Jamie Kneen - Jenny McLaren victors in Council election

BY KATHLEEN EATON

Jamie Kneen and Jenny McLaren emerged the victors in last Tuesday's Student Council elections for the 1977-78 academic year. President-elect Kneen defeated Jennifer Byron and Vice-President-elect defeated Tim Wright in what current Student Council President Jeff Weenink labeled, "an extremely visible campaign effort on the part of all candidates."

Voter turnout for the election was good although specific information regarding the number of votes cast and individual totals was not available. In heavy noon voting at Van Dusen Commons, the Council ran out of printed ballots for Student Council offices.

"The total overall voter head count was more than any other year I can remember," commented Weenink. In all elections held this year the turnout has been increasing over the last two years. "This past turnout was nothing earth-shattering, but it is another step in this increase," said Weenink.

Commenting on his victory, Kneen said, "I want to thank all of my supporters and those who helped canvas the campus. I will try to do what I promised in my campaign." Kneen also said that he was going to get organized during these last few weeks of school and over the summer to avoid having to do it in the first six weeks of school next fall.

A "very happy and excited" Jenny McLaren said, "I want to express my appreciation to all those who voted for me. I'm very eager to get started." She hopes to have her Student Budget and Finance Committee members selected this week for the upcoming year.

Elected Student Council Representatives - at Large were John Sefcik, Brian Stork, John Swartout, and Kathy Wolfe.

With the exception of the junior class of next year, class presidents were elected with a write-in vote.

For the senior class, Ms. Hanson was elected president. "I was very surprised when I found out that I had been elected," she commented. "I did want the office but I didn't think I stood a chance to win because I had no previous experience with student government." Ms. Hanson was convinced to run on the evening before the elections and put up posters in both the commons announcing her candidacy. "I was very pleased when I found out that I had been elected, and I feel capable of doing a good job."

Along with Val Hanson, the senior class officers are: Vice-President, Dan Dosson; Secretary, Sue Stohrer; Treasurer, Karen Bell; and Board of Trustees Representative, Carol Furrow. There is currently a four-way tie between the write-in candidates for Student Council Representative.

Elected as a write-in candidate for sophomore class president, Karen Hamilton wants to get her classmates to participate in activities together next year. "My officers and I have already gotten together and have come up with some ideas such as sponsoring a dance, selling roses for Valentine's Day, and helping to put together a winter carnival. I hope we'll be able to get more motivation for our class and the college as a whole," commented Ms. Hamilton.

Other sophomore class officers are: Vice-President, Beth Brede; Secretary, Sue Sabo; Treasurer, Betsy Falvey; Board of Trustees Representative, Leslie Mathiak; and Student Council Representative, Ulrica Aumen.

$2,000 expected from fast

BY KEELEY HESSLER

The picture: bloated bellies, stick thin arms, patchy baldness, sad listless eyes. There are just some of the physical effects of prolonged malnutrition which may eventually lead to death by starvation.

The unseen effects are even more horrifying. Bone and tissue growth is severely impaired and reception to disease is high, but more importantly, the brain growth and development of malnourished children is extremely stunted. Brain development begins in the mother's womb and crucial growth occurs in the child's early years. Thus, humans need proper nourishment from the very point of conception. Nourishment that over 50% of today's children are not getting.

Children who are malnourished at the time of birth and in their early years are smaller in stature, lighter in weight and have smaller heads than normal children. Behaviorally, they are behind; they have problems with reading, writing, comprehension and speaking. These children have not been hungry for two or three days at a time. They have been hungry their entire lifetime.

Hopefully, this short paraphrase has made you think about the starving people, not only in our country, but in other regions as well. Besides raising money for people in undernourished countries, this was the purpose of the CROP fast: to raise and intensify the consciousness of people to the massive problem of malnutrition and starvation.

The CROP fast, a service project chosen by Student Council President Jeff Weenink, was held in Tyler lobby from 1:00 p.m. March 19, to 5:00 p.m. March 20. The people who chose to fast then obtained sponsors who pledged money for every hour the person went without food. The fasters chose whether or not they wished to remain in Tyler for the duration of the fast. A TV, stereo, and a movie were provided in Tyler for the faster's entertainment. Margie White, one of the five CROP coordinators, said that most people "Sat around, played cards and talked."

The whole CROP Committee (Jeff Weenink, Phil Ropp, Jack Quirk, Al Edwards, Margie White, and Charles Creamer) were very enthusiastic about the success of the fast. Phil Ropp felt "Very uplifted by the spirit and togetherness of the fasters."

The money pledged to CROP is now being collected by the fasters and the results will be available April 1. The project is expected to bring about $2,000 with 70 students participating in the actual fasting. The money collected will then be sent to the Church World Service, which organizes CROP, and they will distribute food, machinery or raw grain to needy countries.

Did the CROP coordinators feel they accomplished anything by promoting the fast? Jack Quirk and Phil Ropp feel that besides raising money for a worthy cause, they made a few more people in the campus community aware of the crucial hunger problem. Margie White also stated that "fasting gave people a chance to experience just a fraction of what other people experience every day."

Quirk also emphasizes that starvation is "not the lack of food, but rather the lack of proper food distribution and individual sensibility to the problem." He states that "capitalism desensitizes us to hunger in other areas. You hear quite often, 'Well, I've worked to get where I am, why shouldn't he?'"

Neither Jack or Phil are hopeful about society's help or concern for the problem of starvation, but both feel the first step in generating this concern is raising the awareness level of society and making people face the fact that dying by starvation is a reality. Quirk even admits, "I don't know what it's like to be really hungry to the point of starvation," but he does feel that there is a chance people can be made conscious of the situation. "Movies, pictures and visual contact that can relate to people's common flesh are ways of getting through to the public."

Phil Ropp feels "Western man, who can now feed himself but just sits on it, must shift his lifestyle around a lot, but people just aren't willing to sacrifice their

Prof Eyer honored

BY KANDI FREY

Dr. Lester Eyer, professor of Biology, was honored at a reception and retirement dinner, March 26. Eyer is completing 30 years of teaching at Alma College.

A reception was held in the Highlander Room from 5:00-6:30 p.m. and the dinner was in Van Dusen Commons at 6:30. All the faculty and staff at Alma College, alumni biology majors, and some local residents were invited.

Dr. Harlan McCall, Professor-Emeritus at Alma College gave the invocation. Remarks were given by Alma College President, Robert D. Swanson, Dr. Arlan Edgar, Dana Professor of Biology, Dr. George Wallace, Professor-Emeritus Michigan State University, Dr. Howard Potter, Professor-Emeritus, Alma College, and colleagues and friends.

Eyer was raised in Alma and graduated from Alma College in 1936. He attended summer sessions at the University of Biological Station from 1939-1947. There he met his wife, Alma. He taught in Saginaw from 1936-1943.

Eyer was in the military service and then in 1946 joined the Alma College faculty. He was chairman of the Biology Department from 1951-1971.

Eyer received his doctorate from MSU in 1954. He concentrated on the biology of the common grackle.

In 1958, Eyer helped to found the Beta Beta Beta Biological Honorary Society at Alma College. He was regional Vice President of Tri-Beta.

Homeowners forego hike

State Attorney General Frank Kelley has upheld a law that lets homeowners maintain and repair their houses without risking a tax increase. According to Kelley, it was constitutional for the legislature to not add the cost of normal repair and maintenance to the calculation of a home's cash value.

A homeowner therefore can spend up to $4,000 a year for up to three years on minor home upkeep without risking a tax hike.

Frisco water consumption cut by rationing

San Francisco Public Utilities Commission passed regulations last week to begin water rationing in that city.

The water conservation policy, which goes into effect April 1, is designed to cut overall consumption by 25 per cent. Each dwelling unit--single home or apartment--may use up to 70 per cent of the amount used in the same period last year. Industrial customers will be required to reduce consumption only 10 percent from what they used a year ago.

Car washings and full swimming pools are also banned in the regulations.

Customers will be allowed one minor infraction and a second infraction will result in a written warning. If the customer exceeds the limit a third time, a water-limiting device will be installed on the pipes at the owner's expense.

Residents were told that every drop of water is important as the two-year drought that has parched the northern two-thirds of California continues.

Minimum wage of $2.50 considered by Congress

The administration has called on Congress to increase minimum wage to $2.50 an hour by July 1 and provide for regular annual increases in future years. Minimum wage now stands at $2.30 an hour.

The idea of providing regular annual increases in minimum wage is to keep up with the economy.

License plate deadline is set for April 1

The Automobile Club of Michigan is encouraging passenger car-owners who have not yet purchased their license plate tabs to do so. The deadline is April 1.

To obtain a tab, motorists must present either the prepared renewal form from the Department of State, the 1976 registration or the certificate of vehicle title plus proof of public liability and property damage insurance.

Ford signs contract NBC

Former President Gerald R. Ford talked last week with NBC executives about his lucrative broadcasting contract.

Ford has signed a contract to appear on one NBC "special" each year for the next five years and to do several commentaries.

His wife, Betty, has also agreed to make several appearances. The two contracts were reported to total almost 1.5 million dollars.

Private phones are a possibility

BY GARTH GLAZIER

There is a good chance that the residents of the South New Dorms Complex will be receiving private phones in their rooms by the fall of the 78/79 school year. This would be followed by the installation of phones in all dorm rooms on campus.

Although the administration has long been considering the possibility of installing private phones in the dorms, the idea has met with resistance on the part of the students. Those students living in Bruske, Gelston, Mitchell and Newberry do not want private phones in their rooms according to a vote taken two years ago in which the idea was rejected.

Apparently, the conflicting opinion which has arisen between those residents of New Dorms and those of the rest of the dorms on campus is the result of the fact that none of the New Dorms facilities are equipped with either a desk or switchboard to handle incoming calls. Consequently, all calls pass directly to the hall phones. Residents, particularly those nearest the hall phones, are tired of having to answer other people's calls at all hours of the night and day.

Because of this situation, several residents of New Dorms have formed a petition which is presently in the hands of Robert Fraker of the Purchasing and Personnel Department. Fraker, who is handling the situation, stated that the petition simply emphasized the desire for private phones.

According to Mr. Fraker, the problem at the moment is one cost. Cost will depend on whether phones are installed in New Dorms only or in all dorms on campus. Installing two hundred private phones in the New Dorms Complex would be much more costly than installing a full six hundred phones for the entire campus. As Fraker pointed out, "To put phones in South Dorms only would take more equipment than we have and the cost paid by each student would be out of proportion."

Fraker, who favors the installation of private phones in all dorms, says he "will ask the administration to consider improved or expanded service this summer which means that if it were approved and executed, we could have this new service by the fall of '78. This new service is the Centrex System which would adapt the college's phone equipment to handle this new load created by the private phones. According to Fraker, the Centrex system would make installation of the phones more economical, but only if they are installed in all dorms. Fraker believes the ideal situation would be to let the desks remain along with the private phone lines so that not only will people from outside the college be able to call direct but they also be able to "leave messages".

The entire college is already wired for the Centrex System. At present, however, New Dorms are the only halls which have outlets to which the private phones could be connected, meaning that is phones are installed on campus, they will be the first to receive them.

Chi's collect $200 in dystrophy drive

The Theta Chi fraternity has collected over $200.00 for muscular dystrophy during a drive which lasted from March 18th to the 22nd. The money was collected through a door-to-door canvass made in Alma on Saturday, March 19, and through cans -- "Shamrocks for Muscular Dystrophy" -- which were placed in each dorm and also at the 7-11 store in Alma. This is the first year Theta Chi has undertaken this project.

According to Jack Quirk, the idea for making this collection was heard about through Jeff Weenink and was then taken to a Theta Chi meeting and voted upon favorably.

After the project was initiated by the fraternity they contacted Ms. Gerri Ceasar of Saginaw, director of the program in this area, who supplied them with the necessary information and materials.

The money will be sent to the Muscular Dystrophy Foundation in Lansing.

Thrills and spills characterize Banana Split extravaganza

BY KEELY HESSLER

A hardy congratulations goes to Dave "Pinky" James who won the "Alma College Banana Split Eating Contest" after eating six banana splits and literally drinking the seventh in four swallows in 20 seconds. The night was filled with "chills" and "spills" as thirty-four of the expected fifty-two showed up to brave the evening's events.

The contest was held last Thursday, March 24, in Hamilton Commons beginning at 6:50 and ending approximately at 8:20. It was hosted by Mr. Dick Anderson of Saga Foods in order to determine the two representatives for the which will be held on April 16, 1977 at 8:00 at Olivet. Since Dave James came in first this entitles him to an all expense paid trip to Olivet College to compete against the infamous unknown girl who holds the record of 15 banana splits in one and a half hours.

"I think it's impossible!" complained Lamott Britto after finishing his fifth and last banana split. "I don't care who you are! I don't care if you're Superman-I don't care if you're King Kong-it's impossible to eat 15 banana splits!" And so went the consensus of opinion as one by one the thirty-four original contestants dwindled down to eighteen by 7:15. One valiant effort began shoveling his banana split in with an air of confidence and a table spoon. The crowd cheered five banana splits in five minutes. Unfortunately for Mr. Dewitt, the banana splits came out as quickly as they went in. "Looks like he blew lunch" said Mr. Dick Anderson of Saga, "and once you've blown lunch-it's all over."

The situation grew stickly as the eighteen contestants further narrowed itself down to four by 7:45. Dave James, Sue Gooch, Randy Berhns, and Craig Gates were slowly competing as the number of banana splits consumed leveled off to five and six.

"Every little burp means disaster" said Randy Berhns while pacing the floor. Craig Gates was cheered on as he abruptly lost his title as competitor and Sue Gooch stopped a little after eight and walked away. This, however, still did not give Dave James his first place lead. Since first place was currently held by four other people, Dave was compelled to eat a seventh banana split. He quickly downed the seventh in 20 seconds, asked if he had won and then made a quick exit to the back of the room. Rumor has it that he didn't make it. When asked about his victory he said, "It was a thrill to be in the competition... I feel good".

ROTC program attracts a variety of students

Our purpose in Army ROTC is to train students with a wide variety of individual backgrounds and academic interests for commissioning (upon college graduation) and subsequent service as officers in the United States Army. The program is a direct manifestation of the citizen-soldier concept upon which our nation's military posture has been based throughout its 200-year history. ROTC graduates are obligated to serve from three months to four years on active duty as commissioned officers and are then able to pursue a civilian career, should they so desire. While many choose to exercise the option of returning to civilian life, others choose to complete a career of service in the Army.

The Army ROTC Basic Camp was created when Congress established the Two-Year ROTC Program in 1964 and first held in 1965 at Fort Knox. It is currently conducted annually at Fort Knox under the control of Second ROTC Region. Students who successfully complete the six-week camp are eligible to enroll, or cross-enroll, in the two-year ROTC Advanced Course at an institution offering Army ROTC. Upon graduation, those who have completed the Advanced Course (which includes a six-week advanced camp) are selected for Regular Army, some three years active duty, and some become lieutenants in the Army Reserve or National Guard. A unique feature of the basic camp is the voluntary nature of this program. Participating students make no prior commitment to the Army; they are under no obligation to attend or to remain at camp and are free to leave any time they wish.

While undergoing the six weeks of training, students at the basic camp have the opportunity to compete for two-year Army ROTC scholarships. These scholarships pay for all tuition, textbooks and laboratory fees; in addition, the student receives a $100 monthly stipend for up to ten months of each school year. One hundred twenty five of these scholarships were awarded to graduates of the 1976 basic camp. All Army ROTC cadets - nonscholarship as well as scholarship students - receive the $100 monthly stipend during their final two years of on-campus instruction. Including the pay for the basic and advanced camps, all ROTC cadets receive approximately $2,800 during their final two years of college. The scholarship funds, camp pay and monthly stipend is in addition to any other form or source of financial aid which the student may receive.

The scholarship program and the monthly allowances are important elements of our program which allow many students, who would otherwise be able to do so, to continue their education. More important, however, the program offers students a chance for personal and professional development that their non-ROTC contemporaries do not have. Whether or not these young men and women ultimately elect an Army career, the leadership and management experience of Army ROTC and service as an Army officer are invaluable assets to their growth as individuals. Nationally, nearly 55,000 students are now participating in the senior Army ROTC program; over 13,000 of these cadets are enrolled in institutions with the Second ROTC Region.

The ROTC Contact is LTC Joseph K. Brown, Professor of Military Science, Central Michigan University, Mount Pleasant, Michigan, 48858. (517) 774-3049.

sues. This 'quote-me-don't-quote me' syndrome would prove distracting to most reporters, but I found that Ms. McLaren's statements were all documented in the reporter's notes, and both the reporter and I feel that this story was a fair and unbiased report of a Student Council vice-presidential candidate.

It seems hard to believe, but next week the new ALMANIAN staff for 1977-78 begins training for next year, and this issue is our last with the 1976-77 staff.

I hope that this year we have brought you what you have wanted in a student newspaper. I myself have learned a lot this year, and I hope to be able to produce an even better paper next year.

At this time I'd like to say good-bye and thank you to our editors who will not be coming back next year: Ruth Perlberg, Mary Ellen Liike, Susette Balogh, Kathy Eaton, Dave Andrews, Bob Schultz, and Cathy Murphy. All of you have done a fantastic job this year, and your professionalism and care have improved the paper tremendously and made it rewarding and fun for me.

If any of you students, faculty, or administration have any criticisms, comments, suggestions, etc... that you would like to make about this year's paper, please drop me a line so that the new staff may learn what needs to be changed or improved or deleted. We want to make a good paper for you, and we need your feedback to do so.

One more word -- I will still be going to Lansing on April 6 to talk to Governor Milliken. If you have any concerns you would like to voice about any state issues, please let me know so that I can bring it up to him. Currently, I would like to discuss the P.B.B. and Seafarer issues -- if you have anything you'd like for me to say about these or other issues, please let me know.

RA rehire explained: hall views not sole consideration

We are writing this letter in hopes of clearing up any misunderstanding that may have resulted from last Monday's Almanian article concerning certain R.A.'s not being rehired for next year.

First of all, it is certainly true that the most important quality looked for in rehire is how the people on the corridor viewed their R.A. However, this was not meant to imply that the people on these

R.A.'s corridors did not think highly of them. The fact is that the residents of these corridors do think very highly of their R.A.'s. The point of the description of the rehire process was to explain what is involved in rehire and that there are several considerations given in addition to the opinion of the residents. How the residents of these corridors felt toward their R.A.'s was not the reason for their not being rehired--in each case it in-involved some of the other considerations listed in the article.

Secondly, each R.A. was told why they were not rehired. The point in question is whether or not the R.A.'s agree with or accept these reasons.

We hope that this clears up any misunderstandings that may have resulted from parts of that article. Thank you, David Campbell, Jamie Kneen, Jack Rasmussen, and Mark Zook

McLaren expresses "disappointment" in story

As vice-president elect of the Student Council I would like to respond to last week's Almanian article on my platform. I understand and empathize with the work load of the staff, however, I feel it is essential that when one writes an article she properly and honestly represents students, particularly for as important an issue as the Student Council elections.

The article stated that I had "basically discounted the importance of business or mathematical ability as chairman of the Student Budget and Finance Committee (SBFC). I had hoped to suggest that my lack of business classes would not interfere with my ability to chair the committee. It was also stated that I "based my campaign on intense enthusiasm and an ardent desire to learn the ropes of the Council position." It also said, "I had read the minutes and talked to Lisa." (Which minutes even?) Hopefully, through my past experiences with not only Student Council, but other government committees, I had not just desire but some knowledge. I am disappointed that the story made it appear that I had no idea of what the job involved. Not only had I sought out that information, but went to Mr. Jerry Jones, the advisor or the committee and Mr. Gazmarian to find out what qualifications were necessary and how I might better prepare myself for the job, should I be elected.

Absolutely none of my qualifications were mentioned. I had listed all the Student Government committees I had served on, in addition to committees from Council itself.

During my interview I even asked how she could remember so much when taking so few notes. I also explained more specifically some improvements that could be made.

I also did not state there should be "more" leaders, I said that nearly everyone I knew of at Alma College had leadership qualities, but it was a lack of proper information and motivation that there wasn't more participation. As I quoted in my interview, from John Gardner, "it is the failure to encourage top students to gain leadership experience that leads to a lack of confidence in our own decision-making ability."

I believe the Student Council not only has the responsibility for providing the right services and facilities in support of a total campus program, but it is essential that it provide for the personal involvement, interaction and experience important to the development of leadership.

I would like to encourage not only less criticism from the Alma College student body, but more active cooperation and participation in the efforts of the most important student organization on this campus -- the Student Council.

And most of all, I would especially like to lend my most sincere and heart-felt gratitude to all my friends and supporters. May the 77-78 year be a great and productive year for all of us!

Jenny McLaren

EDITOR'S NOTE: To a reporter, accuracy in reporting is paramount. In discussing this accusation of misrepresentation with the reporter in question, I found that not only did the reporter's notes contain every quote used in the story, but that several quotes appeared again and again, especially those dealing with the issues of enthusiasm and desire over academic training. Moreover, in discussing this with the reporter, I was told that interviewing Ms. McLaren was "difficult" because of her lack of willingness to be quoted on her statements about various iscon't. in editorial column, top of page.

TKE

The TKE Colony elected its new officers for next fall term. Greg Dobis was elected president; Jeff Leetsma, vice president; Jack McGill, secretary; and Skip Quadrer, treasurer.

In addition, Bert Jones was elected historian; Mark Kosciuszko, pledge master; Tom Vibber, chaplain; Bill Randall, house manager; and Tom Jankowiak as social chairman.

Also, Voris Davis was selected as IFC representative; Gary Tompson as Student Council representative, and Ed Solack and Craig Bauer as chapter board of trustees members.

Six colony members and Chapter Advisor Dr. Eugene Pattison attended the TKE Fraternity Development Conference Sunday. The conference was held at Western Michigan University and Tekes representing the chapters from Albion, Ferris State, Tri-State University and WMU were also in attendance.

There is a chapter board of trustees meeting scheduled for March 26, at which housing renovation plans will be discussed.

The TKE Little Sisters are planning a fund-raising spaghetti dinner in the near future. Also, the Little Sisters should be recognized and congratulated on the fine quilt that they made for the faculty auction.

We'd all like to thank Drs. Vogan and Walser for coming to our initiation. It helped make the occasion extra special.

Some volunteers are needed to babysit at the First Presbyterian Church during the Maundy Thursday Service. If you're interested please contact either Dr. Walser or Karyn Stockwell. Also, the popcorn has arrived and is ready to be sold.

The sisterhood was pleased to have "Papa Joe" appointed to the exalted position of assistant official higger at formal initiation last Thursday. Better get practicing!

GAMS

The Brothers would like to congratulate the new pledges to the Brotherhood.

We have a lot of activities going on. We are preparing for our Parents Day & Open house this Saturday. We have a lot of work to do to get ready for this and hopefully Eathorne will do his house duty.

Our party last week was a great success and a good time was had by all. Congratulations to Jeff Stommen for landing both a job and Sally Taylor and Bill Reindel for giving up his pin to Sue Tait. Senior clutch runs rampant with only a few steadfast holdouts left. Keep up the good work.

So as the term draws to a close and with our Senior Sendoff coming up, the brothers of DGT would wish everyone well on their exams and bid a fond farewell to the seniors. It was fun while it lasted.

GSS

The sorority wishes to welcome all it's new members: Carolyn Tibbetts, Martha Rosner, Shirley Dennis, Nancy Baker, Sheila Straight, Judy Vasseliou, Martha Nissen, Lisa Cresswell, and Sheryl McCormick. We all wish you the happiness we've found in the sorority. We're proud to have you for our sisters!

Members showed a good turnout at the recent CROP fast. Many Easter cards were made and the quilt is progressing slowly but surely.

It was a pleasure to have a visit from our sister Anne Cole-

Inter-faith seminar tonight

The Chapel Affairs Committee is sponsoring an Inter-Faith Seminar on the campus which is scheduled for Monday evening, March 28, at 7 p.m. in AC 113.

Participants in the seminar include: Father Foglio of the St. John's Student Parish in East Lansing, Rabbi Philip Frankel of the Congregation Shaarey Zedek in East Lansing, and Rev. Malcolm Brown of the First United Presbyterian Church in Mt. Pleasant.

Each of the participants will make a presentation concerning his faith--Catholic, Jewish or Protestant--and then the meeting will be opened for questions and discussion.

Choir on TV and radio

BY KANDI FREY

"Church of the Crossroads" hosted 25 members of the A Cappella choir Sunday, March 27 at 8:00 a.m. It was on WWJ, channel 4 on Detroit television and 95 on the AM radio dial.

The program is a series of weekly televised church services sponsored by the Detroit Council of Churches. Reverend Ed B. Willingham is the executive director of the Christian Communication Council.

Arrangements for the choir to sing were made by the Rev. Charles McCloskey, Director of Church Relation for Alma College.

Under the direction of Ernest Sullivan, the choir sang, "Oh Taste and See", by Vaughn Williams, "Let My Prayer Come Up" by Henry Purcell, "Oh Sacred Head Now Wounded" from J.S. Bach's St. Matthew Passion; "Canticle of Praise" by John Ness Beck, "Setting of the 23rd psalm to the tune of Crimond", and "Aaronic Benediction" by Healy Willan.

Brian Taylor, a freshman from Howell was the accompanist for the choir.

The show was taped on March 22. Sullivan said that the engineers commented, "this group really knows what it's doing." Ed Sullivan said the studio director invited the choir to participate again.

Speech related to professions is topic of discussion

BY SUSETTE BALOGH
 News Editor

Each day, every one of us is confronted with communication encounters and, often, problems. As part of the Career Preparation Program, Dr. Robert Smith of the Speech Department has invited three speakers to add insight to these encounters and problems. On March 29, at 7:00 p.m. in AC 104, Nancy Bratt, a public school nurse and a nutritional and health advisor, Roy Scott, the manager of Home Credit Company and the founder of his own bill collection agency, and Bill Potter, a personnel manager at Alma Auto Products will address the theme: "Speech: Bane or Boon to Professional Life?"

The speakers will open the program with a four to five minute statement on their views on speech communication in relation to their jobs. They will then concern themselves with the problems of talking with superiors and "inferiors," talking with the opposition on their home ground instead of your own, motivating the unwilling, handling hostile clients, parents, and workers, the importance of nonverbal communication such as appearance and timing, and how to know when to end a speech situation.

The program is designed to last one hour. Dr. Smith says, "Everyone will have some responsibilities in speech communication. This program will show how these people, who are professionals, handle speech communication problems."

Speech competition to be held on April 8

BY SUSETTE BALOGH

Are you a persuasive person? Is there a contemporary topic of controversy in which you are interested? If so, the opportunity to voice your opinions is at hand. On Thursday, April 7, the Eleventh Annual Speech Night will be held. This is a competitive event open to all students. The best speaker will be judged by the audience. The winner will be awarded the Preston Bradley a plaque which hangs in the Reid-Know Administration Building.

All those interested in participating must submit a full sentence outline complete with bibliography to Dr. Robert Smith of the Speech Department by Monday, April 4. The controversial topic must be treated in 8 to 10 minutes.

Smith says, "This has proved in years gone by to be one of the most exciting and challenging speech experiences in which students have participated." Anyone with questions or desiring further details should contact Dr. Smith.

Speaking Award and will be presented with a gavel and have his or her name emblazoned on

Steinway debut

On Sunday, April 3 at 8:00 p.m. the Alma Symphony will debut a new Steinway concert grand piano. The new instrument is being purchased by the symphony and donated to Alma College for use in the Dunning Memorial Chapel and eventually in the new performing arts auditorium.

Rice(soprano) and Annette Johansson (contralto), both faculty members of the music department of Central Michigan University. A special community chorus has been formed to sing this selection.

Featured piano soloist will be Irene Rosenberg Grau performing George Gershwin's Rhapsody in Blue. The second major work on the program will be Antonio Vivaldi's Gloria for soloists, chorus and orchestra. The soloists will be Margaret

Also on the program will be the March of the Toreadors from the opera Carmen by George Bizet. The program will be conducted by Jack Bowman. Tickets are available at the door: Adults $2.00, students $1.00, Alma College students admitted free with I.D.

Alma is granted $16,000 from National Science Foundation

BY GAIL SWANSON

Alma College has been granted $16,000 from the National Science Foundation to support Undergraduate Research Projects (URP). This yearly allotment has been awarded to Alma College since 1962, with the exception of two years. The primary objective of the URP program is to "provide promising students with firsthand experience in research processes. In addition, URP projects expand the students' knowledge and help them develop a degree of creativity essential to scientific inquiry." Dr. Edgar, of the biology department, also added that it often helps students decide if they want to go on to graduate school.

In order to receive this grant, the school must submit a proposal that includes a detailed report of the project, the costs involved, what research opportunities will be provided, time limit, qualifications for the program, etc. Alma's proposals have been good enough to receive a three-year contract. The research participation projects cover all fields of science, including mathematics and engineering, with high priority given to research dealing with environmental and societal issues.

In order for the students to be accepted into the program, they should be between their junior and senior years, and have demonstrated some career potential. They also should have completed a major portion of their college science and technology programs. The projects are conducted in the summer and last about ten to twelve weeks. Students must fill out an application for the URP program; and if accepted, an undergraduate student and a professor work together, with the professor supervising the project.

Dr. Edgar is especially pleased with Alma's students because the results of about half of the research funded by these grants has been of high enough quality to be published in scientific journals. Greg Kloos, Mark McMurray, and Richard Wheeler presented their research results before the Michigan Academy of Science, Arts, and Letters. All three students did their research in botany, under the supervision of Dr. Kapp, of the biology department.

Greg Kloos gave a presentation on Hamamelidaceae: A Pollen Morphological Study. Mark McMurray's presentation was on Paleoecology of Crystal Lake, Montcalm County. Based on Seed, Pollen and Sediment Analysis, Greg and Mark have submitted their research results to the MICHIGAN ACADEMICIAN magazine for publication.

Richard Wheeler's presentation was on Vegetation Patterns on the Tittabawassee River Floodplain at Goetz Grove Nature Center in Ingham, Michigan. He has submitted his research results to the MICHIGAN ACADEMICIAN magazine for publication.

Aside from these three students, Dr. Lester Evers also gave a presentation in the ecology category on Terrestrial vertebrates of Pine River Floodplain in Gratiot County, Michigan.

This summer's research will focus on several aspects of resource management and utilization in the Pine River Watershed. Individual research projects have been developed by the faculty members who will serve as research supervisors.

Monteith Library Corner

Suggestions wanted

Though the librarians do what they can to anticipate which new books and magazines will be needed by students and faculty, it sometimes turns out that an obvious selection is missed.

Recently, for example, a student asked for the Hite Report, a book about female sexuality that has achieved some degree of notoriety of late. Last January, someone pointed out to us that we did not have a copy of the very popular Jonathan Livingston Seagull. Another person recently pointed out that we didn't have a copy of the Pontiac, Michigan phone book.

The response of some library users when they discover that some book they need is not in the library is to simply give up - "they don't have it."

Members of the teaching faculty, of course have an obvious means of ending such frustration. After all, they have the right to recommend that books be acquired for the library. In fact the librarians do everything they can to encourage as great a faculty involvement as possible, since the development of a strong library collection depends to a great extent on the expertise of many people. The librarians certainly can't be expected to be masters of all the specialized fields of study taught at the college. What many students do not realize is that they too have a right - perhaps even a responsibility - to help make the library's collection as strong and as useful as possible.

That, in fact is the purpose for the little green box found near the library's entranceway, just past the Circulation Desk. That box, the library's "Suggestion Box" is there precisely so that the librarians can hear about it when you can't find a book that you need.

In response to requests found there, the library has initiated a subscription to Michigan National Resources and is in the process of identifying the Spanish language newspaper that would be the most suitable subscription for the library. We've added Nabokov's Lolita and we've ordered Eldon Ekwall's Locating and Correcting Reading Difficulties.

The "Suggestion Box" is also a "Complaint Box" from which we've received remarks about noise in the library, buzzing lights, low temperatures, and, in one instance, a recommendation that two outdated books be taken out of the library's collection. It's not always the case that the problems complained about can be solved, but an effort is made to do so - or at least to explain why no action was taken.

So keep in mind that the quality of the library's collection depends to a great extent on cooperation not only between the librarians and the teaching faculty, but even the active users of the library - the students. Make use of our little green "Suggestion Box".

The library will stay open an extra hour every day for the remainder of Winter Term, beginning Sunday, April 3. Hours will be as follows:
Sundays: 9 a.m. - 10 p.m.
Mondays: 1 p.m. - midnight
Tuesdays: 8 a.m. - midnight
Fridays: 8 a.m. - 10 p.m.

The library will be open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. during the inter-session, April 18 - April 22. It will be closed on the weekends of April 16 and 23.

One of 550 students

Ed Kain receives NSF Grant

BY SHAUNA LAUGHNA

Most of the upperclassmen on this campus remember Ed Kain. He was the Fred Astaire of Michigan. When he graduated last year he waltzed away with the Barlow Trophy. Now he is at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, obtaining his master's degree in sociology. Ed has recently received some exciting news: he is a recipient of a National Science Foundation Grant. The grant, awarded on a competitive basis, will pay for all of his tuition and fees, plus pay him $3900 per year, for the next three years.

Dr. Verne Bechill reported that approximately 5000 students in the United States applied for the grant of which 550 were awarded. Ed was one of the eleven students in sociology to receive the grant. It is a highly competed for award, so the highest congratulations are in order for Ed.

Edward Kain was the Barlow Trophy winner last year and is now at the University of North Carolina and is continuing to take honors.

"Bioethics" to be offered

BY KANDI FREY

A new course, "Ethics and Issues: Bioethics," Philosophy 226, will be offered fall term next year. It will concentrate on developments in the life-sciences such as physician-patient relations, informed consent to treatment, research on human subjects, genetic modification for therapeutic and other reasons, abortion, death-with-dignity, the right to live and the right to die, allocation of medical resources, and population control.

This course will be taught by Professor Wesley Dreyer and Paul J. Boat, M.D., from Gratiot Community Hospital. This course came about as a result of a developing interest in this area by these two men.

The subjects to be taught are important for those who plan to enter the health professions and laymen who will need to make life-and-death decisions for themselves and those close to them.

The course has no course prerequisites. It will be 3 credits and it will meet 1:00 - 2:50 Tuesday and 3:00 - 4:40 Thursday. It fills a distribution requirement in category 4, Philosophy Division.

Scots take 2nd in Aquinas Classic

The Alma Scot track team took part in the Aquinas College Classic last Saturday. The Scots nabbed a second place overall just behind host Aquinas.

Coach Gray was extremely pleased with the team's performance overall and added that Jim Lothrop gave a particularly strong performance by setting two new school records and taking three first places in the meet.

Lothrop established the records with a 212'10" javelin throw and a mark of 50'7 1/2" in the shotput. He rounded out the day by capturing yet another first in the discus on a toss of 148'63/4".

Coach Gray added that the team was in strong position going into the outdoor season. The Scots are readying for the MIAA Relays next week at Calvin.

It has already begun. The competition for recruits has got to be on the minds of virtually every coach. It has been for some time with the Fall and Winter sport coaches.

The good news - the wrestling program will hopefully show a definite improvement from this seasons showing. It comes from recruiting.

The bad news - graduation is going to effect the basketball team. At least it seems as though it would since Dawkins, Lothrop, and Herrington will all be lost to graduation. But someone will rise up to fill the gaps created by this disease known as 'leaving Alma for good'.

Graduation isn't the only enemy of the coach. Transfers hurt and so does the African Fellowship. It does in a way because the soccer team will lose Brad Bateman to Nigeria. But take heart - its kind of an investment since they play very good soccer over there and he will return someday.

Back this up a bit - I'll return to the present for a while. It's Spring and the outdoor lovers of sports are in bloom. They will flock to the tennis courts and the softball diamonds in hordes. It happens every year. It's very hard at times to get a tennis court. But it's the price we pay for good weather - besides, there are lots of other things to do.

Round up a bunch of people and some beer. It definitely would be a good time. If you don't get into the game you can get into the beer if you want to. Speaking of softball - OX 10 - ZE 4.

If you've got some spare time this Spring go out and watch the baseball team or the tennis matches or the track team or whatever else you want to do. If you don't have much spare time study. You will miss some great action this Spring.

With the advent of the 4-4-1 schedule, Spring sports has suffered a bit. On the IM front I'm told that softball was big when they had the 3-3-3 schedule. But just because the term schedule is different doesn't mean that softball should die out. I think it would be great if the IM program could again encompass this sport. Anybody can play and you might even have a good time in the process.

Personals

Tony,
Only 2 more weeks 'til Missouri. Thanks for being a super friend this year, I just don't know how I would ever have made it without you: Signed by a Tony Tiger fan. P.S. No Sunday Picnic's for me this Spring.

Martha: gone star gazing lately?

Cheri, Glen, & Bruce: ATRAIN was simply out of this world. Have you considered Going Hollywood?

Don't forget the first women's softball game April 7 against Oakland at HOME.

RIDD'S--
Some have them, some don't. Don't keep them all to your self.
- Sleppy bear

Hey Cheech and Mark: do you want to play nose-ey, cheek-ey-cheekie?

Dimples--
If you got them, Flaunt them.
R. Mutt

Good Luck Alma College Tennis team!
You're tremendous!!

Hi Goldilocks.

To our dearest, sweetest Moose--
You may be short, but you're cute! Right? Right! Who says you never got a personal? Love from all your Many Moose admirers

Cindy: You caused quite the sensation Saturday evening. What legs--- WOW.

Res--
Red becomes you we were there

Congratulations to the K.K.A. pledges for their (finally) successful capture!! Initiation ought to be soon since both orbs are now on campus. Welcome!!
The actives
Don't miss it!

Laurie,
A melon is only ripe if it is Sweet.
Melon

Congratulations AZT's for giving Bruske their first loss of the season, 23-20. Good job women!!!

Mort--
Welcome to GSS, granddaughter!!
Love ya,
Grandma Joyce

Dimples--
Don't hide 'em, Enjoy 'em.
Your #2 choice

To third floor South Mitchell
Due to technical difficulties the Phantom Strikers will not be mysteriously striking you as we had planned. So please don't look for us. Have a nice spring term and summer (you see, we're still pretty nice people)..... P.S.

THIS WEEK IS NATIONAL WOMEN'S WEEK!!! STAND UP AND BE COUNTED, WOMEN.

Schaf, Drugs, Sebelic, Bonsai and thanks.
WK

SEX --
What you won't find in "Our Town," but come anyway. Main and only attraction in Dow Aud. this weekend, March 31, and April 1 & 2, 8 pm.

Liz and Kathy, Congratulations on making O.C. I know you'll both have a good time and contribute much!!
M.E.

To my most favorite person:
Happy 23rd birthday!!! You can be sure I'll be by to help you celebrate.

P.C.
Congratulations, I knew you could do it. Now we have to start working. Ha! Thanks for everything. Much love from a granddaughter of yours.

Homemaker,
I could have asked for a better lil sis or a more beautiful passle. Congratulations--you're finally active. Losing your pin 4 times isn't bad for a beginner.
Much love,
Big sis

Pam,
For acting so tough, you are a sweet thing!!
Shorty

Wish your favorite senior a Happy Graduation (or whatever) in next week's Classified Section. It's the ALMANIAN's last edition this year.

Sherry,
Just another not to say "you're beautiful." Have a good day.
Signed,
Secret Admirer
