F. Schofield of Muskegon. The Barlow Trophy is traditionally regarded as the highest award that Alma bestows upon graduating seniors, and nomination for the trophy in itself is considered an honor. Winner of the cup is determined by vote of the college faculty and Student Council.

A native of Ithaca, Dr. Potter graduated from Ithaca High School. After graduation from Alma College in 1932, he studied at Harvard University, earning M.A. and Ph.D. degrees. He was a research assistant and instructor in chemistry at Harvard from 1936 to 1939, and then he worked as a honey inspector for the Bureau of Foods and Standards of the Michigan Department of Agriculture for one year.

From 1941 to '45 he was an instructor in chemistry at Swarthmore (Pa.) College. He joined the Alma faculty in 1946 and has served as head of the college's Chemistry Department and chairman of its Science Division.

He is a life member and past president of the Michigan Beekeepers Association; past president of Society of Sigma Xi, Central Michigan University-Alma College Club; and past president of the Michigan College Chemistry Teachers Association.

DR. BOYD

Baccalaureate Speaker to be N. Carolina Prof

The Rev. Dr. Bernard Boyd, a professor at the University of North Carolina and archaeological director of the Institute for Mediterranean Studies, will be the speaker at Alma College's 86th year Baccalaureate Service at 11 a.m. Sunday, June 3.

Dr. Boyd, the James A. Gray Professor of Biblical Literature at the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill, has participated in archaeological expeditions in Israel each summer since 1963. He organized an expedition to Tell ed-Duweir in 1966, and the following year he was co-director of the University of North Carolina-Hebrew University Archaeological Expedition to Tell Arad. He was director of the Lynn Prickett Archaeological Expedition to Tell ed-Duweir in 1966. In 1971 and '72 he was educational director for an expedition to Beer-Sheba. From 1968 to 1971 he also served as lecturer for the Archaeological Institute of America.

The brother of Central Michigan University President William Boyd, he is a native of Mount Pleasant, S.C. A graduate of Presbyterian College, Dr. Boyd holds a Th.B. degree from Princeton Theological Seminary, M.A. from Princeton University, and Th.D. from Union Theological Seminary. He has been a member of the University of North Carolina faculty since 1950 and has been the archaeological director for the Institute for Mediterranean Studies since 1968. He was the institute's educational director from 1965 to '67.

Dr. Boyd was a professor of Bible at Presbyterian College from 1936 to 1946 and at Davidson College from 1947 to '50. During World War II service with the Marines in the Pacific he was awarded the Purple Heart.

He has twice been the recipient of the Tanner Award for Distinction in College Teaching and also was winner of Nicolas Salgo Award for Distinction in College Teaching.

Attention

NOTICE TO SENIORS: If you have finalized your plans for the coming year and have not notified the Placement Office as to these plans, will you kindly call Mrs. Betty Wood, ext. 240 or drop her a note notifying her what you will be doing and where you will be located.

MRS. LARRY BRYANT

Recipient of Mitchell Fellowship

Mrs. Larry (Christine Olson) Bryant has been selected as the first recipient of Alma College's Mitchell Fellowship for postbaccalaureate work at Columbia University where she will begin a program of study in film directing at the Graduate School of the Arts this fall.

The fellowship which honors the late James E. Mitchell, a professor and dean at Alma for 46 years, was established by Norman H. Angell of Baltimore, Md., a 1910 graduate of the college.

Mrs. Bryant, an Alma art major who lives at 206 S. Midland in Merrill, has been active as a photographer for several years. During the summers of 1968 and 1969 she was the photographer of the Escanaba Daily Press. At Alma College she served as a photographer and as photography editor for the student newspaper, ALMANIAN, and also as the photography editor for the college yearbook, Scotsman.

A year ago an 8 mm. comedy motion picture by Mrs. Bryant achieved an honorable mention listing in the Kalamazoo Institute of the Arts National Film Festival. The black and white film with sound concerned the experiences of her husband and daughter, Gina, while mother is away. Mrs. Bryant has also produced an experimental animated film and is presently making a documentary film on Alma College.

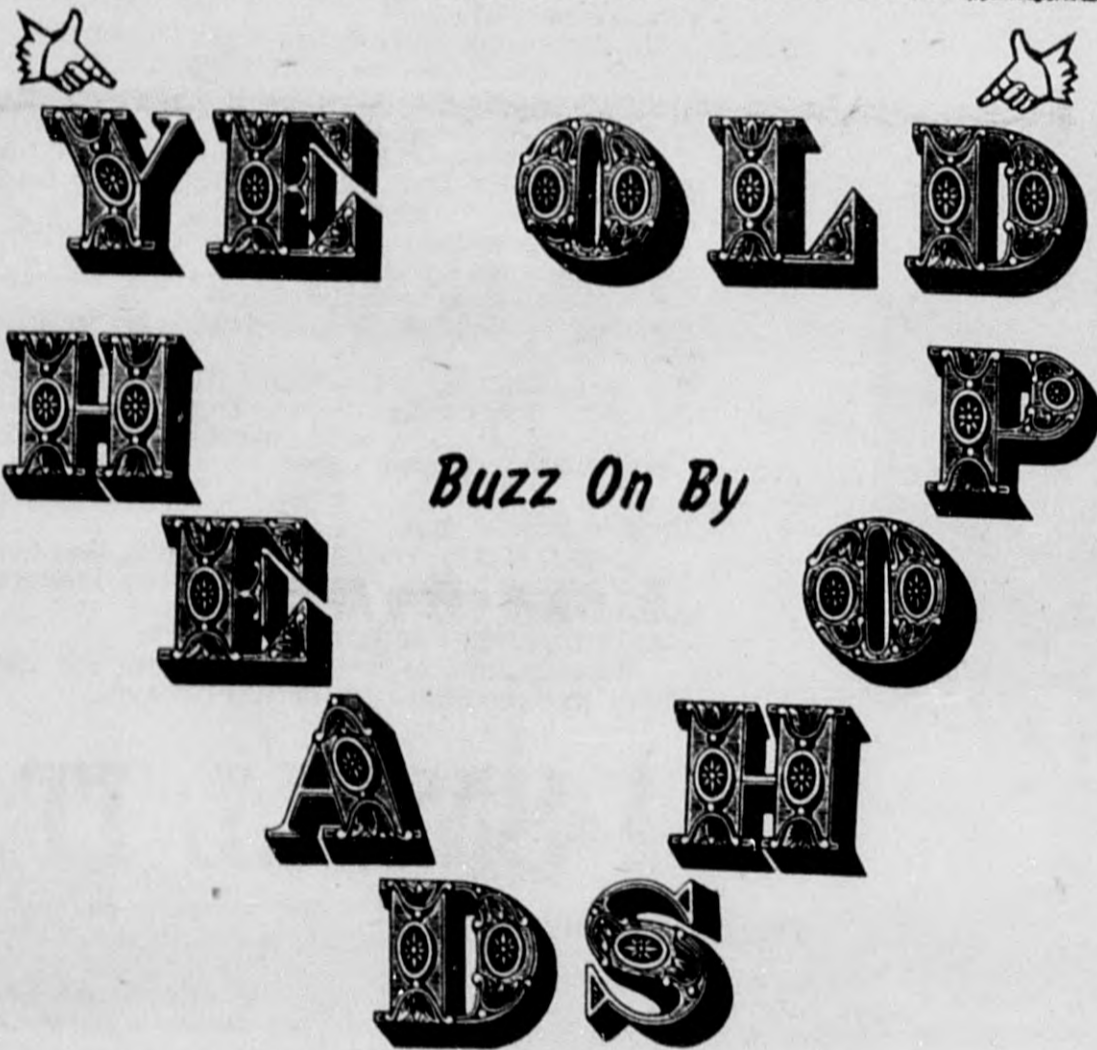

Still photographs by Mrs. Bryant have been selected by the Alma College Art Department for inclusion in its permanent art collection.

While a student at Alma, Mrs. Bryant has also been a motion picture projectionist for the college's Union Board and its Audio-visual Department. During her junior year she was co-chairman of the college Psychology Club. She is a member of the campus chapter of Michigan Scholars and of Phi Sigma Pi, scholastic honor society.

She has been named to the Term Honors List, which recognizes superior academic achievement, during each term that she has been at Alma. A 1969 graduate of Escanaba Area High School, Mrs. Bryant is the daughter of Mrs. Gerald Olson of 410 S. 12th St., Escanaba, and the late Mr. Olson. Her husband, a 1970 graduate of Alma College, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Bryant of 25311 Parkwood Dr., Huntington Woods.

Applicants for the Mitchell Fellowship must be Alma College seniors who plan to enter one of the graduate schools of Columbia University. In addition to having demonstrated outstanding academic performance at Alma College, they must exemplify the following high ideals of Professor Mitchell: Personal integrity, commitment to the application of intellectual abilities to high scholastic achievement, and commitment to the service of humanity.

Dr. Mitchell graduated from Alma College in 1893 and returned in 1897 as a member of the faculty. He died in 1960 at the age of 94. In recognition of his devotion to the college and its students, Mitchell Hall on the Alma campus is named for him.

K-Zoo Wins All-Sports Trophy

Kalamazoo College claimed its second consecutive MIAA All-Sports Trophy this week, as it ended the spring season with a first place in tennis and fifths in track and baseball.

The Hornets, who finished the year's competition with 72 points, outdistanced second place Albion by three points, followed by Alma, 61; Calvin, 59; Hope, 54; Olivet, 53; and Adrian, 31.

The 1972-73 MIAA All-Sports Trophy win marks the tenth time 'K' has held the award since it was instituted in 1935, and caps over a decade of repeated contention for the title.

Kalamazoo's points were garnered through a fall season cross country championship, a second in golf, fourth in soccer and fifth in football. During the winter, the Hornets picked up a first in swimming, a tie for second in wrestling and a tie for third in basketball.

Paddleball Champs

The mixed doubles team of Deb Butcher and Jim Woolcock are the champions of the mixed doubles paddleball tournament. Congratulations!

Jones- Coddington Capture WTA Doubles

Last weekend, four members of the Women's Varsity Tennis team, Carol Jones, Lynn Coddington, Deb Mapes and Ellen Miller, travelled to Kalamazoo to compete in the Women's Collegiate of the Western Tennis Association tournament. Among the participants entering the tournament were players from Kalamazoo, Western Michigan, Michigan State, Wheaton, University of Michigan, Albion and Hillsdale. Lynn Coddington and Carol Jones captured the doubles flight by defeating players from Wheaton, Michigan State, Kalamazoo and another Michigan State duo. Ellen Miller and Deb Mapes were defeated in a doubles match with Albion. In singles, Carol Jones defeated a player from Western Michigan and Kalamazoo before losing in the quarter finals to an old Albion rival, Betsy Irwin, whom Carol defeated in the regular season. Ellen Miller lost her singles match to a Kalamazoo player. Deb Mapes defeated a Hillsdale and Albion player before losing in the quarter finals to a Kalamazoo player. Lynn Coddington went all the way to the semi finals in the consolation round before losing to a Western Michigan player.

Anti-War Play to be Presented June 1st

Lynn Coddington

Extravagant and superficial lovers romp through their absurd play while two innocent shepherds inextricably succumb to a cancerous hate foisted upon them by the character, Death. The artificiality of the lover's emotions, their excessive role-playing contrast distinctly to the shepherd's tale. Once friends, they become caught in the game of life in which there is but one inevitable and assured end from which no one escapes.

Directed by Lynda Herdegen for her senior thesis under the direction of Dr. Griffith, this brief and subtle anti-war play by Edna St. Vincent Milay has only five characters. Lynda's challenge as director, stage manager, lighting technician and head of every other department needed to present the play is lightened by the skill of the five people with which she chose to work. All are familiar to the stage of the Alma campus. Britt Wilson, Bob Aldrich, Andy Keyes, Jim Marvin, and the one female character, Nancy Lemmen often anticipate the directions Lynda presents to them. However, Lynda must ultimately decide the finer points which will make the play click.

In choosing the particular play for her senior thesis, Lynda is provided with five parts in which she could place the five people with which she wanted to work. Her task as director is obviously made that much easier because of the rapport between actors, actress and director. As director, Lynda's ability to create the necessary tension in the plot comes with the ease and skill in which she works with her actors.

The artificial, extravagant lovers, Nancy Lemmen and Andy Keyes, approach the comical in their parts. The contrast of their emotional superficiality to the intense and finally terrifyingly destructive emotional response of the shepherds prevents the comical from full development. Instead, the audience may have a sense of distaste for the lovers. Unable to comprehend the terrible drama of the shepherd's story, they repeatedly interject their frivolous lines which heightens the contrast between the two.

The purpose of the lovers also has a technical importance. Their intrusions allow for immediate breaks in character by the shepherd's and therefore allows for the quick development of the tension and the hatred.

The melancholy shepherd's play captivates the audience. We know what the outcome must be. The shepherd's purposefully try to forget their lines in an attempt to escape the outcome of their parts. But Death is their prompter and demands they continue.

The paper wall the shepherd's construct becomes one of rocks. Water on one side, jewels on the other, concerned quests by one shepherd for the water controlled by the other for his sheep becomes a selfish demand for the others hoard. Slowly succumbing to demanding Death and his game of life, the shepherd's protestations that they're playing a "silly game" are to no avail. Their innocence crumbles as the growing antagonism destroys their trust for each other. Suddenly, one of the shepherds is afraid of the other.

Edna St. Vincent Milay purposefully allows for the forgetting of lines to reinforce her conviction that life is also flawed. Lynda understands Milay to be telling the audience that nothing is perfect and that they are indeed watching a play. But isn't the whole world a stage anyway in which we all strut and fret our hour upon it?

A forceful and compelling little play, Lynda and her crew present their production to the campus June 1st at 8:00 in Tyler. Anyone interested is urged to attend the presentation of Lynda's senior thesis. The end of innocence, the demands of Death and frivolous, phony love are skillfully woven into the plot and extracted equally as skillfully by the director, Lynda Herdegen.

Wapa Predictions

The Infamous Jug Day Queen Competition will be held next Friday, that's June 1st, on the lawn between the chapel and the union. Joe Fraker has assured the Wapakonetas that a stage and adequate seating will be provided for all who wish to attend. The judges for the competition have been chosen and they are the following: Joe Sutfin, Gazmararian, Dick Saga, Hank Klugh, and Davis. The alternate in case one of these gentlemen should happen not to show is Ben Barrara. The Wapakoneta Astrologers wish to remind everyone who wishes to place a bet on their favorite contestant to see Joey down in Kroger's parking lot.

Since this is this year's last issue of the ALMANIAN, the Wapas are presenting the campus this week with predictions not only for this coming week but also for this summer and the first part of next fall.

1. As he has for the last 16 years, Doc Swanson will continue to stand on the steps of Reid-Knox with his right hand just inside his jacket front, proudly surveying his empire.

2. When Folsom is torn down this summer, workmen will find the decayed remains of the beer kegs that were used for the foundation. One of the workmen will comment, "Now that's how I would build the place. I could see having a lot of cold beer in the cellar."

3. Agria will announce that when he runs for President, Gibson is going to be his wire man. And Mij will be the aide who tells him what and who to wire.

4. Next fall, Gunda will return from Sabbatical with the knowledge that too many dittos can be bad for a student's health. She will solve this problem by handing out all of the dittos in the form of a booklet on the first day of class. One of her students will comment that the booklet is more like an encyclopedia.

5. The newest member of the theater dept. staff will say next fall that he prefers to be called "hotspur".

6. The campus will acquire its first ghosts within the next month. They will be the ghosts of the first Alma students to die from over-exposure to bag pipe music.

7. Dr. Wegner will publish a new book, THE POETRY(?) OF JAMES TIPTON.

8. As a prank, the art students will decorate the new academic center to make it look like a steamboat.

9. Harold the Rat will announce that he and his mistress will be getting married in August. When asked if it will be a traditional wedding, he will reply, "Yes, she'll be wearing white fur, and that's about as traditional as you can get for a rat."

10. Joe Sutfin will start a program to increase his will power. The first step will be for him not to think about his roses for three straight hours.

11. Despite the college's plans not to tear down the psych annex, it will be torn down anyway next fall. The smell of rats will have so permeated the building that it will prove unfit for any other purpose. Harold the Rat will be overheard saying that it would have made a nice cottage for a pair of newlyweds.

12. Gene Pattison will say that if the Wapas don't stop making fun of his cat, he's going to have it bronzed and give it to them.

13. Mark Ioset will begin to put on weight and will look even more like Flannery O'Conner.

14. Fleishmann will comment that the students are becoming more and more overt about displaying their low morals. Why just last week, he'll continue, ten girls and three TKE's signed up to live in Kirk House, and the girls didn't mind.

15. Students are warned to be on the watch for members of the Administration wandering the campus next week taking what appear to be notes. The Wapas want to inform you right now that these poor dudes have merely been forced out of their offices because of a breakdown in the air-conditioning system in Reid-Knox. But do have your cameras ready, this may be the last time that they are seen outside of their offices in years.

16. The basement of Dow will be declared unfit for a fallout shelter. It seems that the glass in the windows did not even measure up to minimum girl scout standards.

17. Yaven will announce that he and his wife are adopting a little girl. They plan to name the child Charisma.

18. Jim Tipton will announce that he is planning to lose weight over the summer. It seems that he wants to look more like Burt Reynolds.

19. The Pine River Anthology will contain 10 elegies to Pioneer Hall, and only one to Fraker.

Memorial Day Classes

Time for Policy Change

The opinions expressed in this column do not necessarily reflect those of the Almanian, but only those of the writer.

by Mike Wilcox

Ah, Memorial Day 1973...Time for praising and mourning the beloved dead. The big parade marching down main street towards the local cemetery. Picnickers and campers speeding along I-75 to their wilderness destination. Store-owners and blue-collar factory workers relaxing, enjoying their day off.

Ah, good old Alma College... Steeped in Presbyterian principle, flag waving, status quo, home of traditionalism. How do we observe Memorial Day?

It seems that for many years it has been the custom of this institution to hold classes and otherwise ignore this legal holiday. Why? Is one day without classes going to make a huge impact on the academic lives of students and profs.

Why must we (students) endure the boredom and triviality of attending classes while the rest of the nation, including some of our own College administrators take a day off.

And then there's the patriotic bugaboo. I can not estimate with reasonable accuracy the number of students who "give a hoot" about the significance of Memorial Day, but to some I imagine its meaning is dear to the heart.

A similar situation existed for a previous legal holiday, Good Friday. Can you imagine a private Presbyterian school holding classes on Good Friday? Due to the efforts of the members of the Chapel Affairs Committee and Scot Christian Fellowship, this issue was taken before the faculty where a proclamation stating that students would not be penalized if they missed class after 12 due to religious duties, was issued. However, I ask, where does this leave students who wish to worship in their home-town church?

How can Alma College so flagrantly abuse the very principles it stands upon? Memorial Day and Good Friday are nationally recognized holidays. Especially in the case of Memorial Day, parades and church services are held in the morning, prime time for classes.

Isn't it time for Alma College to arise from the dark ages...to recognize legal holidays...and give students the option to pay tribute to their own country?

P.S. I do not mean this to be destructive, but rather a constructive article. As far as I'm concerned, Alma College is a high-caliber institution. However, like all, it does have its faults. To me, the legal holiday hassle is one that should be alleviated.

Gloomy Gus Keeps Smiling

by Jack Anderson

(Copyright, 1973, by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON — Thirty-seven years ago, Richard Nixon was known to his Duke Law School classmates as "Gloomy Gus." They gave him the nickname because of his brooding nature and his tendency to pull into his tortoise shell during times of stress.

During Nixon's second year at Duke, for example, Nixon began to slip in his studies. Gloomy Gus got gloomier. In desperation, he and two roommates broke into the dean's office to find out their academic standing.

Today, Academic Nixon is worried about far more serious break-ins. As he agonizes over the Watergate scandal, the President has turned to his most trusted managers at the Office of Management and Budget. OMB staffers have been asked to suggest what the President can do to take the people's mind off Watergate.

One suggestion the President has taken to heart is to keep smiling. Old Gloomy Gus is rarely seen in public these days without a grin on his face. Whether he's meeting Willy Brandt or pinning a medal on a boy scout, the President has tried to appear buoyant and fresh.

But smiles alone won't make the Watergate go away. Nixon is counting heavily on the forthcoming visit by Russia's Leonid Brezhnev to divert public attention from the Watergate scandal. Nixon is also considering turning his White House reception for POWs into a television spectacular. This again would remind the public of what Nixon regards as his greatest achievement: bringing the boys home.

Meanwhile, we have talked to the President's old roommates who remember Nixon as a loner but never a quitter in his college days. Often, he would get up early and study before his first class. Seldom would he miss a class. In the afternoon, he worked in the library to pay expenses. After dinner, he would hit the books again, often studying late into the night.

Although his law grades dropped his second year at Duke, Nixon didn't lose his scholarship. During his last year, he worked his way back up and graduated third in his class. In the same way today he is working his way out of the Watergate slump.

The Citizen's Junket: We often report on the junkets taken by congressmen and bureaucrats, who charge their vacations to the taxpayers. Thousands of private citizens also galavant around the globe largely at the taxpayers' expense. Here's how it works:

Professional, business and trade organizations set up conventions in vacation spots around the world. Just enough "business" is arranged to make the trips appear legitimate. Most of the cost, therefore, is tax deductible.

Some travel agencies specialize in arranging vacations in the guise of business trips. Typical is a St. Louis firm called "Intrav." This agency recently arranged a Scandinavian adventure for a group of doctors.

For the record, the medicine men went to the land of the Vikings to attend a series of professional seminars. In Stockholm, they were supposed to learn about "sexual freedom in Sweden." In Copenhagen, they were supposed to watch a film called "The Next Witness."

This made the trip tax deductible, which means the taxpayers who stayed home had to help pay for it indirectly. The seminars were carefully arranged, however, so they wouldn't interfere with sightseeing. A generous luggage allowance was provided for golf clubs and the travel agency also promised tennis, fishing and sailing.

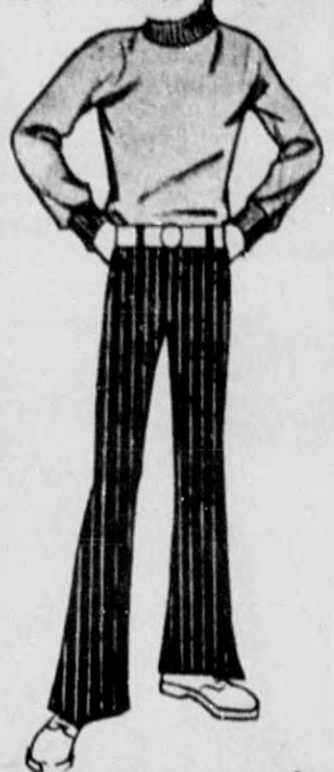

A spokesman described the tax-deductible excursion as an "incentive trip," combining business and pleasure. But he candidly admitted to us that the emphasis was on pleasure.

Internal Dishonesty: The Loss Prevention Institute, an industrial security outfit, prides itself for being able to root out employees who might rob companies. To aid business executives in spotting potential thieves, the institute publishes a booklet called "Early Warning Signals of Internal Dishonesty."

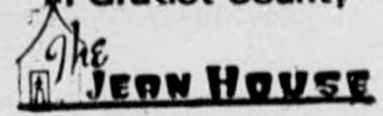

The guide instructs businessmen to suspect employees who engage in "doubletalk" or who have a fear of security personnel. A worker should also be watched, says the institute, if he "never takes time off for vacation." Companies are told to look out for workers, too, who arrive early and leave late.

An employe may be spied upon, in other words, simply because he's conscientious.

MCCRACKEN REPORT

Devalued Dollar & Food Prices Cited as Inflation Causes By Greg Turner

In a lecture at Dow Auditorium last Thursday evening Dr. Paul W. McCracken, Professor of Business Administration at the University of Michigan pointed to the February devaluation of the dollar and increasing food prices as the major factors in the recent inflationary uptrend. Speaking before a near-capacity crowd, Dr. McCracken noted a current decrease in consumer expectations of the American public of even higher prices on consumer goods, there has been a decided lack of "anticipatory buying" to hedge against this outcome.

As an economic adviser to the past four U.S. Presidents, Dr. McCracken has observed "a basically strong domestic economy" which nonetheless felt the pinch of inflation in the first quarter of this year. Food prices showed a marked increase, rising at annualized rate over 30% as shown by the Consumer Price Index. Dr. McCracken suggested however, that the food price index increases are somewhat of an exaggerated economic indicator. "Economists ought to weight the items in the Price Index according to their percentage of the sales dollar," McCracken offered. This, he reasoned, would result in a more realistic index figure.

McCracken mentioned his trip to the Soviet Union last August in the grip of a severe Soviet drought. He concluded that the Russian corporate-type farming was less efficient than the U.S. system of privately-operated farms.

"The effect of the February devaluation of the dollar was simply this," McCracken observed. "It now takes more dollars to buy another country's currency than it did previously. The exchange rate was changed. In Japan, for instance, one could get 360 yen for a dollar a short while ago. Today, the rate is fixed at about 260 yen to a dollar." At prevailing rates, a Japanese auto that cost $2000 a year ago now costs $2800.

A causal factor in the rising-price syndrome was "the move back into the zone of reasonably full employment." This, coupled with the easing in President Nixon's Phase III program, added a booster to the inflationary rocket. Many companies began to deliver lengthenings in delivery times for raw materials as the economy, geared to an overly high rate of expansion, began to overheat. Demand now outran supply, and raw material prices increased as a result.

McCracken predicted, however, a turnaround in the economic decline. The federal budget deficit now at an annual $25-billion rate of increase should be reduced to zero in the second half of this fiscal year. Trying to change the course of the U.S. economy, McCracken noted, "is like trying to steer a gigantic ship. It takes up to six months or a year for it to change course."

Ugly Person on Campus

This week SB is again holding an Ugly Person On Campus. Those nominated for the "honor" this year are: M.J.J. Smith, Irene C. Linder, Charles E. Skinner, Joseph P. Fleishman, David M. Lemmen and Roger L. Haverfield. Ballot boxes will be located in each hall. Each vote is one cent, ballot box stuffing is encouraged. The money received will be used on service projects.

Sports Award Ceremony Thursday

Dr. Charles A. Gray, Athletic Director, and the spring sports coaching staff have announced that a special Spring Sports Awards and Recognition Ceremony will be held this week.

The Ceremony is scheduled to be held this coming Thursday, May 31st, at 7:00 p.m. The Physical Education Center will house the event.

All spring sports will be honored, with senior baseball stand-out Rick Johnson, being the highlight of the ceremony.

According to Coach Gray, he wishes to thank all spring jocks for the "effort they have put into this season to make it one of the more successful spring sports terms in Alma's history."

All-around Alma College athlete Rick Johnson heads the 1973 Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association (MIAA) all-conference baseball team announced Thursday (May 24) by the league's coaches. Johnson was selected the league's most valuable player for his role in leading the Scots to a share of the MIAA championship. The Scots won their last seven games in-a-row to gain a share of the crown with Albion as both teams ended 9-3.

The Alma third baseman was also named the MIAA's most valuable football player last fall after being selected to both the offensive and defensive teams at end.

The 6-1, 190 pound Algonac high school product shared the lead in batting with Adrian's all-league Steve Held this spring at .378 and was the co-leader in RBIs with Albion's Bob Dorr at 11.

The all-league team has only one repeater, Albion pitcher Glenn Errington of Mt. Clemens who was 4-0 against MIAA opponents and had an earned run average of 1.61.

Members of the first team are Albion catcher John Baker of Ann Arbor; Albion first baseman Bob Dorr of Jackson; Albion second baseman Rick Bowman of Birmingham; Hope shortstop Bob Lamer of Zeeland; Johnson at third; Albion outfielder Tom Sowles of Coldwater; Olivet outfielder Tim Metro; Held; Errington and Adrian pitcher Bill Davis of Montrose.

Choir Concert Features Mexican Music

On June 3rd at 3:00 p.m. in the College Chapel, the Alma College A Cappella Choir will present a choral program featuring Mexican classical and folk numbers.

The opening group will include examples of the earliest preserved music written in the Western hemisphere dating from the late 16th century and the first half of the 17th century. They have been transcribed from manuscripts found in the archives of the cathedrals of Mexico City and Puebla.

The remainder of the program will include "Four Songs from Cervantes" composed by the eminent Spanish musicologist and composer Adolpho Salazar and dedicated to the "Coro de Madrigalistas de Mexico" and Spanish folk songs such as "La Bamba," "La Llorana" (My Weeping One), "Cuanto le Gusta," "Mexican Street Dance," etc. Selections from the Broadway musical "Promises, Promises" will conclude the program.

An Evening of Mime

Messrs. Dan Mecoli, Joe Sutfin, and Britt Wilson and Miss Beverly Magley are captured in a mimetic pose during a rehearsal for "Contra Diction: An Evening of Mime" to be presented tomorrow and Thursday at 9 p.m. in Dow Auditorium. Director-producer Sutfin describes the students, who have been doing an independent study in theatre, as an "amazingly talented, exciting trio of young people, who have exceeded my highest expectations."

The admission price of $1.00 will be applied toward the advancement of the performing arts at Alma College.

Grabel Wins Frosh Chem Award

Jeffrey C. Grabel of Midland has been named winner of the 1973 Chemical Rubber Company (CRC) Alma College Freshman Chemistry Award.

Grabel, a 1972 graduate of Dow High School and the son of Mr. and Mrs. C.E. Grabel of 1603 Clover Lane in Midland, received a certificate for outstanding achievement and a copy of the CRC Handbook of Chemistry and Physics.

A pre-dental student at Alma College, Grabel achieved advanced placement through an Alma College testing program for freshmen, thus starting his college chemistry study with a course in chemical theories rather than the general chemistry course in which most freshmen chemistry students are enrolled.

Advanced placement also enabled Grabel to study calculus rather than pre-calculus during his freshman year at Alma.

His high school chemistry teacher was Lawrence Thompson, of 314 Norfolk in Midland, a 1960 graduate of Alma College.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear Sir,

As the end of the year brings reflection and evaluation, it has come to be considered a hand-book of creative and hardworking students have not received their deserved credit, etc.

His gift and a thousand laudations for John Wilson and the Union Board staff for their excellent job of entertaining the Alma College community this past year!

Without a doubt the variety and frequency of fine entertainment supplied by their efforts leaves few students discontented (a fact which is noteworthy) and has advanced the campus social scene commensurably.

All of the credit in the world to the 72-73 Union Board and best of luck for continued success in the coming year. A satisfied student

COOGAN'S BLUFF

Clint Eastwood, Lee J. Cobb, Susan Clark

Action director Don Siegel, who hit success with MADIGAN, is back again with an even more exciting film. In COOGAN'S BLUFF Clint Eastwood emerges as a truly skilled actor in his role as an Arizona cowboy-lawman who goes to New York in search of an escaped killer. There he must become accustomed to battling red tape, rather than the elements, in the city's man-made canyons, as Sergeant McClintock sarcastically reminds him, "This isn't the O.K. corral." Of Director Siegel TIME commented, "Jean-Luc Godard once dedicated a film to him. Critics have ranked him with Howard Hawks and Alfred Hitchcock for his economic style and strong sense of form." TIME went on to say that, "COOGAN'S BLUFF is fast, tough and so well made that it seems to have evolved naturally, almost without benefit of cast, crew or rehearsal." Tom Milne in SIGHT AND SOUND added, "COOGAN'S BLUFF is sharp, bright and extremely enjoyable."
