Walls, floors, ceilings, classes, exams, mealtimes, registration, dorms, all limitations, all finite spaces.

We live around the clock of the academic world. We live in small rooms, clustered together like catacombs of a hive, we buzz through the duties of a routine day.

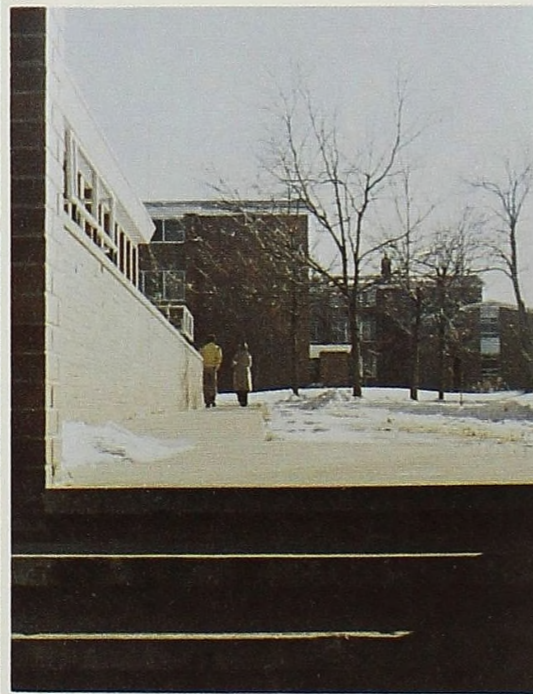

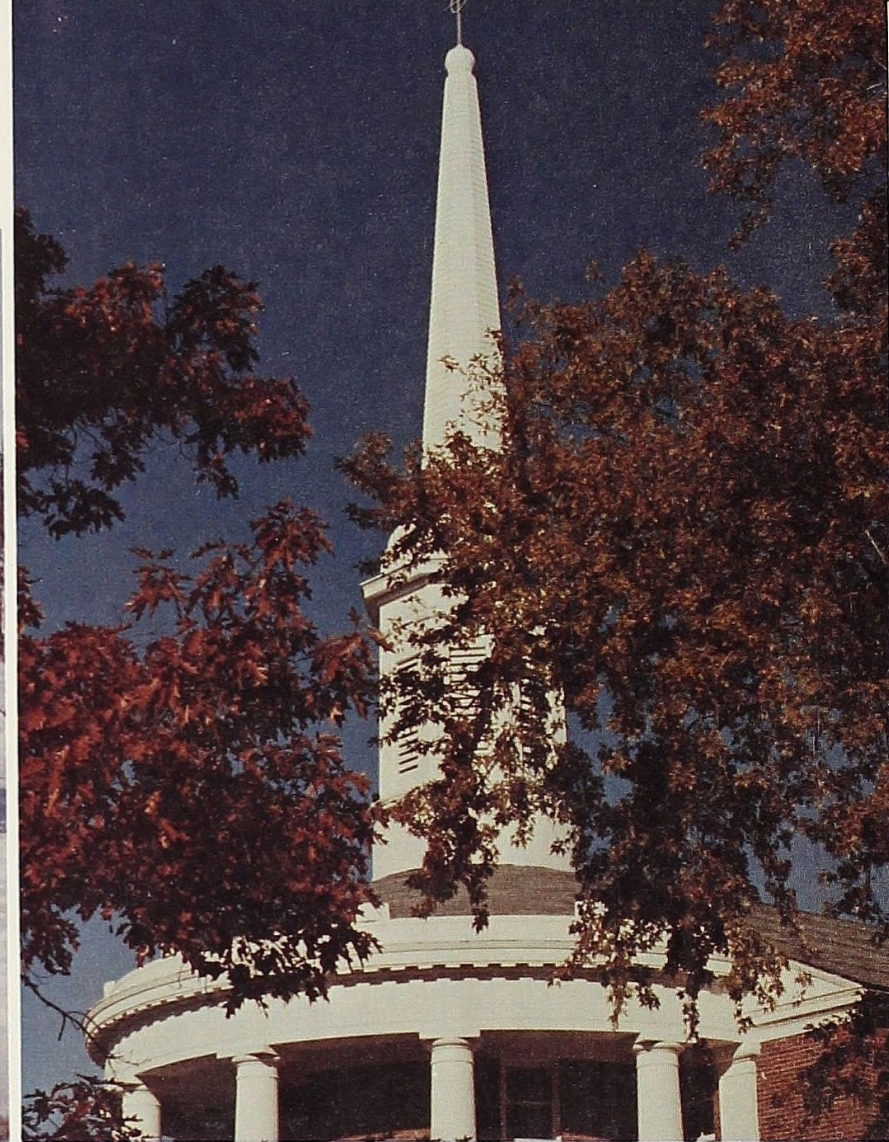

At the proper hour, our mouths are filled with unoriginal morsels of food only to be followed by walks down destined pavements.

Morning comes and we are off. To class, to sit and write repeated talk, with all focus directed at the ten minute break before the next set.

Our days increase into weeks, weeks into months, and months into finals. Lucky if surviving with slight baldness and bleeding nails, we trudge homeward for a few weeks of recovery. Seeing straight, again we return.

The new season opens with a day-long line of people herding through the gates to be branded by the financial aid department. We begin the cycle again.

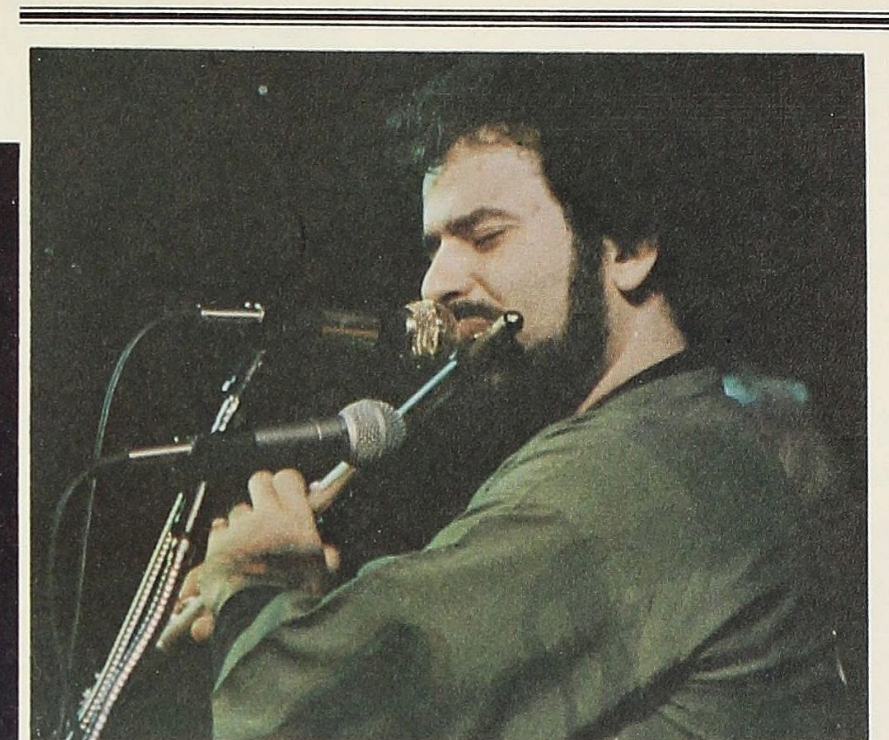

If our mode of living and movement are so limited, why do we keep coming back for more?

MAYNARD

FERGUSON

On December 6, 1977 at 9:00 pm, the lights of the Cappaert Gymnasium dimmed. Within seconds the thundering of clapping hands coupled with cries of anticipation welcomed the talents of Maynard Ferguson and his orchestra. And what better way could Alma College bring in the upcoming Christmas season than with the excitement of Ferguson jazz. One of the many climatic moments of the evening was the encore composed of Maynard's medley of Christmas carols that not only sent chills up the spine but left all with a sense of happiness and good cheer.

Here we are in class; we are not feeling limited now. Doors of our minds and imaginations are opening, letting in gushes of unlimited thoughts and dreams. We allow them to roam and yearn in search of a point where we may place bearing.

Now we can view ourselves as unlimited, having arms that can encompass all that it seeks.

ENDLESS SATURDAY

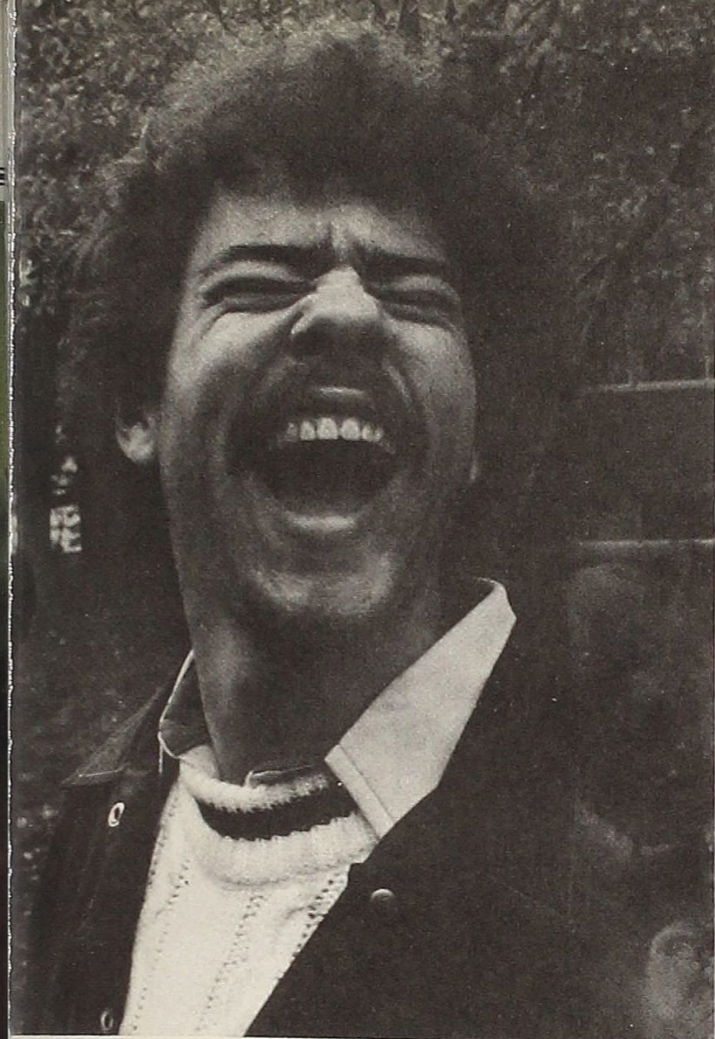

We are being provided with the tools for digging to that unreachable China of our childhood.

IN MEMORY

Pam Temple

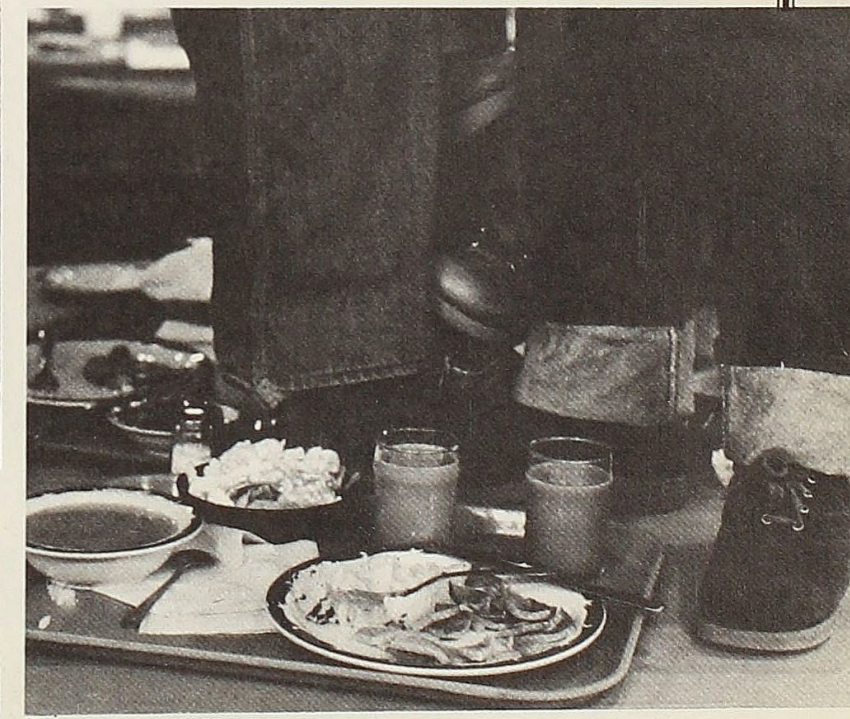

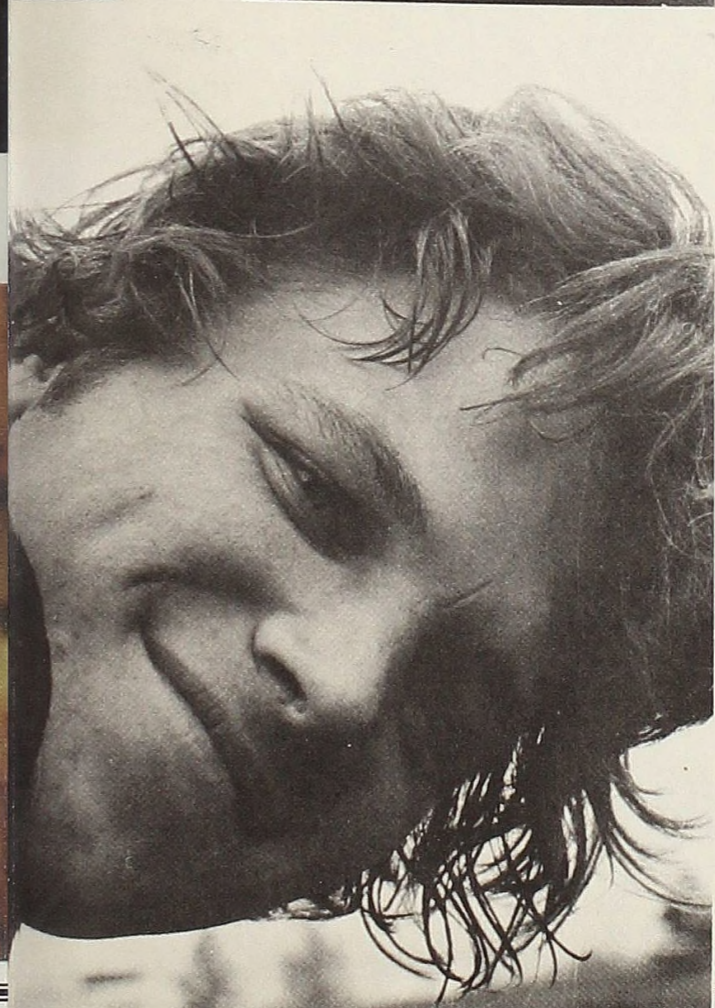

"The conductor sings his songs
again
The passengers will please refrain
This train's got the disappearin' railroad blues"

Steve Goodman from City of New Orleans

We will sing our songs again, as we refrain while feeling the blues.
From the loss of one extraordinary person who touched us with her beauty and love, we will sing again.

We will sing, as she would, to life, as she loved it, and to goodness, as she saw it in all.

In Memory of Deb Hasenclever

Some Friends
 are the kind we remember
 Whether they're near or they're far
 Friends who are never forgotten
 And that's just the kind that you are!

Deb Hasenclever

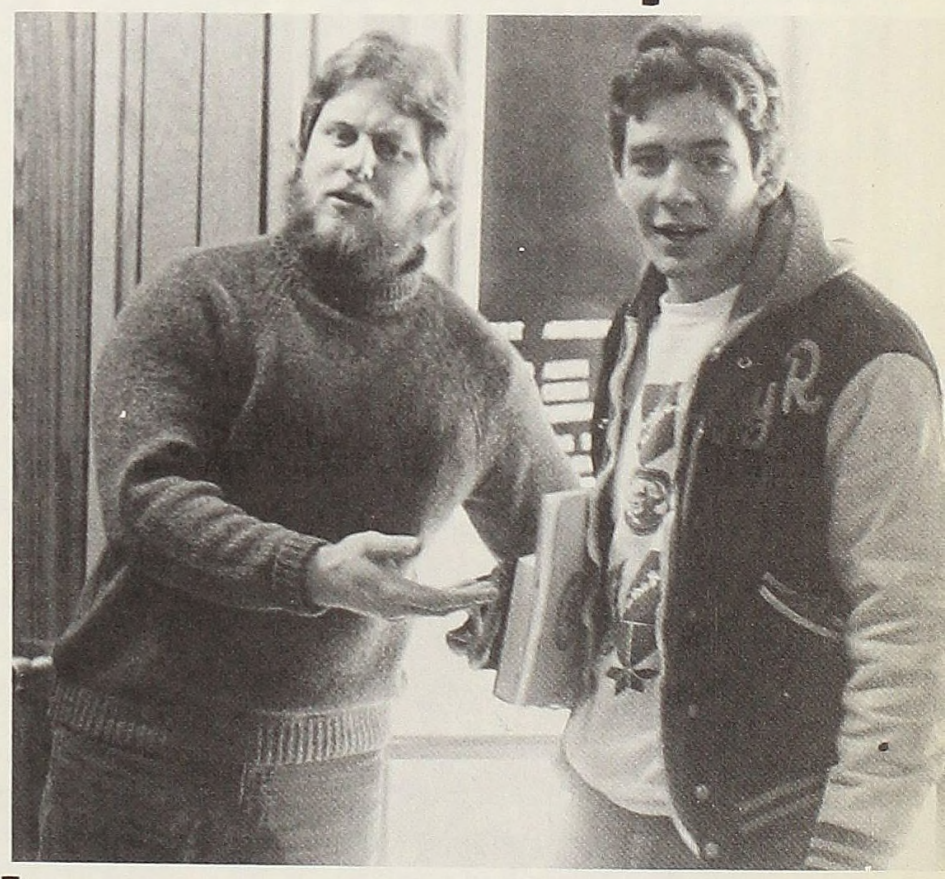

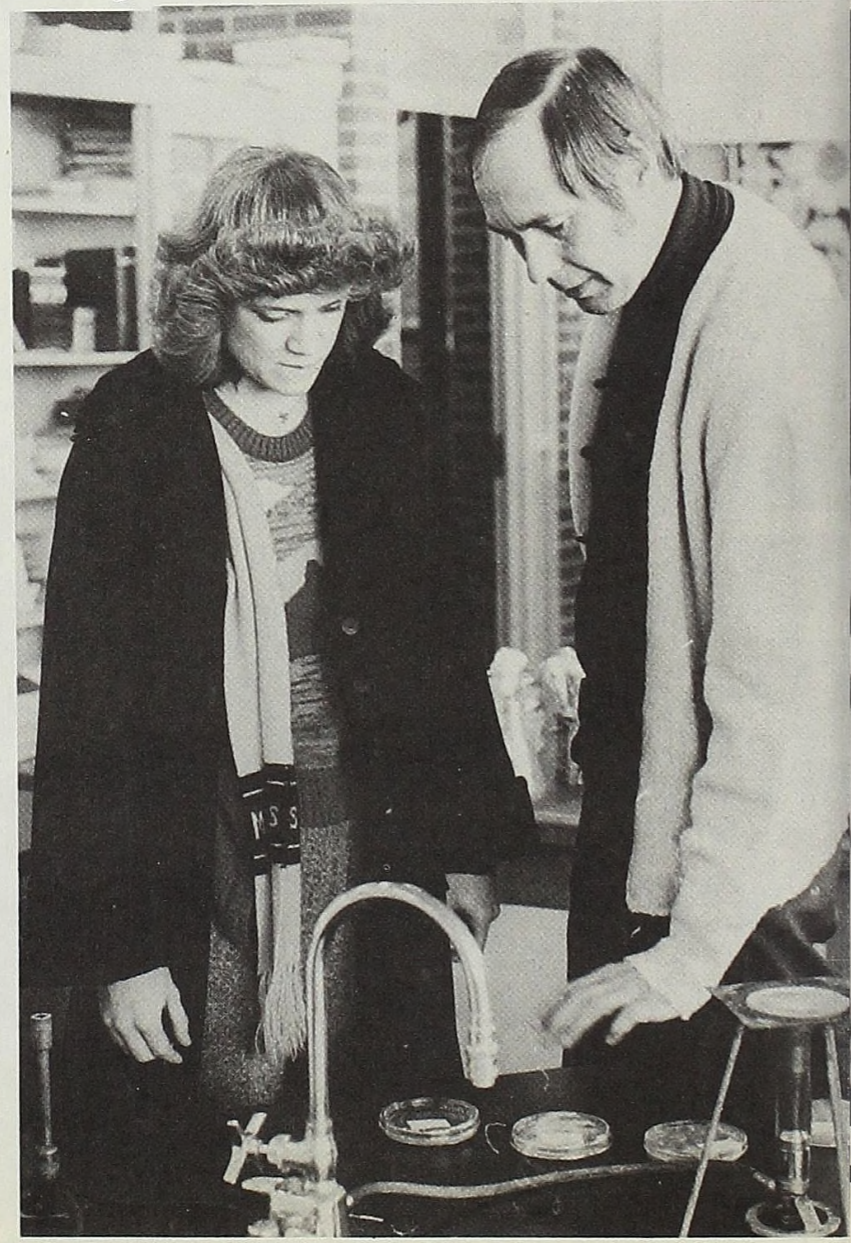

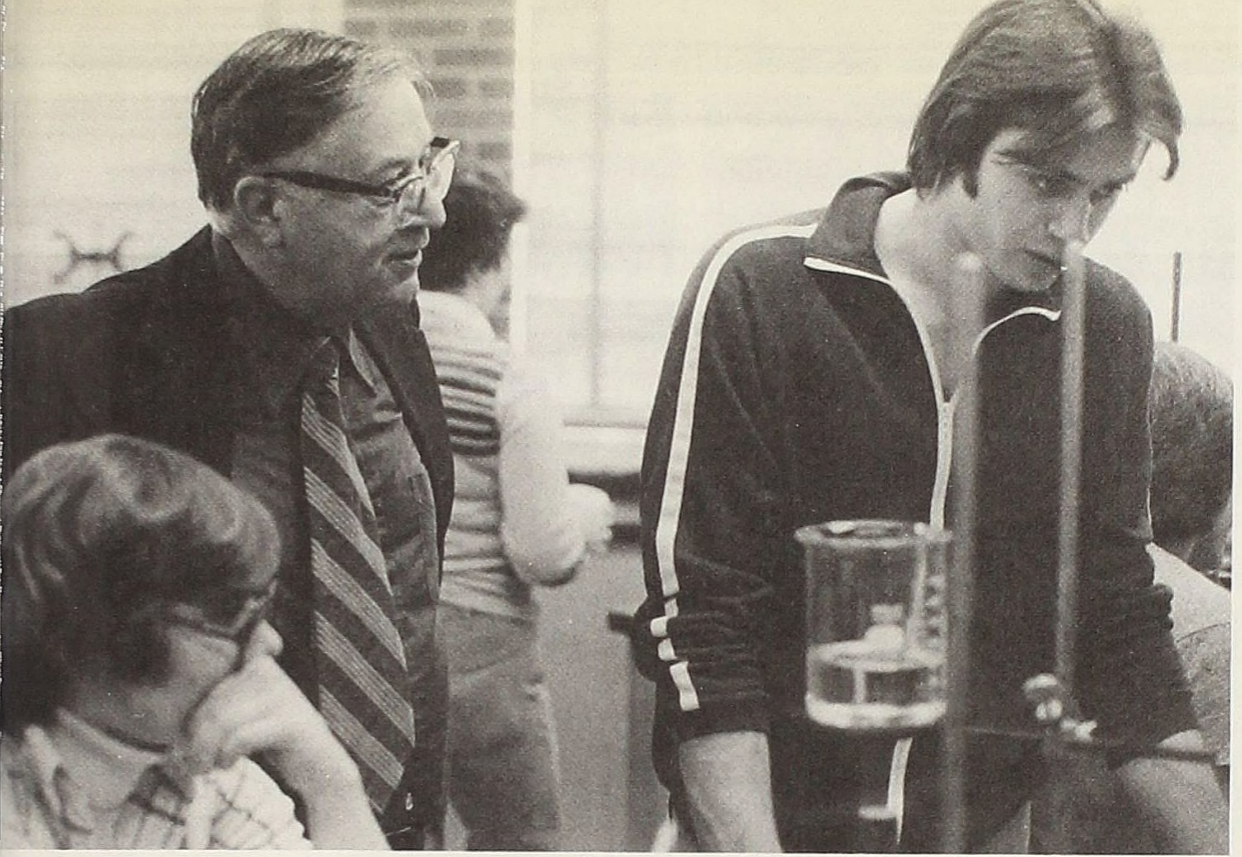

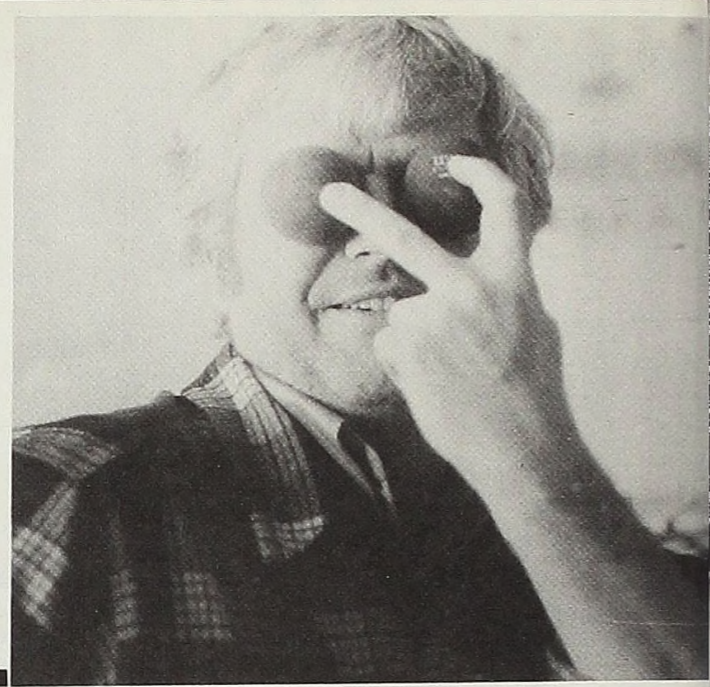

This poem, written by Deb to Beth Ann Priest, is exactly the type of person Deb Hasenclever will be remembered as. She was a warm, friendly person with many friends and lots of laughter; a friend who will never be forgotten.

In Memory of Dr. Louis Toller

As a teacher he possessed to a remarkable degree two talents, the ability for lucid explanation and a lively and humorous wit, which enabled him to make good to even skeptical students the claim expressed by that famous sign in his office which read "Physics is Fun". To Louis Toller Physics indeed was fun, but so was the rest of life, and he helped to make it that way also for those around him.

Dr. P. L. Splitstone
Professor of Chemistry

The pleasure I get at each commencement as I watch the graduating seniors receive their diplomas is worth some indeterminate but fantastically large sum of money. As I reflect upon the growth I have been privileged to observe from a ringside seat the changes from the callow adolescents I first encountered in my freshman classes to the adults marching before my eyes to receive their diplomas, I am very grateful to my profession. The pride I take when I realize that I contributed even a small part to the development of these graduates makes worthwhile many times over any sacrifices I made, any frustrations I experienced along the way.

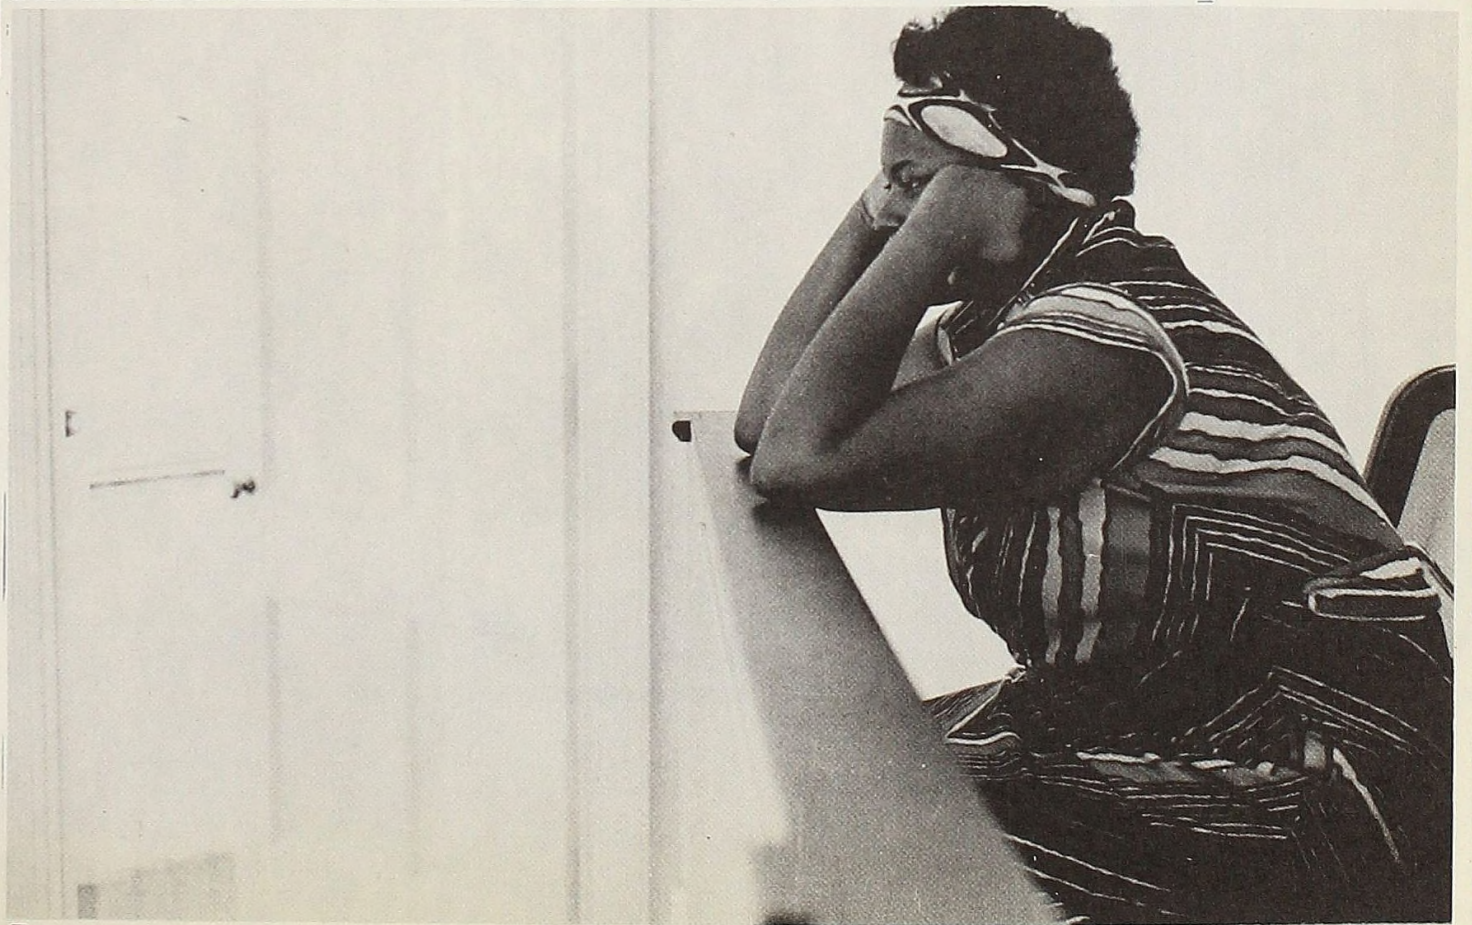

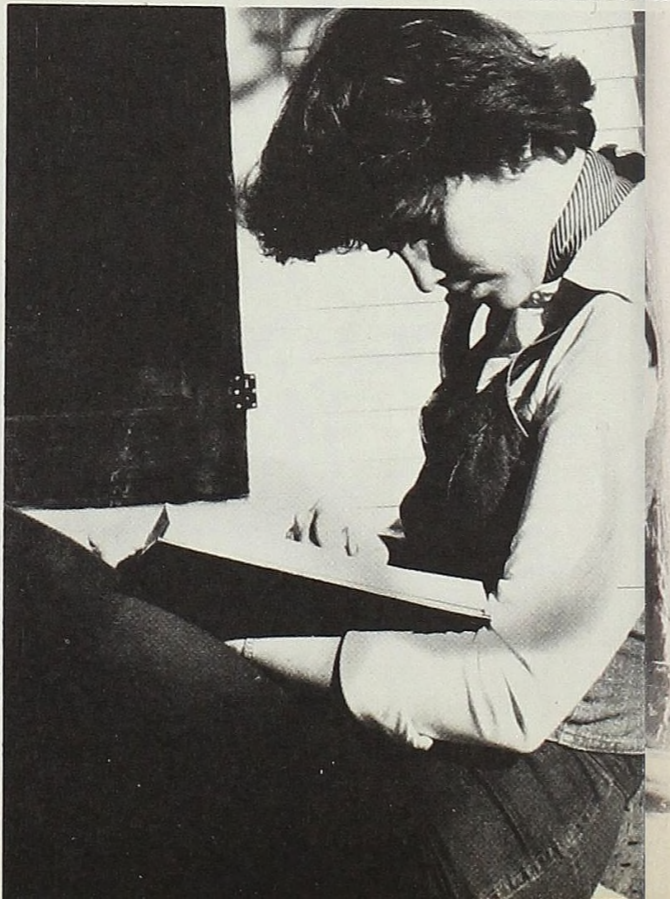

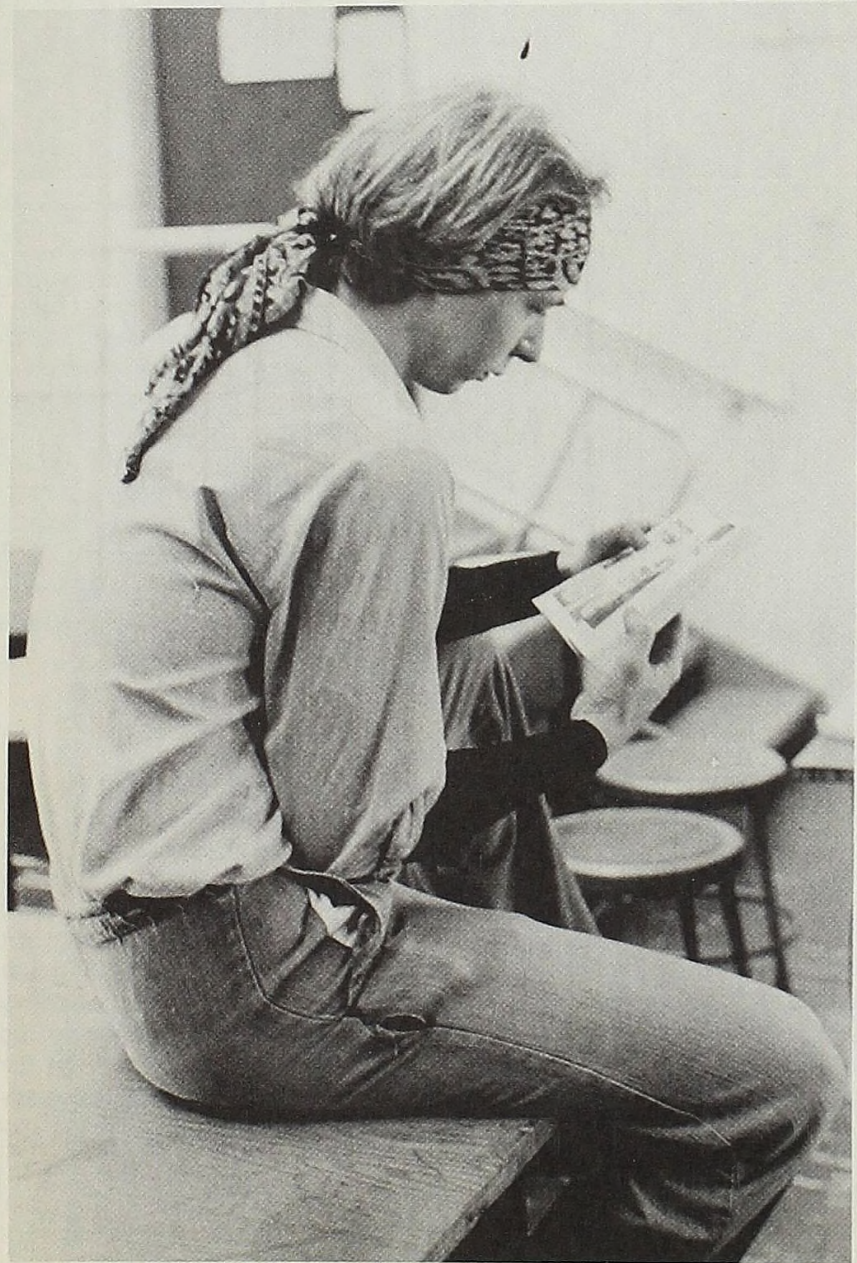

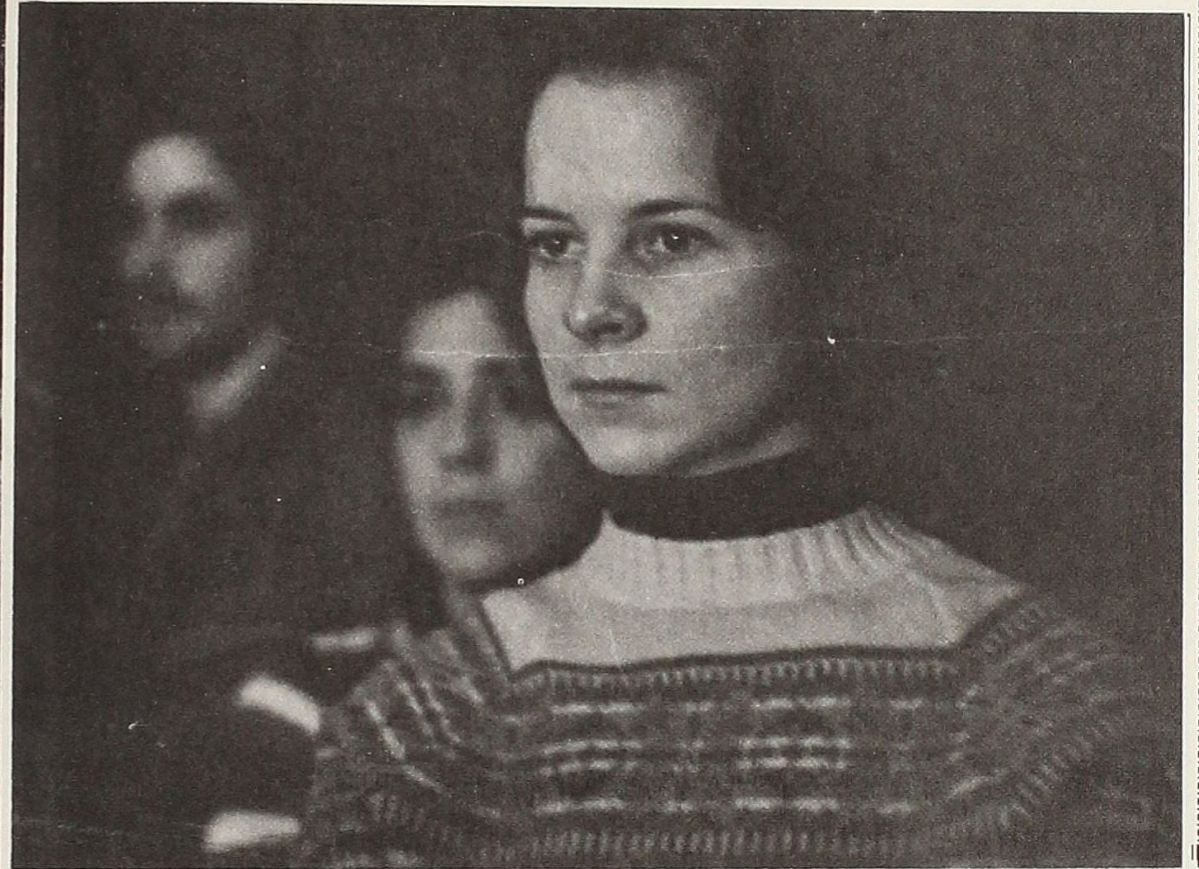

Dr. Louis Toller
Professor of Physics

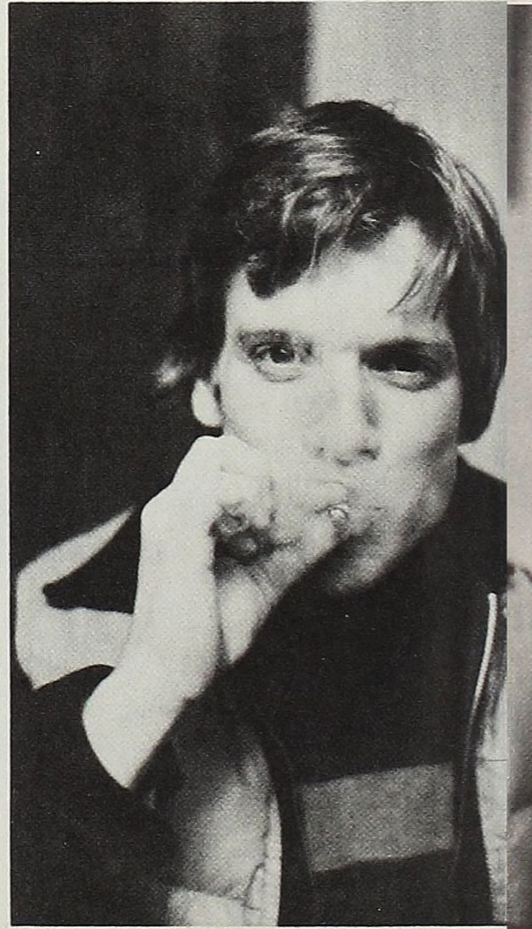

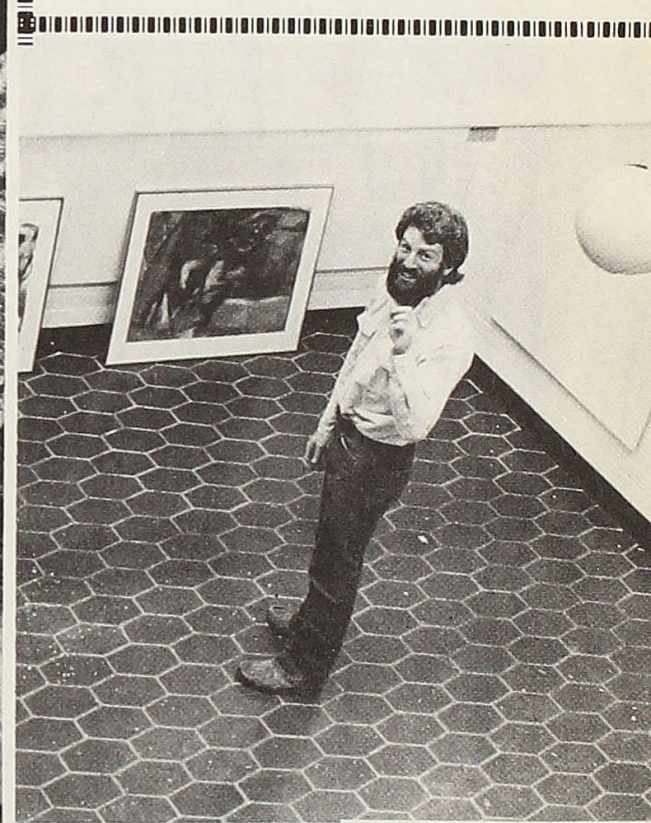

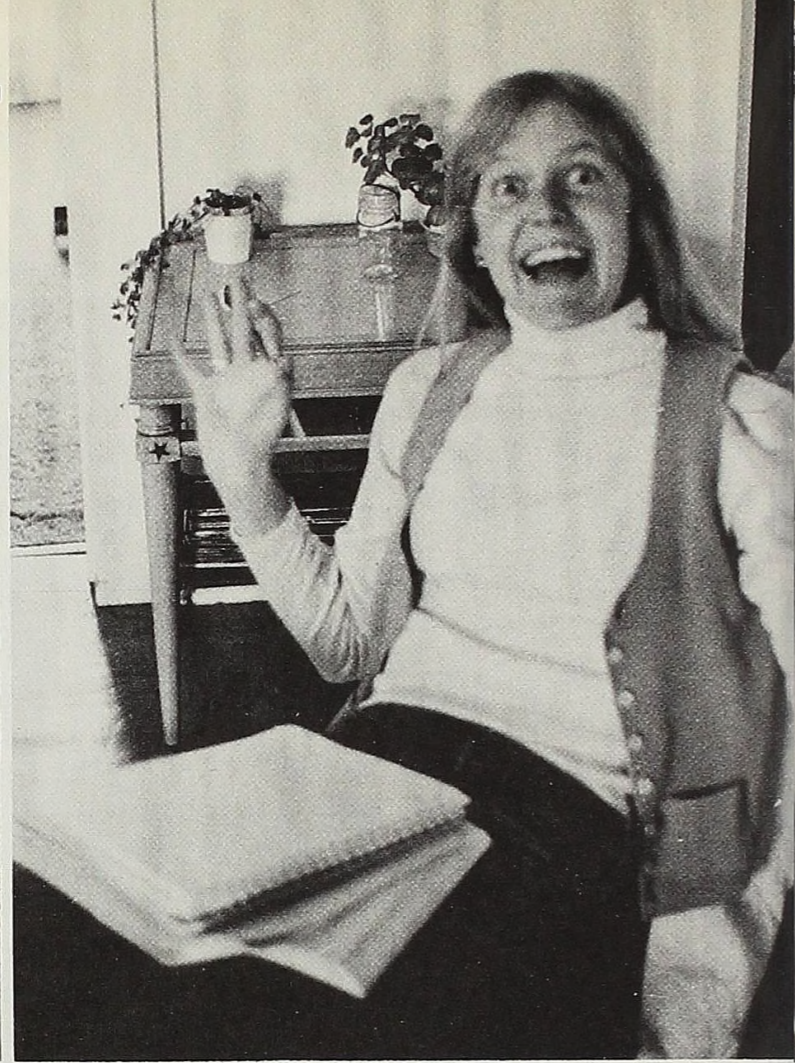

Both for what he was and what he did among us, we remember Professor Toller as one of the significant persons of this community: his being and doing made a positive difference. I remember him best as friend and faculty colleague. No doubt about it: teaching was his life and great love. It was in the classroom and teaching laboratory that his great love for physics and mathematics and his great love for students meshed. I have known few people to match the sense of joy he experienced in this.

Professor of Philosophy

MEMBER F.D.I.C.

So I have come to this—
I am finished.
I am finished.
I will wait five minutes,
an hour,
watching the sunset.
All summer—
I hear secrets
The wind whispers in my ear.
I am not finished.
I am through.

Steve Clark

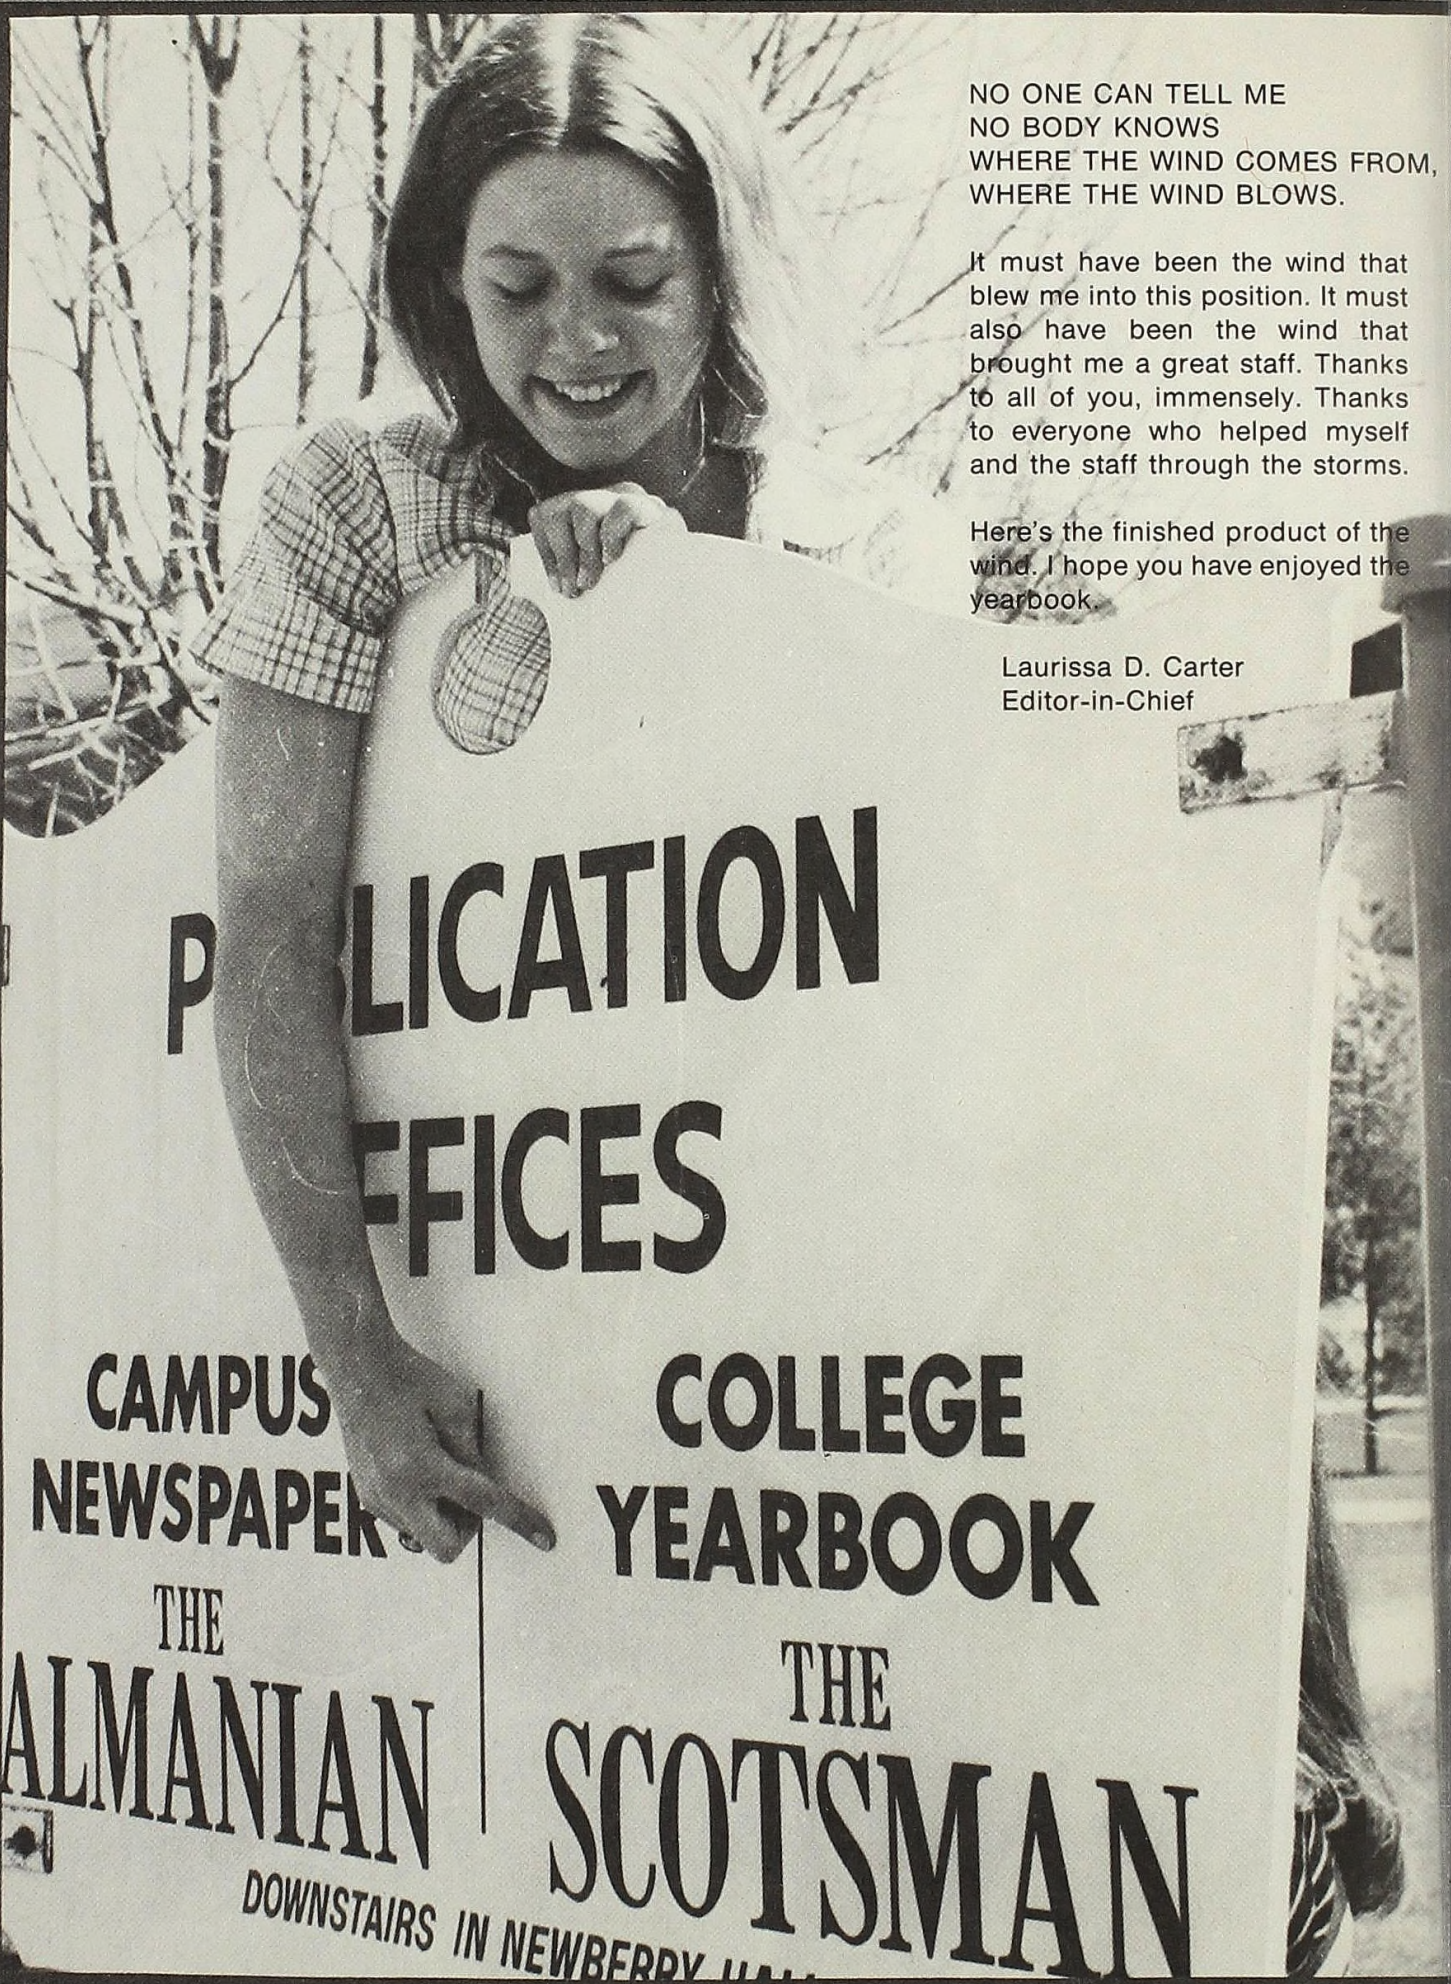

NO ONE CAN TELL ME
NO BODY KNOWS WHERE THE WIND COMES FROM,
WHERE THE WIND BLOWS.

It must have been the wind that blew me into this position. It must also have been the wind that brought me a great staff. Thanks to all of you, immensely. Thanks to everyone who helped myself and the staff through the storms.

Here's the finished product of the wind. I hope you have enjoyed the yearbook.
